BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lopuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and written, and many testimonials have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung dealer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the seeming lingering from Bunions, the agonizing distressing pain from ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedy contains no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciating public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it positively cure the worst cases of Inflamed Corns, inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callous on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

TYNDALL OUTDONE.—Heat was said by Professor Tyndall to be imponderable, and in substance identical with light. Whether it can be the subject of larceny is a question which may probably be brought for adjudication at one of the coming terms of the Criminal Court of this District, or the transaction detailed below if not compromised, may give rise to a civil action, as in that case it will come under the jurisdiction of the justice holding the Circuit Court. The circumstances, which will probably soon form the subject of our court reports, are detailed to us somewhat in this wise.—No. 702 adjoins No. 704, with but a nine inch intervening wall. No. 702 has long that within the past few years much more fuel was required than during the previous winters since his house was built, but attributed it to the establishment of the signal stations at several degrees below zero, and their constant communication with "Old Probabilities" here, thus keeping open the way to the polar regions and leading the Arctic winds in his direction. However 22 tons used to suffice, and 34 tons have been lately required.

Accurate observers of things in that neighborhood, to wit: Miss X., who lives opposite, and Mrs. P., who lives near the corner, both now declare that they have thought it the "strangest thing in the world" that No. 704 bought so little fuel. They both will declare on oath that they have watched that house, and every one that their front windows could command, faithfully for several years, and are confident that less fuel went to 704 than to any other house in the neighborhood. Miss X., upon further examination, testifies that on meeting with a like calamity with Oakes Ames, and recovering her memory, she distinctly recollects that but little fuel has gone there since fixing the furnace at 704 in 1869. Neither of these ladies, however, mentioned these facts until the denouement mentioned below occurred, averring as a reason to the detective, who called upon them, that they "never liked to meddle with the affairs of their neighbors." The present cold snap, however, led to a remarkable discovery. The heat of the furnace proved totally insufficient at 702, and pater familias was compelled to visit the cellar. The furnace was glowing like a blast of an iron mill, yet the thermometer above showed 38 degrees Fahrenheit only. There must be something wrong with the connection pipes, and upon proceeding to examine the furnace, which was built against the wall, it was found that No. 704 had only made pretense of repairing his own furnace, but had occupied the time in making a connection between his registers and the furnace of his neighbor. Not only this, but there had been constructed through the wall an ingenious valve, by which the supply of heat at 702 could be regulated in the cellar of 704. Here was a clear case.

It is needless to say that Mr. O., who has been unwittingly heating two houses instead of one, was "fired up" at this discovery. He says he felt hot enough at the time to serve as furnace for a lot of houses. He does not so much object to a fair division of the heat, especially as he is accustomed to do things on the square, but uses several oaths in connection with his description of the ingenious contrivance for throwing all the heat into the other house, which he styles as a d—n infernal machine to freeze him to death with his own furnace. It is fair to say that No. 704, who is often absent from the city, disavows all knowledge of this artifice, and says that he always intended a fair division, but that his wife, who is a close woman had the cut-off turned on because she was afraid that if this weather continued the coal would not hold out, and so cut-off, he thinks very unfairly, No. 702 from a fair share. The workmen are now engaged in building an eighteen inch wall between the cellars of 702 and 704, and Barrister B, who has been consulted on the legal aspect of the affair, thinks it clear case of trover and conversion.—Washington Republican.

THE C. M. ROOSTER.—There was great merit in the explanation of the gentlemanly person who was found going from a neighboring hen-roost with a plump rooster in his hat. "Golly," said he, "that's queer—how d'you s'pose he got there? Must have crawled up my trousers leg." It's a little remarkable though that this theory has not suggested itself to some of the gentlemen lately found with Credit Mobilier stock on their hands. It might have crawled up their trowsers legs—and no doubt did. That's easy now. Why not say so?—Patriot.

—According to the New York Mail, Europe is a dangerous place for susceptible young gentlemen to travel alone in. A young New Yorker was sent over for a finish about a year ago. He delayed his return, and wrote for remittances until parental patience was exhausted. At last he came, stepped from the steamer with a beautiful German girl on his arm, and, to relations and fiance who awaited him, he presented "my wife." There was a tableau on the Cunard wharf.

—Our country, it is said, has had but one black-eyed President. That was General Harrison.

Minnesota is about to prohibit the crossing of highways at grade by telegraph wires, they trip horses so before the sleighing gets well worn down. One sad case is reported of the little boy, Billy Bumper, who was sitting on his obverse, on the morning after a fall of snow, when the wire coming across his open mouth split him like a Yarmouth bloater or Digby herring, from head to foot, and left his upper and his nether half as irreparably sundered as though they had been parts of a dry remainder biscuit after a voyage; that little boy's sled pursued its lonesome way to the foot of the hill, a mute though touching witness to the perils of telegraph wires at grade in a country where snow rises as fast as it falls.

Just before the Quinnipiac Paper Company of Wallingford, Conn., suspended, a man stepped into the First National Bank, at New Haven, where their funds were deposited, with one of their checks, drawn for $360, which he wanted cashed. The cashier told the man, whose name, by the way, is John Smith, that the Quinnipiac company's deposits did not amount to that sum. "How much money have you to their credit?" asked Smith. "Three hundred and fifty dollars." "Allow me, then, to deposit $10 for the benefit of the company." This was done, and Smith then presented his check, drew out the $360 and departed. The next day the company failed, but John Smith, by his fortunate deposit of $10, had saved $350.

Trunks covered with India rubber are highly recommended by a western inventor, not only for the convenience of the travelling public but of railway employes. It is said that with a little practice one of these trunks can be made to bounce into a baggage car without using any more force than is expended on the inelastic articles now in use.

It is now said that Senator-elect Bogy, who played it so fine on Frank Blair, expresses himself as not at all unfriendly to the administration, and there has been cordial hand-shaking between him and some leading Missouri Radicals.

Inauguration Ball—District Extravagance—The Mormon Crusade—Plundering Schemes, Ames Tells Truth—Rich Leads—Electoral College—Life Insurance—Imports and Railroad Securities—Northern Pacific R. R.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 14.

Preparations for the Inauguration Ball go on with rapidity. The great building is up and mostly covered in, the floors laid, and everything in a forward state. Military organizations numbering near seven thousand have signified their intention to be in the grand procession besides numerous associations. The ball room and the street leading thereto will be illuminated with calcium light. So will Indiana Avenue and City Hall, and Pennsylvania Avenue from the Capitol to the Treasury Department. Arrangements are made for fireworks on an extensive scale and for illuminating the Executive Mansion, the Treasury, War and Navy Departments.

Among the unaccountable things to be seen here is a body of men about the streets and parks cutting off the limbs from the maples and cottonwood about three feet from the trunk. The cutting don't quite kill the trees and they spread out like the willow. They look frightfully mangled and no reason is given for it, that a sane man can believe.

Perhaps the most outrageous expenditure for which the people of the country are to pay, is the proposed cutting down of the east park of the Capitol eight feet to make the Capitol look higher upon that side. It will cost a half million dollars, more or less, to do it. The outrage is in the cutting down and destroying the magnificent trees, which have been growing there for three quarters of a century, for such a purpose. Out upon the architect who has no more sense or taste than to cut down fine trees and plant shrubbery to show off a building on one side, which has no beginning, nor the beauty or grandeur of the trees he destroys. The consent of Congress was voted a year or more, but the vandal work has not yet commenced. If Congressmen knew what they were voting, they ought to be sentenced to a dead head passage to Arizona over Tom Scott's Southern Pacific Railroad, where there is neither grass, nor twig nor tree,—nothing but sand and sunshine there, without shade; and where they have no rain,—to plant and water from the river as many trees as they deliberately voted for destruction during the rest of their lives; and the architect who proposed it, ought to be switched round the park three times a day, as long as the twigs will last from the destroyed trees.

Another kind of an outrage, is the proposed onset upon the Mormons by narrow-minded bigots on the one side and thieving adventurers upon the other, who want the Mormon's homes, made fertile and comfortable by industrious labor in the desert, that they may go in and possess them without labor, under the pretext of serving the cause of God and morality. Bad as the Mormons and their practices are, besides their persecutions, they begin to take on a saintly look. Next to the Indians, the Mormons have no rights that border ruffians are bound to respect. The system grew up in religious fanaticism and persecution and has been tolerated so long, that to make bastards of innocent children and prostitutes of religiously deluded wives is a remedy worse than the evil which it proposes to cure, and which is rapidly curing itself. Next to refunding the cotton tax, comes a scheme to have the government assume the debts of the rebel states to the amount of $125,000,000, which is to be put in the shape of a four per cent. bond. Should the southern states go for this proposition in a solid body, as their instincts will lead them to do; it will become formidable as a political question. They would only want some thirty electoral votes from the North to give them a majority. When you consider the burden of taxation upon the impoverished states of the South and the danger that it will end in the repudiation of the debt of these States, making them worthless to the holders in the North, and that this scheme would put those stocks now worth twenty-five cents on the dollar to par, you will see the interest capitalists at the North have in the scheme, and the danger of its success, from their contributions to the corruption fund to put it through.

The original committee on Credit Mobilier, have concluded their investigations. But little of general interest has been developed this week in regard to it. I should say from what I hear, the opinion is very general that Oakes Ames' statements are correct. The manner every statement is corroborated, and every entry of his memorandum book sustained, compels this conclusion. If the crust could be broken through, and the watering of stocks, and construction accounts, and operations of construction companies could be laid bare, it would present a sorry chapter. Enough has been developed to make reform a popular demand. Whatever committees may recommend or Congress do, is of little consequence. The testimony spread before the country through the press carries the case to a far different jury, and one whose verdict is far more potent than any vote of Congress. The people will pass judgment on each case and weigh the temptations through which saints fell, and the mental agony which forced them to make denials in the face of facts too stubborn to be overcome.

Another load which would prove well if worked judiciously, has been developed by a Colgate, a New York broker, who was here spending time and making vigorous efforts to have the tax taken off borrowed money used as capital by brokers. He says Bassett, clerk of Ways and Means committee for a long time, and who has always borne a high character, offered his services in getting the tax removed at $250 per month with a contingent of $5000 upon success. The clerk of a committee is almost indispensable to the lobby. They manage often to "see members" who have charge of bills in committee and make up the reports which accompany them to the House, and I fear too often represent approachable men.

Our present law relating to the election of President, by which the votes are cast and counted, is too full of dangers to be longer continued. The vote of Louisiana and Arkansas was thrown out entirely on account of frauds connected with them. Suppose the votes of those States would have changed the result, as I said on a former occasion it suggests a danger too great to be allowed to remain without remedy.

The great society event of the season was the ball given at the Masonic Hall by Senator Stewart and wife and their daughter on her birthday. It takes a column and a half of the dailies here to describe the decorations and dresses of the room and the attendants. It was a first class flunky affair which is said to have cost five thousand dollars, and given by a Senator who came to Congress poor eight or ten years ago, and has kept his family in Europe part of the time.

You made me say last week that the hat band of a genteel valet would fill a four inch basin. How that word basin came there I can't tell, but if it had been left out it would have read "fill a four-inch brass buckle," which comes exactly in front of the hat, and would have been right. I think, come to look at it, a "bob plume" does not describe the article put on the left side of their hats. It is black in color and looks more like a small corn broom with the bark end sticking up. But enough of snobs and flunkeys.

The February Galaxy has an extraordinary statement made from the reports of Life Insurance companies in New York. It is that for the last eight years, out of every ten policies terminated, one has been by death, one and a half from surrender of policy and seven and a half by lapse or failure to pay policy dues. It shows that nine in every ten who take out life insurance policies are losers by the operation.

The imports of dry goods in New York fell off two millions last week as compared with the corresponding week of the year previous. It may be that it happened from the delay of steamers and vessels getting in, in which case it will be increased this week. I fear it comes in consequence of diminished ability to purchase and consume by the workers of the country, in which case get ready for breakers, and take in sail, all you who are running your craft by large credit. Our people have been investing largely in the wildest securities, giving up the more solid and less tempting. So many of this kind have been putting out bonds, that have no real bottom, that this class of indebtedness has become great beyond all precedent, and prepared the country for financial difficulties, whenever any one of them bursts up. Take the Northern Pacific, which has been advertised into popularity, and is more likely to be among your readers, than the others. It now has to sell a million and a half of bonds each year to pay the interest on those now outstanding before it gets a dollar to put to further road building, and the earnings of the road so far as is built, won't pay operating expenses. It is being built a generation before it is needed, and whoever has money to invest and lay without returns may find it well enough sometimes, but it looks to me as though it would have to go up and carry others of the same sort with it, before long. A SMART TRICK.—A well-dressed young man stopped over at a Vermont hotel, last week, for a few days, and made acquaintances. The evening of the second day of his arrival a nice young lady came along, unattended, and instantly attracted the attention of the impressible youngster, who canvassed her charms fully as they sat apart from her at supper. The stranger youth even offered to marry her if she would have him; and offered, for a substantial wager, to pop the question and have the marriage ceremony performed right away. The wager was accepted, and also the proposal of marriage, made so suddenly to her, by the young man, and the parson called in, who soon united the twain. The sum wagered was paid over to the happy bridegroom, and he and his bride set off next day on their marriage tour. What lends romance to the circumstance is the fact that the young couple had already been man and wife for a year.

WHAT TIME HAS TAUGHT US. It has taken two thousand years to teach the world that to sustain the body in its conflict with disease, not to help disease by weakening the body, is the true end of medicine. We have the lesson by heart at last, however. We know, for example, that tearing doses of aloes, salts, jalap, castor oil, calomel, colocynth, &c., are the best allies that a debilitating malady can have in its assaults on the human frame; and that a medicine like Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which strengthens all the bodily powers and rallies the sinking constitution, is the most powerful antagonist of the scorbutic principle, whatever it may be that lies at the root of the complaint. This knowledge has been a long time in reaching us, but it is invaluable. We can now control and cure dyspepsia, bilious disturbances, constipation, rheumatism, nervousness, and many other painful complaints once considered incurable, with this admirable corrective.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

"Water, Water Everywhere."

Messrs. Editors:—My place of business is within one thousand feet of the North Church, and up two flights of stairs. I am supplied (or rather, I pay for being supplied,) with water by the Portsmouth Aqueduct Company. I use a considerable quantity, when I can get it, in my business; I wash my face and hands in it; sometimes I drink some; but as I have to lift it with a pump, I waste very little. But the supply is very erratic,—why, I cannot tell. It was stated by a gentleman connected with the Aqueduct Co., at the time our Board of Trade was discussing the introduction of water from Raymond Pond, that there was enough at the Fountain Head to supply a city of (I think) thirty thousand inhabitants. If this is correct, it is a pity that enough of it cannot be brought in to supply a city of less than one-third that population. During the early part of last summer—and there was rain enough then in all conscience—I could seldom get a drop of water from my pump, except at night. Then someone growled in the papers, after that I had an abundant supply, for a spell. Then the pump would "suck" on each Monday—washing-day; then it would occasionally give out on other days; then somebody growled again in the papers, and again I had plenty of water. Lately the pump has gone back on me again, following its old fashion; first no water on Mondays, then an occasional failure on other days, and at last not a drop of water, any day except Sunday, (when I don't want it,) from morning till night. Messrs. Editors, won't you have the kindness to ask the Aqueduct Co. to let a few extra bucketsful of water come through the mains from their inexhaustible supply at the Fountain Head, for my use?

A citizen insists that no better place for the day's enjoyment on the return of the absent children can be selected than Peirce's Island, having the remembrance of the firemen's muster yet in his mind's eye. He also desires the prohibition of noise by the boys on the night of the 3d.

Laconics.

On Sunday, Officer Entwistle was called upon to go to a factory boarding house to take charge of a young woman who showed signs of insanity. She was taken to the police station, but was allowed to return to her boarding house after she had become quiet. On Monday morning she again became violent and was again taken in charge by the police, whom she at first gave to understand that she belonged in Haverhill, but finally acknowledged that she is from Raymond. She is respectably connected and has been a school-teacher. Her parents were telegraphed to, and will arrive to-day to take her home.

It is gratifying to see that Mr. Odion, one of the trustees of the public library, gives his fees for adjusting land damages on the P. & D. R. R., toward the library. There is a good beginning for the trustees; now let the President of the trustees give his fees derived from the same source, and we shall think when they ask for funds that they mean business. R.

A citizen who was passing along in front of one of the high buildings on Market Street, Monday afternoon, while a man on the roof was engaged in clearing off the snow, was very much pleased that a junk of iron weighing some ten or fifteen pounds, which came from the roof and struck the sidewalk close at his heels, did not land on his head. It was a close shave.

A CURE FOR STAMMERING.—Dr. Dio Lewis, in the Philadelphia To-Day, says:

Some years ago a famous professor came to a town where we were then residing, and announced that he could "cure the worst cases of stammering in ten minutes without a surgical operation." A friend of ours was an inveterate case, and we advised him to call upon the wonderful magician. He called, was convinced by the testimonials exhibited, struck up a bargain, paid the fifty dollars, and soon called at our office talking as straight as a railroad track.

We were greatly astonished, and asked our friend by what miracle he had been so strangely and suddenly relieved of his life-long trouble. He most provokingly informed us that he had made a solemn pledge not to reveal the process of cure.

We knew two other bad cases—ladies—and, calling upon them, reported what had come to pass.

They were soon at the professor's rooms, came away greatly elated, raised the hundred dollars, went the next day, paid the cash, and in half an hour were ready, had the question been popped, to say "yes," without a jerk.

We were soon made acquainted with several other cures quite as remarkable, and resolved to put on our sharpest wits and wait upon the magician ourselves.

He seemed an honest man, and in two days we made up our mind to pay him a large fee, and learn the strange art with the privilege of using it to cure whomsoever we would.

Those who had been cured by the professor were solemnly bound not to reveal the secret to any one, but our contract gave us the privilege of using the knowledge as we pleased.

And now we propose to give the readers of this journal a simple art which has enabled us to make very happy many unhappy stammerers. In our own hands it has often failed to effect the desired result, but in three-four hs of the cases which we have treated the cure has been complete.

The secret is simply this:—The stammerer is made to mark the time in his speech, just as it is ordinarily done in singing. He is at first to beat to every syllable. It is best at the first lesson to read some simple composition, like one of David's Psalms, striking the finger on the knee at every word; then read in a newspaper, beating each syllable.

You can beat time by striking the finger on the knee, by simply hitting the thumb against the forefinger, or moving the large toe in the boot.

We doubt if the worst case of stuttering could continue long, provided the sufferer would read an hour or two every day, with thorough practice of this simple art, observing the same in his conversation.

As thousands have paid fifty and a hundred dollars for this secret, we take great pleasure in imparting it to the patrons of this journal.

POMEROY SUGGESTS AN ALIBI IN DEFENCE.—Subsidy Pom is getting ready for his coming examination. He has so arranged matters that York and his other Kansas foes are to be questioned first. Pomeroy has obtained Caleb Cushing, and it is said that he yesterday suggested the propriety of getting up an alibi, by showing that it was some deceased philanthropist who gave him the $7,000, and that he handed the money over to York to be used for charitable purposes. This pleasant narrative did not strike Cushing favorably, and he advised Pom to adopt some more creditable line of defence.—N. Y. Herald.

DONATION.—It was my privilege, last Tuesday evening, to attend the 21st Annual Donation of Rev. J. Russells at Tamworth Iron Works, and to witness the many warm friends, and pleasant remonstrances gathered by the long pastorate of a faithful minister. In this pleasant gathering, in spite of cold weather and deep snows, ten or more towns in N. H. were represented, also Boston and other cities in Mass., beside the warmest greeting of many absent friends by letters read and made substantial from liberal purses. The fitting of the church and ornamenting of the tables manifested real ingenuity and original taste in full bloom. Short spicy addresses were made by Hon. L. D. Mason of Tamworth, Walter Harmon of Boston and others.

The cordial greetings, the artless, glowing friendship and the intensely interesting social chats were such as are only found in the country gatherings of the Granite State. We had no occasion to say "let the inhabitants of the rocks sing"; they could not help singing beautifully. Amount of Donation, about $230. L. L. H.

A WAXED FLOOR—The Washington Capital has this:

Talking about heels, rather an amusing incident connected therewith occurred at the Illinois reception the other night. The ball-room floor at Willard's was newly waxed and badly done at that, so that the fair ladies and the gallant beaux found their feet sticking to the floor. While the weaker were held fast, the stronger and more energetic produced a noise like shooting-crackers, as they moved about or attempted to dance. This got to be such a nuisance that the proprietor was called in and active measures were taken to remedy the trouble. Meal from the kitchen was procured and sprinkled on the floor. Young ladies had to be lifted bodily out of their tracks, in some instances leaving their heels on the floor, while others were pried up with pokers, uttering little shrieks as it hurt. Several enterprising lilliots beaux went to Milburn's and purchased pieces of chalk, which they rubbed on the soles of the young ladies' shoes. It presented a beautiful spectacle to see an Illinois gentleman with his knees stuck fast to the floor while he whitened the soles of his love, she balanced most gracefully on one foot and smiling amiably to the tickling process. One maiden lady of certain age went into hysterics and from that into a back. She has not been heard of since.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the cunce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine" so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pale, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUGHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

IRON in the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS.
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, scrofulous and morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Success o the Company is far beyond that o any other similar concern; the

Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

This compound is compounded in the mode of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS. Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just worth the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst case of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the secret instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind and a puzzle for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

HORRORS OF OPIUM EATING.—An opium eater thus describes the horrors of his situation. He says:

I carried about a secret which instinctively kept covered and made painfully burdensome. A voice in the soul cries out against any wrongs being done it. My secret was singed with a sense of guilt, or why hide it?

I was in the hands of a cossing, creasy. At length I began to ask, in something of a terror, what is to be the end? Am I to realize Charles Lamb's picture—bound fast at the root of a tree, my right hand being nailed to a strong limb, and then a beautiful being, but as cruel as hell, applied a serpent to my side! I read De Quincy's terrific experience, and his superhuman efforts at deliverance. I read Coleridge, and those sorrows of hell, which got hold upon him, but thus far I only trembled. My experience was to come.—And come it did.

At first a dark cloud began to let down upon me—a pall of desolateness to settle upon things. The aims of life became flat and stale; motive was being lost; life grew mechanical; company had no charm; change of scene no freshness. I divined the cause of my condition, and so many desperate and fruitless efforts to remove it by the roots, that I finally sank down into the conviction that no efforts are equal to the difficulty to be met. De Quincy said: "It is a chain that is to be unwound link by link, coil by coil, back to the beginning." Fitz Hugh Ludlow tells of one—perhaps himself—who said, "God helps in every trouble, but in this, one must claw his way through living fire."

Opium troubles extend to dreams and night visions. What an idea that just where it gave the most delight, it turns to rend you and exult over its ruin. The nights, as soon as the narcotic begins to lose its virtue, become terrible and long. Time loses its element of computation; minutes become hours; nights know no ending, but stretch out toward the crack of doom.

At length came a crisis in 1857. My physical manhood was a wreck, a shell. My mind was worse. Memory had become treacherous, and hopelessness took possession of the soul. I came across Fitz Hugh Ludlow's book, "The Opium Habit," and devoured it to see if I could find some way of escape. I opened a correspondence with the author. Nothing came of it. There was no return over the long track. The gates were barred. I felt it. How long can this goad? Is there no help? What will be the end?

The writer then goes on to state the manner of his deliverance, through the aid of a physician, from the bondage of the drug.

The Baltimore American nominates Mr. Collax for President in 1876, and calls for a rally of the "religious and moral elements to his support."

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1873.

State News.

The friends of Hon. William B. Small who have been canvassing this district for several weeks past are confident of his triumphant election. Large Republican gains are predicted in Carroll and Rockingham counties, over the vote of 1871, when Hibbard was chosen.

Monday afternoon a man named William Dame committed suicide by hanging himself in a stable in the rear of his residence on Water street, Nashua.

One day last week a party of 126 persons from Pepperell visited Nashua in single sleighs. The procession was more than half a mile long, and was accompanied by the Pepperell cornet band.

Col. Nathaniel Wiggin of Dover, formerly provost marshal of this district, died on the 15th, of congestion of the brain.

Credit Mobilier.

The Traveller's Washington correspondent says it has been ascertained that Vice President Colfax received the $1000 from Nesbitt as a present on the 15th of July and that the $1200 check he deposited on the 22 of June, three weeks before.

Judge Poland's committee reported on the 15th in favor of expelling Ames and Brooks. They believe Ames' statements and exonerate Dawes, Garfield, Kelley and others. Ames laughed when the report was made. Brooks wept.

Donn Piatt, though cordially opposing Messrs. Wilson, Colfax and Kelley, has the grace to believe them honest, and says in his Washington Capital: "The fact that after a generation of public life, a public life that has been sober, hard-working, and economical, a good-sized army blanket would cover the property of any of them is proof as strong as Holy Writ that they are honest."

—Mr. Banks of Massachusetts, is fairly earning is more senses than one the title of "Liberal." Early in the session he proposed to double the President's salary, and yesterday he advocated in a speech the appropriation of $2,000,000 to assist Mr. Adolph Sutro in boring a tunnel under Gold Hill, Nevada. Mr Banks is of the opinion that by boring Gold Hill and the National Treasury simultaneously in this way we shall cheer, strengthen and encourage industry of all kinds, change the balance of trade in our favor, and restore specie payments; and he hopes Congress will not be deterred by recent "untoward incidents" from doing its duty in promoting the bore. "Onward" is very, very good.—New York Tribune.

The naval officers are jubilant over the bill just passed, placing them on the same footing retired as army officers. Heretofore, the navy got half pay, while the army received three-quarters of full active pay. Naval retired officers are not to be called on duty except in case of war.

DOING GOOD IN A GOOD WAY.—The people of Concord give an annual concert and levee for the benefit of Lewis F. Miller, a little crippled newsboy, who is trying to work his way through Dartmouth College, and is now in his Sophomore year.

Governor Dix will pardon nothing for a year or two, but says: "Let's try hanging for a few years, and then if Stokes, Foster and those rascals are not satisfied we will consider some other plan."

The New York Herald thinks President Grant has taken a short and soldier-like road out of the Utah troubles and complications.

—The troubles of the Tennessee doctors are greater than they can bear. If the patient recovers, he never pays his doctor's bill, and if he dies, his relatives kill the doctor.

Isabella, once Queen of Spain, is in appearance younger, healthier, and happier than when she reigned at Madrid.

—The Danbury News gives an account of the vicissitudes of life as experienced by a young man in that place. He went to see a young lady, previously just having been to an oyster supper. As he neared the house he saw her father standing on the steps and hailed him. "Hello, old Tadpole; s'at you? Where is my lovely gazelle? Where is my love my dove my dream-in'?" The father looked at the young man, and thinking he wanted something, placed his hand sadly on his shoulder, turned him around and filled the space under his coat-tail with leather. The young man don't go there any more; he says small-pox is hereditary in the family.

—A girls' school for type-setting has been opened in Vienna.

—"Laughorisms" is the heading of a column in the California Advertiser.

AN EXPERIMENT THAT SHOULD NOT BE RETRIED.—We cannot see upon what ground the Democratic Labor Reform legislators of 1871 put the state tax down to $300,000. They had before them the Treasurer's report for that year, and a careful examination of it would have shown them that $350,000 of the State debt would mature during the fiscal year ending May 31, 1873 the year for which the $300,000 tax was to be raised. Besides the debt of $350,000, they would have ascertained by a very simple calculation, that interest on the funded debt not falling due in that year, the amount of $175,000, would also become due the same year. So far we have interest and debt maturing and payable during the year in question, to the amount of $463,100. But this is not all. This same legislature that cut down the State tax one-half, thus diminishing the ability of the State to pay its debt and expenses for the year to the extent of $300 000, actually more than double the debt of the State by providing for the municipal war loan of $2,205,650. The interest on this sum for the year is $142,360, nearly equal to the amount in the State tax. Thus we have interest and debt maturing and payable during the year to the amount of $605,460.

But nothing has as yet been included for the expenses of the State outside of the payment of the principal and interest of the debt. These expenses could have been approximately ascertained by taking the average of a few years immediately preceding the year 1871, and they would have been found to have averaged about $150,000. The gentleman who was elected Treasurer by rule same legislature estimates these expenses at $152,000. Thus we have as the total expenses of the State for the fiscal year 1873, basing our calculations on the Treasurer's report for 1871, and the action of the legislature of 1871, the sum of $747,440. Now let us see what provision was made for the payment of that sum.

The Finance committee of 1871, "having considered the state of the Treasury" compared and reported the bill for raising a State tax of $300,000. Now if they had carefully considered the state of the Treasury, they would have found that at the beginning of the present fiscal year—the year for which they were providing the revenue of the State—there would be in the Treasury the sum of about $140,000. This could have been easily ascertained from the Treasurer's report made to that session of the legislature. Pursuing their investigations a little further they would have found that the revenue accruing to the State from railroad and insurance companies, is about $125,000 annually. Thus we have—balance in the Treasury June 1, 1871, $140 000; tax on Railroads and Insurance Companies $125,000; State tax, $300 000—in all $565 000—leaving at the end of the present fiscal year of $182,440.

We believe in and shall always advocate the lowest rate of taxation consistent with the obligations, the dignity and honor of the State; but we shall always condemn any measures inaugurated merely for the purpose of securing a party advantage, and especially when the legitimate effect of those measures is to cripple the State and force it into the market as a borrower at a high rate of interest. Such was the effect of the action in this matter of the legislature of 1871, and it furnishes the best of reasons for excluding the same men from any further opportunity of repeating the costly financial blunders of that year.—Nashua Telegraph.

WHY SENATOR LOGAN WILL NOT BUILD A HOUSE.—Senator Logan, of Illinois, is a man of considerable wealth. His money came to him naturally and properly by the rise of real estate in Chicago. It is no longer claimed, I believe, that he made even the magnificent fortune of $329 out of credit mobilier. Senator Logan has a family; and as he is certain to live in Washington for the next five years, and quite likely to live there longer, he would like to make his family comfortable during that sojourn. He would like to buy or build a house, and such a house as he is abundantly able to build or buy. But he won't do it; and he gives a reason which is adequate, and yet which ought to make the cheeks of sundry political Paul Prys tingle with shame. If he builds a house, it will immediately be heralded from Cape Cod to the Golden Gate, that he had sold his soul to some great corporation to get the money wherewith to build. Senator Logan, with a house in Washington, will be the prey of a million scavengers, who stand on the Procrustean platform, that a Senator cannot be wealthy without being a thief.

—While there is corruption in the high political life of the country, it is there, in a great measure, as a necessity, created by the lower political life. Senators bribe Legislatures because Legislatures cannot be controlled without bribery; a man spends money in a Senatorial canvass because all his opponents spend it, and because he would have no earthly chance without it. It is the fashion to flatter "the people," and tell them how essentially honest they are as compared with the politicians. But we begin to doubt the truth of all this. The nearer we get to the people the more corruption we find. The Legislature is more corrupt than Congress, although it is in great part composed of the honest yeomanry—"the bone and sinew of the land"—and all that sort of thing. A convention, which is yet nearer to the people, is generally more corrupt than either Congress or Legislature, and a primary meeting, which is, or ought to be, the vox populi pure and simple, is the most corrupt contrivance known to politics. —St. Louis Democrat.

The Maine House passed a resolve on the 14th in favor of woman suffrage, 64 to 59.

Municipal Reform.

Messrs. Editors:—When I wrote my last communication under the above heading, I supposed it was the last; and so it would have been had not your evening contemporary talked about me, as follows:

The "musicbytheband" of the CHRONICLE was very good, but is becoming monotonous. It is the same tune over and over again. Why not mention other abuses and robberies of the treasury as well as those which come from what you call the "glaring fault in the management of our city affairs" by which our Common Council is wholly, ignored by the Board of Aldermen. The notorious aldermanic quartette are carefully and cautiously referred to by the organ's contributor, but even he seems to be afraid of the clique or ring that controls our municipal affairs.

There; I call that rough—crowding the mourners. After I expressly stated, in my first article, that I was going to assail a bad system and not a man or body of men, and that if I referred to particular acts of the Board of Aldermen it would be only to illustrate the bad working of that bad system, to have an editor suppose I was merely attacking the Board of Aldermen is terribly humiliating. And then to be called a "monoonous." It's too bad.

I attempted to show that while all power in our municipal affairs is vested in the majority in the Board of Aldermen, the responsibility is divided; and to sustain this position I instanced several cases in which the strenuous opposition of the Common Council, backed in at least one case by a large percentage of the taxpayers, had been entirely nullified by a mere resolution of the Aldermen. This giving a few men an absolute yet irresponsible power, I argued, was dangerous; and if, as my editorial critic intimates, "abuses and robberies of the treasury" have been committed, it all goes to prove that I was right, and that the system needs changing,—for it is the system which is at fault. "Lead us not into temptation" has a deep significance,—the man who is not tempted will do no wrong.

Finally, my editorial critic heaps contumely upon my moral courage, by saying "even he seems to be afraid of the clique or ring that controls our municipal affairs." What in the name of judicious caution would he have me do? Does that editor consider me a Hotspur, that he would have me assail the Board of Aldermen and perhaps have them put a Mansard roof on me, the same as they have done to the City Building? I won't do it. If he wants to run the risk, he may; but I have no desire to wear the martyr's crown just yet.

CHAMPION SPRINGLESS TRUSS AND SUPPORTER.—On Feb. 20th and 21st, the inventor of the celebrated Springless Truss and abdominal Supporter may be consulted at his rooms at the Kearsarge House in this city. His truss is free from any hard substances. All interested should not fail to examine or test this new invention. Go and see for yourselves.

CENTAUR LINIMENT.—There is no pain which the Centaur Liniment will not relieve, no swelling it will not subdue, and no lameness which it will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. Where the parts are not gone, its effects are marvelous. It has produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lock-jaw, sprains, swellings, caked-breasts, scalds, burns, salt-rheum, ear-ache, &c., upon the human frame, and of strains, spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. It is a counter-irritant, an all-healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are rendered harmless and the wounded without a scar. It is no humbug. The recipe is published around each bottle. It is selling as no article ever sold, and it sells because it does just what it pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rheumatism, pain or swelling deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic-rheumatism, gout, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or sweenied horses and mules, or for screw-worm in sheep. Stock-owners—this liniment is worth your attention. No family should be without Centaur Liniment. J. B. Rose & Co., New York.

HOW STOKES FELT.—When Judge Davis delivered his decision, young Horace Stokes, the brother of the prisoner, rushed from the court and ran in hot haste to the tombs. The keeper sitting at the gate did not venture to stop him, and he hurried into the prison. It was easy to tell from his face that he had good news to give. At the entrance of the prison he was forced to stop to gain breath and collect his thoughts, before he could communicate the glad tidings to his brother. Meanwhile, two assistant keepers, who had heard that a stay had been granted, rushed into the prison by another way, and succeeded in telling Stokes before his brother Horace could reach him. They say that a great change came over the man when he heard the great news. The blood rushed to his cheeks, and for a moment he staggered and almost fell, but by a vigorous effort he soon collected himself, and taking up a cigar, coolly began to smoke.

When his brother Horace arrived at the cell door he was prepared, and beyond a warm shake of the hand, not much feeling was exhibited by him. Horace Stokes, however, was greatly affected; his breast heaved and his flushed face told how deeply he felt the temporary escape. The poor boy seemed as if he could have fainted. He made a great effort to be the first to bring the good news, but his feelings were too much for him. When the brothers had met, Warden Johnson appeared on the scene. Walking up to the cell he said: "Ed., I congratulate you. You have been granted a stay."

"Oh, it was no more than I expected from Davis," replied Stokes, but notwithstanding his assumed coolness is was evident that the new lease of life had stirred him to the heart. Warden Johnson says that he is going to send Stokes to his old cell the moment he gets official notice of the stay.

Judge Davis' decision stays the execution, which was to take place on the 28th, that the points of the objection raised may be argued before the judges of the Supreme Court and decided. If decided favorably to the prisoner a new trial will then be gained.

New Publications.

The Half Yearly Abstract of Medical Sciences, being "A Digest of British and Continental Medicine, and of the Progress of Medicine and the Collateral Sciences," draws its material not only from all the leading American, British and Continental journals, but also from the medical works and treatics issued during the preceding six months, thus giving a complete digest of medical progress. Each article is carefully condensed, so as to present its substance in the smallest possible compass, thus affording space for the very large amount of information laid before its readers. Published by Henry C. Lea, Philadelphia. Price $2.50 per annum or $1.50 per single volume.

The New Illustrated Annual of Phrenology and Physiognomy for 1873, contains portraits and sketches of more than fifty distinguished subjects; Price 25 cents. S. R. Wells, Publisher, 389 Broadway, N. Y.

Business Notices.

For all throat diseases and especially Coughs, Colds, &c., there is no known remedy equal to Buchman's Pulmocine, and a few doses will satisfy the most skeptical of its efficacy. For sale at the Union Store.

THE TONIC OF THE PERIOD.—This is a trying season to persons deficient in stamina and out of health. To rally their physical energies by the most approved artificial means is a duty they owe to themselves. Foremost among the tonics and alteratives of the age stands Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a vegetable stimulant and corrective, against which no tenable objection can be urged. There is no risk in recommending it as the best preparation in existence for renovating an enfeebled and broken down system. The most valuable medicinal products that nature has ever yielded to botanical research are blended in this famous elixir, and its stimulating basis is recognized in our public hospitals as the purest of all the varieties of distilled liquors. For general debility, nervous weakness, dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism, biliousness and intermittent fevers it is a positive specific.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is the concentration of sixteen composite parts and can be manufactured only in large quantities. So immediate and powerful is its action that one bottle (selling for 50 cts.) is more potent than any other curative of throat and lung diseases on sale.

HARMLESS AS SUMMER DEW, Yet in the highest degree disinfectant and preservative, Sozodont keeps the the teeth always healthy and spotless, and the gums ruddy and free from canker.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

The best articles are often found in small packages. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL, the best preparation for the cure of all throat diseases, is put up in 6 oz. bottles, selling for 50 cts each. It has no equal as a remedy.

NO SICKENING POTION IS NECESSARY to relieve the throat and lungs from the irritation which produces violent fits of coughing. Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar, the grand specific of the age for all pulmonary disorders, is a pleasant and palatable elixir. Cilitenton's 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and moth may rest.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS.—Having disposed of the Stock and good will of the Job Office connected with the DAILY CHRONICLE to Mr. Charles W. Gardner, we would express our thanks to our friends and former patrons, andsolicit for Mr. Gardner a continuance of that patronage which has been so liberally bestowed upon us.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Letter From A Son.

We are indebted to a veteran editor of the NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE, Samuel W. Moses, Esq., for the following letter from an absent son of Portsmouth, which we know our subscribers will take great pleasure in reading.

XENIA, Ill., Feb. 10, '73.

My old time Friend; I received a copy of the NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE that some one sent me, containing a list of absent sons and also of the daughters, together with a circular of invitation to the gathering on the 4th of July next. I don't know of anything that has pleased me more lately than that paper, for it brought old times up so vividly, that I could almost hear Ben. exclaim, "Albert! Albert! isn't every man a free agent;" and hear our good old Master, when Jethro would ask him in the counting room, "what is this?" reply, "sloop Wenus, Capt. Waun."

I subscribed for the Journal when I was East in '67, and have kept my subscription renewed yearly, for when I saw the GAZETTE last, it was attached to some other paper, and I thought had almost lost its individuality, therefore to receive in its present shape and style, was all the more pleasing.

I feel that as I grow old I can endorse what Professor Allyn says "That life is memory with the aged; with the young it is hope. When the sun nears the horizon, and the shadows lengthen, we like to recall the dew and flush of youth's morning, to commence with the friends of our early years who still linger on this side of the dark river, and gather around us the shadow forms of those who have passed over to the brighter shore beyond. We review with satisfaction the struggles and successes of our prime, and even its disappointments and affections, seen through the mist of time, are encircled with a halo of sad but pleasing light." And the night after I received that paper, while all others were asleep, I, too, seemed to gather around me the shadowy forms of those who had passed to the other shore, until they formed a vast company.

And the Heart grew sad and I'd no more look
On the changing pages of Memory's book.

I think that C. W. Brewster, B. F. Shillaber and John H. Bowles, have done more by their writings, to keep alive a love for the dear old home of our youth, than all else beside, and I heartily thank them for it, and although C. W. Brewster has passed over, he deserves to be embalmed in the memory of every son and daughter of Portsmouth.

I believe you and myself, at least as far as I know, are about all there is left of the GAZETTE apprentices of 1830, '31, and '32. Do you remember the time when Ben. set up our marriages and inserted them while we were taking a nap? And how he aroused us by saying "it is almost day, boys," and the discovery we made when we had worked off two sheets,—and Ben dodging behind the bank to escape the mallet you threw?

Well, I will close by saying that I am making my calculations to be at the REUNION if not Providentially hindered, and as I noticed in the GAZETTE that they wished all those who receive circulars and intended being present, would respond, you will do me a favor by reporting for me. JNO. PEIRCE.

Catechetical.

Two felines, while bathing in the moonlight, engaged in friendly conversation early Tuesday morning on Islington street, which finally ended in mutual recriminations and remonstrances. Neighbor Q.'s cat deemed it necessary to make the remark that neighbor K.'s cat was ungentlemanly in asking and answering questions and in doubting the veracity of her statements, to which cat K responded with so much emphasicity that the listeners felt that mediation was necessary ere war should be proclaimed. A peace-loving lady soon appeared at an open window and endeavored to attract the attention of the disputants, but without avail. Her remarks came to a conclusion with a "Kuh-st-st-st," but neither of those agitated combatants ceased to trouble and lament. Their conversation though cursory in some of its details, partook of general topics only when either felt the English language too poor in expression. Credit Mobilier, the Republic of Spain, Cuba's opportunity, the Shute defalcation, Evans' interview with Kent, the Mayor-police investigation, free bridges, public library, the return of the sons, moral reform, spiritualistic experiences, Muhlback's novels, the polar wave, and other interesting topics were dwelt on for the space of three quarters of an hour and a half, the sentiments of cat Q being in each case antagonistic to those of cat K. The music of their gentle voices lulled our senses once more to repose while yet the air was filled with melody. At daybreak, the moon was paling in the west, no cat was visible on the street, and mail agent Conn's shepherd dog was endeavoring to find the owner of an car which might have fitted the port side of cat Q's brain holder.

Laconics.

The bedstead upon which President Washington slept when he visited New Hampshire is still shewn in the mansion where President Weare lived at Hampton Falls, in a chamber where the writer sees paper hung with nails, in the olden style. The table-cloth used for state dinners by President Weare, is still kept in a well preserved condition by one of the president's descendants, a lady of Portsmouth, while other descendants, resident in Salem, Mass., cherish like keep-sakes of their celebrated ancestor.

The U. S. Senate has struck out the appropriation of $1500 for clerk of pay rolls and mustering clerk at this navy yard. The position is held by Capt. Geo. W. Towle.

It is almost time for the game of marbles to bud and blossom.

The Festival given by the ladies of the Universalist society and congregation, in the vestry of their church, commences this evening. All the usual attractions of such gatherings will be offered, and those who attend will enjoy a pleasant time at little expense. See advertisement.

A. N. Brown & Co. are rapidly closing out their stock at the dollar store under the Franklin House, and are offering bargains to their customers at ninety cents. They close business here next week and we think those who give them a call will not regret making purchases. We have found Mr. Brown a courteous gentleman, whose dealings have been reliable and whose word has been as good as his bond. We learn that he intends locating in Manchester, and heartily wish him even greater success than he has realized in Portsmouth.

Mr. Charles N. Knowles, of Rye has a sheep that has brought twelve lambs in four years.

The "Anthem Choir," and the "Silver Song," by W. A. Ogden, published by W. W. Whitney, Toledo, Ohio, may be found at the music store of E. A. Joy, No. 23 Market street. They contain selections of music for Sunday schools and singing societies.

We have received from D. H. Montgomery No. 10 1 2 Daniel St., the following pieces of music, published by J. L. Peters, New York; Beautiful Dreaming Eyes, Song and Chorus, words by Frank Dumont; The Tender Chord, Polka by Kate E. Ducut; Lottie's Waltz, by Kinkel; Bellsario, opera by Kinkel.

The fish market is well stocked. Over 100,000 pounds of cod and haddock were brought in on Sunday. Local dealers offered $3.50 per hundred for haddock and $4.50 for cod, but the fishermen thought they would try the Boston market where $2.50 and $3.50 were the latest quotations. The warm weather affects the prices.

The schoolhouse in District No. 3, at Kittery, was burned on Tuesday morning at about 9 o'clock. The building was a good one, erected in 1865.

Rev. Mr. Pitblado's lecture on "Mind your own business," in the M. E. Church at Kittery, on Monday evening, the 17th, was listened to by a very large audience and is spoken of in terms of commendations bordering on the extravagant.

Tickets to the last half of Prof. Juques' Singing School at Pearl Street Vestry may be had at half price, 50 cents for ladies and 75 cents for gentlemen, commencing Thursday evening.

SPLENDID PIANO FOR SALE.
Just received from the warerooms of Hallett, Davis & Co., Boston, an elegant rosewood, seven octave PIANO, with carved legs, etc. Having purchased it for a family instrument, I am reluctantly obliged to sell it. The "Tribune" of the Panic, in commending the case as its every way a first class instrument, says one the best instruments in the country. Any one the least familiar with the pianos made by Hallett, Davis & Co., will at once appreciate the value of such a piano. Inquire of the undersigned, or at my Music Store, where I can sell Pianos of superior touch, tone and finish, at lower prices than can be found elsewhere in Boston, or any other place, and at much less prices than I have ever before asked for the same.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Relieve Your Lungs.
Pulmocine Cordial
Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand without waiting for the above list of Fire, Life and Accident Insurance Companies. For Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Croup, Diphtheria, and all Hundred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of Pulmocine Cordial gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultimate thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood Root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is subtonic and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle cathartic, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

IRON in the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills" simply by Toning up Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhea, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an iron Constitution.
Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy. Iron weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running on needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and possesses its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Tremblers or Fainting of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no solid or colash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing plaster, and immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, inflamed or ulcerated Bunions, the worst case instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequaled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. H. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

The Toledo Blade calls upon the liberals to rejoice, for the recent developments of corruption on the part of certain members of Congress will result in accessions to the liberal ranks. The Blade continues:—

"We shall expect soon to see Pomeroy, Caldwell, Ames, Brooks, Patterson & Co., in full fellowship with the liberal party. These are the kind of reformers who have had the management of the liberal movement, and some of them were reported to be secretly in sympathy with that cause during the last campaign. These investigations are a good thing for the liberals. We do not know where they could have obtained recruits through any other channel."

—An orator, getting warmed with his subject, exclaimed, "There is not a man, woman or child in the house who has arrived at the age of fifty years, but what has felt this truth thundering through their minds for centuries."

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1873.

Readables.

The owners or agents of the missing vessels Lincoln, Stirling Castle and Anglo-Saxon Congress have abandoned all expectation of ever hearing anything definite of the fate of the vessels. It is supposed that they sunk with all on board, in the gale of December 21. The Lincoln, a steamship, was valued at $80,000, and her cargo, consisting of tagged oil-cake, at $76,000. The latter was uninsured. The Stirling Castle was valued at $100,000, and her cargo (wheat and flour) $100,000—the latter insured. She was an iron ship. Still another steamship of the New York and London line, the British Flag, is supposed to be lost. She sailed November 5, and has never been heard from since.

It is stated that a number of the men in the United States arsenal at Watertown are employed in the fabrication of heavy sea-coast gun carriages which are intended for the Argentine Republic. Messrs. Alger & Co. of the Phœnix Iron Company, are now engaged in boring their foundry guns for the same government. The guns are to be of the heaviest calibre (15 inches) and it is estimated that when completed they will cost a cool seven-thousand dollars apiece.

Ship Lucerniare, Captain Kerr, sailed from New York for Havre. When off the lightship the second mate abused the captain, and the seamen supported the second mate. The ship returned and anchored off the quarantine, when the crew were put in irons by officers from the United States revenue cutter, but were subsequently released and taken from the vessel by boarding-house runners from the city. The crew were drunk at the time of the mutiny.

Despatches received in New York from Melbourne, Australia, indicate that the English and colonial conference recently in session at Sydney, New South Wales, has decided to place a British line of steamships on the Pacific from Australia to San Francisco, in opposition to the American (Webb) line. The conference regarded the American route as the most desirable for the transportation of the mail between Europe and Australia. The English government guarantees $500,000 per annum subsidy, the colonies agreeing to furnish a like sum.

Two men working in a shanty in the township of Abbinger, Ont., had a fight and the man who got worsted rose in the night and fatally stabbed his opponent with a butcher knife. The rest of the shanty men seized the murderer, formed a jury, tried him and hanged him to a tree till dead, then cut him down and burned him. Twelve of the lynching party were arrested and taken to Belleville for trial.

Mr. Ames' only comment on the conclusion of the committee is said to be that the committee having decided to expel him for selling stock to members at less than its market value, he will in future transactions cheat them to the extent of his ability, which, according to the logic of the committee, would be all right.

Thomas Bennett went home drunk, in New York, and after shamefully abusing his wife, caught up his little boy, aged four years, and threw him upon the stove, from which his mother rescued him only after his little hands were badly burned. Thirty days on the Island was all that New York justice could mete out to the inhuman wretch of a father.

James Milligan was instantly killed at Newburg, N. Y., on the 17th, by being drawn between two rollers in a rolling mill. The space between the rollers was only three and a half inches wide, and the man was rolled out flat in an instant.

Mr. Robert C. Beckman, of Seabrook, fell dead in a store in that place, on the afternoon of the 15th. He was a steady, industrious man, about 60 years of age, and died from heart disease.

The Newburyport School Committee have appointed a sub-committee to "investigate" the school house ghost. They will probably report in favor of his—or her—expulsion.

The governor and council of Massachusetts have respited James McElhaney, under sentence of death for the murder of his wife, until Friday, March 21.

By an explosion in a coal mine at Staffordshire, England, on the 18th, between thirty and forty lives are reported lost. The mine was set on fire, but was extinguished.

The Senate committee on Louisiana affairs will make three reports, viz.: one that the Kellog government is legal; one that the McEnery government is legal, and the third that the State elections were illegal. This will make things very much clearer than they were.

A German physiologist has discovered that tobacco-smoking by boys "interferes with the molecular changes coincident with development of tissues, and makes the blood corpuscles oval and irregular at the edge." Any parent can thus ascertain if his boy smokes by merely taking out a handful of his blood corpuscles and observing their edges.

Mrs. Louisa Reckham has been arrested at St. Louis on a charge of poisoning two boys, Willie and Fred Hudson, with gum caddy medicated with deadly poison. The evidence is entirely circumstantial, but is considered strong. Mrs. Reckham is believed insane.

The Cincinnati Enquirer thinks that Speaker Blaine "carries too many guns for Job Stevenson," and warns the Ohio member not to be too officious. It adds:—"The man who gave Ben Butler the only first-class polishing that he ever got will have no difficulty in adding Job Stevenson's scalp to his belt."

Hiram Green says "all the difference he can see between Stephen of old and the readers of the New York Herald is that Stephen died stoned to death, while the Herald readers are Living-stoned to death."

Among the multitudinous advantages of the "Zenith City of the Unsalted Seas" is the vein of coal that underlies the city. All a Duluthian has to do is to sink a shaft in his cellar, and his winter's fuel is paid for.

The African giraffes are said to be dying off with a disease of the throat. Just imagine how you would feel with six linear feet of sore throat, and how you would want to die.

Does vaccination vaccinate? Dr. Green, the Boston City Physician, has had already thirty-six cases of persons who had the small-pox the second time, and five or six persons that had taken it for the third time.

The Connecticut democratic State convention unanimously nominated Charles R. Ingersoll of New Haven for governor, and George B. Sill, of Hartford, (liberal), for lieutenant-governor, on Wednesday.

At Bradford, Conn., on the night of the 15th, a man named Augustus Hall was tarred and feathered for ill-treatment shown by him and his wife to an invalid lady, whom they had thrust into an out-house to die, though under great obligations to her.

STEAMER LOST.—The steamer Norwich, bound from Boston to New Orleans, sunk off Sandy Hook about daylight on the morning of the 17th. She had recently been purchased from the Boston and Calais Steamship Company by the New York, Florida and Havana Steamship Company, and was on her way to be used in trading between the Gulf ports when she was overtaken by the storm which caused her destruction. The Captain reports that he encountered a southeast gale, with snow, on the 16th, ran before it until 4 o'clock and then hove to in 28 fathoms of water; "at 8 P. M. the engineer reported the ship leaking; set steam donkey to work the main engine pump and bilge-injection and ship's deck pump; water gaining; at 8:30 spoke the pilot boat James W. Elwell, and requested the captain to lay by, as the vessel was leaking, which he did. At 10 P. M. the water was on the fire-room floor, and gaining; kept the vessel under full speed, running around the pilot boat to keep all the pumps working at the same time, both making the best time we could for Sandy Hook. During the whole time the weather was very thick. At twelve o'clock the water was up to the furnace doors; cleared away the boats and hailed the pilot boat, and informed them that we should have to leave the ship, and asked them to keep close at hand. Lowered a boat and sent part of the crew on board the pilot boat, the pumps still working but the water gaining. At 1 A. M. the water put the fires out, and the vessel fell into the trough of the sea. Finding it impossible to save the ship, lowered the last boat and abandoned her. At 5:30 A. M. the vessel went down. Only a part of the personal effects were saved. Captain Pennington wished to express his unqualified thanks for himself and crew to the pilot boat James W. Elwell and her crew, for the manner in which they stood by him in his distress, for without their assistance all would have perished."

The semi-centennial of the State historical society on the 250th anniversary of the settlement of the State will be celebrated at Concord on the 21st of May. Hon. Charles H. Bell will deliver the commemorative oration, and Joseph B. Walker the dedicatory address for the new rooms of the society.

The South Grammar School house at Manchester, with 400 pupils usually in attendance, has but one egress, the door of which swings in. In case of fire and a panic, a hole cannot would be the inevitable result.

Rev. Caleb Dustin, of Derry, fell dead from his chair at his house a few days since. He was seventy-seven years old, and had been a Methodist preacher many years.

The heavy snow storm, which occurred about the middle of December last, buried a pair of ducks belonging to R. H. Hunison, of Monroe. In just four weeks, the snow having melted, they made their appearance well and hearty.

During the reading of the report of Judge Poland's committee in the House, every seat on the floor and in the vast galleries was filled, all the standing room occupied, and throughout the great audience the most perfect silence prevailed. Mr. Ames occupied the most prominent seat in the House, directly in front of the Speaker and in full view of the thousands in the galleries, while each of the other members affected by the report was in his usual seat. During the reading Mr. Ames preserved the most perfect composure, while Mr. Brooks was much affected. Other members mentioned in the report were impersonations of sober reflection, listening intently to every word and seeming to show sensible relief when their cases were finally disposed of. The whole House maintained a quiet and gravity rarely witnessed, and scarcely a member left his seat until the last word of the report was finished.

—The editor of the Lancaster, Pa., Express tells this story: "A wife of nearly ten years, having given her servant a holiday, was attending to culinary matters herself, and hearing her husband coming into the kitchen thought she would surprise him as soon as he entered the door by throwing her hands over his eyes and imprinting a kiss on his brow, as in the days of the honeymoon. The husband returned the salute with interest, and said, as he disengaged her hands, 'Mary, darling, where is your mistress?' The wife discharged 'Mary, darling,' the next day, and has adopted a new plan of 'surprising' her husband."

—The other day, says the Troy Press, a lady having occasion to leave her apartment for a few minutes, locked the door and left a little child of two years playing upon the floor. When she came back she was horrified to see the girl toying with a rat which she had in one hand and was affectionately caressing with the other. With a scream of dismay the young mother rushed to its side, and, snatching up the rat, proceeded to do up her hair with it.

—A family were startled one night by a tremendous trying of keys and rattling at their front door. The gentleman rushed to the scene of action in time to catch the remark of a retreating figure to the effect that he "thought them door mats didn't look like our'n."

—A friend of ours, whenever he wishes to remember anything particularly in the morning, always turns a photograph face to the wall before retiring, and usually spends the greater part of the next day pondering over the problem what the mischief it was he wanted to remember.

—Gilmore, the Jubileeder, has been at Washington, trying to get himself appointed Bandmaster General of the United States. The authorities did not appreciate the idea, and Gilmore has returned to Boston. Government ought to do something for him, though. Why not appoint him one of the fog-horns on the coast?—Cin. Chron.

—A lucky Iowa editor won a very nice bet on the Presidential election. A young lady, presumed to be pretty, agreed to kiss him once a month for four years, if Grant was elected, and is keeping her word like a man. We hope, for the sake of the editor's peace of mind, that he is not a married man.

THE JURY SYSTEM.—The present jury system is getting hard rubs in all directions. The Cleveland Herald says it has been a puzzle why it should require unanimity in a jury to find a verdict. Can any number of facts be imagined which, presented to twelve minds, will meet with unanimous agreements as to their effect? There has been introduced into the Illinois Legislature two bills, one providing that three-fourths and the other five-sixths of a jury may bring in a verdict. The majority rule governs in almost all other proceedings—judicial or legislative. There is no case wherein it is requisite that a Legislature should be unanimous in order to give vitality to a law. On the bench the majority of the court make a decision. But on a jury, where men are not chosen through merit but by lot, it requires unanimity to make a verdict. The consequences is defeat of justice, or great delay and expense in securing justice.

A writer in the Philadelphia Ledger thinks it rather curious that the President of the United States, when tried by the High Court of Impeachment, can be convicted by a two-thirds vote of his jurors, and be removed from the office to which he has been elected by the votes of millions of men—while on the other hand it requires, in a court room, the unanimous voices of twelve men to convict a gambler or the corrupt occupant of a pretty municipal office.

A NOVEL STEP.—The Boston Advertiser says: The members of a court-martial recently convened at the Watertown arsenal for the trial of enlisted men have been placed under arrest by Colonel Laidley, commanding the post, charged with a disobedience of orders. The court found a man guilty on the evidence of his own confession. The commandant asserted that there was no evidence and requested the court to change the form of its finding, which after further deliberation they declined to do. It is not good law in civil cases that a judicial body can be punished for an error of judgment, and we believe this is the first time in the history of courts martial in this country that such a step has been taken."

—Incredable as the statement may seem, nevertheless there is a ship now sailing from Holland, built in 1658, when the Prince of Orange was fighting Phillip II of Spain. She was sailing to the Indies when the Hollanders organized themselves into the "Beggars of the Sea," and as a privateersman earned a reputation which astonished the world. She passed the Cape of Good Hope in October, 1864, from Batavia for Holland, being then two hundred and ninety-four years old.

Business Notices.

For all throat diseases and especially Coughs, Colds, &c., there is no known remedy equal to Buchman's Pulmocine, and a few doses will satisfy the most skeptical of its efficacy. For sale at the Union Store.

THE TONIC OF THE PERIOD.—This is a trying season to persons deficient in stamina and out of health. To rally their physical energies by the most approved artificial means is a duty they owe to themselves. Foremost among the tonics and alteratives of the age stands Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a vegetable stimulant and corrective, against which no tenable objection can be urged. There is no risk in recommending it as the best preparation in existence for renovating an enfeebled and broken down system. The most valuable medicinal products that nature has ever yielded to botanical research are blended in this famous elixir, and its stimulating basis is recognized in our public hospitals as the purest of all the varieties of distilled liquors. For general debility, nervous weakness, dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism, biliousness and intermittent fevers it is a positive specific.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is the concentration of sixteen composite parts and can be manufactured only in large quantities. So immediate and powerful is its action that one bottle (selling for 50 cts.) is more potent than any other curative of throat and lung diseases on sale.

HARMLESS AS SUMMER DEW, Yet in the highest degree disinfectant and preservative, Sozodont keeps the the teeth always healthy and spotless, and the gums ruddy and free from canker.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

The best articles are often found in small packages. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL, the best preparation for the cure of all throat diseases, is put up in 6 oz. bottles, selling for 50 cts each. It has no equal as a remedy.

NO SICKENING POTION IS NECESSARY to relieve the throat and lungs from the irritation which produces violent fits of coughing. Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar, the grand specific of the age for all pulmonary disorders, is a pleasant and palatable elixir. Crittenton's 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS.—Having disposed of the Stock and good will of the Job Office connected with the DAILY CHRONICLE to Mr. Charles W. Gardner, we would express our thanks to our friends and former patrons, and solicit for Mr. Gardner a continuance of that patronage which has been so liberally bestowed upon us.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Misplaced Charity.

The melodious hand-organ, sweet harbinger of Spring, has been heard on Market Square for several days; and the artiste in charge reaped a rich harvest of nickles and scrip, possibly for her musical ability but more probably from her wretched appearance, which was pitiable enough to have drawn cash from the pockets even of those persons whose hearts were too hard to be melted by music. She was a miserably-clad cripple, with a face furrowed by suffering and want, and wearing an expression of hopeless wretchedness; and had the money she received gone into her own pocket, it might have done something towards reducing the grand total of misery in the world. This, however, was not the case, for the City Marshal, after considerable watching and enquiry, discovered that the real owner of the agony-mill was a big, two-fisted fellow who could easily earn an honest living were it not for a constitutional aversion to work, who was keeping himself out of sight in the welcome shades of certain low drinking-places, while his valuable employe was lacerating charitable hearts by her appearance and harmony-loving souls by her music,—at twenty-five cents per diem! The pair were quickly hustled out of the city by the Marshal, and the places which recently knew them won't know them again for some time. Charity bestowed on persons on the streets is very likely to be ill-bestowed, yet that need be no check to benevolence, in this city, where there are several trusty and active societies for the relief of real distress and the protection of the charitable from impostors.

Our Schools.

Portsmouth may well point with pride to her Schools, as, without doubt, in the matter of thoroughness and general management they cannot be excelled in New England. From the highest to the lowest grade of school the same good management by the committee and teachers is exhibited. We spent an hour or two on Tuesday afternoon in the Haven School at the South End, and were especially pleased with the marvelous improvement that has taken place in the government and scholarship of the schools in that locality. The number of schools in the building are five, being carefully graded from the Infant to the highest Grammar school, from which the graduates make an easy step to the High School.

The teachers in the several grades seem admirably adapted to their arduous tasks, and we feel to congratulate our friends in the South Ward on their good fortune in the matter of securing such competent instructors of their children. There can be nothing connected with the duties of a committee of public schools of more importance than the judicious selection of teachers to whose care is committed the moulding of young and tender minds. This idea seems to have been uppermost in the minds of the committee of the Haven School, and they are reaping golden fruits from their labors. The Principal, Mr. Channing Folsom, has "shortening" enough in him to delight the heart of a baker, and yet he is one of the most thorough, persistent, indefatigable and intelligent teachers that we ever saw. The committee are wise in retaining him. His duties are laborious, he having charge of his own school (which is work enough for any one person) besides a general supervision over the other four,—taught by Misses Marshal, Shackford, Clark, Hooper and Dodge. With such a school as the whole five constitute, the South Ward cannot help growing less ignorant every day.

Laconics.

By the breaking of our press, Wednesday morning, the CHRONICLE was delayed in its appearance for several hours, which led to the bestowal of undeserved anathemas and vituperation upon the carriers by some of our subscribers; this is all right, however, for if the carriers were not to blame on this occasion, they will probably be at some other time. As on a previous similar occasion, the obliging courtesy of Lewis W. Brewster, Esq., of the Journal, in promptly placing his press and his personal assistance at our service, enabled us to get over the results of the accident with a minimum of annoyance.

City Marshal Johnson on Wednesday captured a young fellow from Biddeford, who ran away from that place after stealing a watch and chain and various articles of jewelry. The Marshal saw a suspicious looking chap coming up Penhallow street toward Daniel street and when opposite the saloon on the corner the fellow tried to evade the officer by dodging into the saloon door; but Marshal Johnson was convinced that two could play at that game, and so he dodged into the other door and met the young fellow face to face. He was taken to the lockup and afterward confessed the theft. Portsmouth is not a good ark of refuge for thieves.

Course of Lectures.

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 3, 1873.

Rev. C. M. Dinsmore:

Dear Sir: Wishing to hear some of the lectures which you have delivered at various places and which are always highly spoken of, the undersigned respectfully request you to favor the people of Portsmouth with one or more on such evenings as you may find convenient. As a slight remuneration, please accept the accompanying check.

PORTSMOUTH, Feb. 5, 1873.

Messrs. S. W. Clark, W. C. Newton, Capt. Prince Harding, Silas Philbrick, R. B. Adams, Daniel McIntire:

Your very unexpected and generous favor of Feb. 3, inviting me to give "one or more lectures" with an enclosed check of thirty dollars was duly received. Please, gentlemen, accept my most hearty thanks for this very kind and noble expression of regard for your unworthy pastor, and be assured that I truly appreciate the generous spirit that prompted it.

And in closing my labors here, such tokens of good will add to the many pleasant associations connected with my sojourn of three years with the good people of Portsmouth, and it will be with regret that I take my leave of so many much esteemed and dear friends. Again thanking you for the invitation tho' with diffidence I accept it, I will hold myself in readiness to lecture whenever you desire. With my best wishes for your prosperity and happiness, I remain yours truly,

C. M. DINSMORE.

The first lecture will be at the Methodist Church, Monday evening, March 3. Subject, "The elements of Manhood," Free to all.

FREE BRIDGES.—Our Kittery correspondent writes us that a strong feeling exists among the citizens of that town in favor of making the bridge between that place and the city of Portsmouth a free one, and that the necessary steps will be taken at the approaching municipal election to inaugurate measures to effect it. Toll bridges have long been regarded as an injury to the business interests of the towns where located and a burden upon the people ajacent. The people of other States have declared toll bridges a public nuisance and have effected their abolishment, and as this seems to be the auspicious time to move in the matter it is hoped the citizens of Kittery will not cease in their efforts to accomplish an object of so much consequence to the material and social interests of that and the adjoining towns.—Biddeford Times.

A man was struck near Rowley by the Eastern Railroad train from Newburyport to Boston, Wednesday morning, and probably fatally hurt.

CERTAIN LINIMENT.—There is no pain which the Centaur Liniment will not relieve, no swelling it will not subdue, and no lameness which it will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. Where the parts are not gone, its effects are marvelous. It has produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lock-jaw, sprains, swellings, caked-breasts, scalds, burns, salt-rheum, ear-ache, &c., upon the human frame, and of strains, spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. It is a counter-irritant, an all-healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are rendered harmless and the wounded without a scar. It is no humbug. The recipe is published around each bottle. It is selling as no article ever sold, and it sells because it does just what it pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rheumatism, pain or swelling deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment. Mo than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including Bones Burns, chronic-rheumatism, goat, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing testimonials, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or sweenied horses and mules, or for screw worm in sheep. Stock-owners—this liniment is worth your attention. No family should be without Centaur Liniment. J. B. Rose & Co., New York.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the long-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends, and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years are it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultimate ...thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific, and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves no opiumess. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

IRON in the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
— OF —
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices —and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. Unlike the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure early eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Inverted Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the fortest pain, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind from time immemorial. For centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. H. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAYFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully cured at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. sp9

Old Time Chronicles, No. 69.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

LAWS OF HARVARD COLLEGE, 1734.—Harvard College was the first founded in our country. It was established in 1636, but 16 years after the settlements at Plymouth commenced. It was 98 years old when the laws now to be noted were made. Then, Meshach Weare of Hampton Falls, afterward judge and governor graduated at the college in 1735. I have a copy of the laws that he possessed while an undergraduate. The copy was a part of the papers left by him, which went into possession of his son, the late Nathaniel Weare of Deerfield. The laws were written, but not printed.

The first law specified that for admission the candidate should be able to read, construe and parse Tully, Virgil, or such other authors of Latin; to write true Latin in prose; to be skilled to write Latin in verse and to read, construe and parse ordinary Greek, as in the New Testament, Socrates, &c., and withal to have good testimony of his past blameless behavior.

The president should read a portion of the scriptures and pray in the hall, morning and evening. If he was "hindered" one of the tutors should supply.

Tardiness at prayers was fined, unless there was a reasonable excuse, two pence; for absence, four pence; tardiness or absence at Divinity and Philosophical lectures, fined the same.

On Saturday evening at sunset, students were to retire to their rooms. On the Sabbath they were to apply themselves to the duties of religion and piety. Walks on the Common, in the streets, or anywhere in Cambridge on the Sabbath, or any disorder unbecoming the day were forbidden. If these rules were violated there was a fine not exceeding ten shillings. If offenders were not reformed, they were to be admonished publicly, degraded or expelled.

Tardiness at public worship was fined six pence, unless there was a reasonable excuse, absence from meeting on either part of the day without good reason, fined three shillings, sleeping in meeting, fined from one to five shillings. [If there was a similar law now against sleep in church it would bring quite a revenue.]

Failure to repeat the heads of the discourses, as required the day after the Sabbath, was fined not over three shillings.

Undergraduates should show all respect to honors, speech and behavior to the officers of the College, and their superiors, such as keeping silence in their presence, rising up, uncovering the head and so forth. Bachelors of art in the college building might be uncovered only when the president was there.

Study hours were most of the day, half an hour being allowed for breakfast, two hours at noon and after evening prayers, till 9 in the evening. Absence from their rooms in study hours was fined not exceeding two shillings. Failure to declaim in one of the three learned languages at the stated times, same fine.

Duties slightly performed, or absence from stated exercises, or stated lectures of the professor, fine five shillings and if they do not reform, shall be degraded or expelled.

Going out of town without leave, fined not exceeding five shillings; blasphemy, fornication, robbery or forgery subjected to immediate expulsion, profanity, cursing, swearing or taking God's name in vain, fined from 5 to 10 shillings; playing cards or dice, fined 20 shillings; lying not exceeding five shillings; stealing, make restitution and pay double damages; drunkenness fined five shillings, or make public confession; giving spirits to others, fined five shillings; second offence, 10 shillings; third, make public confession; fourth, degraded or expelled.

Then, going up to the top of the old college building; making indecent noises were prohibited and violations neglected to a fine.

Carrying pistols about the person, subjected to a fine; discharging a pistol or gun, going fishing or hunting, fined.

But specimens of offences and penalties for them are given. The whole code of laws is full and long. At the end the word "Finis" appears as was customary at the end of books in those times. Some one has said, "The world is governed too much." One might think in reading these laws, Harvard College was then governed too much. But it should be remembered that in former times there was government in families, schools and colleges. If there was more now than there is, the prospects of the race would be much better. Yet, so far as families and schools are concerned, the use of the rod as formerly is not best; and in colleges so many fines may not be needed, but some moral measures.

When Gov. Weare was a student in Harvard, Rev. Benjamin Wadsworth was president. During his presidency, besides Gov. Weare, several other distinguished men in after life were graduated. Among them were Gov. Trumbull of Connecticut and Gov. Belcher, the royal chief magistrate of New Hampshire. The number graduated in those years was usually from thirty to forty.

Vice President Colfax testified before the Poland committee on the 19th that he received four checks of $1000 each from Mr. Nesbitt of New York. He produced one of them dated June 22d, the same day Ames claims he deposited $1200 with the sergeant-at-arms.

War Claims.—The House of Representatives, on the 19th, passed the Senate directing the proper officers of the Treasury to adjust and pay the claims made by the State of New Hampshire, or of the towns and cities of said State, upon assignments taken for bounty money advanced to volunteers by the towns and cities of the State, in accordance with an agreement made with the Government of the State of New Hampshire by the Provost Marshal General of the United States, acting under the direction and authority of the Secretary of War; provided that no payment shall be made in any case of desertion. These claims, amounting to some $400,000, were well set forth in a report made by Hon. Jacob H. Ela when he was a member of the House, and they have since been urged by Colonel Charles W. Roberts of Concord. The towns and cities in New Hampshire advanced the bounties in good faith, supposing that they took only the risk of such losses as came from desertion, and furnished the troops with such promptness as to receive the thanks of the Secretary of War.

Since I Died.

How very still you sit!

If the shadow of an eyelash stirred on your cheek; if that gray line about your mouth should snap its tension at this quivering call; if the pallor of your profile warmed a little; if that tiny muscle on your forehead, just at the left eyebrow's curve, should start and twitch; if you would but grow a trifle restless, sitting there beneath my steady gaze; if you moved a finger of your folded hands; if you should turn and look behind your chair, or lift your face, half hagering and half longing, half loving and half loth, to ponder on the annoyed and thwarted eye which the wind is making, where I stand between it and yourself, against the half closed window—Ah, there! You sigh and stir, I think. You lift your head. The little muscle is a captive still; the line about your mouth is tense and hard; the deepening hollow in your cheek has no warmer tint, I see, than the great Doric column which the moonlight bulks against the wall. I lean against it; I hold out my arms.

You lift your head and look me in the eye.

If a shudder crept across your figure; if your arms, laid out upon the table, leaped but once above your head; if you named my name; if you held your breath with terror, or sobbed aloud for love, or sprang or cried—

But you only lift your head and look one in the eye.

If I dared step near, or nearer; if it were permitted that I should cross the current of your living breath; if it were willed that I should feel the leap of human blood within your veins; if I should touch your hands, your cheeks, your lips; if I dropped an arm as lightly as a snowflake round your shoulder—

The fear which no heart has fathomed, the fate which no fancy has faced, the riddle which no soul has read, steps between your substance and my soul.

I drop my arms. I sink into the heart of the pillared tight upon the wall. Twill no wonder what would happen if my soul there were defied upon it to your view. I will not think of that which could be, would-be, if I struck across your still set vision, face to face.

Ah me, how still she sits! With what a fixed, incurious stare she looks me in the eye.

The wind, now that I stand no longer between it and yourself, comes enviously in. It lifts the curtain, and whirls about the room. It bruises the surface of the great pearled pillar where I lean. I am caught within it. Speech and language struggle over me. Mute articulations fill the air. Tears and laughter, and the sounding of soft lips, and the falling of low cries possess me. Will she listen? Will she bend her head? Will her lips part in recognition? Is there an alphabet between us? Or have the winds of night a vocabulary to lift before her hidden eye.

We sat many times together, and talked of this. Do you remember, dear? You held my hand. Tears that I could not see fell on it: we sat by the great hall window up-stairs, where the maple shadow goes to sleep, face down across the floor upon a lighted night; the old green curtain waved its hands upon us like a mesmerist, I thought; like a priest, you said.

"When we are parted, you shall go," you said; and when I shook my head, you smiled—you always smiled when you said that, but you always said it quite the same.

I think I hardly understood you then. Now that I hold your eyes in mine, and you see me not; now when I stretch out my hand and you touch it not—I comprehend you, tender one! A wisdom not of earth was in your words. "To live, is dying; I will die. To die is life, and you shall live."

Now when the fever turned, I thought of this.

That must have been—ah! how long? I miss the conception of that for which how long stands index.

Yet I perfectly remember that I perfectly understood it to be at three o'clock on a rainy Sunday morning that I died. Your little watch stood in its case of olive wood upon the table, and drops were on the window. I noticed both, though you did not know it. I see the watch now, in your pocket; I cannot tell if the hands move, or only pulsate like a heart throb, to and fro; they stand and point, mute golden fingers, paralyzed and pleading, forever at the hour of three. At this I wonder.

When first you said I was "sinking fast," the words sounded as old and familiar as a nursery tale. I heard you in the hall. The doctor had just left, and you went to mother and took her face in your two arms, and laid your hand across her mouth, as if it were she who had spoken. She carried out and threw up her thin old hands; but you stood still as Eternity. Then I thought again: "It is she who dies; I shall live."

So often and so anxiously we have talked of this thing called death, that now it is all over between us, I cannot understand why we found in it such a source of distress. It bewilders me. I am often bewildered here. Things and the fancies of things possess a relation which as yet is new and strange to me. Here is a mystery.

Now in truth, it seems a simple matter for me to tell you how it has been with me since your lips last touched me, and your arms held me to the vanishing air.

Oh, drawn, pale lips! Nevertheless, dropping arms! I told you I would come. Did ever promise fail I spoke to you? "Come and show me Death," I have come to show you Death. I could show you the fairest sight and sweetest that ever blessed your eyes. Why, look! Is it not fair? Am I terrible? Do you shrink or shiver? Would you turn from me or hide your strained expectant face?

Would she? Does she? Will she?

Ah, how the room widened! I could feel the dying flowers. The birds told you that. It grew great and luminous, day by day. At night the walls throbbed; lights of rose ran round them, and blue fire, and a tracery as of the shadow of little leaves. As the walls expanded, the air fled. But I tried to tell you how little pain I knew or feared. Your haggard face bent over me. I could not speak; when I would, I struggled, and you said, "She suffers!" Dear, it was so very little.

Listen till I tell you how that night came on. The sun fell, and the dew slid down. It seemed to me that it slid into my heart, but still I felt no pain. Where the walls gulfed and receded, the hills came in. Where the old bureau stood, above the glass, I saw a single mountain, with a have of fire, and purple hair. I tried to tell you this, but you said, "She wanders." I laughed in my heart at that, for it was such a blessed wandering! As the night fortified the sun below the mountain's solemn, watching face, the Gates of Space were lifted up before me; everlasting doors of Matter swung for me upon their rusty hinges, and the King of Glories entered in and out. All the kingdoms of the earth, and the power of them, beckoned to me across the mist my failing senses made—ruins and roses, and the brows of Jura and the singing of the Rhine; a shaft of red light on the Sphinx's smile, and caravans in sand-storms, an icy wind at sea, and gold adream in mines that no man knew, and mothers sitting at their doors in valleys, singing babes to sleep, and women in dank cellars selling souls for bread, and the whir wheels in giant factories, and a single prayer somewhere in a den of sin—I would not find it, though I searched—and the smoke of battle, and broken music, and a sense of lilies alone beside a stream at the rising of the sun; and at last your face, dear, all alone.

I discovered then that the walls and roof of the room had vanished quite. The night-wind blew in. The maple in the yard almost brushed my cheek. Stars were about me, and I thought the rain had stopped, yet seemed to hear it upon the seeming of a window which I could not find.

One thing only hung between me and immensity; it was your single, awful, haggard face. I looked my last into our eyes. Stronger than death they held and claimed my soul. I feebly raised my hand to find your own. More cruel than the grave, your wild grasp chained me. Then I struggled, and you cried out, and your face slipped, and I stood free.

I stood upon the floor, beside the bed. That which had been I lay there at rest, but terrible before me. You hid your face, and I saw you slide upon your knees. I laid my hand upon your head; you did not stir. I spoke to you: "Dear, look around a minute!" but you knelt quite still. I walked to and fro about the room, and, meeting my mother, touched her on the elbow. She only said, "She's gone!" and sobbed aloud. "I have not gone!" I cried; but she sat sobbing on.

The walls of the room had settled now, and the ceiling stood in its solid place. The window was shut, but the door stood open. Suddenly I was restless, and I ran.

I brushed you in hurrying by, and hit the little light stand where the tumblers stood. I looked to see if a breath of wind had struck it once.

But I was restless and I ran. In the hall I met the Doctor. This amused me, and I stopped to think it over. "Ah, Doctor," said I, "you need not trouble yourself to go up. I am quite well to-night, you see." But he made no answer; he gave me no glance; he hung up his hat, and laid his hand upon the banister against which I leaned, and went ponderously up.

It was not until he had nearly reached the landing that it occurred to me, still leaning on the banisters, that his heavy arm must have swept against and through me, where I stood against the oaken mouldings which he grasped.

I saw his feet fall on the stairs above me; but they made no sound which reached my ear. "You'll not disturb me now with your big boots, sir," said I, adding, "never fear."

But he disappeared from sight above me, and still I heard no sound.

Now the Doctor had left the front door unlatched.

As I touched it, it blew open wide and solemnly. I passed out and down the steps. I could see that it was chilly, yet I felt no chill. Frost was on the grass, and in the east a pallid streak, like the cheek of one who had watched all night. The flowers in the little square plots hung their heads and drew their shoulders; there was a lonely, late lily which I broke and gathered to my heart. There I breathed upon it, and it looked me kindly in the eye. This, I remember, gave me pleasure. I wandered in and out about the garden in the scattering rain; my feet left no trace upon the dripping grass, and I saw with interest that the garment which I wore gathered no moisture and no cold. I sat musing for a while upon the piazza, in the garden chair, not caring to go in. It was so many months since I had felt able to sit upon the piazza, in the open air. "By-and-by," I thought, I would go in and up stairs to see you once again. The curtains were drawn from the parlor windows and I passed and repassed, looking in.

All this while the cheek of the east was waxing, and the air gathering faint hues and lights about me. I remembered, presently, the old arbor at the garden-foot, where, before I was sick, we sat so much together, and thinking, "She will be surprised to know that I have been down alone," I was restless and I ran again.

I meant to come back and see you, dear, once more. I saw the lights in the room where I had lain sick, overhead; and your shadow on the curtain; and I blessed it, with all the love of life and death, as I bounded by.

The air was thick with sweetness and I ran again.

The field opened before me, and the meadows with broad bosoms, and a river flashed before me like a scimetar, and the woods interlocked their hands to stay me—but being restless, on I ran.

The house dwindled behind me; and the light in my sick room, and your shadow on the curtain. But yet I was restless, and I ran.

In the twinkling of an eye I fell into a solitary place. Sands and rocks were in it, and a tolling wind. I paused and knelt upon the sand, and mused a little in this place. I mused of you, and life and death, and love and agony; of those had departed from me, as then and distant as the fainting wind. A sense of solemn expectation filled the air. A tremor and a trouble wrapped my soul.

"I must be dead!" I said aloud. I had no sooner spoken than I learned that I was not alone.

The sun had risen, and on a ledge of ancient rock, weather-stained and red, there had fallen over against me the outline of a presence lifted up against the sky, and turning suddenly, I saw

Lawful to utter, but utterance has fled! Lawful to utter, but a greater than law restrains me! Am I blotted from your desolate fixed eyes? Lips that my mortal lips have pressed, can you not quiver when I cry? Soul that my mortal soul has loved, can you stand enveloped in my presence, and not spring like a fountain to me? Would you not know how it has been with me since your perishable eyes beheld my perished face? What my eyes have seen, or my ears have heard, or my heart conceived without you? If I have missed or mourned for you? If I have watched or longed for you? Marked your solitary days and sleepless nights, and tearless eyes, and monotonous slow echo of my unanswering name? Would you not know?

Alas! would she? Would she not? My soul misgives me with a matchless, solitary fear. I am called, and I slip from her. I am beckoned, and I lose her.

Her face dims, and her folded, lonely hands fade from my sight.

Time to tell her a guarded thing! Time to whisper a treasured word! A moment to tell her that Death is dumb, for Life is deaf!

A moment to tell her.—Scribner's Monthly for February.

Business Notices.

For all throat diseases and especially Coughs, Colds, &c., there is no known remedy equal to Buchman's Pulmocine, and a few doses will satisfy the most skeptical of its efficacy. For sale at the Union Store.

The Tonic of the Period.—This is a trying season to persons deficient in stamina and out of health. To rally their physical energies by the most approved artificial means is a duty they owe to themselves. Foremost among the tonics and alteratives of the age stands Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a vegetable stimulant and corrective, against which no tenable objection can be urged. There is no risk in recommending it as the best preparation in existence for renovating an enfeebled and broken down system. The most valuable medicinal products that nature has ever yielded to botanical research are blended in this famous elixir, and its stimulating basis is recognized in our public hospitals as the purest of all the varieties of distilled liquors. For general debility, nervous weakness, dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism, biliousness and intermittent fevers it is a positive specific.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial is the concentration of sixteen composite parts and can be manufactured only in large quantities. So immediate and powerful is its action that one bottle (selling for 50 cts.) is more potent than any other curative of throat and lung diseases on sale.

Harmless as Summer Dew. Yet in the highest degree disinfectant and preservative, Sozodont keeps the the teeth always healthy and spotless, and the gums ruddy and free from canker.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

The best articles are often found in small packages. Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial, the best preparation for the cure of all throat diseases, is put up in 6 oz. bottles, selling for 50 cts each. It has no equal as a remedy.

No sickening potion is necessary to relieve the throat and lungs from the irritation which produces violent fits of coughing. Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar, the grand specific of the age for all pulmonary disorders, is a pleasant and palatable elixir. Crittenton's 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

Castoria is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

Change of Business.—Having disposed of the Stock and good will of the Job Office connected with the Daily Chronicle to Mr. Charles W. LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Fourth of July.

The ladies who met with the committee of one hundred on the evening of the 18th, drew up a list of seventy or eighty members of the general committee and adjourned to Monday evening next, when they will organize.

The Boston sons are moving in the matter of procuring music for the coming REUNION, and a subscription list is being circulated. The grandsons, resident in Boston, propose to organize a battalion to do escort duty for the sons who are to return from that city.

The Lawrence Eagle says there are many of Portsmouth's sons and daughters in that city who will return "next Fourth," and "enjoy whatever of good cheer and a good time the liberality and enterprise of her government and citizens will provide—and we opine it will be of the right down good stamp."

A movement is being made among the resident sons who entered the High school in 1854, for a class reunion during the stay of those who return.

At a recent meeting of the committee of one hundred, complaint was made that in the list of sons thus far published are the names of former residents who are not natives of Portsmouth and did not marry natives. One member feared that the coming host might be as an elephant on the hands of our citizens, but as the programme has not been decided on, the number who have thus far responded individually to the invitations sent out are but few, and the difficulty of deciding when and where invitations should stop is so great, no action was deemed advisable in the matter.

The programme committee have discussed and partially decided on a procession, regatta, collation, fireworks and promenade concert as some of the principal features of the day's enjoyment. The new company of State militia recently organized has tendered its services for escort duty through its commander, Major Daniel J. Vaughan. We presume the intention of the committee is exclude from the collation all who do not march in the procession, as it is manifestly impossible to find room for all who choose to visit home.

The ladies have entered into the arrangements for the reception with alacrity and enthusiasm, and one important duty, that of visiting our citizens and ascertaining how many returning sons and daughters can be accommodated at each house, will be committed to their care.

The "glorious Fourth" will occur on Friday and the REUNION is likely to extend into the following week, as the feeling is rapidly increasing to "make a week of it," because Portsmouth will have reached the dignity and age of a quarter of a century, and our twin sister city, Dover, seems anxious to join in the celebration. The committee are in receipt of letters from all directions and almost every country under the sun, in which the coming REUNION is referred to with pleasurable anticipation. We shall publish some of these letters as received.

Laconics.

The case of Henry B. Remick vs. Henry Remick of Kittery, which has been pending in the Supreme Court of York county for some time, and which was referred to Hon. C. R. Ayer and William Emery of Alfred, as referees, has been decided. They have awarded the plaintiff the sum of $4500. This was a suit where the plaintiff claimed damages for being shot by the defendant.

The insane woman arrested on the 17th by officer Entwistle has been waiting at the city farm for friends to take her home. In the meanwhile she set fire to that portion of the house occupied by old ladies, but the fire was opportunely discovered and put out.

A fine of eight dollars and costs and an order to procure bonds in the sum of $300 was Judge Page's sentence of George Butler for assault on Richard Kingsbury.

Senator Cragin telegraphs that one if not two of the new sloops will be built at this naval station. The bill which passed Congress provided that the vessels should be built of seasoned live oak, and there is enough here—though very little in private ship-yards.

The new brick church at Portsmouth is nearly completed. The edifice is a very handsome one. It is built of Connecticut brown stone and Nova Scotia free stone. All the outside work is completed and the work of plastering the basement is going on. Messrs Mead, Mason & Co., of Boston are the contractors. They are doing their work in first class style, and are covering themselves with deserved honor by the honest and honorable manner in which they are fulfilling their contract. The building is in style of middle ages, with alcoves, sides, aisles, grained roof, basement; and on the outside it is flanked with magnificent buttresses of brick coming out three feet from the main building. The top of the Cross will be 180 feet from the ground, and all the windows will be of stained glass of the 13th century. The church will be about 120 feet long by 65 wide, and when completed will be "a gem of the first water." The cost of the whole will be about $50,000. Rev. Canon Walsh is the worthy and zealous pastor at Portsmouth, and none has succeeded better, nor is any better able to succeed than this good priest.—World.

A deaf man, giving his name as Henry Grek, was furnished with lodgings at the police station in this city on Monday evening, the 17th. He was from Portland, bound for Boston, and left for the latter place next morning, carrying a black valise and a pair of boots. It is probable that this was the man who was struck by a train at Rowley, Mass., on Wednesday.

We have received Geo. P. Rowell & Co's Gazetteer, giving all the towns in the United States and British America in which newspapers are published with the population, characteristics and numbers of papers. George P. THE INVESTIGATION.—After Senator Patterson had finished his testimony before the Senate Committee on the 17th, Oakes Ames was sworn. He had no recollection of leaving Credit Mobilier stock with Morton, Bliss & Co. He endorsed the stock over to Patterson and would show the date. Witness testified as follows:

I saw the envelope Patterson received. He showed it to me recently and said he was mistaken. He thought he never had the stock, but found that he had and had called to rectify his statement and to state that I was correct in my testimony.

Witness said Patterson told him what the $800 was for when it was paid over.

Question by Mr. Stockton—When Patterson called on you, did he say anything to you to indicate how he had changed his mind?

A.—He showed me the letter from Morton and the stock certificates endorsed in my hand-writing. He said he thought I must have put it there, but I cannot bring anything to mind to convince me that I ever did.

Ames testified that he sold the members stock on account of personal friendship as there was no legislation pending respecting the railroad.

L. P. Morton was recalled and produced the Credit Mobilier stock certificate with the envelope enclosing it, left on deposit with him, which he said he had just received from Patterson. He identified the envelope and certificates. On the former was the following:

"Property of Hon. J. W. Patterson; see letter to him May 12, 1871; 30 shares of the Credit Mobilier of America; $2000 U. P. railroad and income bonds, Nos. 1265 and 1556; 300 shares of the U. P. Railroad Co., sold. Remarks, delivered $2000 Union Pacific railroad to Hon. J. W. Patterson, Aug. 10th, 1871. C. C. M."

There also appeared on the envelope the following words, which were scratched out:

"Delivered 300 Union Pacific Railroad Company to Hon. J. W. Patterson, Jan. 15th, 1872.

Ames was called and identified the handwriting on the stock certificate as his. He held this stock for Patterson.

In the House, Thursday, Fernando Wood introduced a resolution to impeach Vice President Colfax. Its immediate consideration was moved and defeated—yeas 106, nays 109. Six republicans voted "yea" with the democrats.

Oakes Ames is said to compare the Poland report to the conviction of a man for murder, without finding the corpse of his victim.

The Amateur's Monthly Magazine, No. 1 of Vol. 1, has reached us. It is published at Concord, at 50 cents per year or five cents per copy, and is edited by boys. It is filled with reading matter mostly original,—poems and sketches, and the first instalment of a serial,—and makes a creditable appearance for a first issue. Address "The Amateur's Monthly Magazine, Lock Box 1277, Concord, N. H."

The British Quarterly Review (Am. reprint) for January contains: The Bampton Lectures on Dissent; Frederick Denison Maurice; The Ionoclast Reconstruction of the Navy; The Emperor Alexander and the policy of Russia; G. H. Augustus von Ewald; A Contribution Towards a Theory of Poetry; Local taxation, and Contemporary Literature. Leonard Scott Pub. Co., 140 Fulton Street, N. Y.; $4 per year.

Wood's Household Magazine for March contains "A Man's Problem," which enumerates the difficulties of household work with the view of ascertaining whether a science of housekeeping is possible. "Moral Character" gives us a few of the best and most comprehensive rules of life. Gail Hamilton discusses the relations of Duty, Matrimony and housekeeping. Hadlandall is a treatise of the early settlement of the State of New Jersey. Next we have "Love's Philosophy," in discussing upon "My Beth" or's Keeper," H. a. Schuyler Colfax pulls of the only way to resist temptation—"Touch not, taste not, handle not the unclean thing." "Dunsbury House" is a five hundred dollar Prize Temperance Story. For specimen, enclose two stamps and address S. S. Wood, Newburgh, N. Y.

"The Best and Cheapest Hotel in America."—There are a great many hotels in this country whose proprietors, with a sense of confidence, that is truly touching, will believe that the above heading refers to their particular hotel, and no other. If these proprietors were all assembled in a body at a certain hotel and should blow a trumpet to sound the above quotation, would each and every proprietor there cry out as if with one voice: "This's my house!" We say, "No!" But our "travelling correspondent," whose perambulations extend through every quarter of the globe, say, it is "Alec, too true!" and we submit to his superior judgment.

We mean, however, to speak of New York Hotels. There is one hotel on Broadway, that certainly is the largest, best and cheapest first class hotel in that city.

We wish to say, and experience will bear us out, that when a guest arrives as elegantly furnished room, with meals, at his command, from early breakfast every hour till midnight, with a perfect parlor on wheels for an elevator, to carry him from one floor to another, and all for $3 00 per day, we think the proprietor of that hotel may come forward and claim the above title for his house. The Grand Central Hotel, on Broadway, upon which has been lavished nearly two millions (2,000,000) of dollars, is that it discriminates between the upper and lower floors, fixing the prices at $3 00, $3 50 and $4 00 per day, according to location. The Grand Central is the only hotel we know of that does business on this system.

—A Providence woman was puzzled to know why she attracted such general attention during a shopping expedition. An hour or two earlier she had been "down street," and returning had taken off her overskirt, but left the bundle of papers forming a bustle still in position.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the sure SPECIFIC PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alexative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in paradise" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

WISTAR'S BALSAM

OF

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

CONSUMPTION!

and acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most Reliable Preparation ever introduced for the RELIEF and CURE of all

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

ALDEN'S IMPERISHABLE EVAPORATED!

FRUITS & VEGETABLES.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when put in water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

DIRECTIONS:—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been Sapé-matured or ripened though the Alden Pneumatic Process, and prepared perfectly clean without exposure to flies or dirt.

These are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you cannot tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

IRON in the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS.
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution for the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or price—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and crowns its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the heaviest and lightest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.
N. B.: Those purchasing for cash, before the 1st of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulins, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, harmless pimples, cure eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging tortures, the piercing distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedy never fails to add or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an Absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 702 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, Proprietor; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary.

I Never Talk.

I hate the petty scandals
Always flying to and fro,
Stinging like the vile mosquitos;
I never talk, oh, no!
Now there's pretty Nettie Miller—
I've heard her—oneen say
That her pink and white complexion
Could all be washed away.
But I don't believe a word of it;
She's like the lilies fair,
Though she shouldn't black her eyebrows,
And wear two shades of hair.
I don't wonder that the horrid men
Are always poking fun
At their better halves, for gracious me!
How women's tongues do run!
Only an hour ago I heard That Mrs. William Lee
Is seen on Broadway every day
With handsome Doctor D.
I don't believe a word of it;
What would his patients do
If he spent every day with her,
And every evening, too?
And then young dosos, they say he drinks,
And don't support his wife;
I never saw him drunk but ten
Or twelve times in my life;
And I have known them quite a month—
Yes, one month and a day—
And as for her, she dresses well,
Somebody has to pay.
Dear me, dear me, this world is queer!
How can folks gossip so?
It's wrong, unkind, uncristianlike.
I never talk, oh no!

—Baron Caloo says the Russian soldier is always hungry, so when he discovers a field of cucumbers, watermelons or gourds, he eats them without washing, with the rind on. If with this the poor wretch has a little salt and a mouthful of brandy, he would not exchange with a prince. These men are mere children. They must be led, but they obey readily." Every four months they receive their pay of three paper rubles—2s 10d. The soldier who is not on active service wears always, summer and winter, a cow-skin cloak of a mixed gray and red color. This is his garment and his bed. Once a year he receives a new cloak, with three pairs of ankle boots of Russian leather, with excellent soles. He does not use them, for he takes great care of his kit. His ample belts are always dazzling white, his arms shine like a mirror, and are always in good condition.

—In consequence of Stokes' infatuation with Josie Mansfield, his wife procured a divorce. The same steamer that carried that document to her in Europe, carried also the news of the murder of Fisk. On account of the same, Mrs. Sutton, a sister of Stokes, has been discarded by her husband for adhering so strongly to the fortunes of her hapless brother. The senior Stokes has been rendered bankrupt thereby, one brother, a young man of great promise, died some three months ago of grief and shame, while the remaining members of the family are in the deepest distress. Stokes, the murderer, was not very many years ago, a handsome and affectionate boy, and the pride of his parents. Verily, the steps of her "that lieth in wait" "take hold on hell."

INSECT PLAGUES.—A mighty devourer is mentioned by travellers in the arid regions in Africa, and especially where there are so many annoyances man can scarcely keep a foothold. It is a tiny insect, the size of a grain of barley, called arda, (ternes falcale), which bires its way through all opposition. They only forage at night. In an incredibly short time they construct galleries and corrode and destroy whatever is in their way. Besides being industrious, and working in concert to demolish obstacles that would make a carpenter hesitate, they are excessively obstinate. If their operations are interrupted or their tunnels broken in, they make repairs that would astonish a railroad engineer. Nothing comes amiss to the arda, saddles, boxes, boots, overcoats, gunstocks, hats and stockings disappear like dew in the sunlight. Cast iron boxes, tin cannisters and percussion caps rather stagger them.

—One of the Japanese students in San Francisco has proved a bad boy. He fought and made so much disturbance that he has been fined and sent to prison. The San Francisco Bulletin says of his ability to meet his fate: "He has a silver watch and chain, which will partly pay his fine, and he has two dice in his pocket, which will earn the balance of the amount if he has a decent show among his fellow prisoners."

—A Chinese creditor in San Francisco seized his debtor's wife, put her up at auction, and sold her out to satisfy his claim. She escaped from the purchaser, however, and now her auctioneer is on trial.

—The Titusville Herald describes the weather as "pleasant, sunshiny, warm, dirty, muddy, sloppy, spring-like."

—York, of Kansas, is the blue-eyed boy who fixed Old Subsidy's destiny. Western Paper.

—A new eighty-acre park is to be laid out in the eastern district of London.

A mode of more safety and more effectually warming railway carriages than by stove or hot water has, it is said, been widely adopted in Germany. The invention consists of the use of a composite fuel, which only smoulders slowly, and is encased in an iron tray, enclosed in a copper box "hermetically closed." The heat is said to last for twenty-four hours if necessary. The fuel is called the "charcoal purgettes." At $65 per ton the cost is said to be almost nominal, and the apparatus costs only six dollars to each compartment.

The Boston Transcript thinks that, for a would-be military despot, the President's message in regard to affairs in Utah seems to be exceedingly civil in its tone. He wants to see fairly administered law, and not bayonets, in keeping peace and order.

The St. Louis Democrat thinks the vindication of Schuyler Colfax is all that could be asked by his best friend.

Indiana held an election Tuesday on a constitutional amendment to prevent the saddling of the canal debt on the State, which was adopted by a fair majority.

A BIT OF RAILROAD HISTORY.—Wednesday about thirty of the Boston and Maine freight cars were taken over the Maine Central Railroad without being way-billed. Yesterday morning fifteen more arrived; so there are now about thirty cars awaiting transportation. Yesterday a number of freight cars left this city over the P. S. & P., marked for the Boston and Maine at South Berwick junction. They were carried by to South Reading, where they now are, the Boston and Maine refusing to take them from any place except South Berwick, where they were directed to be left.

Until about two weeks since the Boston and Maine confidently expected to make a connection with the Maine Central. The Presidents of the two roads held a consultation, and it was decided that the manner and place of the junction should be left to the discretion of roadmasters. The road-masters met and decided upon the connecting point. Meanwhile the Boston and Maine President received a communication from the Maine Central President, saying that the Directors of the latter road had decided that they could not make the proposed connection. Still the preparations went on. The frogs, switches, &c., were prepared, and last Sunday was the day designated to make the connection. Saturday the road-master of the Maine Central appeared at the connecting point, and announced that he should be unable to make the connection. Thereupon the Boston and Maine made a connection with the Ogdensburg, ran their cars upon that connection, and requested the Maine Central to take them. The Maine Central declined to do so, alleging that no legal connection had been made. This is the situation of affairs to-day.

The opposition to the connection undoubtedly comes from the Eastern road, with whom the Maine Central have made a profitable contract. It is understood that the Eastern threates to break the contract, if the proposed connection is made.—Portland Press.

STOKES' CASE.—It is stated that the counsel of Stokes has ascertained that the woman has been found who picked up the pistol alleged to belong to Fisk upon the landing of the ladies' entrance to the hotel. Her presence at the hotel is verified by registering and her absence from the preceding trials will be satisfactorily explained. Other important evidence is said to have been discovered, and it is now believed that a new trial for Stokes is secured.

You are generally looking at something very intently when it happens—perhaps you are smiling to yourself. Then your left foot shoots out to one side with a suddenness that creates a sickness in the family. Ice commences to form on your spine and perspiration on your brow, and your scalp lifts enough to permit a streak of cold air to pass under. The other leg goes out at this juncture, your head snaps violently to the front, and there is a faint impression on your mind that the world is about to come to an end with nobody in charge. Miles of sidewalk spin out from you like lightning. Three story buildings jump over your head in swift succession. People disappear suddenly and with appalling mystery. Then your eyes close, your consciousness wanes, your soul goes out in one expiring quiver, and—and you arrive. The hard reality of the sense is then forced upon you with unpleasant abruptness. Everything is in its place but your spine. You get up and move off with a sickly attempt at a smile, feeling at the time that the back of your head is laughing from ear to ear, and feeling that the hardest thing is not the sidewalk, but to keep from rubbing yourself.—Sunbury News.

State News.

Recently, two small children, aged from three to four years, followed a small dog into a pasture lot, at Northwood, where, wandering about, they became lost. A light snow had fallen, in which they were tracked, and before night they were found sitting in a lonely place, yet so benumbed with the cold that they were unable to stand.

A meeting of the stockholders of the National Granite Bank at Exeter will be held on the 26th of March, to see if they will vote to repair the loss which the bank has sustained in its capital stock. The President of the Savings Bank has recovered $9000 of State bonds deposited by Sante as collateral with his broker in Boston.

Mr. J. Morrill, of the Atlantic House, Salisbury Beach, is the happy possessor of twin full-grown clams, joined together at the waist, as it were, a la the Siamese.

The First Congressional District last Spring gave Gov. Straw a plurality of 963 votes over Gov. Weston. In the Fall, with a lighter vote, Gen. Grant had 2621 plurality over Greeley, who received the combined votes of both Democrats and Liberals. These figures show the certainty of electing Mr. Wood to Congress by a large majority if the Republicans will bring out a full vote. Not all the dark tricks of the opposition and their liberal supporters can give Hibbard the least possible chance of success if the Republicans are only active and faithful.—Dover Enquirer.

SWEDISH HELP has supplied many New England families with satisfactory service. New Bedford alone called for one hundred domestics last fall from Mr. Bergland, whose card appears in our columns to-day.

SENATOR PATTERSON.—He too has occupied an exalted place in the regard of his party, and held the esteem of Christian people to a degree seldom vouchsafed men in political life. His showing in this pitiable business, truth, candor, and the best interests of the republican party of New Hampshire compel us to say, is but little less scandalous than that of Colfax. To characterize it mildly, he has dissembled in a manner that would bring discomfiture upon cloaked that they could not make the proposed connection. Still the preparations went on. The frogs, switches, &c., were prepared, and last Sunday was the day designated to make the connection. Saturday the road-master of the Maine Central appeared at the connecting point, and announced that he should be unable to make the connection. Refreshing.

A Concord correspondent of the Boston Journal says:—

Dover and Portsmouth were not settled by persons distinguished for morality or religion. They did not come like the Pilgrims:

"Bearing the staffs of the desert's gloom
With the spoils of the ivory chest."

They were adventurous traders rather, who broke their English homes in quest of better fortune—choosing the solitude of the Western coast for the scene of their experiment. A few years satisfied them that the fisheries and manufacture of salt afforded meagre profits compared with the fur and peltry trade with the Indians. An Indian hunter would give a fine otter skin for half a gallon of rum. On this there was more profit than on a week's work at any kind of labor. So these two towns grew to be trading posts for the sale liquor to the natives. One of them for many years was known through the New England settlements by the uncertainable name of "Rum Corner."

But, however profitable the traffic may have been to the white colonist, it was terribly destructive to the red men. In his history of New Hampshire, Rev. John M. Whiton relates an incident which occurred in 1568, as strikingly indicative of the good sense of the Indian chiefs. He says:

"Two English traders having established a 'tricking' house among the Penacooks, some of the chiefs took a journey to Portsmouth to request that no spirituous liquors might be sold. They were disregarded; and not long after, a white man was killed by an Indian, in a drunken carousal, within the present limits of Concord. The chiefs then renewed their entreaties to furnish no more rum, and even complained to the General Court, urging the plea that the Mohawks might come upon them when drunk, and destroy them. Who can suppose the wish that this early temperance movement had been attended with better success? The only apology is that the public mind was then unenlightened on the subject, and the traffic in ardent spirits was not viewed as an immortality."

At this early period, while our ancestors traded largely in liquors with the nations, they as yet drank comparatively little themselves. With the majority, poverty favored abstinence, and the custom of passing around the bottle at social meetings had not obtained currency. It was more than a century after the first settlement before rum came into common use as a beverage in any of the New England colonies.

Work will be resumed in the department of Construction and Repair, at the Navy Yard, on Monday.

SMALL-POX.

NOTICE TO PHYSICIANS AND OTHERS.

The Mayor and Aldermen call the attention of Physicians and Householders to the Law of the State and the Ordinance of the City relative to cases of Small-pox occurring in this city, as follows:

It shall be the duty of every physician who attends upon any person sick with the small pox to immediately report the same to the Health Officers or the Mayor and Aldermen; and if any physician shall neglect so to do he shall forfeit the sum of one hundred dollars.

When any householder shall know that any person within his family is sick of the small pox, he shall immediately give notice to the Health Officers; if any such householder shall refuse or neglect to do so he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars.

The Board of Aldermen have requested the Mayor to cause IMMEDIATE PROSECUTION to be instituted for every violation of the above provisions.

MARCELLUS BUFFORD, City Clerk.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

City Council.

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen received a communication Thursday evening, from the Blake Crusher Company, notifying them that the stone crushing machine used by the city is an infringement on their patent and that a royalty of $600 must be paid them. The communication was placed on file and it was voted to notify Rawson & Hittinger of the demand.

The recommendation of the Board of Assessors that the taxes paid by the Rockingham Ten Cents Savings Bank for 1870 and 1871 be refunded, was adopted.

The resignation of Charles W. Bailey, measurer of wood and surveyor of lumber, was accepted.

The resignation of John E. Giddings as Aldermen, to take effect March 1st, was accepted.

Voted to pay John Clark $50 in full for all claims against the City for removing from his house at the request of the city authorities.

The petition of E. A. Tilton for the use of the State street ward room was granted.

There was no quorum of the Common Council on Thursday evening, and the members present agreed to request the Mayor to call a special meeting of the Council for Monday evening,—subsequently changed to Tuesday, as the ladies' committee on the Return of the Sons had previously arranged to use the Council chamber on Monday evening. The present City Government has at least one item of business which should be attended to promptly, and that is the passage of an ordinance relative to the organization of the government and the meeting of the two branches in convention for the choice of city officers. The act of the legislature changing the time of the municipal election disarranged the present rules and ordinances relating to organization and meeting in convention, and if new ones are not adopted before the present officials retire, there may possibly be an embarrassing snarl in city affairs.

The Annual Masonic Ball

Will take place on Thursday evening, March 6th. Brethren of the Order can procure tickets from any member of the committee of arrangements, who are working actively to make this Ball as entirely successful as any previous one has been, with every indication that they will make out. The Masonic Ball is the event of the season for the devotees of Terpsichore, in this vicinity, the best of music and refreshments being furnished as matters of course, and the best of company always having the best of good times. The lady friends of the brethren, in their excursions thro' the mysterious apartments from which on other occasions they are excluded, doubtless experience something of that exquisite pleasure which filled the breast of Mrs. Bluebeard when she went for her husband's cupboard, without their incurring any danger of such unpleasant consequences as followed the gratification of Mrs. Bluebeard's curiosity.

Police Court.

Five liquor dealers of Seabrook were brought before Judge Page on Friday and were each bound over for trial in the sum of $200 each.

Richard Spellman was held in the sum of $100 on the charge of stealing a coat from Martin Garrity.

Laconics.

The recent destruction by fire of the scoolhouse near Spruce Creek, Kittery, is believed to have been the work of an incendiary. There had been no fire kindled in the building from the Friday previous to its destruction until Tuesday, when it was burned, and a boy who had the key and was to have built a fire that morning, had not yet arrived at the schoolhouse when it was discovered to be burning. A little girl, the child of one of the nearest residents, found a door open and the house filled with smoke, and at once gave the alarm. The neighbors quickly responded and succeeded in saving most of the scholars' books, but those of the teacher were destroyed. The fire was between the inner and outer walls of the building, where it could not be got at, when the first man arrived.

Our modest weekly contemporary can't see that it would benefit the public to depreciate the Gas Company's profits to ordinarily reasonable dividends—say eight per cent., with no surplus. The Gas Co. evidently think differently, as they have lowered their rates. Good stock, isn't it, neighbor?

This is a legal holiday. George would have been 141 years old had he lived till now.

The Lenten season is approaching, and people generally are hurrying up to get their wickedness all in.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

—Lieut Commander D. C. Woodrow has been ordered to the Sabine receiving ship, at this station.

—All but one of the church organs in our city are played by ladies, they being natives and residents of Portsmouth. This speaks well for our home musical talent.

—An unusually large supply of deer meat is weekly received in this market. Epicureans say it is the best in quality and flavor ever sold here.

—The small-pox, brought in bags of cotton from the West Indies, caused a great mortality in Portsmouth and Greenland, in 1692.

—An unusually large number of sleighing parties have been entertained at the Hampton Beach hotels this winter; each night for the past three weeks they have come from Newburyport, Amesbury, Kensington and other neighboring towns.

—A generous number of names have already been secured for the proposed first class concert here at an early day by the Temple Quartette, of Boston, and other talent. The list is yet open for those who wish to secure tickets at Preston's, and Butler & Laighton's.

—Many of our exchanges are filled with glowing criticisms on the Barnabee concert troupe which has been performing in the New England States. "The home of her adoption" would be pleased to welcome the "UnprotectedFemale" whose smile is "so childlike and bland."

—Mr. Nathaniel Wiggin of Greenland, has sold his premium yoke of three year old steers to Hon. Frank Jones of this city. Competent judges say they are the finest pair in New England. Mr. Wiggin has also sold his promising five year old filly Lady Peirce to Mr. C. H. Hayes of this city. She is of Meader stock. Mr. Wiggin has raised many choice animals.

—The well-known Jubilee Singers, from Fisk University, are expecting to give a concert of their unique music in this city next month. Their tour through the North for the purpose of raising $20,000 for founding the institution, has been successful, and they are now endeavoring to raise an equal sum for its further benefits. Pathos and nature combine with melody to make the singing of this body something one can expect to hear nowhere else.

—If the atmosphere of some of our public schools, where but little ventilation is given, could be analyzed, it might be impossible to estimate the elements detrimental to health to be found. It is out of the question to expect children to be bright and "goaheadative" in a close room containing from fifty to sixty scholars, or even less, without the necessary escapes for foul air. As well expect a lamp to burn when lowered into a well filled with gases.

—Rev. C. M. Dinsmore will deliver an address on "The Duties of the Young," at his church next Sunday forenoon at the usual hour.

—A youth of twenty summers or thereabouts dropped a letter into the Post Office box Wednesday morning, and with it a five cent piece. The evidently inexperienced fellow, after vainly waiting for some time at the delivery window for the return of the two cents due him, called with much spunk to one of the clerks, with the remark, "I put some money in there with a letter." After some trouble the letter and "change" were brought to light, and the satisfied youth passed on, feeling perhaps how profitable a thing it is to "live and learn."

—We are reminded of the familiar couplet of school days:

"Swift we go o'er the fleecy snow,
With merry shout and laughter," when viewing the lively scenes at Lincoln Hill recently, where large and happy parties of lads and lasses have been enjoying the benefits and pleasures of coasting. Double runners have been in demand, and cushioned seats have not wanted fair occupants, the calls in fact fully equalling the accommodations. No serious accidents are recorded, although the crowds did nightly increase while the moon and the good track lasted.

—This has been a severe winter for operations on the Portsmouth & Dover railroad, still the work has been generally prosecuted with vigor. Steam power is being used at the Dover end of the line for driving the piles, more than thirty feet into the soft bottom, on which the stone abutments are to be laid.

—Portsmouth people must like to pay taxes, else they would not insist upon keeping all their City Farm, while paying also two-fifths of the County Farm expenses. Most of those who have examined the subject—including two past Mayors—have recommended selling at least a portion of the City Farm.

—A Dover correspondent says, "There seem to be some grounds for the rumor the Boston & Maine and Portsmouth & Dover (or the Eastern) railroad companies will unite in building a union passenger depot in Dover. The present depot of the B. and M. road is inadequate; the directors acknowledge it, and will very soon erect a new one in any case. That of the P. and D. Railroad would be very near to it; hence the movement.

—The salaries of assistant lighthouse keepers, vacancies in which now exist at Whale's Back, White Island, and Isles of Shoals, range from $450 to $500 per annum, with quarters, and, in some cases, rations and fuel supplied. Parties on first entering the service are graded as assistants, and take their chance for promotion to principal keeper. But it not unfrequently happens that by the refusal of promotion by an assistant, who is located to his mind, the new "examinee" is given charge of a lighthouse station. The examination is not hard. To read, write and cypher in elementary arithmetic, to be of moral character and industrious is all that is needed. The office is permanent and depends not upon change of administration.

—At a meeting of the "Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals," held Monday evening at the office of the Secretary, Dr. A. P. Stevens, a committee was appointed to act upon reported cases of neglect to furnish proper shelter and food for animals. A committee consisting of Mrs. J. J. Pickering, Miss Eliza Rice and Mayor Marvin, were appointed to assist in the establishment of similar societies in other cities in the State. Mrs. J. J. Pickering, Mrs. F. W. Miller, Miss Jessie Williams, Rev. Carlos Martyn, Rev. Canon Walsh, and Joseph C. Tiffany, Jr., were constituted a committee to aid in promoting the general interests of the local society. It was voted that the prize essay furnished to this organization by Mrs. Knight, be printed in pamphlet form for gratuitous distribution.

—The Universalist church of this city, since its incorporation, has sent out as many ministers perhaps as any other society in the country. Among the number we are reminded of Rev. A. A. Folsom, who died in Springfield, Mass., Rev. Wm. C. Hanscom, Rev. Elbridge G. Brooks and Rev. Benjamin F. Bowles, now of Philadelphia, Rev. Massena Goodrich, now of Pawtucket, R. I., Rev. Woodbury M. Fernald of Boston, and Rev. John G. Adams, recently of Lowell, Mass. Rev. T. Starr King spent a part of his early life here. The late Rev. T. H. Miller, though for some years in early life a Congregationalist, but afterward a convert to Universalism, should, perhaps be added to the number, being a frequent occupant of the Portsmouth and other pulpits of this denomination. So also the late Timothy G. Senter, although not ordained, was wont to fill the pulpit to great acceptance.

—The following table of local distances, from measurements, (scale of 5280 feet to the mile) made some time since by Alfred M. Hoyt, Esq., will be of interest, for reference:—

FROM THE ATHENÆUM TO
South Mill Bridge, 2700 ft. or 1-2 mile and 60 ft.
Newcastle Br. toll-gate, 4880 ft., or 1 m. less 400 ft.

Cass Street (by Cong. & Middle) 3960 ft. or 3-4 m.

Hon. J. W. Emery's, through Vaughan St., 4550 ft. or 3-4 mile and 500 ft.

Centre of Sagamore Bridge 9500 or 1 3-4 miles and 320 feet.
Rye Line, 11680 ft. or 2 1-4 miles.

—Messrs. J. B. Burleigh & Co. have so arranged a dollar sale, that the purchaser is sure of a picture priced at a dollar, and also stands a chance of obtaining one of the elegant chromos and oil paintings of ten, twenty or a hundred fold the dollar's value. It is worth the while to step in and see the fine collection, even if one does not wish to buy.

Heartbreak Hill.

BY OLIVER WEATHER.

In Ipswich town, not far from the sea,
Rises a hill which the people call
Heartbreak Hill, and its history
Is as old, old legend, known to all.

The self-same dreary, worn-out tale
Told by all peoples in every clime,
Still to us told till the age fail,
And there comes a pause in the march of Time.

It was a sailor who was the heart
Of an Indian maiden, fair and young;
And she saw him row the sea depart,
While event in her ears his promise rung;

For he cried, as he kissed her wet tears dry,
"I'll come back, sweetheart, keep your faith!"
She said, "I will watch while the moons go by,"
Her love was stronger than life or death;

So this poor dark Alcadne kept
Her watch from the hill-top rugged and steep;
Slowly the empty moments crept
While she studied the changing face of the deep,

Fastening her eyes upon every speck
That crossed the ocean within her ken;
Might not her lover be walking the deck,
Surely and swiftly returning again?

The kine of Winsle lowed, lonely and dim,
In the southeast distance far and gray,
And on the horizon's uttermost rim
The low rock heap of Boon Island lay.

And north and south and west and east
Stretched sea and land in the blinding light,
Till evening fell, and her vigil ceased,
And many a hearth glow lit the night,

To mark those set and glittering eyes
Fast growing wild as her hope went out.
Hateful seemed earth, and the hollow skies,
Like her own heart, empty of night but doubt.

Oh, but the weary, merciless days,
With the sea above, with the sea alar,—
No change to her fixed and wistful gaze
From the morning to the evening star!

Oh, the winds that blew, and the birds that sang,
The calms that smiled, and the storms that raged,
The bells from the town beneath, that rang
Through the summer's heat and the winter's cold!

The flash of the plunging surges white,
The soaring gull's wild boding cry,
She was weary of all; there was no delight
In heaven or earth, and she longed to die.

What was it to her though the Dawn should paint
With delicate beauty skies and seas?
But the sweet, and sweet splendors faint
Make her soul sick with memories.

Drowning in mirrored purple a sail
In the distant east, where the shadows grew,
Till the twilight shrinked it cold and pale,
And the tide of her anguish rose anew.

Like a slender statue carved of stone
She sat, with hardly a motion or breath.
She wept no tearless the main to moan,
But her love was stronger than life or death.

He never came back! Yet faithful still,
She watched from the hill-top her life away,
And the townsfolk christened it Heartbreak Hill,
And it bears the name to this very day.

—Atlantic Monthly for March.

The law requires that Evans shall be hung at the State Prison by the sheriff of Rockingham county. At his execution, none can be present except those who are designated in the law. They are the Attorney General or Solicitor, clerk of the courts, and sangram, not exceeding twelve reputable citizens, the relatives of the prisoner, his counsel, and such priest or clergyman as he may desire, and no others.

—While it is undeniable that the power of money has been rendered hideously conspicuous in all public affairs, there is yet no reason to believe that the taint has affected the mass of the people or rendered them insensible to the shame and infamy of the exposures. Philadelphia North American.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!
Relieve Your Lungs.
For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,
Pulmocine Cordial
is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all then afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL
is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial
Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.
Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sedorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.
The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pasture" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

CONSUMPTION
by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proved by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.
Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry
does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.
BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

IRON in the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, RUMORS;
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ill," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, so crowding out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
OF
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantage over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.
N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tinctures of Lupulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so universally approved, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, Bunions, Nails, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Home-Cure are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual; and just now with the success they have earned from an appreciative public. They "realize in healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by the application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the most severe Chilblains on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

The Chronicle

The Hidden Life.

BY GEORGE MACDONALD.

One shining day,
Shining with sun and snow, he came and said,
"What think you father—is death very sore?"
"My boy," the father answered, "we will try
To make it easy with the present God,
But, as I judge, though more by hope than sight,
It seems much harder to the lookers-on,
Forgot to the man who dies. Each parting breath,
We call agonyo, may be to him who knows,
A sigh of pleasure; or, at most, the sob
With which the unclothed spirit, step by step,
Wades forth into the cool eternal sea.
I think, my boy, death has two sides to it—
One sunny, and one dark; as the round earth
Is every day half sunny and half dark.
We, on the dark side, call the mystery death;
They on the other, looking down in light,
Wait the glad birth, with other tears than ours."
"Do near me, father, when I die," he said.
"I will, my boy, until a better Father
Draws your hand out of mine. Be near in turn,
When my time comes; you in the light beyond,
And knowing all about it; I all dark."

A PUFF.—If women ever vote in Massachusetts, it will be owing to the opposition of the Rev. Justin D. Fulton, D. D., a person who is said to be more obscene in his State house speeches than in his church, but more profane in the church than in the State house. In his speech before the committee on woman suffrage of the Massachusetts legislature, on Thursday, he was both obscene and profane at times, and always idiotic. There are portions of his harangue which we would not venture to publish. He began by informing his hearers that he came to them with divine authority and was commissioned to speak the voice of God. He then proceeded to deliver a physiological argument against female suffrage, in which we must decline to follow him. He attributed the falling off of the birth-rate of Massachusetts to the movement in favor of female suffrage—he always is sure of whatever rubbish he talks—that it accounted for the excess of female babies with which that State has been twitted. He had a good word for polygamy, which he pronounced the cure for the ills of female suffrage. In conclusion he paid a delicate compliment to Mrs. Fulton, whom he said he had lately rewarded for being the happy mother of seven babes, by returning his and her house in the latest style. If the "great cause" to which Susan B. Anthony has devoted her life is cursed with a Woodhull, it is only fair to remember that the anti-woman's-rights people are blessed with a Fulton, who is a D. D.—New Haven Palladium.

ROSSEL'S OPINION OF THE COMMUNISTS.—A. M. Gerspach has just published a book, in Paris, which affords some gratifying information as to the opinion entertained of the Commune by the unfortunate Col. Rossel, whose promising career was brought to so ignominious a close on the plains of Satory. "I must confess," wrote Colonel Rossel, "that when I first became acquainted with the revolutionary government I was greatly taken in. I sought for patriots, and found a number of wretches who were perfectly prepared to surrender the forts of Paris to the Prussians rather than submit to the Assembly; I sought for an equality, and found the most complete system of helarchy—an aristocracy composed of former political convicts, and a feudalism formed of illiterate functionaries. But greater still was my surprise when the Commune found means to organize a political government, and when Raoul Rigault installed himself at the Prefecture as the veritable Chief of the Commune. And those vagabonds of the Commune—drinking at the counter of a wine shop with some sergeant or other—rogues disguised under the soldier's uniform, and who disgrace it—with their swords dangling between their legs, their kepis as filthy as their persons, and their voices peculiarly alcoholic—such were the wretches whose mission they pretended it was to free the country from the regime of the sword; the only regime they could substitute for it a being regime of delirium tremens."

State News.

Charles Gillis, Postmaster at Hillsboro', was arrested Saturday morning by U. S. Marshal Patterson on a charge of robbing the mails. The matter has been in charge of detective Camp, and the evidence against the accused is said to be conclusive.

After the wife of Josiah Quincy of Ramsey had raised $114 by ten-cent subscription for the purpose of erecting a drinking fountain on the common, the citizens mustered courage enough to hold a lever, and raised $150 more.

Lyndeboro' people are agitating a division of the town, with the probability that the eastern portion of it will be annexed to Wilton or Milford.

A young man named Willis was fatally injured at Manchester, Friday afternoon, by being drawn into the machinery at the Manchester Print Works.

The residence of Charles Nason, at Great Falls, was partially burned on Thursday evening. Loss about $800; no insurance.

The new buildings for the Belknap county farm have been erected within the appropriation of $10,000.

Readables.

On Friday forenoon the remains of a human body were found in the ruins of a store on Washington Street, Boston, destroyed in the great fire of November 9-10. There was not a vestige of clothing or anything to identify the remains with certainty, but a piece of a fire hat found with them goes to show that the unfortunate man was a fireman. It is believed that the bones are those of a Mr. Frazer.

It is rather late to mention it, but a member of Congress has been the recipient of the confidences of Isaiah Rynders, who confesses to a fraud of his, by which Henry Clay was cheated out of the electoral vote of New York State, which he had legally carried, and thereby lost the Presidency. This must be so, because "a Washington correspondent" says so.

The Senate Credit Mobilier Committee have completed their investigation as to some of the Senators implicated. They will simply report the certified evidence in the case of Mr. Logan without recommendation. Mr. Patterson's conduct, it is thought, will be severely censured. The case of Mr. Harlan is not yet concluded.

Miss Emma Hoadley of Fitchville was killed at Cavendish, Vt., recently, where she had been teaching school. She was driving home, when the horse took fright and, colliding with an ox team, she was fatally kicked in the abdomen.

The county commissioners of York county will hold an adjourned session at Alfred, next Tuesday. It is said the commissioners contemplate a system of retrenchment whereby the expenses of the county jail may be greatly reduced.

The Boston nine is full. It will include James White, catcher; Spalding, pitcher; Rogers, Barnes and Schaffer, on the bases; George Wright, at short-field, and Leonard, Harry Wright and Sweeny in the out-field, with Berdsall and Manning as substitutes.

At South Berwick, Me., on Thursday night, Howard Allen, a boy fifteen years old, was accidentally shot in the head by a pistol in the hands of a companion. The ball was extracted, and hopes are entertained of his recovery.

A remarkable disaster at Smyrna is reported. The water had undermined a cafe located on the gulf shore, and suddenly the establishment sunk, with between one and two hundred persons, mostly Greeks.

The appropriation which has passed Congress for the payment of the claims of the State of New Hampshire amounts to $40,000, not $400,000 as telegraphed to the Boston Journal.

Phelps, Dodge & Co. are willing to pay the government $271,000, on condition that the government will admit that there has been no wilful fraud on the part of the firm.

On Friday the largest Republican majority ever thrown in Reading, Pa., was given, it is said, for the youngest mayor in the United States.

A report from Fort Benton says that the famous Sioux chief Sitting Bull was killed recently at Fort Peck Mountain by a half breed interpreter named Brunor.

A Washington special says it is believed that the House Committee will report in favor of impeaching Colfax.

Oakes Ames says: "If the House takes my scalp, there will be a good many bald-headed men about."

THE OLD LADY'S WHEELBARROW RIDE.—Before the last flood in the Susquehanna river reached its height, but at the time when all knew it to be inevitable, a German lady, the wife of an estimable citizen of Port Deposit, Maryland, conceived a strikingly novel plan for saving one of the outbuildings on her husband's premises. I hardly think she could have been through a freshet before or she would have had a more definite idea of the flood's irresistible power. Armed with a clothes line, and a touching faith in her ability to save the property, she went down into the yard, tied the line around the outbuilding, and made a good, strong knot that wouldn't slip. Then she trailed the line up the yard as far as it would reach, and there tied it to a wheelbarrow. Then she sat down in the wheelbarrow, doubtless congratulating herself that she had things well fixed. She might as well try to swim up the Niagara Falls as to try to hold that building, but she didn't know it then. In a few minutes the ice began losing with the building, now at first moving it and seeming to think it was hardly big enough game. Then the flood changed its mind, picked up the building and started down the river with it, dragging the wheelbarrow and the struggling woman in it down the yard. She would perhaps have been carried off if a sudden movement of the ice had not jerked the wheelbarrow from under her, leaving her for a moment a monument of amazement. Then she turned and fled up the yard, not a minute too soon, for the next instant great masses of ice came plunging and tearing through the yard, scraping the paint off her husband's house.

A BOY'S IDEAS OF HEADS.—Heads are of different shapes and sizes. They are full of notions. Large heads do not always hold the most. Some persons can tell just what a man is by the shape of the head. High heads are the best kind. Very knowing people are called long-headed. A fellow that won't stop for anything or anybody is called hot-headed. If he isn't quite so bright they call him pig-headed. Animals have very small heads. The heads of fools shant back. When your head is cut off you are beheaded. Our heads are all covered with hair, except bald heads. There are other kinds of heads besides our heads. There are barrel heads, heads of sermons—and some ministers used to have fifteen heads to one sermon; pin heads; heads of cattle, as the farmer calls his cows and oxen; head-wind; drum-heads; cabbage-heads; at loggerheads; come to a head like a boil; heads of chapters; head him off; head of the family; and go ahead—but first be sure you are right.

—There was a young woman, a fine spirited girl, engaged at a wash tub, opposite an open door. Just behind her was a young man, as is generally the case, and in the yard was an old buck that was allowed the freedom of the premises, which is not always the case, we are glad to say. Well, this buck came up to the door and looked in, and the young man going close behind the young woman, pointed his finger straight at the buck, and the old fellow recognizing at once the pressing character of this mute invitation, put down his head and dashed forward, and the miserable man stepped one side and fled, and the young woman, all unconscious of the arrangements, received the awful shock without warning, and passed over the tub, and the air for an instant appeared to be full of slippers, wet clothes, and hot water and suds. And the next minute that goat came flying out of that door at a dreadful speed, bald the whole length of his spine, and with a wild look in his eye. And for an hour afterward he stood behind the barn, scratching his chin and trying to recall all the circumstances in the unfortunate affair.

—The London Telegraph has made a discovery. It tells its readers that "The time has unquestionably come when a thorough acquaintance with the current history, politics, fashions, and geography of the United States will be deemed indispensable to the younger generation of our British statesmen. We observe with satisfaction that it is becoming more and more the fashion for young Englishmen of rank and wealth to visit that noble continent, upon which the most prodigal gifts of nature have been lariably bestowed. No country in the world offers such variety of attractions, or is so suggestive of thought to an intelligent visitor. Under every conceivable diversity of form, climate, and surrounding circumstances, numberless communities are there essaying to solve problems for which Europe was too crowded or too prejudiced to accord room and verge enough."

—A Texas doctor rode fifty miles to attend a patient. After he had cured the patient he presented a bill for $50, and proceeded to complete his preparations for the journey back to the post, thinking no more about the matter. As he was about to mount, the patient's husband put in an appearance, with his trusty rifle in his hand. "Doctor," said he, "I reckon we'd better settle this here matter now;" and, taking him aside, "You wan't goin' off without a settlement, was you? I don't want to owe no man nothin'. Here is a ten, which I reckon is about the squar'thing. Now, if you ain't satisfied, jest get yer weepon and come round behind the hill thar, so's the old woman won't be riled up, and we'll settle it. I don't want no man to go away from my house dissatisfied, specially you, Doc."

—The pious Georgia legislature is gravely considering a bill making profane swearing a penal offence. It is known a bill will be immediately introduced expatriating moles and abolishing stovepipes.

REVERIES IN A DENTAL CHAIR.—A correspondent of the New York Commercial Advertiser who has lately been to the dentist's vents her feeling thus:

The performance of preparing a tooth for the reception of the gold after the decay has been cut away and the cavity made ready, is barbarous in the extreme. Imagine yourself seated in the luxurious chair, with its head piece and foot rest. Probably you have been through the ordeal of having your teeth "separated," a divorce, by the way, which will banish you from "bed and board" without either lawyers or red tape, and is effected by wearing a piece of wood between the teeth. It is not unlikely to suppose that your masticators are all sore, that you have not eaten or slept but little for the past week, that your nerves are not strong, nor your disposition more than amiable. Your tooth is drilled and cut until the cavity is carefully prepared, and your endurance almost exhausted. The dentist leaves you to pass a moment with the victims waiting in the front parlor, who have kept the door bell in motion for the past hour, and as each one entered caused your tormentor to smile complacently, and display a set of ivorys in perfect order. (Dentists always keep their advertisements in an attractive condition.) He returns, and then begins the systematic torture. A large apron of rubber cloth is tied about your neck, while two towels are tucked around your throat underneath. A piece of thin gutta percha eight inches square is then forced between several of your teeth that adjoin the one to be filled. It is carefully strained over that tooth until the gum is forced back to the roof. A silver spring is then fastened below the rubber to keep it up tight. By this time your eyes are streaming tears, even should you be a stoic. A band, with clamps at each end, is now thrown about your chair, and the piece of gutta percha is secured firmly at the sides of your cheeks. Your head feels as if it were in a vice. Make up your mind to remain in this position three hours, with your mouth held open by a strong band, with saliva streaming down your cheeks, and with an urchin holding a mallet, and pounding in the gold as fast as the dentist places it.

Dentists continually quarrel with the mallet boys; and it ever there was a set of imps it is these heedless fellows. They will look the "other way," and rap on the "sore spot" in your tooth as if they were beating time to a galop. They are the particular objects of a dentist's ire, and provoke these exclamations: "Are you going to sleep?" "Strike easy!" "Look what you are about."

The patient is powerless to speak, and can only roll his eyes imploringly as the mallet boy seems to take revenge on him.

Most of our dentists have their offices in their houses. This is a mistake; because when men remain at home all the time they are sure to become henpecked. We all know how it affects mankind to remain at home one day. Take New Year's day, for instance, where the head of the family decides to make no calls. He will ask the bill of fare for dinner before luncheon is past, and will likely enough inform you the pickles are molding before you have suspected the cellar to be damp.

Dentists have all an especial interest in their furnaces, or in some repairs the plumbers or carpenters are executing on their premises. They will leave you for an interminable space of time in your cramped position to attend to some errand pertaining to their household—perhaps to one of the children who is sure to tumble down stairs. You are of no consequence now. The cavity cannot get wet, fume about and squirm around as you may to rest your tired head and jaws. Your tormenter will come and go, and wash his hands until you wonder at the amount of his water tax, and when at last the gold is all in, and the filling completed, and when the straps and springs and rubber are removed, and you take your paralyzed jaws between your hands, and endeavor to shut them, then do not suppose you are to be released; you are just ready for the "dental drill" or "engine" which is to polish the gold that has been so firmly packed. This engine is a most formidable looking machine, and on its first appearance you shudder, and conclude you are to be decapitated now for a certainty. This drill has a reverse acting spiral spring, with a cord attachment and drive-wheel with a revolving axle, into the centre of which the drill bit is set. It is made to revolve by the action of the foot on a treadle. The bit is placed next your tooth and the whole set in motion; while you undergo the delightful sensation of a file whirling in your tooth, your filling is polished as bright as a mirror. It is well to be thankful for all things, and we may surely congratulate ourselves on the permanency of the work accomplished by the assistance of these very barbarous but important inventions.

WOULDN'T FIGHT THAT WAY.—About the commencement of the war, Judge Rice made a speech in South Alabama, in which he said that the Southern soldiers could whip the Yankees with popguns. Since the war he chanced to make another speech at the same place.

A big double jointed fellow was present, who heard and remembered the former speech, and being in no amiable frame of mind, concluded to go for Sam.

Rolling up his sleeves and popping his fist in the palm of his hand, he propounded the fearful question:

"Sam Rice, didn't you make a speech here in 1861?"

"I did," said Sam.

"And didn't you say that we could whip the Yankees with pop-guns?"

"Certainly I did, but the rascals wouldn't fight us that way!"

A NEW MODE OF VACCINATION.—Some days since, when the Board of School Commissioners suddenly awoke to the importance of having a thorough vaccination of the teachers and pupils of the public schools, and after the receipt from New York of the quills containing the vaccine virus, says the the Baltimore American, each member of the Board took two of the quills with him, either to show as curiosities or to use among his family. One very estimable gentleman of the Board, not familiar with the use of the virus attached to the open end of the quill, on his way home stopped at his club room, where several friends were sitting in conversation. He exhibited a quill, and explained in his own way its use, when one of those present, an officer in one of our courts, expressed a desire to be vaccinated. The amiable Commissioner was equal to the emergency, and telling his friend to bare his arm, proceeded with the vaccination. He first made a cut, which caused some pain and a plentiful flow of blood. He then with his knife cut off the pithy end of the quill, and with no little pain to his friend rubbed the pith into the wound, throwing the only valuable part of the quill (that having the virus) away. The result has been that the friend vaccinated by the new process has now a very sore arm, and at times has had to carry it in a sling. His friends are anxiously awaiting to see a crop of goose feathers as the result of the operation.

PHOTOGRAPHS OF CANDIDATES.—The New Hampshire Fire Insurance Company have the photographs of their President and Vice President put up in a neat pocket case. By a singular coincidence these two officers are the gubernatorial candidates at the coming election. Ex-Gov. J. A. Weston, the democratic candidate, was elected in 1871, and Gov. E. A. Straw, the Republican candidate, is the present incumbent. S. K. Mason, Esq., the candidate for the Liberals, is local agent of the company at Bristol. The policy of all is to aid in building up a first-class stock fire insurance company in our own State. The united efforts of the influential stockholders of this corporation and the recent vote to increase the capital stock to a quarter of a million of dollars, secures the most desirable patronage.—Manchester Union.

—A poet asked, "where are the dead, the vanished dead, who trod the earth that now we tread?" If we were to make a random guess, we should say that the most of them are buried—though this may not be the right answer.

Business Notices.

For all throat diseases and especially Coughs, Colds, &c., there is no known remedy equal to Buchman's Pulmocine, and a few doses will satisfy the most skeptical of its efficacy. For sale at the Union Store.

THE TONIC OF THE PERIOD.—This is a trying season to persons deficient in stamina and out of health. To rally their physical energies by the most approved artificial means is a duty they owe to themselves. Foremost among the tonics and alteratives of the age stands Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It is a vegetable stimulant and corrective, against which no tenible objection can be urged. There is no risk in recommending it as the best preparation in existence for renovating an enfeebled and broken down system. The most valuable medicinal products that nature has ever yielded to botanical research are blended in this famous elixir, and its stimulating basis is recognized in our public hospitals as the purest of all the varieties of distilled liquors. For general debility, nervous weakness, dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism, biliousness and intermittent fevers it is a positive specific.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is the concentration of sixteen composite parts and can be manufactured only in large quantities. So immediate and powerful is its action that one bottle (selling for 50 cts.) is more potent than any other curative of throat and lung diseases on sale.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

The best articles are often found in small packages. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE COMPOUND, the best preparation for the care of all throat diseases, is put up in 6 oz. bottles, selling for 50 cts each. It has no equal as a remedy.

NO SICKENING POTION IS NECESSARY to relieve the throat and lungs from the irritation which produces violent fits of coughing. Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar, the grand specific of the age for all pulmonary disorders, is a pleasant and palatable elixir. Crittenton's 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Storm

Of Friday night was the most severe of the season. Old Probabilities never predicted more truly the coming change. With a south-east wind in the afternoon there came a sudden blinding snow storm, which spent its fury before midnight and left the streets and railroads badly drifted. The snow was heavy and packed in solidly. Trains in Maine and New Hampshire were delayed for hours. Those from Boston came in nearly on time. A dispatch from Great Falls, Saturday morning, says all the trains which left there Friday afternoon over the Great Falls & Conway Railroad, including eight engines, were out all night, and at seven that morning were still snow bound. The snow was still blowing fearfully, and all the highways were impassable.

The evening train from Portland for this city was delayed by a slight accident, two miles west of Kennebunk, at Bald Hill, and reached here at 4:30, Saturday morning. The conductors of the up and down trains were instructed by telegraph to stop at Wells, where there is a side track. The wind was blowing a gale and the air was filled with the falling snow. The cab windows of the engine were blocked up with snow and the engineers were obliged to be more cautious than usual. It was impossible for either to see the signal light, and both trains, with two engines each, were approaching the side track simultaneously. The one bound east came to a stop and in a second the other train moving slowly ran into it. The pilot of the down train ripped the pony wheels from the first engine and set them back to the drivers, which was the whole extent of the accident. Had it not been for the extreme cautiousness of the engineers of both trains, the result might have been serious. The engineer of the up train, tho' not seeing the signal light, thought he must have passed it, had reversed his engine, whistled down brakes and partially applied the Westinghouse brake, when the collision occurred. Both trains were delayed until the track could be cleared.

The anniversary of Washington's birth-day was as cheerless as any day of this tedious winter. The snow blew in all directions and drifted over the railroads after the passage of trains. The train due in this city from Concord at 10:10 A. M., arrived at one o'clock. The evening train, due at 6:20, did not reach here until midnight. The train due here from Bangor at 5:30, P. M., was blockaded at Kendall's Mills and delayed the Pullman train, which reaches here at 3:40, A. M., Sunday. The two trains united passed through this city for Boston at nine o'clock. The cold spell continued through Sunday, a biting wind blowing from the north-west.

THE RE-UNION. — The sons and daughters of Portsmouth intend to hold a grand re-union in the place of their nativity, on the 4th of July next. Preparations are making on an extended scale for the event, which bids fair to be the greatest event in the history of Strawberry Bank, and a general good time is anticipated. Exeter, a younger sister of Portsmouth, wishes her a happy meeting with her numerous progeny, on their visit to the maternal hearthstone. The committee of arrangements for the occasion have with wise forethought appointed a historian of the Festival; and the record will doubtless constitute a valuable contribution to the local history of New Hampshire. Mr. Charles W. Gardner is designated as historian.—Exeter News Letter.

V. Billings, Esq., of Brookline, Mass., has purchased the brickyards in Kittery, recently owned and occupied by Chas. A. Green, where he designs the coming season doing a large and extensive business in the manufacture of brick. These yards are located alongside of tide water and afford unusual facilities for brick manufacture.

EXTRA SESSION.—The President has prepared his proclamation convening an executive session of the Senate on the fourth of March, but he will not convene a special session of Congress at present, even should any of the appropriation bills fail. There is in the Treasury an ample supply of appropriated money for the wants of the different branches of the public service during the present fiscal year, and there are two States which have not yet elected their Representatives. New Hampshire will elect in March and Connecticut in April, but it is the present intention of the President not to convene a special session of Congress, should one be necessary, until the fourth of July. The heat of the weather then will accelerate the transaction of business.

—One of the natural results of the mining mania which possesses the American mind happened recently near Cleveland, Ill., where the subterranean delvers having excavated a little too near the surface, the house of a quiet citizen suddenly disappeared with all its inmates.

FIRE AT NEW BEDFORD.—A disastrous fire occurred in New Bedford, Saturday morning. About a quarter past one o'clock, flames were discovered issuing from a tobacco store of E. T. Chapman, No. 17 Purchase Street. The flames streamed in every direction, and the interior of the room seemed one solid mass of fire. It was also apparent that the fire had made considerable headway in other portions of the building, for from behind the roof sparks and smoke were streaming upward. Scarcely ten minutes had elapsed when part of the roof fell in and it became evident that the whole block was past saving. The entire fire department was called out, but in spite of all that could be done, the flames spread to the adjoining buildings with great rapidity. The flames also spread north, and shortly extended through the building occupied by William Knights and B. R. Kittredge, and owned by Thomas Allen's estate. Here its progress was checked, there being an alleyway to arrest its course. The losses are between $30,000 and $40,000.

WRECK OF A WHALER. — George Murphy, third mate, A. Culver, F. Bishop, William Bull and Herman Depken, seamen of the whaler Major Thomas, arrived at Montevideo, December 2d, and report their vessel lost at sea by foundering November 8th. Captain Smith and the fourth mate, Deafanbourgh, were in another boat, and two other boats were in charge of each of the mates, H. Robinson and H. Peters, and it is supposed they were all lost, as a heavy sea was running at the time of leaving the vessel. The above named, who were saved, reached Falkland Islands, where they were taken by a British schooner to Montevideo.

FIRES.—The Courtland Block of thirteen houses, in Bridgeport, Conn., was burned on Friday; loss $150,000; fully insured. On the same day President Grant's house, six miles from St. Louis, was destroyed, with no insurance; the Cayudotta hotel at Johnstown, N. Y., made a $75,000 fire; the town of St. Petersburg, Clarendon county, Ohio, was burned down, loss not stated; and a fire occurred in Savannah, Georgia, at which two firemen were killed.

HEN DRIVERS.—When a woman has a hen to drive into the coop she takes hold of her hoops with both hands, and shakes them quietly toward the delinquent, and says, "Shew! there." The hen takes one look at the object to convince herself that it's a woman, and then stalks majestically into the coop in perfect disgust of the sex. A man don't do that way. He goes out doors and says, "It is singular nobody in this house can drive a hen but myself," and picking up a stick of wood hurls it at the offending biped, and observes: "Get in there, you thief." The hen immediately loses her reason and dashes to the opposite end of the yard. The man straightway dashes after her. She comes back with her head down, her wings out, and followed by an assortment of stove-wood, fruit-cans and coal clinkers, with a much puffing and very mad man in the rear. Then she skims up on the stoop, and under the barn, and over a fence or two, and around the house, and back again to the coop, all the while talking as only an excited hen can talk, and all the while followed by things convenient for handling, and by a man whose coat is on the sawbuck and whose hat is on the ground, and whose perspiration and profanity appear to have no limit.

By this time the other hens have come out to take a hand in the debate, and help dodge the missiles—and then the men says every hen on the place shall be sold in the morning, and puts on his things and goes down street, and the woman dons her hoops and has every one of those hens housed and contented in two minutes, and the only sound heard on the premises is the hammering by the oldest boy, as he mends the broken pickets.—Danbury News.

LIGHTING THE FIRE IN A STOVE.—Many persons have often noticed the extreme difficulty encountered in lighting the fire in a stove, especially in a still damp morning. The stove at first won't draw; even vigorous "blowing" will not suffice; and then when it does start, it is with a sort of explosion or outward rush of air, which fills the room with smoke and gas, oftentimes pufflng the unpleasant fumes into the face of the operator. The trouble is caused by the difficulty encountered in overcoming the inertia of the long column of air in the pipe or chimney, by the small column of air that can be forced up through the interstices of the wood and coal, at the bottom of which the fire is kindled. All this may be remedied by simply putting a few shavings or bits of dry paper on the top of the wood or coal, and first lighting that; it immediately bursts into a blaze, because the air has perfectly free access to it from all sides, the heated air forces its way into the chimney, and establishes there an upward current. The match can then be applied to the kindling under the fuel, which will readily light, and, if dry, burst into a brisk blaze.—Am. Rural Home.

CATLIN'S TRUDGE. — The Springfield (Mass.) says:

Mr. George Catlin, the lately deceased American painter, has left us a thin octavo of less than a hundred pages, entitled "The Breath of Life," in which he develops a theory of health formed and matured by him during his long sojourn among the Western Indian tribes of which the above motto is the key. Finding almost no cases of infant mortality or physical deformity among our aborigines, and satisfied from personal observation that he has not resulted from any custom of killing of the puny and unpromising births, he set to work to ascertain the real causes of this happy exemption from those ills of civilized life, and thinks he has done it by discovering that almost always by day, and uniformly by night, the Indians keep their mouths shut. They have the universal impression that this is essential to health and good physical development; and they form their babies to the habit of breathing through their nostrils when asleep, by plaching their mouths closely together. This and the pure air of their uncontaminated lives, is Mr. Catlin's explanation of the facts which so strongly impressed him on his arrival with the condition of things which he had left behind among the whites. He himself went among these tribes a confirmed invalid; but learning their method of nourishing the lungs with the atmosphere, he forced himself into the same practices, and regained a state of comfortable and long protracted vigor.

His treatise is packed with instances, and is profusely illustrated with the oddest facial contortions and contrasts of his pencil. His idea is that the operators of the nose were formed for the express purpose of cleansing the air of its impurities, than further it has the value from their formation of enabling it to pass through the mouth, all these impurities to go into the lungs, and breed all kinds of disease. Nightmare and unrefreshing sleep are caused by breathing through the mouth. Sore throat generally have this habit. These people do not know that their mouths are open, for they sleep with them securely closed (snoring). But the dryness of the mouth and throat will tell the story, as the saliva thus is exhausted. Sleeping on the back is not injurious when or unpleasant if the mouth is closed. The Indians sleep thus, with their heads resting high enough to incline the teeth to meet. No pillows in a bed sense, letting the head, neck to a horizontal line with the body; but the fashionable square pillows are also very hard, which elevates the shoulders with the head. Babies should never be kept closely to their mothers by night, thus smothering the parents to breathe. Nor should their faces be covered in sleep, for the same reason. They do not need warmth as much as free, fresh air. The Indians understand all about this, and in their native separation from the which drinking of their white neighbors, they would seem to have been about as exempt from bodily ailments as the wild animals of their province.

Mr. Catlin very plainly has carried his point rather fully as far as it will bear when he says that corsets, with the spine, kidney, deafness, polypus in the nose, malformation and premature decay of the teeth, toothache, neuralgia, and three-fourths of the mental and physical debs which are premature deaths, from consumption in old age, are caused, or greatly aggravated, by these wrong modes of sleeping; but this little book is well worth reading, by young mothers especially; and it suggests, among many other things, that perhaps some inventive Yankee will give us a pure vest month-up which may put an end at last, of to that a vital unnatural unknown, an item visible since w.

—The sewing machine patents are about to expire in this country, and formidable efforts are being made to lobby their extension through Congress. They will probably fail. If the patents are not renewed, the price will soon be greatly reduced. It is estimated that the profits for the last ten years on the sewing machines manufactured in this country amount to $200,000,000, and the estimated profits in 1871, $80,000,000.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England.

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attached with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. Three painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents' seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultimate thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LOUCORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and Alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IRON in the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, RUMORS,
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is now found as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vivifying Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills" simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life to all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
You but each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or feed, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER,
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantage over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is lighter speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOLIN is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scrofulous, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the heart, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing and distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedy or the acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the encomiums they have received from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the most obstinate of Nature's Own Corns, inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the worst instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TRAFTON, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 705 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

AMES ASHAMED OF BROOKS.—There was quite an excitement in the House on Friday on the discussion of the bill granting the right of way to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad. Twichell, of Massachusetts, who is President of the road, advocated its passage, whereupon Sunset Cox, fired by indignation, lashed the shameless Twichell in the most scathing manner. He said he had never seen anything more shameless than the President of a road standing up in the House and arguing his own business. Land grabbers and the Credit Mobilier business were not near so bad. Twichell sank back abashed without saying a word, and the bill was defeated. Oakes Ames contemplated the scene from the cloak room. There he stood in all his purity. One of the democratic members asked him why he was so serious.

"Serious! serious!" said Hoax; "do I look like a serious man? Is my attitude the attitude of a serious man? Do I sit in my chair, sir, like a serious man? Do you jest, sir! Are you serious, sir? Yes, sir; are you serious?" And the voice of the shovelmaker was distinctly heard, by the democratic members in that part of the House.

"You will attract attention if you talk so loud," suggested the inquiring member.

"Attract attention," said Hoax. "What, sir! Attract attention while the president of that railroad, who goes to department clerks to know whether his road should be built over or under a mountain, is speaking? You don't give that man his due, sir.

I never asked a Congressman in my life to vote for anything I was interested in; and Ginery Twichell can do it, and nobody wants him expelled. Let them expel me! It wouldn't be so disgraceful after all to be kicked out o' an assembly like this; but," and just here Hoax pulled his gray stubble whiskers, "when that vote is taken I tell you this cloak room won't be large enough. No, sir, it won't be large enough. Then there will be such a dodging as you never did see. And it ain't those who will vote, but those that won't vote and can vote that will make it interesting."

Hoax got more confidential and less demonstrative and said:

"You can't compel a member to vote. You can make him come here at two o'clock in the morning, but you can't make him vote. That has been settled over and over again."

"Then you do not fear the action of the House?" asked his democratic neighbor.

"No," replied Ames; "I've got too good a companion—Brooks, I mean. They say politics sometimes makes strange bedfellows. My shovel business has prospered without politics, but I never thought I would be yoked with a democrat and sentenced to be crucified—politically crucified, I mean, sir. It ain't after all so much the manner of dying as the company you are in."

Ames said he didn't want to be profane, but if he was going to be expelled because the people demanded a victim, they might give him at least another companion, whose political sympathies were more agreeable to him.

BOY ON BEHIND.—"Catching on behind" is the crowning enjoyment now for boys. Johnny comes home at night surfeited with fun. He has had a good time, but he is tired. His nose is split open at the end, and one of his teeth is gone, and he has lumps on the back of his head, but he has had a good time, and he comes home to hear his mother read about Joseph and his brethren, and rub him with liniment. There is huge fun in catching on behind, but it requires a great deal of adroitness and decision. The successful lad is he who is never looking for a ride. He stands with his hands in his pocket, actively devouring the scenery with one eye, while the other is prowling around under cover on the lookout for a good chance. And when it comes he pounces down on the cornice of the sleigh in such a manner as to cover the most tender parts of himself in case he has fallen upon a Philistine. The solicitude with which a boy shields his tender parts will bring tears to the eyes of a tax collector. But he always gets on the sleigh, and gets off, too, when urged by a long whip-lash; and when he gets off he rolls in a lump and merely lets go, and the fate that always protects boys sees that he bounds into safety. Wood sleighs, with long strong Stakes to catch hold of, are gone-others, but a box sleigh, with a place for two to sit on and make faces at rivals who are breaking down their legs and lungs in a vain attempt to catch up, is not to be despised. Not at all. Heaven bless the farmers who combine sleighs with floor boards protruding a foot or so beyond the tail-board. Family prayer cannot avail much where these sleighs are sawed off too close.—Danbury News.

Portsmouth, N. H.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1873.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 22, 73.

The most persistent case of personal assailables on record is that of Senator Patterson; a miller flying into the flame of a lamp on a mid-summer's night is no comparison. The feat he attempted was either grand or silly, to be determined by the result. If he could convince the public, that he had reason to believe that his $4200 dividends on an investment of $3600, had been earned in six months on a road that was doing no business and hadn't been built, then it would be grand. But if he could only confirm what Oakes Ames said, that he had put his borrowed money in the stock he had talked about and wanted and thought it was a good thing, then he was silly to make his foolish denials, which show less judgment than would be expected of a ten-year old boy, who was trying to deceive. The envelope from Morton, Bliss and Co., with his thirty shares of Mobilier Stock, came in as damaging after his statement before the Senate as his receipts did after his testimony before the House committee.

The letter of the Secretary of War for an appropriation of $250,000, for two military posts and barracks for two thousand men to protect the laborers on the Northern Pacific Railroad from the savages, isn't a favorable fact, from which to contemplate large earnings for the Northern Pacific in this generation, as it starts at nowere, runs to nowhere, and nobody lives anywhere on the line but savages, who are so hostile to its building that it takes two thousand soldiers at a cost of two millions of dollars a year to keep them from killing the laborers. Some suspicious people seem to think this sending so many troops there is to help the road, rather than to protect it. They say the transportation of troops and munitions of war and subsistence at enormous prices, will help the road to pay its running expenses.

The Credit Mobilier report expelling Ames and Brooks, and recommending no action in reference to the rest was characterized by Oakes Ames, by saying it expelled him for telling the truth and Brooks for lying. He further says it reminds him of an adultery where the jury found the man guilty as the devil and the woman pure as an angel. It is evident there will be an exciting time when the question comes up Tuesday.

The case of Colfax looks blacker in the light of recent testimony. A government contractor sends him $4000 in four sums of $1000 each. In his letter sending the first installment he says he sends "a draft for safety." The language of that letter is substantially identical with what Colfax says was in the one where he claims a thousand dollar bill was sent which made up what appeared to be the deposits of the Ames check of June for $1200. It will hardly break the force of Ames' memoranda, the check with the Sergeant-at-arms, and the bank deposit of the same amount in the same kind of money, to say a man who at first sent a check for safety, would the next time send a thousand dollar bill in an envelope with a letter which was almost a transcript of a previous one, which letter was now lost. Patterson's case now seems relieved by the company of Colfax.

The soldiers' bounty claim of New Hampshire, where the bounty was advanced by the towns and afterwards paid to the soldier again, amounting to $40,000, has at last passed Congress. It has had the earnest support of the delegation. The facts in the case were procured mainly by Col. Chas. H. Roberts, while assisting in settling the war claims of the State.

The House passed a joint resolution to contract with Murtagh of the Republican to print the Debates of Congress, which effects a saving from present rates of $100,000 a year. A movement passed the House four years ago which would have saved $80,000 on this job annually had the Senate supported it.

The resolution of Fernando Wood for the impeachment of Colfax probably was moved because the Poland committee made no allusion to him. The Tyner resolution for the Judiciary committee to inquire whether there is occasion for further investigation as to persons not non-members of the House, presents a delicate question for Bingham, who is chairman of that committee and one of the Mobilier stockholders.

The Louisiana muddle is still more muddled by the reports of the majority of the committee of the Senate, who find there is no legal government there; while of the minority, one supports the Ke logg government, one the McEnery government, and one goes for a fusion of the elements of both legislatures to make a compromise government. It was a serious thing for Durell to enjoin the officers of a State from performing a duty devolving upon them under the laws of the State, and the sooner such action is condemned the better. Louisiana is covered with fraud, but how to extricate it from the dilemma is a difficult problem. EXE.

The State Tax.

In 1871, through a coalition of Democrats and Labor Reformers, New Hampshire passed out of republican control. During the democratic slaveholders' rebellion of 1861-5, the State debt had been increased to $4,169,000, and during the six years succeeding the war it had been reduced, by prudent and skilful management, to $1,900,000. The republicans were now prepared either to reduce the State tax to $450 000 or assume the war debts of the towns to a large amount and thus relieve them of paying exorbitant rates of interest to carry their debt. The latter horn of the alternative was taken, and the debt of the towns to the amount of $2,205,695 was assumed by the State. Such was the situation when the key of the treasury was passed over to the new coalition treasurer. It was the duty of the Legislature of 1871 to provide for a State tax for 1872, as the Legislature of 1870 had provided for 1871. The obligations to be met were as follows:

Bond falling due,	$300,000
Interest on funded debt	113,000
Interest on $2,205,695, amount of town war debts assumed by the State,	132,342
Appropriations and expenses for the year, as estimated by the cushion treasurer,	132,000
Total,	$677,342

The resources for the year were as follows:

Cash in the treasury,	$140,000
State tax,	300,000
Revenue from Railroads, Insurance companies and Banks,	125,000
	$565,000
Deficit at the end of the fiscal year,	$104,342

The above was the precise condition of things that existed when Gov. Straw entered upon his duties last June, and one of his first official acts was to secure a temporary loan of $225,000 to meet the exigency created by the bungling financial management of his predecessors. Owing to his own strong financial reputation and connections, he was able to effect the loan to the decided advantage of the State.

THE STATE TAX FOR 1873.

In levying a State tax for 1873, the Legislature had to take the following liabilities into account:

Temporary loan (the result of democratic financial demagoguery),	$225,000
Bon is maturing during the year	300,000
Interest on funded debt,	234,500
Appropriations and ordinary expenses (taking Mr. Goodale's estimate)	132,000
Total,	$891,333

The revenue of the State for the present year, from all sources, other than taxation, will not exceed $115,000. Had the legislature fixed the State tax at $300,000, there would have been a deficit at the end of the year of $544,850. From these facts, it will be seen that the raising of a State tax of at least $600,000 was dictated alike by prudence and necessity. So the entire Legislature regarded it, and not a single democratic vote in either branch was recorded against the bill fixing the State tax at $600,000. Mr. Moulton, democratic Senator from No. 6, reported the bill himself in the Senate, and it is simple truth to say that every democratic member of the Legislature voted for it, inasmuch as it passed both branches without opposition.

In view of the above facts the last democratic Convention had the hardihood to indulge in the following hypocritical cant:

Resolved, That we condemn the act of the late Legislature of this State whereby the State Tax was increased from $300,000 to $600,000—believing that the former amount is adequate to meet all necessary expenses and accruing interests, and to pay the State debt as fast as this generation should be required to pay it; and we hereby demand, in behalf of a tax burdened people, that our State Government shall again be administered with the prudence and economy of the olden time.—Resolution adopted by the democratic state Convention.

Let it be remembered that every democratic member of the Legislature of 1872 voted for the bill fixing the State tax at $600,000.

Let it be remembered that the democratic Labor Reform Legislature of 1871 so mismanaged the finances of the State as to leave a deficit of $172,340 at the end of one year.

Let it be remembered that the above resolution condemns every Democratic member of the Legislature of 1872, including the present Chairman of the democratic State Committee.

Let it be remembered that if the above resolution is not hypocritical cant the democratic party is pledged to a policy that would certainly embarrass the State, impair its credit, and depreciate the value of its bonds.

Let it be remembered that we owe to sound republican financial management the ability of the State to borrow money at 6 per cent. and assume more than two millions of the war debt of the towns, which they were carrying at high rates of interests.

Let it be remembered that the democratic party, by its mismanagement of the finances in 1871, and by its hypocritical cant in 1873, has demonstrated that it would be highly unsafe, injurious and dangerous to again entrust that party with the financial control of the State.

Let it be remembered that this danger can only be averted by voting the republican ticket.—Nashua Telegraph

A bill has been introduced in the Massachusetts legislature allowing the Eastern Railroad to construct a freight house in Charlestown, covering nine acres of land worth $1,000,000.

—Brooks babbled yesterday, despite the chilling winds from Poland.—Cin. Chron.

Directly after the reading of the report of the Poland committee was concluded, Oakes Ames went down stairs to the House restaurant, and taking a vacant chair at a table with two other members of the House, inquired with a crackle if they would allow the wicked-est man in Congress to sit with them, and receiving an affirmative answer, he proceeded to put a dozen fried oysters where they would "do the most good."

The Eastern Railway Company are laying steel rails upon their track as the old ones wear out. They will wear four times as long as the ordinary rail, and although the first cost is greater, are more economical in the long run.

One witness in the Caldwell inquiry needs investigation next. Hon. Mr. Burwick, aided by some of his fellow witnesses, set up a job on the committee by representing that Burwick had left a stock farm in Utah to answer the summons of the committee, so he was paid nearly $500. After the payment, it was ascertained that the man had never been near Utah, but had been a member of the Kansas legislature and twice under indictment—once for murder and once for robbing the mails.

Afterwards, Senator Butler said in the Senate that he could testify to being threatened because he chose to vote against Boston & Maine measures, and might divulge matters that would make that company appear in a bad light. His remarks created quite a sensation.

THE CASE OF MR. COLFAX.—Gen. Butler, from the Judiciary committee of the House, reported on Monday that Mr. Colfax purchased Credit Mobilier stock at par when it was worth much more than par; and that the legal title to the stock by him purchased is in him to this day. The Committee disdard anything that Colfax might produce in justification of himself and regard the question in its naked legal relations. They do not consider that the House has any jurisdiction in the matter, as the act was committed before Mr. Colfax became Vice President. The report concludes "that so far as receiving and holding interest in the Credit Mobilier stock is concerned, there is nothing in the testimony submitted to us which could warrant impeachment in the case of the Vice President.

THE NEWBURYPORT GHOST is yet an unfathomed mystery. The Boston Herald of Monday has a two-column account of the visit of seven newspaper men to the schoolhouse, one night last week. Singular manifestations occurred according to the Herald's report, which says that, a circle being formed, the spirit of Horace Greeley was announced, a greenish light was seen in the entry, the eight-day clock suddenly stopped at nineteen minutes before midnight, after being wound up but forty-eight hours, and a watchman entered through the door which they had locked when they went in. The Herald says Miss Lucy A. Perkins, teacher of the school, is a young lady of irreproachable character.

DANVILLE.—A few days since we called at the house of Wm. Hoyt, Esq. and were presented with a curiosity in the newspaper line. Esquire H. has in his possession numbers of the NEW HAMPSHIRE GAZETTE, printed at Portsmouth, at the time of the death of Washington, containing a full account of his death and funeral ceremonies. It is truly a treat to hold the old sheet up and read its quaint typography with "s" like "f's," and capital letters below the line. Read the advertisements—evidences of the same busy activity we see at present. Then, all these men doubtless are dead. Who shall read our newspapers three-quarters of a century hence and become interested?—K. L. W. in Haverhill Bulletin.

The ladies and gentlemen of the Fourth of July committee will meet at the Aldermen's room in the city building, this evening, at 7.30.

The ball of the Amoskeag Veterans at Manchester, Friday evening, was a grand affair. The Mirror says the delegation from Portsmouth included Surgeon Buell, Paymasters McConnell and Brown, and Mr. Edwin R. Rider, with ladies. Paymaster McConnell responded at the banquet in behalf of the Navy.

Mr. J. G. Anthoine, formerly foreman-ironworker for Came Brothers, will soon commence business as a carriage manufacturer in the building originally erected for that purpose by the Cames, on Hanover Street. Mr. Anthoine is himself a skillful workman, and should be able to find plenty of others among the late employes of Came Brothers; and in his attempt to revive the business carried on by that firm, we wish him all their success, and immunity from their misfortune.

Common Council meeting, this evening, at seven o'clock.

The roads in this vicinity were worse drifted in the snow storm of the 21st than they have been for years. In some places the drifts are level with the tops of the fences. Some of the back roads are impassable, a circumstance which has not happened for ten years. The snow (hard packed) in the middle of Congress street is two feet deep.

KITTERY AND ITS FUTURE.—A correspondent of the Portland State, writing from Kittery, applies the head of the hammer to the largest extremity of the nail with the following well chosen remarks, which are not without interest and might point a considerable sized moral on this side of the "Babylon:"—

This is one of the oldest places in the East, and has landmarks well known in New England History. It is also as well supported by gentle blood, good family records and desirable general society, as any community in the State; at least, as a life-time dweller here, I believe it. And still—speaking in the style of Young America—we are not happy. And why? Because elsewhere we see a general purpose to give new effort to producing industries in the State, to develop every community in which there are elements of growth and advancement, and to make the most of every natural facility; and we cannot claim that as yet our people are sufficiently awake to the business and the opportunity of the hour.

And what is the reason? I answer, it is Navy Yard! Charles Lamb writes so lazily of the South Sea House that one can feel a listlessness creeping over him, as he reads. There is something very charming in being pensioned by the government when we get old, in being allowed to sit in the sunlight of a blessed patronage and be gazed at in awe by small boys who read whole histories in our wise looks, but I can never bring myself to believe that the business of sitting down by the cool stream of Babylon, or the Piscataqua, and waiting for chances to "go upon the Yard" is pardonable in young and vigorous blood. We have had too much of this, as every community has had, situated as we are. I do not say anybody in particular has been in fault; only that when we stop to think and realize our faults we should correct them. Now, when business is dull, hundreds, vieing among themselves on this side, and warring against the dangerous competition across the river, do little, at times, but speculate upon the revival—not of religion, or morals, or even of general business and prosperity, but merely of a season when, through political figuring there will be "chances." And these "chances" only mean temporary employment, at best, and never an assurance of permanent, home-like employment. For years we, like all others who have been situated as we have, have felt the growing tendency to associate this government institution and its patronage with the business and the enduring interests of Kittery—a natural delusion and snare, but a delusion nevertheless. Shall it always be so? is a question that several at least of our most thoughtful people are asking, and what everybody is anxious to know. My own opinion is that Kittery only needs to remember that the Navy Yard is an incident and not a business of her life, to start out into a new estate of self-supported prosperity.

State News.

Harper's and Scribner's for March are for sale at the stores of E. G. Adams, J. H. Foster and W. B. Lowd.

Drifts twenty feet deep are reported on the Great Falls & Conway Railroad. Six passenger trains of the Boston & Maine were waiting at South Berwick junction, Saturday evening, and it was decided to try to get to Portland over the new extension. A mile and a half from Salmon Falls, the snow plough was thrown from the track and completely reversed. The cars were carried back to Great Falls. The engine was wrecked.

O. S. Dorman, Deputy Collector of Customs in Newport, has been arrested on a charge of smuggling three horses across the line in 1870.

THE RAILROAD MUDDLE.—A correspondent of the Argus writing from Augusta, Thursday, gives the following explanation of the railroad "muddle" at Augusta:—

The legislature was inclined to favor the Boston and Maine Railroad and opposed to the Maine Central—a competing shore line being the idea. The Bath and Portland charter was granted and the Boston and Maine was to build the road. So it was supposed. But it turned out that the Eastern Railroad gobbled up the charter and the Maine Central folks say they don't know but the Easterners have cuckered them and may build the shore line regardless of them. If so, the Maine Central are certainly sold.

The order for inquiry into the matter was based on many rumors afloat here of fraud and purchase of certain parties by the Eastern Railroad. For example it was alleged that they have expended $60,000 here this winter—that some $20,000 of it was paid to one lobbyist—that one of the Railroad Committee men was tempted by a $1000 bill (same size as Colfax's) which was laid upon his desk, which he took up, but which he afterwards returned to the party who laid it down. These and other stories together with the rumors of a severe fight at Waterville next week for the control of the Maine Central have confoundily muddled the legislature, if I may be allowed the expression without disrespect, and they as yet know not what they do; and unless this state of mind clears up in some way, nothing will describe its action. In regard to the Waterville fight, old railroad men predict that "King Rice" has as long a head as any of his opponents and that he will come out the winner.

CONSOLIDATION.—We have received the opening argument of Col. John H. George, in behalf of the petition of the Boston & Lowell Railroad for leave to consolidate and unite with the Fitchburg Railroad and other connecting roads, before the railroad committee of the Massachusetts legislature. Col. George's argument for consolidation is weighty. Baffled in the attempt to obtain permission to consolidate with the Northern Railroad of New Hampshire, the Boston & Lowell mangement is endeavoring to secure another route to Ogdensburg, with the purpose of using the Hoosac tunnel after its completion. Col. George is of the opinion that the Eastern and Boston & Maine Railroads must consolidate before the lapse of many years.

PACIFIC COST SURVEY.—The Narragansett, Lieut. Comdr. George E. Dewey, has been ordered to proceed to the Pacific coast, to make a survey from Leguna de Jerminos to the northern boundary of the United States. This expedition is expected to be of great service to navigation, inasmuch as that coast is very imperfectly known. Skilled hydrographic officers will accompany the expedition. After completing this survey, the Narragansett will join the Portsmouth in the West Indies.

Morning Chronicle.

WELL PUT.—"Grace Greenwood's" racy Washington correspondence to the New York Times is medwicked argumentatively with pleas for the rights of the ladies, of which the following sample remains as yet unanswered:—

May a poor, ignorant woman ask, why is the same of common sense, to say nothing of common honesty, when these enormous dividends come rolling in, the—no—thanks of honorable gentlemen did not take alarm? Why did they not turn at once upon the arch tempter, Oakes Ames, and cry, "Unclean! unclean!" That would have been the old Roman way, the old Puritan way of meeting the difficulty, perhaps the old Whig and Democratic way, though I am not so sure of that. It seems to me that this report exonerates the heart at the expense of the head. If these men are ready to be innocent and ignorant of the ways that are dark and the tricks that are vain, of railroad corporations and stock gamblers, they should expose their lesser evil-guys in Washington by taking a course of instruction in Spencer's Business College, and perhaps they had better begin in the ladies' department. If, at the close of the war, the women of the North had been, like the negroes, awarded their political rights; if Hon. Julia Ward Howe had been in the place of Hon. H. L. Dawes; if Hon. Lucretia Mott had been in the place of Hon. W. D. Kelly; if Hon. Lucy Stone had been in the place of Hon. J. A. Garfield; and if they had been—as, of course, being human, they might have been—involved in this compromising affair, and had shown a profound ignorance of its compromising character, what a yell of derision would have resounded from Maine to Georgia, and from Boston to San Francisco, over woman's incapacity not only to legislate for others, but take care of herself! What a savage demand there would have been for her immediate disfranchisement; how severely she would have been remanded to private life—to the quiet, purity, and security of the domestic circle, and the guardianship of her natural protector!

A pack of dogs, good dogs in the main, but subject to moral aberration in the direction of sheep-killing, are proved to have gone together one night, on a destructive raid. To the rough hair of a setter or two, a few tufts of wool adhere, while the gray-hounds, slender and short-coated, show no traces of their unlawful repast. But they all smell of fresh mutton. Shall then, the setters alone be led off and shot? It may be because I am so little of a politician and so lenient a moralist, but it certainly seems to me that there is "great cry and little wool" all around. For the soul of me, I cannot see any great sin that these men, judged as Congressmen, have committed, except against their own self respect, by a want of faithfulness and courage. I would trust them now just as soon and just as far as ever. Indeed, I have faith to believe that they will be better men after this wholesome discipline of affliction—more modest and circumspect, and charitable, seeking something higher than mere partisan popularity, something more solid than the bubble reputation. Next week will be a week of fiery trial for them, and it should be a week of prayer for all those who love them, that they may come forth purified, if not justified.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England.

Pulmocine Cordial

In a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the Lungs, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. A ribbon attached with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and yet knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that purchased by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

CONSUMPTION

IRON in the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills" simply by Toning up Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Disease of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running of needles or feed or price—and many of them are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserved its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.
N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulins, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Palpitating of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the painful and distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedy is no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of inflamed Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest Instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. S. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAYFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 702 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. spp

The Chronicle

DARWIN PARODIED.—Mr. Darwin's new work upon the emotional affinities of the human and the brute creations has induced an able writer for the Titusville (Pa.) Press to gather such facts as are attainable concerning the humanly emulative habits of the domestic cat. An interview with a Mr. Spelter, director of a local boarding-house and proprietor of a whole orchestra of feline musicians, revealed not only many curious truths respecting the animals concerned, but also that the cats engaged at present in certain mysterious outdoor meetings of unknown import. "Mr. Spelter informed me," observed the writer, "that he had a family of the familiar household pets about his establishment, which he keeps for the comfort of his single male lodgers, who, upon cold nights, take a cat to bed with them to keep their feet warm. No additional charge is made for this luxury by Mr. Spelter.

About a week since a change in the demeanor of these animals was observable. A young gentleman boarder was about to retire for the night, and, as has been his custom since cold weather set in, called upon the landlord to furnish him with a cat and candle, but upon reaching in under the stove for a cat found none there. He then began a search for these living warming-pans in the pantry, the woodbox, the bag of dried peaches, and the oven; but the only sign he could discover was a circular cavity or depression in a pan of bread that had been set to rise by the stove. The result of the search was in vain, and the inmates of the house went cateless to bed that night. Spelter says the next day his pets all reappeared, and acted as if nothing had happened; but about sundown a change seemed to have come over them. Their eyes turned green, and sounds began to emanate from the older animals similar to the more delicious strains of the Italian opera.

The younger animals also caught the operatic infection, and the entire feline tribe began to walk slowly around the room in couples, maintaining very orderly behavior, but seemingly suffering extreme mental anguish, which occasioned the cries they tried to repress. 'All at once,' said Mr. Spelter, 'without a word of warning, a large gray and white cat, of the Thomas variety, elevated the central vertebra of his spine, his tail expanded like a hot-air balloon, and with an exclamation that sounded for all the world like, 'Come, boys! come h-e-a-t,' with the last word drawn out like licked sweetness or sausages, plunged through the window, and was followed by the other nineteen in rapid succession, so that it seemed to a boarder, who happened to be standing outside, as if one variegated cat, about thirty feet long, and with twenty tails located at regular intervals along its spine, had jumped through the window." Excited by the enormous graphic power of his own description in the last vivid clause the Press writer becomes extravagant and goes on to show that there are even symptoms of fraternization between the rats and their traditional enemies.

A gentleman of much nocturnal observation has assured him "that at a cat convention upon his fenced real estate a few evenings ago, upon oyster cans, flower-pots and other elevations, sat great numbers of rats as interested spectators, holding in their paws pasteboard tickets of admission which had evidently been provided by the cats themselves." This, however, is evidently a departure from fact into fancy, and suggests rather a possibility of the future than a likehood of the present.

WARMOTH AS A FINANCIER.—As a financier, Governor Warmoth, of Louisiana, is a success. The State taxes in that State are about $6,000,000. General Longstreet says Warmoth collected the taxes in cash, deposited the cash with a banker, and then turned the amount over to the State treasurer in State bonds worth sixty-five cents on the dollar. This shows fine executive ability, and if the people of Louisiana have any appreciation of talent they should send him to the United States Senate.

Well Done.

The success of the present government of Boston in checking the small-pox epidemic is a remarkable instance of the value of energetic, practical men in the management of municipal affairs. Small-pox was plentiful enough in Boston all last year to have warranted the most energetic measures to oppose it, and the press and people of the city called loudly on the authorities to take such measures; but the self sufficient yet incompetent officials were too thoroughly imbued with a sense of their own importance and wisdom to take advice or heed the public clamor, and the disease was allowed to increase and spread all through the warm weather, when it could most easily have been stamped out. As a punishment for elevating wooden-headed mediocrity to power, Boston has had to pay dearly—in loss of life, loss of trade and a large actual expenditure of money to combat a pestilence which could have been checked at far less cost long before it became so general; and if we may judge from the occasional comments of the Boston press, it has been no small annoyance to the Bostonians that their city has been looked upon as the great small-pox depot for all New England, and referred to as such by every country paper in whose place of publication a case of the loathsome disease has occurred. But Boston had enough of skim-milk management prior to its last municipal election, and men of a different stamp were then chosen to the city councils. One of the first acts of the new government was to appoint a Board of Health with extraordinary powers,—and also with more brains than all the late government put together could boast of, judging from the works of each. This Board commenced fighting the disease at the most unfavorable time of the year, mid-winter, and in a few months have so curtailed it that the hospitals have "beds to let" and the deaths from small-pox are reduced to less than a dozen per week, and the number of deaths and new cases steadily decreases. Should the present city councils of Boston do nothing else worthy of commendation during their term of office, their action in this small-pox business alone is enough to give them a favorable record when compared with the stupid and disastrous inaction of their predecessors.

The Butler Report

On the Colfax case, on Monday, was at once a review and refutation of Judge Poland's Credit Mobilier report of which it had vastly more to say than of the evidence affecting Mr. Colfax. It was sharp, pungent and specious, like its author. All the members of the Poland committee and the House generally were a good deal surprised that General Butler had thus adroitly, and before they expected it, placed before them and even had read in full, at the clerk's desk, his argument in defence of Oakes Ames and James Brooks. General Banks and Judge Poland manifested considerable indignation when the reading was concluded, at the treatment which their report had received, but it was too late. The injury had already been done and a wide breach made in the array of their argument. During the reading, General Butler sat carelessly distributed over his chair, evidently enjoying the huge joke he had played on the House, and the great advantage he had gained on his adversaries. When congratulated before it was over at his strategy in getting in his speech twenty-four hours in advance of his opponents, General Butler rejoined, "Yes, and I got it in without interruption." The vote on General Butler's motion to postpone consideration of the resolution, while not particularly significant, is to a degree indicative that the House will follow him again. The prevailing impression is that the resolution for the expulsion of Messrs. Ames and Brooks will be laid on the table, which would effect the same disposition of the resolution for the censure of the other members.

Every man was aroused by the audacity of one committee criticising the report of another, when not ordered so to do, and, once aroused, this attention was maintained by the intellectual vigor with which the positions assumed were maintained.

It must be conceded that Gen. Butler has shown himself, not only the most daring, but one of the ablest men on the House floor. Democrats are left with Brooks on their hands, ruined but unpunished.

They will be unable, also, to reach the Republican leaders, and thus they have counted without their host in supposing they would demoralize their opponents. As a party, that task or the one to rehabilitate is left mainly to Gen. Butler. Some twelve Democrats voted with the main body of the Republicans, under the lead of Voorhees and Eldridge.

The bridge he has built for the House to retreat over will be used for the purpose, but not without sharp resistance. The Poland committee are strong men, and will not allow themselves to be slaughtered without resistance.

The Globe's dispatch says Gen. Butler made a most audacious and brilliant movement, and attempted, under cover of a judiciary committee's report, on a question referred as to whether Colfax or any other officer should be presented or not for impeachment, to cut the ground from under the Poland committee and anticipate the judgment of the House, narrow down the report's discussion to the case of Ames and so weaken the Poland argument as to render it of no effect. Probably a more daring parliamentary assumption than that to which Gen. Butler obtained the sanction of the judiciary committee to report to the House as their judgment, was never before known in Congress. Its effect is as electric as the assumption was bold.

It may be safely affirmed, without regard to the character of the arguments employed, that the coup de main of the judiciary committee thoroughly astonished the House. The report was not adopted by the committee until noon, having only been prepared by Butler during last night.

As for Brooks, Butler held that, for malfeasance as government director, he could be impeached and tried, but that he could not be expelled as a member of the House for offences so committed. On this second part of Butler's report the Poland report came in for a terrific scoring. While more than Pickwickian in politeness of reference, it attempted to be absolutely scathing in controverting its arguments. It is not too much to say that this paper of Gen. Butler's has more than ordinary historical significance. Its reading secured profound attention, and there was apparent to an observer of the House, a notable degree of intelligent, alert attention, which even the Poland report failed to secure when made.

The Congressional Debate

On the report of the Poland committee commenced on Tuesday. The galleries were crowded with men and the cloak rooms with ladies. Oakes Ames was present at the opening and James Brooks was late, appearing in despair, with signs of indignation, as Judge Poland advocated the committee's report.

During Mr. Poland's speech Mr. Ames sometimes could not conceal his smiles, and occupied himself in looking over his printed defence with Mr. McPherson, Clerk of the House, who was to read it. Messrs. Beck, Kerr, Cox and Kitridge, democrats, associated to defend Mr. Brooks, were in constant, eager converse. Gen. Butler sat silently listening, occasionally referring to the testimony.

Judge Poland replied fully to the jurisdictional argument of the Butler report, saying it needed such ingenuity as invented the Credit Mobilier machinery, to discover such a plea.

The case of Brooks was alluded to, and Mr. Poland charged that he had been guilty of corrupt action in the matter of the Ames contract, while a government director.

Mr. Brooks arose and denied this. The record is, he said, that I was nominated for that office Oct. 1st, 1867. I accepted it January 2d, 1868. The Oakes Ames contract was dated August 16th, '67. One transfer was made Oct. 15th, '67, long before Jan. 2d, when I first acted as government director.

"I would not," said Mr. Poland, "for my right hand, misrepresent the smallest fact in reference to the gentleman's case. Mr. Brooks became director on the 1st of October, and the Ames contract was finished about the middle of October."

After the conclusion of Judge Poland's argument, the defence of Mr. Ames was read by the clerk.

The explanation was a general denial of the charges of the Poland Committee. As the concluding portion of the explanation was read, pleading long life in honorable business pursuits as against this momentary charge of corruption, Mr. Ames buried his face in his hands and shed copious tears.

—A drawing master, worrying his pupil with contemptuous remarks upon his lack of ability, ended by asking—"Now, sir, if you were going to draw me, what part of me would you commence first?" The boy, with a meaning look into his master's face, answered quietly, "Your neck, sir."

THE FIRST AMERICAN NEWSPAPER.—The story of the first American newspaper, brief as was its life, is full of curious interest. Seventy years after the landing at Plymouth Rock, and two hundred and fifty years after the invention of printing, a newspaper was issued in Boston. It lived one day, and only one copy is known to have been preserved. That copy was discovered by the historian of Salem, the Rev. J. B. Felt, in the Colonial State-paper Office, in London, while engaged in researches relating to the history of his own city. This pioneer of American Journalism was published by Benjamin Harris at the London Coffee-house, Boston, and was printed for him by Richard Pierce on Thursday, the 25th of September, 1690, nearly two centuries after the discovery of the New world by Columbus. The paper was printed on three pages of a folded sheet, leaving one page blank, with two columns to a page, and each page about eleven inches by seven in size. Harris proposed to issue his paper once a month, or oftener if there should be a "plut of occurrences." His first and, as it turned out, his only number, contained several columns of home and foreign gossip, without a word of editorial comment. Unfortunately for the success of his undertaking, he printed one or two items of local and military news which set the official busybodies in a ferment of indignation. The legislative authorities solemnly determined that the paper came out contrary to law, and that it contained "reflections of a very high nature." To prevent Mr. Harris from issuing a second number, they forbade "any thing in print without license first obtained from those authorized by the government to grant the same." In this way the first American newspaper came to grief; and but for the accidental preservation of a single copy in London its very name would have passed into oblivion.—From "Newspapers and Editors," by S. S. CONANT, in Harper's Magazine for March.

"Didn't he look astonished?" a discourteous friend asked. "No," said Sheridan, "he was just going to look astonished, when he remembered his manners, and swept away the money as if he had not given up the idea of ever seeing it again."

—Chicago expects to have a hotel capacity of 5272 rooms when its forty-one hotels are all completed. Before the fire it had thirty hotels, containing 2965 rooms.

COMBATIVE SOUTHRONS.—Foote and Davis were in Congress in 1848 (while Taylor and Cass were candidates for the Presidency), and occupied a room together at the Willard Hotel. One evening, seated by the same fireside, Mr. Davis read aloud from a political letter of Gen. Taylor, and made running comments for Mr. Foote's delectation, which the latter thought were rather too friendly for a Democratic Senator to give expression to in the heat of a canvass. In fact, he intimated quite strongly that he thought Mr. Davis at heart was a Taylor man; that spite of his professed support of the Democratic nominee he would secretly rejoice over Gen. Taylor's election. Mr. Davis had married a daughter of Gen. Taylor, and this little circumstance, Mr. Foote suggested, was at the bottom of his colleague's compliment of the letter, adding, in his impetuous way, that it would doubtless be a very nice thing, after all, to be a son-in-law of the President—even a Whig President.

Mr. Davis could not brook this sarcastic intimation of treachery on his part, and retorted in severe language, one word bringing on another until the "grave and reverend" came to blows.

The noise of the fisticuff aroused other Congressmen, who rushed into the room and separated the combatants, admonishing them of the shame which would attach to two distinguished Senators from the same State indulging in a disgraceful knock-down. This view of the matter naturally brought the two to terms, and like the man and wife who "argued" the question of "rat or mouse," they shook hands and made friends.

"Really," said Mr. Foote, after a smile all around; "really, I should not have thought of such a thing as striking Mr. Davis, if he hadn't passed the first blow."

"Are you not mistaken about that?" urged Mr. Davis apologetically.

"Indeed, I am not," retorted the impetuous.

"It is my impression you struck first," pleaded Mr. D.

"Oh, no; it was you."

"No, it was you."

"But I'll swear it was you."

"And I would swear it wasn't."

"You did strike first."

"I did not strike first."

"You did."

"I didn't."

"You did."

"I didn't."

"Well," said Foote at last, rising hastily from his seat, "there shan't be any dispute as to who struck first this time,"—and as he spoke he dealt Mr Davis a stinging blow on the cheek, which resulted in another rencontre, that, but for the interference of mutual friends, might have been going on until now, for both are "game" all over. The question as to who struck first being thus settled, nothing serious grew out of the matter, especially as either party preferred to have the matter hushed up as speedily as possible.

ALL ABOARD.—They are to have an election in New Hampshire about a fortnight from now, but neither party appears to take the least interest in the matter. There has, as yet, been no stump-speaking. When the speaking does begin, and of course there must be some, it is thought the orators and their audiences will engage in a grand game of "matching rascals." It is an amusing diversion and is played as follows: During the eloquent speech of a republican orator some ill-mannered democrat will shout out "Patterson!" To this, if the speaker has presence of mind, he will reply "Brooks!" And so the little game will go on, the victory falling to the side of the player whose memory for rascals of the opposite party holds out the longest. In the absence of national issues of any importance, this pleasing diversion may give something like interest to political meetings. We presume it will be played in Connecticut toward the end of next month.—New Haven Palladium

SIC TRANSIT.—"Grace Greenwood" cocks sharp after the Congress of the United States in behalf of the New York Times, and lams Holman, of Indiana, in a way that's more savage than meek. "Grace" says the proposition to expend $100,000 to enable parties to observe the transit of Venus, in December, 1874, "was opposed by Mr. Holman, who is always in the objective case. He said, in effect: 'If Venus wants to transit across the face of the sun let her transit, provided the sun has no objection. It is none of our business, and I object to being taxed, or to having the people taxed, to enable scientific sharps to go half round the world, to watch her eccentric operations.'

If Congress had no more ardent worshipers of Venus in the House than this stern economist, it were well, perhaps, but it seems to me our astronomers might be indulged in a little pleasure excursion of this sort once in a hundred years. The same scientists will be pretty sure not to ask to be sent to the same points of observation for the same purpose again."

CONGRESSMAN FRYE, of Maine, one of the young members from New England who has made his mark, is increasingly popular at home and at the national capital. Recently a discussion arose in the House, on an appropriation of $17,500 for the use of the Commission of Fish and Fisheries. "Grace Greenwood" writes the New York Times that the debate between Farnsworth and Frye was lively, "in which the difference between a man who talks for talk's sake, on a subject but half considered, and a man who knows what he is talking about, and talks what he knows about, was most manifest. Mr. Farnsworth covered his discomfiture very good-naturedly with some little jokes, which he got off with great waggling of his beard. He is in one sense, at least, the wag of the House."

—The New York Tribune, "founded by Horace Greeley," is now conducted by Whitelaw Reid—subject, a hall:—

The popular season swells with emotion. We feel that this is the proudest moment of our most proud lives. We have looked our mother o'er again, and with the national anthem ringing in our ears, we put on our dominoes and show how fields were won. H. M. Y. M. No. 1 trips the light fantastic toe in a style that reminds one of his tendrest years. H. M. Y. M. No 1 fastens his glittering eye upon a black domino whose thick fan waves a gentle invitation. Mr domino—will never mind the other. "By the pricking of my thumbs, something pricked this way comes." Yes, it is—it is—but why are you not here to see for yourselves? The rest is silence.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the long-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous practitioners, the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in his favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relaxes nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

LUNG COMPLAINTS.

This well known remedy is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years, and when resorted to in season seldom fails to effect a speedy cure of Coughs, Colds, Croup, Bronchitis, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Hoarseness, Pains or Soreness in the Chest or Side, Bleeding at the Lungs, Liver Complaints, &c. &c.

CONSUMPTION

by a timely resort to this standard remedy, as is proven by hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors.

Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry

does not dry up a Cough and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

CLERGYMEN, LAWYERS, SINGERS,

and all those whose occupation requires an unusual exercise of the vocal organs, will find this the ONLY PREPARATION which will effectually and instantaneously relieve their difficulties.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Remember that the genuine Wistar's Balsam has on the outside wrapper the signature of "I. BUTTS," and the printed name of the proprietors, "SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, BOSTON." All others are base imitations. Examine the wrapper carefully before purchasing.

FRUITS & VEGETABLES.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when put in water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

DIRECTIONS.—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar; need with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the Pepper, Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Strawberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been Super-natured or ripened though the Alden Pneumatic Process, and prepared perfectly clean without exposure to flies or dirt.

These are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you can not tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

IRON in the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an element, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
OF
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or price—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. It does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantage over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.
N. B.—Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain producing Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative in a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the surest inept, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. RIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. s19

"Old Probabilities."

Who warns us of the coming storm,
And hints of currents cold or warm,
Which may affect the human form?
Old Probabilities.

Who tells the farmer when to sow,
To plow, to plant, to reap or mow,
That plenty may his granaries know?
Old Probabilities.

When men go on the sea in ships,
Who telleth with prophetic lips
The time to start upon their trips?
Old Probabilities.

If ever human foresight fails,
And native fills the carper's sails,
Who feels the chill, unwelcome gales?
Old Probabilities.

With charity for others' faults,
Why should we make unkind assaults,
If short of truth sometime should halt
Old Probabilities?

If knowledge comes with lapse of years,
Why spare we not our flippant sneers,
And for the future have no fears
Of Probabilities?

Who took our grandsires, as they came,
Weather and wind of every name?
Because then quite unknown to fame
Were Probabilities.

E'en now the people of Japan,
Of Zanzebar and Hindostan,
Must lay their plans as best they can Without Probabilities.

If ought of good is seen to flow
From knowing how the wind shall blow,
Why not let the wide world know,
Old Probabilities!

E'en yet beyond the range of earth,
Where new born spirits find the birth,
We hope e'er long there'll be no dearth
Of Probabilities.

THE EARLIEST NEWSPAPER.—Authorities have differed widely as to the nation and city entitled to the honor of having started the first printed newspaper. For many years it was supposed that the credit belonged to England. It was claimed that the British Museum had a copy of the earliest paper in its collection. It was called the English Mercurie, and printed July 23, 1588; but it has been shown that this copy, like specimens of rare old coins, was spurious, and gotten up for sale. Watts, the bibliographer of the Museum, who saw, on examination, that the type and paper were of modern origin, and did not belong to the sixteenth century, exposed the forgery. It was an ingenious fabrication, pretending to give the news of the Spanish Armada, which was destroyed in the English Channel by Drake and Howard a day or two previous to the date of the sheet. There were seven numbers of this spurious Mercurie produced—four in manuscript, and three in print.
Venice has also claimed the honor of leading the way in giving newspapers to the world. The Gazetta, thus named because it sold for a small piece of money called gazetta, is asserted, was printed there in 1570, and it is pretended that copies of that date are in one or two collections in London. But late discoveries have apparently established the claim of the old German city of Nuremberg to this high honor. A paper called the Gazette, according to trustworthy authorities, was printed in that city as early as 1457, five years after Peter Schoffer cast the first metal type in matrices. Nuremberg, with the first paper in the fifteenth century, also claims the honor of the first paper in the sixteenth century. There is an anciently printed sheet in the Libri collection which antedates all others except the sheet of 1457 and the Chronicle of Cologne. It is called the Neue Zeitung aus Hispanien Italien, and bears the date of February, 1534. The British Museum, it is said, has a duplicate of this sheet.
Thus to Germany belongs the honor not only of the first printers and the first printing, but also of the first printed newspaper. It has also another claim to distinction. In 1615 Egenolf Emmel started Die Frankfurter Oberpostamts Zeitung, the first daily paper in the world. This Journal is still published; and the city of Frankfort is to erect a monument, in honor of its founder and editor as the father of newspaper! From "Newspapers and Editors," by S. S. Conant, in Harper's Magazine for March.

RATHER HARD.—The Commercial Advertiser says: Colfax stands bribed worse than ever, once by Ames and all the while by Nesbitt, but as a mere liar he is becoming uninteresting. Next week he will probably feign insanity from over-smoking, move to a lunatic asylum for the summer months, and next fall re-enter his usual round of temperance societies and young men's Christian associations.

—"Humph!" said an Englishman to a Scotchman, as they were walking over the fields, "oats are very well in their way; but in England we feed them to our horses, while here they are fed to men." "Ay, ay," said the Scotchman, "an' just see what fine horses there are in England, and what fine men we have in Scotland!"

Readables.

A Washington letter-writer says Chief Justice Chase's most intimate friends do not recognize him. "From the handsome, smooth-faced, portly man, he has become a tall, heavy, thin man, with a yellow beard; his mind is clear, but his voice is weak, and the thin lips quiver from paralysis. He goes about, the ghost of his former self."

Mr. Colfax has offered his house in Washington for sale, and will return to his Indiana home after the fourth of March. Some of the property recently stolen from him has been recovered.

The St. Louis Times says: "Bets are now in order, that Ingalls, Senator-elect from Kansas, will never take his seat, notwithstanding the strange-le brilliancy of his triumph over Pomeroy." The Kansas Senatorial road is a hard one to travel. All candidates henceforth will be deemed guilty until they prove themselves innocent.

The New York Commercial Advertiser says "Boston tooth-carpenters are agitating the question of 'the dentition of the elephant.' Formerly, this question was limited to obscure rural circles, but since several Christian statesmen drew the animal in a late lottery, it has assumed the importance of a national topic."

The Barnstable Patriot asks: "Is there any profit in keeping hens?" We don't know about hens, But we never make much on roosters.—Boston Post.

The Marshall House, at Alexandria, Va., where Elsworth was killed, was burned on the 24th.

The New York Herald, discussing the question, "What will the Liberal Republicans do?" thinks it would be interesting for some one to show what they have done besides making a pretty general failure all around the political compass.

Reports from Cheshire County of the activity among the republicans there are cheering. The indications in a large number of towns are that there will be a handsome republican gain on the vote of last Spring. The same is true in other sections of the State.

Congress.

On Tuesday, in the House, the reading of Oakes Ames' defence was concluded as follows:—

These, then, are my offences: That I have risked reputation, fortune, everything, in an enterprise of incalculable benefit to the government, from which the capital of the world shrank; that I have sought to strengthen the work thus rashly undertaken, by invoking the charitable judgment of the people upon its obstacles and embarrassments; that I have had friends, some of them in official life, with whom I have been willing to share advantageous opportunities of investment; that I have kept to the truth through good and evil report, denying nothing, concealing nothing, reserving nothing. Who will say that I alone am to be offered up a sacrifice to appease a public clamor, or expiate the sins of others? Not until such an offering is made will I believe it possible; but if this body shall so order it, that it can be purified by the choice of a single victim, I shall accept its mandate, appealing with unfaltering confidence to the impartial verdict of history for that vindication which it is proposed to deny me here.

Mr. Farnsworth followed in opposition to the Poland report.

Mr. Merrick, the second member of the committee, a democrat and warm friend of Brooks, to defend its report took a higher and broader view of the field than Judge Poland, and made the only statesmanlike speech of the day. He pleaded for the higher tone which Congress should assert for itself, and warned members of the danger of allowing either personal or party considerations to stand between them and their duty to their country.

Ex. Gov. Hawley of Connecticut made the speech of the evening. He was inclined to look upon the report of the select committee with respect. He thought it deserved the support of the House, and he should give it his support, at least, in regard to the first resolution. It had been said that the House must not yield to popular clamor in the matter and must not gratify the iniquitous demand of the public press for a victim. This was an appeal which touched his sympathy. He abhorred and dodged the mob, but he respected the people. The House must not, therefore, decide too soon that this was a mere popular clamor, merely the voice of the hungry and sensational press. He admitted the rigor with which the public clamored for punishment. He admitted that the public ear was stunned and the public judgment confused by the incessant cries, sometimes with reason and sometimes with none, but on the other side they were constrained by warm regard for associates, and by their affection and respect for the names honored in business and in politics. They must do as they knew best how, between these opposing influences. The press of all parties had not continued for months to deal in its strongest sarcasm and sometimes in its extravagant demands without there being a public sentiment behind them. He hoped that whatever the House would do, the result would prove to the people that Congress was master of the situation above all corporations, above all corrupting influences. He loved some of the men whose names were involved in this matter, but he had no friend whom he would not vote to censure or to expel if he had been found tampering with the national honor.

Mr. Cox reminded Mr. Hawley that during the last election he had declared at a public meeting that there was no ownership on the part of Senator Wilson, while the evidence now showed that there had been. He would like to know how his indignant friend from Connecticut came to make that statement.

Mr. Hawley said that whatever he might think of the purpose of the question, he would answer it squarely. He had risen on the stage in Hartford, after a half hours' conversation with Senator Wilson, and had declared that gentleman to be, to the best of his belief and knowledge, innocent of any complication whatever, directly or indirectly, and in the first flush of his indignation he had defied the world to prove that he was so complicated. If the evidence since showed that he was mistaken, it was not his fault. He had said what he believed.

Mr. Cox—All right.

Mr. Hawley stated, in conclusion, that he would vote for the expulsion of Oakes Ames, and would vote as he thought proper on the next resolution.

There is a rapidly growing sympathy for Mr. Ames. The impression still prevails that if there are to be sacrifices, Messrs. Brooks and Ames will not be the only victims.

On Wednesday, Congressman Beck and Voorhees, the two leading democrats of the House, spoke against the Poland report. Voorhees said Oakes Ames has at least one virtue. In this terrible ordeal of his life, everybody claims that the old gentleman has told the truth. His character for veracity is unquestioned. He did not shield his friends; why should he be presumed to have protected his enemies.

Job Stevenson, from behind a breastwork of law books in the centre of the Republican side of the house rose and began a speech in favor of expulsion; full of bitterness, malice and invective. He denounced all members who purchased stocks, and recited the history of the Union Pacific Road. Most of the members implicated gathered about him in a circle and Stevenson denounced them to their faces.

THE NEWBURYPORT GHOST.—The sub-committee of the Newburyport School Committee appointed to examine into the doings of the Charles Street schoolhouse ghost, have made a report. It is very lengthy and commences with the first disturbances in November, 1872, stating that the building was not securely fastened, and in a dilapidated condition, and a ledge under the building would convey sounds from some distance. After recapitulating the various things seen and heard, they say an examination last November, by some of the police officials, of several of the scholars, revealed the fact that they made the "ghostly demonstrations." It was voted that all but members of the committee be excluded from the room, and also to give Miss Perkins, the teacher, a vacation, and place another person in charge of the school. The members of the committee making this report were two clergymen, Rev. J. S. Spaulding, Congregationalist, and Rev. Geo. D. Johnson, Episcopal.

The report has increased the excitement tenfold, as it is not in the least satisfactory to any party. The gist of it is that, first, there were no disturbances, and, second, the disturbances were caused by the boys. Several of its statements have been flatly contradicted by the teacher and scholars implicated, and something more definite and to the point is loudly demanded. Postmaster Plumer, one of the committee, refused to sign the report, but will doubtless comply with urgent solicitations to make a minority report, which is anxiously awaited.

Less Rum.

SEABROOK, FEB. 22nd.

Messrs. Editors:—In yesterday's evening paper there appeared a scurrilous representation, that some of our citizens were dragged into the Police Court, that morning, as though they had committed burglary, and charged with the heinous crime of selling a few spoonfuls of spirituous liquor to some persons who thought they stood in need of it, and that the warrants were issued at the instance of some few radicals who wished to distinguish themselves.

This artful dodge carries no force or right whatever in any civilized community, where the moral advancement of its people is the desired result. It may be painful to admit, (and we do it without wishing to reflect upon any person) but it is nevertheless true, that no town of its number of inhabitants contains so many common drunkards as Seabrook. Liquor pours like water along our streets until even our private houses have opened their doors and sell by the pint, quart, or even pailful. Young men are lured to these houses to play a social game of euchre or pitch, just for the drinks, and in the end go out with unsteady footsteps or more often in a state of beastly intoxication.

Boys from ten to fifteen, and there are many of them, are constantly subjected to these hellish temptations, until at last as the years have rolled away, we have come to be the laughing stock of all creation and are commonly termed what in reality we are, "A nest of drunkards."

If your evening contemporary considers it indispensable that rum and democracy travel hand in hand, that there is no higher aim in life than to guzzle liquor and vote a ticket that has been the means of a bloody war, costing this nation hundreds of thousands of lives and untold millions of treasure, then, we say, let them go on, and give aid and comfort to a class of people who are dealing poison and death broadcast throughout the land.

The raid upon the drams lers in this town is not the work or result of radicalism, but a general uprising of the better portion of its citizens who are determined to work for what the necessity of the case calls for, a reform.

The first complaint was made by a life long democrat and we know that many an old fashioned democrat here rejoiced thereat. We are disposed to be lenient than otherwise towards the democratic organ, as it has got but little left to whet its scythe with, when it has to stoop so low as to belittle men who seek moral reform. N.

CAUCUSES BY DAYLIGHT.—The Utica Herald makes the novel suggestion that the low standard of municipal officers is in great measure owing to the system of holding primary meetings at night, and demands of the city committee that the ward caucuses be called for the day time. It concludes: "We at least want to elect tax-payers and men whom we would trust in an ordinary business capacity. Some of our Supervisors and some of our Aldermen are good enough, but they are not sufficiently numerous to redeem the general character of these bodies, who put their hands more directly and deeper into our pockets than either the State or national government. To begin, then, we want to examine our nominees by daylight. Gaslight will do for dealers in old clothes and damaged goods, but it is never safe for the buyer. Just so in politics. Your gaslight nominees don't always wash. Trot out your candidates by daylight, and let us see them. Give all a chance to inspect them, and we will warrant nominations that honest citizens can conscientiously vote for."

VICE PRESIDENT COLFAX.—The New York Mail, in speaking of the testimony of Mr. Colfax before the Credit Mobilier committee, says it sent a reporter to inquire of the Nesbit family about the $1000 bill, and then adds, "the reporter found one of Mr. Nesbit's sons, and he casually remarked that 'Nesbit's name was somewhat prominently brought out in the newspapers,' and received this reply, which contains a somewhat important bit of testimony in favor of Mr. Colfax: 'Yes, indeed; and what Mr. Colfax says is true, for mother says that she remembers my father telling her at the time that he had sent the money to him.'

On mentioning this to ex-Recorder Jos. M. Smith, that excellent criminal lawyer remarked that it was a most important piece of evidence, and added that once, when he was running for a public office, Mr. Nesbit, with whom he had at that time a mere bowing acquaintance, had sent him a check for $100 in the same manner. Mr. Nesbit was a warm personal admirer of Mr. Colfax."

—Look out for a thaw.—Leavitt.

Good Enough.

Dear Chronicle:—Your article "Six Transit" on Grace Greenwood's remarks an Congressman Holman's objections to expend $100,000 for scientific men to observe the transit of Venus across the sun's disk in '74, is pretty sharp, and does credit to her mind and pen. If that individual Congressmen has no more brains than to oppose such a measure, he ought to be kept under a wash tub to explore the immensity of the space of his own capacity.

To shackle the minds of scientific men is clogging the wheels of Progress. Any man who will make such remarks as Congressman Holman on the floor of Congress, against the pursuit of knowledge, is not worthy of even an inferior office in any community.

J. M. HILL.

"ONLY A WOMAN'S HAIR."—At the last American Institute fair in New York, one of the greatest attractions was Miss Ream, who modeled before the audience a statue of bust. I forget which, that she happened to be engaged on. Among the many watching her deft little fingers was a gentleman whose attention was attracted for a moment from her by the remark of a lady near by.

"Do you really suppose it is her own?" she said to a friend. "Oh, no!" said the second lady, "'tis quite impossible. I don't see how you could believe it."

"Madame," said our generous knight, in a voice trembling with suppressed indignation, "there are the girl's hands, and there is the material. Can you be so blinded by prejudice? I have seen her set it up myself this morning."

Both ladies turned and looked at him with an expression which he failed to understand, till one spoke:

"Of course, if you have seen her put it up yourself," she answered, with a shadow of sarcasm in her tone, "we accept your statement. We really could not believe any young lady had so much hair. However, you evidently know a great deal more about it than we do."

The gentleman says he always did think that "back hair" was a snare and a delusion, and he knows it now.

A NEW BEAUTIFYING AGENT.—All Dentrifices had their drawbacks, until the salubrious Bark of the Soap Tree was brought from the Chilian valleys, to perfect the fragrant Sozodont, the most delightful article for the teeth, that a brush was ever dipped into.

NEW LIFE FOR THE LANGUID.—Perfect health is vouchsafed to few. Probably ninety people out of every hundred who call themselves healthy have their "turns" of languor, exhaustion, depression of spirits and bodily pain. At these times a wineglassful of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is as refreshing as "the shadow of a rock in a weary land." It invigorates and rests the system and cheers the mind. The effect of the Bitters in cases of nervous debility, produced either by undue physical exertion, over-study, intense anxiety, or any other cause, is wonderfully reviving and invigorating. In fact, this healthful vegetable restorative possesses medicinal properties which entitle it to the rank of an article of prime necessity, and it should be kept on hand in every dwelling, and promptly taken as a remedy for all the minor ailments as well as for more serious complaints.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is the concentration of sixteen composite parts and can be manufactured only in large quantities. So immediate and powerful is its action that one bottle (selling for 50 cts.) is more potent than any other curative of throat and lung diseases on sale.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Common Council.

At a special meeting of the Common Council, on Tuesday evening, Feb. 25, a communication from the Board of Mayor and Aldermen, accompanying a letter from the City Clerk of Dover relative to a joint celebration of the 205th anniversary of the settlement of the two cities, was referred to the next Common Council.

A message was received from the Aldermen, announcing that the bill relating to the Fire Department had been submitted to the City Solicitor for his opinion, that the bill had been put back upon its second reading and a committee appointed on the part of the Aldermen to confer with such as the Council should appoint for the purpose of amending the bill, and asking concurrence. The solicitor's opinion was to the effect that the clause in the bill providing for the election of Chief and Assistant Engineers of the Fire Department by the City Councils in convention was contrary to the laws of the State, power to choose the Engineers being vested solely in the Board of Mayor and Aldermen by the General Statutes. One Councilman suggested that if this opinion was correct, the city had never yet had a legally elected Board of Engineers; others thought the city government might as well act irregularly in managing the Fire Department as in other matters, that it was unnecessary for the Council to vote away any semblance of power they still retain, that if the State laws give the Board of Aldermen exclusive power it was absurd for the Common Council to assume to add anything to that power, and that if the Aldermen have a right to add to or take from the material of the Fire Department and organize and disband fire companies at will, they had no need of the concurrence of the Common Council. Finally the whole matter was laid on the table by a unanimous vote.

An ordinance relating to the meeting of the City Councils in convention for the purpose of acting upon the reports of the various ward officers concerning the election of municipal officers, and for choosing officers not otherwise elected, was read twice and passed under suspension of the rules.

The following communication was received:—

To the President and members of the Common Council of the city of Portsmouth:

Gentlemen:—In compliance with the order of the President of the United States, I hereby resign my position as a member of the Common Council of the city of Portsmouth, to take effect March 1st, 1873. Very truly yours,

WM. W. PALFREY.

The President also tendered his resignation as chairman and member of the Council; and the resignations of both gentlemen were accepted. The Council then adjourned to March 13th, unless previously summoned to meet by the Mayor.

Laconics.

Who are the Jubilee singers? For the information of such as desire it, we answer the question. They are ex-slaves—possessed of wonderfully sweet and powerful voices. They are travelling under the auspices of the American Missionary Association, and their object is to raise money to establish and endow a University in the South for higher education of their race. Their concerts are spoken of in the highest terms by all who hear them. Indeed the interest awakened by their singing amounts to enthusiasm. A few weeks ago the receipts of their four concerts in Philadelphia, over and above their expenses, amounted to $5,500. They are endeavoring to raise $50,000, and we hope they will be successful in their efforts.

By an advertisement elsewhere, it will be seen that the liberal republicans of this city, nine of whom rallied at the opening meeting of the campaign, are to meet at the hall over the Thorndike printing office on Ladd street, this evening, to transact "important business."

James D. Butler, Esq., fell and dislocated his wrist, in front of the Kearsarge House, on Tuesday evening.

Whitmore & Clark will have a crowd, Saturday night. They know how to make fun enough for the price of admission.

Subscribers to the Christian Union are requested by the agent, Mr. J. B. Frost, to call for their chromos at Brown's dollar store immediately, as the store will be closed the last of the week.

Persons interested in the formation of an independent military company to welcome the returning "Sons," will meet at Irving Hall this evening at 8 o'clock.

A wrecking train from the Great Falls & Conway Railroad passed through this city, Wednesday afternoon, with engines "Chocorua" and "Magnolia," which had been so badly crippled by battering through snow banks that they had to be sent to hospital. The drifts in the vicinity of Union are reported to be fifteen feet deep.

Mr. A. N. Brown has decided to remain at the dollar store over Saturday, and we would advise all who want bargains in nice brackets and other handy articles which are useful at home, to call to-day and select from his rapidly decreasing stock. Now is the time to purchase.

The owners of schooner Addison Gilbert, sunk in the lower harbor some months ago by a Portland sloop, have failed to recover in a suit for damages against the latter, the decision being that the collision was the fault of the schooner.

GEN. HAWLEY ENDORSED.—In the debate on the civil appropriation bill, in the House, Monday, Gen. Hawley opposed in a vigorous speech Gen. Butler's amendment to increase the salaries of Congressmen, which, we are sorry to say, passed the House. The republican State Central Committee sent the following dispatch to Gen. Hawley, this afternoon, commending him for his gallant fight against the raid:

CONCORD, N. H., Feb. 25, '73.

To Gen. J. R. HAWLEY:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Your prompt and manly exposure of yesterday's raid upon the Treasury meets the hearty approval of the republicans of New Hampshire. We join our protest with yours against this flagrant betrayal of the principles of economy and honesty, and we repudiate any leadership that fails to hold the republican party to a faithful fulfillment of its solemn pledges to the country. We cordially invite you to address the people of our State next week, and urge you to accept the invitation.

O. C. MOORE, Chair. repub. State Com.
B. F. PRESCOTT, Secretary.

A SCHOOL BOY'S DECEPTION.—A Hampshire county, Mass., urchin, impressed with the conviction that he wouldn't go to school any longer, visited a dye-house in the vicinity of the school room and borrowed a quantity of purple dye. With this acquisition he wrought divers cruel and vindictive welts athwart his arms and chest, after which he meandered toward the parental roof in tears, and revealed the torturing diagrams on his arms and body to the agonized mother. A post-haste message to found the fatal schoolmarm that her presence was imperatively demanded beneath the roof of that afflicted household, but ere she came those hideous welts began to wear off in decided duplicates of purple crock on sheets and clothing. This phenomenon was supplemented by a startling discovery. Another 2-40 message to the schoolmarm said she needn't come. Tantaloo-ate-you has a lively remembrance of some duplicate welts which didn't wear off in a hurry, and didn't crock.

Pulmocine Cordial

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croup, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the opinion of PREVENTION children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultimate thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It promotes expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when put in water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

DIRECTIONS:—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been Super-matured or ripened though the Alden Pneumatic Process, and prepared perfectly clean without exposure to flies or dirt.

These are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you cannot tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

IRON IN the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damage and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of those are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model. It does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantage over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is lighter speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.
N. B. Those purchasing for cash, before the 1 of January next, will have a consideration allowed them.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Alleviator absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain (locally produced by Corns), the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the scorching, stinging, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Alleviator for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

Spectre Hunting.

I will frankly state that we saw no ghost. Whether what we did see, and did hear, and did imagine is worth the telling, is for you to judge, provided all the time that the somewhat discouraging announcement with which this article begins has not frightened you away. After all I am rather glad that we did not see him. A single night of horror has been known to turn one's hair as white as the face of the ghost who sighted us. White hairs well become bank presidents and rabbits; for a struggling journalist, who is constantly and professionally running his inky fingers through his locks, they might prove outdandy. Then to have all our previous notions and theories and skepticisms with regard to the supernatural upset in a single twelve-hour is shocking to mental self-respect. The bars once down, what a troop of wild chimeras come flocking in! Ghosts once accepted as facts, ghouls, giants, grummets, genii, goblins, and all the festive supernaturals who rejoice in the G initial would follow in turn, till one's poor brain became as uncanny as a volume of Grimm's tales or of Walt Whitman's wildest imaginings. The religous principle, even, might receive a jar, and the ghost thus become responsible for an hereafter of misery. No, I am glad we did not see him, although during the night we not watching, and waiting I think each one of us would have gives both his thumbs and several of his ears to have gazed for five satisfactory minutes at the spectre of our guess. But darkness and midnight in an unhallowed locality, with surroundings of mystic portent, is one thing; and broad sunshine in the midst of a bustling and common-sense community is another.

HISTORICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL

Having refused to encourage any false expectations on the part of the reader, it may not be out of place to state what it was we sought and where it was we sought him. For some months the newspapers have had occasional mention of a haunted school house in Newburyport. At first the announcement engaged just so much and just so little attention as the average haunted house engages. One person said fraud, another suggested rats, a third alluded to what is known among mortals as gammon, and still another spoke of too much lobster eaten too late at night. But still reports came dancing along from the maritime old city to the east, and every report helped to raise the school house to its present eminent position, the proud possessor of the best authenticated ghost in New England. The story is just this; There is a primary school at the south end of Newburyport where Miss Perkins imparts the elements of an education to some sixty little boys, all under four years. Last fall the attention of teacher and scholars was first called to what has since become familiar to them—the presence of an apparition which has chosen this building for its earthly habitation. It is not an unpleasant ghost to look upon, a tow-headed, blue-eyed little boy, nine or ten years old, in appearance, and possessed of the merry, mischievous bent which obtains among flesh and blood urchins of the age. He comes and looks through a window that opens into the front entry. Miss Perkins and her children have seen him at full length some half-dozen times. They describe him as dressed in a little suit of brown; as pale of face and sad of expression; eyes open and remarkably beautiful; hands invariably crossed in front of the waist and slightly extended with the palms outward. His hands are thin and white, the fingers wasted as if by long sickness. Whenever he has been seen it has been either at the window referred to or through the open door leading into the entry. He has stood there quietly and still, with his head slightly bent forward and his hands held out, like a genuine schoolboy deprecating punishment. So natural was the appearance that the teacher and pupils all thought it a boy of bone and consistency. Not so long, however, for when the teacher attempted to grasp the intruder and find out what manner of thing it was, it vanished like a dissolving view, or like a Galetea who has got enough of earth. And so it used to come and gaze lovingly in upon the school through the front entry window. Sometimes it would display merely a hand at the window. Sometimes it would play merry pranks with the movables in the entry, knocking dust-pan and brushes to the floor with a sad clatter, sending the broom waltzing into the school-room, to the delectation of the small boys therein, making unaccountable noises in the cobweb-hung cock-loft overhead, slamming blinds in the face of the teacher, and like spiritual diversions, all innocent in themselves but calculated to fill the beholders with wonder and bewilderment. Its pet amusement was to bowl either cannon balls or Dutch cheeses along the garret floor while the geography class was reciting, to hammer and pound in invisible carpentry up-stairs for the benefit of the microscope pupils in mental arithmetic. Such is the substance of the stories current in Newburyport and elsewhere, relative to the haunted school house and its haunting inmate.

EXPEDITION OF THE GHOST-HUNTERS.

A factious trio of those unfortunates whose chief end is to vex the long suffering public every Sunday morning into a frightful state of mind for divine worship, were at their wits' outlandish for a new sensation. They were on the verge of some awful journalistic sin, contemplating some startling sensation in Back Bay society or of inventing a mysterious murder at Neponset—when the school-boy poet of Newburyport came out so and sweetly to cut the Gordian knot of their perplexity. Viewed in a professional light the idea was a good one. Ghosts have been rare in the Sunday papers of late. This was an exceptionally diuretic spirit and would probably submit to the interview with grace and politeness. As a bit of personal adventure the plan was not unattractive. A night on a haunted house is an experience for which the opportunity comes not often. To but through the wilds of Newburyport; to dodge the arrows of savage school committees men; to surmount the difficulties of those attic stairs, and there in the Upji of that forsaken cock loft to meet it face to face and to say: "The Ghost, I presume" would well be worth the trial. So thought the originators of this remarkable expedition. Preparations for the trip were made with judicious care. The organization and equipment were simply perfect. Like three wise men the three journalists armed themselves after totally different fashions. One bore a huge navy pistol loaded with a silver bullet. To procure the silver bullet he melted down the case of his grandmother's watch, and cheerfully was the sacrifice made. The second filled his pockets with marbles and taffy, justly hoping with such pacific weapons to win over the juvenile ghost. The third carried a complete set of Jacob Abbott's "Rollo in Europe," and several copies of Mr Grass's anti-tobacco tracts, thus sagaciously blending amusement with good moral instruction for a spectre of tender years. The force was enlarged by enlisting the seventh son of a seventh son, born with a veil; an experienced Indian hunter, for whom scalping was a pastime, and who feared not the devil; a Mysterious Man, who had a fellow feeling for any other mystery; and lastly, the best authority on the supernatural we could procure, a young gentleman who had made a study of the part of Hamlet's father's ghost, for amateur theatricals. With this admirably appointed force we formed our lines and advanced upon Newburyport, cheery and hopeful.

SKIRMISHING.

I had prepared, with the invaluable aid of the Gazetteer, a genial half column of statistical information about Newburyport, believing that it would not be unacceptable to the inquiring minds which have followed me thus far. But unfortunately the great press of copy which the origin of Washington's birthday entail, makes it necessary to defer this useful matter, and my labor is lost, although I have a faint hope of working it into a love story at some future day. The advent of so large a party was regarded with wonder and suspicion by the Newburyporters, in whose eyes two commercial tourists and an essence peddler constitute an unprecedented arrival. We separated into twos and threes and sought the hotel, while the Mysterious Man, muffling his talma close under his chin, and pulling a Kossuth hat over his features, stalked alone through the most devious and darkest by-ways he could discover, muttering the while weird incantations to himself, to the astonishment of what few citizens he chanced to meet. When we next saw him it was two hours later, and he was pacing the walk in front of the hotel. We entreated him to enter and partake of food, but as we spoke a small boy happened to approach, innocently whistling "Captain Jinks," and the Mysterious Man, whispering "Hist!" through his clenched teeth, suddenly disappeared and was seen a moment later crouching in the shadow of an iron lamp-post. I candidly opine that our Mysterious Man is responsible for more frights given to respectable females in Newburyport, and was the theme of more conjecture and suspicion on the part of the excellent police, than any stranger in that city for many a day. As for the rest of us, we excited comment enough, passing now for a company of strolling actors, talking stage parlance with an air which would have put professionals to the blush, now for a company of capitalists prospecting for a line of ocean steamships between Newburyport and Hingham, and now, be it said with shame, for a gang of counterfeiters. Good green backs of Uncle Sam's most approved construction were actually refused from our hands because of the suspicious look of the parties who attempted to utter them. And so in mystery and incognito were the evening away. The natural order of procedure, which any sane journalist will endorse, was to interview the teacher, who is especially responsible for the ghost, cajole the school committee into a loan of the key to the building, and having attained admission, to await in passive resignation whatever developments might be vouchsafed us. This was approved by all save the Man of Mystery, for whose dark nature it was altogether too obvious and commonplace. He had a fiendish scheme which involved the gagging of the policeman on that beat, the forcible entrance through a scuttle, ladders, dark lanterns, crape masks, bludgeons and other accessories to unholy and mysterious deeds. For reasons which will be apparent it was not adopted.

THE TEACHER.

Miss Perkins, lives at the extreme east end of the city, on the shores of the broad Atlantic and just beyond a mountainous bank of snow, high as Pelion topped by Ossa and broad as the bed of Ware. In its cozily depths the party from-over-the-sea spirit and teacher were well nigh forgotten, and the seventeen of a seventh son had well nigh been garnered onto his spirit brethren from sheer exhaustion and cold. "There shall be no Alps," chanted our Indian fighter and the show was finally dismissed and surposed. Miss Perkins is a comely and intelligent young lady, conjecturally about twenty-three. The school committee scored to her the prance which the best school demands. Her story is simply and modestly told. She adheres to it with reticent persistency, never contradicts herself to detail however minute, nor attempts to explain the phenomena she can not understand. She can hardly comprehend why she should desire to deceive in a matter where her position and reputation are at stake. It certainly is not a morbid longing for notoriety which prompts her, for she has refused large sums offered to tempt her to take the lecture stand and to tell other people of the circumstances which have made so strong an impression on herself. She has even refused her photograph when it was sought by a publisher with a price for which most young ladies would willingly submit to be photographed from sunrise to sunset. Never was she extended her story. It has only been told in substitution, and then with all the modest assurance of conviction. Whether she has really seen and heard, or has honestly imagined that she has seen and heard them, she must be ranked with the most courageous of women. How many girls would have stuck to their post, spite of ghost and ghostly manifestations, for weeks and months, and bred down all the charges of fraud and imposition which the most suspicious of petty communities could have cast at them? It is safe to make a low estimate of the number of such. She has sixty-eight scholars, every one of whom corroborates her story. There is therefore either something in it or else it is the most remarkably successful system of collusion on record. Strange to say these little boys do not regard the apparition with horror, but have accepted it and its noises as a matter of course. Her school has gained, rather than lost in numbers, since it first appeared. Miss Perkins herself, although she has demonstrated that she is ghost-proof, does not especially like to be beholden. She tacked up a close curtain of paper over the window sash, but it almost invariably showed either its face or its hand. This was during the last of November, and she has not seen the appearance since. One morning, however, on entering the schoolroom, she found that the paper had been taken down from the window, and carefully laid on the floor. The tacks, she says, were still in the woodworks, and there was not a tear in the paper, nor were the holes large enough to have slipped over the tackheads. It is her firm conviction that it was the work of the spirit. Although the boy has not been seen since November, the unaccountable noises continued up to within a fortnight. For two weeks past they have not been heard. On occasions a voice has been heard, addressing one and another of the scholars.

For instance: Ghost—"Dadie Pike." Dadie Pike—"What ma'am?" Miss Perkins—"Have you learned your geography?" In every case the boy addressed by the ghost has taken the voice to be that of his teacher, and the teacher, although herself not a little agitated, has acquiesced in this delusion to avert the sensation which would otherwise be created. On two occasions she sat absolutely using the apparition, which retreated, and when she had almost overtaken it, melted away, like a spirit orthodox ghost, into thin air. The cuckloft particularly is a place of horror. There is a circular ventilator leading up into it from the school room ceiling, and the spectre-boy has been seen peeping down on the school beneath. But in spite of all these demonstrations Miss Perkins has kept on in the even tenor of her educational way, and her flesh and blood pupils, and it is to be hoped, the ghostly one as well, are rapidly becoming proficient in the small lore which it is her duty to impart. On the whole the community without has agitated itself vastly more over the affair than the little community within the school house walls. The latter accepts the ghost as an established fact, and pushes bravely on through primer, spelling book and fractions vulgar.

A QUESTION OF EVIDENCE.

Briefly to sum up the situation, we have on the one hand well grounded and rational belief that such phenomena are inherent impossibilities; on the other, and in support of the ghost's authenticity, are the positive statements of a lady who has respectability and a reputation for truthfulness to back her assertions; who has character and livelihood to maintain and a position to keep, and who, if in her right mind, could hardly be suspected of risking all for the sake of a cheap hoax upon the community, whose good opinion is everything to her. We also have the corroborative testimony of between sixty and seventy small witnesses, a party to which the best criminal lawyer in the State would not induce to hang together and be consistent in any manufactured evidence; and the word of numerous outsiders, residents of Newburyport, whose curiosity has led them to visit the school and who bear witness to the noises in the attic above. The problem is a tough one, considered in any light. Admit the only explanation left, which avoids the responsibility of admitting supernatural elements, is that of a systematic plan of deception carried on by some person or persons unknown. It is hard to talk with the teacher or with the little boys, and acknowledge to ourself that they are guilty of deliberate falsehood; it is harder still to come to the belief that the ghost is genuine. Our personal experience is valueless in the matter. It proves that the ghost did not appear to us. It does not and can not establish the fact that it never appeared to Miss Perkins. Nothing has been seen or heard for two weeks, she says. We should like both to place our own want of nerve against the word of so many trustworthy people.

THE HAUNTED SCHOOL-HOUSE.

When the lights were last going out in the houses on the city we first got permission to visit the schoolhouse, accompanied by a party for the night. An excellent old gentleman, who went as an honor to the school committee, between here and Sitka, had, after much importunity and many prayers, yielded to our possession the covered key. I believe that nothing but his age and the anxiety of his good wife prevented him from joining our party. But he sent a substitute in the person of the janitor of the school, who had never seen the ghost but who would have perished at the stake rather than renounce his belief in it. On we went, men, close together, except the Mysterious Man, who strolled far ahead, gathering relentless and cheerfully his ghostly prey and peering from beneath his hat into the faces of home-returning swains who such a terrible black gaze as sent them in terror hastening to their firesides. On the way we passed the church where the bones of George White-field and the house where William Lloyd Garrison was born, two monumental circumstances which served not to augment our accumulating dread. Shall I confess that we did not rush in to the building, when it was reached, with any indecent haste; that with every one of us politeness got the better of eagerness, and each was willing to give precedence to the other? Once inside, by the light of two spectral tallow dips, mysteriously produced from the ample talons of the Mysterious Man, we took a cautious survey of the premises. The school-house was, in remote antiquity, a Catholic Church. It is a cheerless building, situated on a lonely-by-way, apart from the common walks of men. The outside door opendirectly into the entry, affected so much by the ghost, and between the entry and the school-room inside is the window referred to above. We found this window effectually screened with paper, which we carefully took down that the spirit might have every facility for exhibiting himself.

One of our sturdy lights we placed outside where it would shine full upon whatever appeared, and as it required continual adjusting, occasion was afforded for numerous trips of terror into the entry. A good fire was soon burning in the stove, around which clustered a half-scared, half-jesting party. I need not apologize for what may seem cowardice. Such tremors are only human, and the most logical conviction of the absurdity of ghosts has never fully succeeded in eliminating them from the breast of man. We went down cellar and found it a mere coal-bunk, innocuous enough. We went up the attic stairs scrambling over the dust-pan and brushes which the boy was wont to throw noisily about; the trap-door which led into the cock-loft was padlocked, and with a sigh of half-concealed relief, like the valiant king of France, we marched down again. We opened the ventilator to its widest yawn, that anything which desired to gaze down upon us might do so with ease and grace. Then we sat ourselves down in the pigmy seats before the Liliputian desks, where young Newburyport learns to shape pot-hooks and hangers. The room is much like any district school which one finds at country cross-roads. There was the teacher's desk, with its bell and Bible. Near the good book the Mysterious Man insisted on locating himself, feeling, doubtless, that he had thus a shield against the windward side. On the wall was the big, moon-faced clock, ticking away right lustily. Having neither Burton's Anatomy of Melancholy nor Footfalls on the Boundary of Another World, those traditional preparations for ghostly comings, we whiled the hours away with many a tale of horror and many a weird narration. Suddenly some one's attention was called to visible through the entry window, flitting hither and thither and almost assuming tangible consistency. This may seem trite and commonplace enough, but there it was, and for a moment it almost staggered us. Then we resorted to our expert in matters supernatural, the amateur Hamlet's father. He viewed the appearance for a few minutes with critical eye, and then pronounced it a natural physical phenomenon. He called our attention to the Mysterious Man, who was peering intently at the glass, and as he moved this way and that, the blue vapor followed his motion. Then we saw that what we took for the ghost was merely the blue reflection of our friend's face. The same appearance of the Mysterious Man's visage put the matter beyond question. Disappointed in what promised to be a genuine manifestation, we betook ourselves to stepstools and the consolations of nicotine. Soon there was a blue vapor throughout the forlorn school room which would have frightened Brother Trask far more attractively than any wanderer from the spirit land. Still the clock hands were around and the hearty ticks were almost the only sound to break the silence. We came to have a friendly feeling for that good old timepiece. Without it the stillness would have been oppressive. It was something more to us than a mere recorder of the slow going hours. It was a companion who talked to us and reassured us with his voice at every succeeding second. By and by we resolved to try the force of entreaty on our Lady ghostship. It lacked just twenty minutes of midnight. We gathered close together and in a deep voice the seventh son of the seventh son invoked the spirit. "If," he said, "there is present any being of any influence which transcends the laws of nature, will it not make itself manifest to us in some way, however trifling." There was breathless silence for a second and then

THE CLOCK STOPPED TICKING.

It came so suddenly, so unexpectedly, so mysteriously that for a while we were doubted our senses. Not three seconds had gone by and after the power of the spirit was thus challenged. Promptly came his answer—the clock stopped short. Not a quiver of the pendulum after it had ceased to swing its full arc. It was as if some unseen hand had grasped it firm. You may justly imagine that looks of wonderment were exchanged. The mysterious man glanced toward the door and made a mental calculation of the time it would take his prolonged legs to surpass the distance thereto. But he was powerless to stir. Something he could not fathom bound him to his seat. He strove to rise. He failed. He gave one despairing cry and fell back in his chair. A flask of brandy, which by the merest chance was at hand, soon revived him. Then it was that we found how a strong, sharp, springy splinter had perforated the mysterious part of his mysterious pantaloons, and held him down as if in a vise. Our Indian fighter went to the clock, discovered the key, and also discovered that the eight-day timepiece had run its allotted days, and stopped as a matter of final necessity. We breathed a bit easier then, perhaps, but found sufficient cause for wonder in the remarkable coincidence which had made the cessation of that pendulum's beats close upon our invocation. You see that I am recounting things as they were. Without any very serious stretch of conscience, I could arrange my facts so that each particular hair of each particular reader should stand upon its particular end. Two hours more passed along. Our seventh son of a seventh son (I am careful to state the figures with exactness) amused us awhile with spirit rappings, in which line of business his agile fingers seemed happily at home, and he had communications from the late deceased journalist, from the ghost-boy and from other spirits of whom a catalogue would be tedious itself. These manifestations served per passer le temps, and were regarded as pleasing jests on the part of the seventh son. The Man of Mystery, since the splinter development, had shunned a sitting position as he would have shunned the deadly Upas. His principal occupation had been found in nursing that part of him at the extreme rear of the schoolroom. All at once he started forward and with blanched lip and awe struck voice gasped, "Listen!" We listened and heard upon the out-side window. Then a low, sepulchral voice inquired: "Why are ye here?" There were symptoms of another swoon on the part of the Mysterious Man, but we regarded them as shrewd invitations for the brandy bottle, and paid no attention whatever. The outside door (which we had locked upon entering) slowly opened and a form appeared. It was not the boy, however, but was a bestial watchman, who had seen a light in the building, and fully as frightened as we, had reluctantly entered in the pursuit of duty. We were mutually reassured when the flickering dips revealed us to him and him to us. Three, four and five o'clock came and found watching, but with no success. At last, weary of waiting, we improvised beds, taking for the purpose some blackboards from the wall and stretching upon them our tired limbs. When daylight came we forsook the school-house and bied stationward, unconscious that our backs were covered with simple sums in addition and subtraction, while the Indian fighter had a rough chalk caricature of the teacher staring from between his shoulders.

THREE DISTINCT TAPS

And to you, gentle reader who have patiently followed me thus far, and who doubtless have made up your mind to repeat our experience and stay through one night in some haunted house, I have but a single word. Desist! Remember the fate of the Mysterious Man. Remember the splinter and the serious abrasion it occasioned, concealed, it is true, but none the less painful. Remember the disagreeable necessity of having pale brandy poured down one's throat. Remember the stopping of the clock and think what an awful thing it is to have tick stopped under any circumstances. Remember the blue vapor, the ghostly taps, the snow bank. Remember all these and pause. Seek not to peer behind the veil!—Boston Courier.

—Regarding Lord Lytton's death the British Medical Journal says the illness was sudden and unexpected. He had for many years been the subject of discharges from the ear, probably attendant on disease of the bone. This had, however, at no time previously, given rise to symptoms causing much anxiety. On Thursday, acute pain in the ear and head set in, and continued until Saturday, when unconsciousness supervened, and speedily ended in death.

—A young lady at Greenville, Tenn., recently presented her lover with an elaborately constructed pen-wiper, and was astonished the following Sunday to see him entering church, wearing it as a cravat.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1873.

FIRE IN BOSTON.—About ten o'clock, Thursday morning, the centre five story block on Hanover street, between Blackstone and Union streets, was discovered on fire. The upper stories were occupied by G. A. Sammet as a mattress manufactory. Sixteen girls were in the rooms and several rushed to the roof, where for a while they seemed cut off from succor. One of them, Mary Keefe, prevented her companions from jumping off the mansard roof and they were all finally rescued, one being injured by jumping down on another roof. While they were on the roof they kneeled and prayed for help, and their agonized friends in the street did the same. Mary Ellen Moore, 18 years old, jumped to the ground from a third-story window and striking an awning railing had her face badly hurt and is so much injured internally that she will probably die.

About an hour after the fire was discovered, the front wall of the building, which was only eight inches thick, fell into Hanover street, carrying with it several firemen on ladders. One was seen at the top of the longest ladder, just at the roof. As the ladder was forced over into a perpendicular position, he held on with one hand to the upper round and let go just before reaching the ground. It is reported the fall killed him. John Prince, Jr., James Sturps and B. P. Stowell, firemen, were killed by the falling walls. G. A. Sammet was probably fatally injured Three persons are missing and fourteen injured.

Congress.

The House took a vote on Farnsworth's motion to table the Poland report, and was defeated, 59 to 164. A substitute offered by Mr. Sargent, conturing instead of expelling Messrs. Ames and Brooks, was adopted by a vote of 115 to 110.

A resolution condemning Ames' conduct was passed 181 to 36. A resolution condemning Brooks' conduct was passed, 174 to 32.

The House refused to discharge the Poland committee from further consideration of Credit Mobilier, 104 to 114.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Presentation.

Not long ago we gave a brief account of a surprise party at the Rockingham House, when the enterprising and energetic proprietor, Hon. Frank Jones, was presented with a fine crayon portrait of himself. On Wednesday night the Rockingham was again the scene of a pleasant social gathering of unusual magnitude, on the occasion of the presentation to Jas. S. Peirce, Esq., the popular and efficient landlord of that splendid hotel, with a magnificent clock, the gift of some of his innumerable friends in Boston, Salem, Newburyport, Concord, Dover, this city and other places. The visitors included many of the prominent hotel, railroad and business men within a circuit of fifty miles or more, and the rites of good fellowship were duly celebrated by the large company at a table prepared in the best style of the Rockingham, and bearing evidence, in the tasteful beauty of its arrangement and floral decorations, of female supervision,—at least we thought so, for while we regard Mr. Peirce as being very near perfection so far as concerns getting up a first-class dinner, we are a little dubious as to his possessing such exquisite decorative taste as the supper table evidenced on this occasion. The presentation speech was made by Mr. J. H. Sears, of Boston, (the builder of the Coliseum,) and was much more happy than presentation speeches usually are, briefly referring to Mr. Peirce's deserved popularity as the landlord of one of the finest hotels in the country, and the pleasure the donors experienced in manifesting their regard for a gentleman who is as popular with his townsmen as he is with the travelling public. Mr. Peirce in response earnestly thanked his friends for their cordial expressions of approbation and good will, and for their beautiful and costly gift. During the supper and the social good time which followed, Harlow's Orchestra (eight pieces) gave some of their choicest selections, being stationed in an adjoining room. The jovial party kept the ball rolling until an early hour (in the morning,) and the time for taking the morning trains for home arrived before the out of town merry makers were properly aware that the evening was entirely gone.

The clock is a large eight-day one, in a white marble case, from the establishment of E. Howard & Co., of Boston, and below the letters "J. S. P.," in monogram, bears the inscription, "From his friends, 1873." It is a beautiful affair, and is now doing duty as time-keeper in the hotel office.

Laconics.

The meeting at Irving Hall on Thursday evening for the purpose of forming an independent military company was largely attended. It was decided to form a battalion of two companies. Capt. E. A. Tilton was elected Major and commanding officer of battalion, Mayor T. E. O Marvin, Quartermaster, Thomas Tredick, Jr., 1st Sergeant. The companies' officers will be chosen at a future meeting.

The ladies and gentlemen forming the Fourth of July Committee on Programme will meet at the City Council Room this evening, at 7 1-2 o'clock.

PARTIZAN UNFAIRNESS.—The democratic press and some of the "independent" journals are discussing the Credit Mobilier scandal in a very dishonest and partisan fashion. Perhaps this was what might have been expelled, but it is not the less foolish. Democratic journals are very much shocked, as they certainly ought to be, at the revelations concerning Mr. Colfax, but they pass by Mr. Brooks' case in silence. The "independent" journals are more impartial, but they are taking credit to themselves they do not merit.

When the scandal was first broached during the presidential contest it was used only for partisan purposes. It was natural that it should have been received as a mere campaign slander, of which there were so many. The man who was most fiercely assailed, Speaker Blaine, has been proven entirely innocent. The name of Mr. Brooks was not mentioned in connection with the matter, and he turns out to have been deeper in the mire than any of the others. It would be expecting too much of political human nature that no effort should be made to extract party capital out of the scandal, but the lesson of the whole sad affair will be wasted if it is attempted to use it for any such purpose. The one lesson of value in the whole business is the necessity of a rigid adherence to truth, whether it hurts or promotes—for the moment—the success of party.

It is the veriest cant to pretend to be shocked that members of Congress who were offered a share in "a good thing" accepted it. The wonder is that the men who took Credit Mobilier stock from Mr. Ames took so little. As the Nation remarks, Horace Greeley, whose reference in one of the campaign speeches to the Credit Mobilier business is now quoted by the democratic and "independent" journals with such approval, saw no impropriety in General Schenck's acting as one of the directors of the Emma Mine Company while minister to England. Mr. Greeley defended him, and maintained the right of men in official station to add to their income by lending their names to speculations.

The Credit Mobilier sinners are not sinners above all the rest who have not been found out, and if they had only had the manliness and common sense to have told the truth, they would not have been greatly blamed. That Kelley, Bingham, Garfield and Patterson were corruptly influenced in legislating we do not believe, though we admit that a delicate sense of honor and responsibility would have made them very careful before they invested in the stock. What is needed, and one party needs it quite as much as the other, is a higher standard by which to try our public men. When we have that we shall have no more Tweeds to be saluted as "statesmen" by the journals of one party, or Harlans and Pomeroys to be recommended to constituencies on account of their regular attendance and their interest in the temperance cause. In a word, we ought rigidly to exact that our public men, apart from their political soundness, shall be gentlemen in the fullest significance of the term.

WHY SOME HOTELS ARE UNPOPULAR.—What is the most common complaint with guests against first class hotels? Nine old travellers out of ten can give you the fault formula in a minute. About as follows: "I registered my name, and they gave me a room at the top of the house, and charged me as much as if I had the best room on the lowest floor. Major General Buncomb had the best room in the house and didn't pay any more than I did." It will be positively refreshing to our readers to know that there is one first-class hotel, at least, on Broadway, New York, that has taken a stand against this unsatisfactory and worn-out system, and charges less for the upper floors than the lower, and allows the guests to choose for themselves.

The Grand Central Hotel, under the judicious management of H. L. Powers, adopted this (incomparably the best) system at the start, and it is being better appreciated every day. The Grand Central has now taken the lead of all New York hotels, in its arrivals as well as other respects. Its prices are $3 00, $3 50 and $4.00 per day. An elegantly furnished room, meals at all hours, from early morn till midnight, and the use of the finest elevator in the world for $3.00 per day is very comfortable. It reminds one of old times, and fosters a feeling of peace with our neighbor and all the world beside.

A NEW BEAUTIFYING AGENT.—All Dentifrices had their drawbacks, until the salubrious Bark of the Soap Tree was brought from the Chilian valleys, to perfect the fragrant Sozodont, the most delightful article for the teeth, that a brush was ever dipped into.

NEW LIFE FOR THE LANGUID.—Perfect health is vouchsafed to few. Probably ninety people out of every hundred who call themselves healthy have their "turns" of languor, exhaustion, depression of spirits and bodily pain. At these times a wineglassful of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is as refreshing as "the shadow of a rock in a weary land." It invigorates and rests the system and cheers the mind. The effect of the Bitters in cases of nervous debility, produced either by undue physical exertion, over-study, intense anxiety, or any other cause, is wonderfully reviving and invigorating. In fact, this healthful vegetable restorative possesses medicinal properties which entitle it to the rank of an article of prime necessity, and it should be kept on hand in every dwelling, and promptly taken as a remedy for all the minor ailments as well as for more serious complaints.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

The tragic consequences of coughs and colds, when permitted to run on unchecked, are consumption, bronchitis, pleurisy, pneumonia, &c. Forestall these destructive disorders at the outset with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar, an absolute specific for all the ailments which produce them. Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chlorodyne, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Aquilina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Fettching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; It regulates the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Alleviator absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and written, and many testmeies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cured by incision! Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or poison compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Pedared Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest instep, the largest and most painful Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolute remedy for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

The Chronicle.

A Prophetic Dream.

Messrs Editors: To show your readers the resources of seamen on the ocean when short of fresh water I will give them a little of my own experience. I regret we have not similar resources when we are short of money, to have a way of raising a breeze, but unfortunately when we think we have a way of raising money from our so called friends we too often get struck flat aback without having any main topsail to haul.

On one of my voyages around Cape Horn the rats had eaten holes in our water casks and let out all the fresh water, which gave me great uneasiness of mind. I did not care to go into port to replenish, so I told my officers to keep a good look out for a water spout and if he saw any we would run for it and tap it. Soon after I took a snooze on the lounge and dreamed that Tom Bowline was aloft splicing a rope when he hailed the sign of a water spout. "Aye, aye," says the mate; "look again and you will see another to the windward of him;" "Aye, aye, sir," says he, "and I see another just under their lee." And sure enough I saw the three all buddling together to have a spree. So I waited a while and watched their motion, and saw them whirling up the water of the ocean, and coming nearer to us than I like to be with such ugly customers of the sea, so all hands were called and we tacked about to avoid a collision with the water spout. The clouds were gathering as black as could be with stolen waters from the sea, which they took without their liberty. So I considered it no sin in me to do by them as they had done by the sea. So we loaded a gun to have some fun and the pleasure of seeing the water run. Then we clewed up our sails, and got everything ready so they could not hurt us any, and waited the time for them to come, with a man already at the gun. But they kept standing boldly on without the fear of being fired upon. So when I had the three in range we put the match to the powder and gave them the charge. I saw the ball fly when it started, and knew it must have made them smarted, for it pierced the center of their hearts and crippled all their vital parts. They stood trembling for a few moments when down they came in perfect torrents, and gave back to the seas a little more than all they had stolen from them before. But we were not idle when the water was falling, but took no more than the sea was willing. She freely gave us all we wanted, because we had her rights defended.

Then we made all sail and stood about for we had seen the last of the water spout. This Prophesy has been nearly literally fulfilled.

Very truly yours, J. M. HILL.

MAY I GO TO THE THEATRE?—"Is it wrong to go to the theatre?" I answer, under ordinary circumstances, no. Theatres are built for the purpose of making money, [illegible] must cater to the taste of their audiences. If only a low class of people frequent them, you will find sensational plays, low allusions, and a great many objectionable things. If, on the other hand, a correct and high-toned public opinion takes hold of the matter, the character of theatres will be found to be as sensitive as mercury is to heat and cold. I appeal to the religious sense of the community. You may depend upon it as a matter of certainty, that your boys will go to these places of amusement. Now, then, will you make these places what they ought to be, or will you simply stand on the outside and scold? There is the whole question in a nut shell.—Rev. G. H. Hepworth.

AN UMBLE YOUNG MAN.—A young gentleman of Stafford Eng., called upon his intended the evening before their appointed wedding day, and she put on her wedding dress to show him how she was going to look. She looked so wondrous lovely and her costume was so enchanting that he went directly home and wrote her a note saying that in his humility he felt utterly unworthy to wed such a gorgeous being, and took the first train for Glasgow.

—Some questions very naturally suggest themselves to an inquiring mind. An amateur farmer wonders "why, on all this fair earth, the ground is bottom side up, so that it can be turned over with a plough before corn can be raised?"

—General Butler says, that "this is a bad year for the righteous."

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

SATURDAY, MARCH 1, 1873.

Congress.

After counting Ames and Brooks, on the 27th, the House voted to discharge the Pelouet committee from further consideration of Credit Mobilier, by a vote of 114 to 78, after refusing to pass a resolution censuring Mr. Kelley of Pennsylvania.

The Senate was engaged until a late hour, discussing Louisiana matters. At half past ten o'clock at night, the debate was interrupted by the presentation of the report of the Senate Credit Mobilier Committee recommending the expulsion of Senator Patterson of New Hampshire. Senator Patterson was sitting in Senator Hamlin's seat, just back of his own, when the resolution was read, and seemed struck with panic. His head dropped on his breast and he sank back into his seat, conscious of the terrible disgrace that had come upon him.

First came a look of blank surprise, mingled with incredulity, and then his face flushed a bright red, as it does when he is excited. He went to his seat and sat down and in a moment jumped up and walked about the chamber, speaking with this Senator and that, whenever any one would speak with him. After a few moments he took his seat, and, having procured the manuscript copy of the report, closely perused it. The resolution of expulsion was agreed on unanimously and reads as follows:—

Resolved, That James W. Patterson has ceased to be hereby expelled from his seat as a member of the Senate.

THE BOSTON FIRE.—Further particulars increase the loss of life. The Advertiser gives some additional details of the catastrophe. When the girls in the upper room of the burning building succeeded in convincing the girls that they could not escape down stairs, Mary O'Keefe proposed that they ascend to the roof and jump to the roof of the next. This they did, ascending to the roof one by one through a skylight, and dropped to the roof of the next building, a distance of twelve or fifteen feet. Mary Moore and Mary Keyes, by company with Catherine Houghton, when the other girls went to ascend the roof, attempted to make their exit through to Hanover street. On reaching the third floor the smoke almost suffocated them. The Keyes girl proposed that they should try the elevator, which descended to the rear on the Blackstone street side of the building. She ran along the entryway, reached the hatchway, and tried to let herself down the rope, but having no weight to counterbalance it, it ran out so fast that she let go when some twenty feet from the ground and her thigh was broken. Mary Moore, at the suggestion of Miss Houghton, tried to descend the stairs but missed her companion, it being impossible to see thro' the smoke, and became bewildered. Almost dead from suffocation, she thought that there was still a possibility of escape by jumping from the window to the street. She could hardly ascend the few steps which were between her and the landing above, but at length she made a desperate effort and staggered into a room on the third floor fronting on Hanover street. There she remained unconscious for a time, and only regained her senses after dense volumes of water had been poured upon her from above. This saved the poor creature for the time being, only to prepare her for greater suffering. On recovering consciousness she reached the window and with a shriek sprang out into the air. In falling she struck an iron awning and was taken up speechless. Her right jaw-bone was shattered, her collar-bone broken and her body and legs seriously bruised.

Her companion, the Houghton girl, by the aid of the balusters, succeeded in finding her way to the head of the first flight of stairs, where she became insensible on account of the smoke and fell headlong down stairs. She was found by firemen who removed her to a store close by. Mary Babb and Lizzie Hanks, two girls in the employ of Mr. Sammett, are supposed to have perished in the building. Miss Hanks started in company with Miss Babb to leave but returned to change her dress. Both returned but have not been seen since. A hat and bag were recognized as belonging to one of the missing girls.

Charles Ingersoll, a member of Hose Two, had a narrow escape, he being at the top of one of the large ladders when the coping gave way. He had been in the position for about fifteen minutes, holding the butt of a line of hose, and a moment previous to the walls falling out was startled by a shock, as if something heavy had fallen inside the building. One of the crooks of the ladder he was standing on became unfastened, and he at once prepared to secure it. He had just accomplished his task when the coping fell out of position. A part of the ladder broke beneath him, and the next he knew he was being hoisted to the ground. Finding the most of brick there he was carrying him beneath it, with wonderful presence of mind he grasped the part of the ladder which was still connected with the brick and mortar by the crooks, and sprang back with all his weight, out of the direct line which the debris would naturally take in descending. In his spring he succeeded in making a somersault, and in coming down again caught the ladder which luckily was at this time on the top of the falling pile. He was preparing to jump off before the ground was reached, but in this he failed. As he was about to straighten himself the debris struck the street, and the shock was enough to dislocate his shoulder. One of his ears was terribly mangled and his side severely injured.

The catastrophe was all the more astonishing from the fact that no fire existed in the building except in the roof story at the time; the floors were apparently intact, owing to the vast quantity of water that had been poured on them through the windows while the fire was at its height, and there was no visible cause of apprehension. The wall appeared stanch and strong from an outside view, but by the manner in which the broken part fell, it was apparent that there was a serious defect in its construction, the inner and outer layers of brick evidently parting easily before reaching the pavement, as though the filling between them was of poor quality of mortar. The walls were only eight inches thick, and yet they supported four stories of work and store rooms. Just before the crash in the office of inspector of building a Mansard roof was put on the building. The board of engineers had no information as to the character of the building.

The bodies of two women were recovered from the ruins on Friday.

THE GHOST.—The Newburyport ghost had a regular spree on Thursday. The correspondent of the Boston Herald writes that there were rappings and knocks and poundings on all parts of the house, tolling of bells, sawing and hammering noises in the attic, dancing of brooms, brushes and dust-pan, spectral appearances, &c. The teacher called upon eleven of the largest and most reliable boys to take particular notice of what they saw and heard, and on being interviewed by some members of the committee they agreed perfectly in their statements. The manifestations became so terrific at last that the teacher fainted away and was conveyed home in a carriage. To deny these facts now would be considered by any sensible man in the city as altogether "too thin." The threat of the committee that "the matter must stop here" has little apparent terror for the ghost.

INCONSISTENT.—The following extracts are taken from an editorial in the organ of the Portsmouth democracy:—

Mr Brooks is crucified with the bribe Ames and there are none among the Democracy who would spare him as they see the gall and vinegar placed to his lips.

* * * * * * *

Next came Mr. Merrick, who made an able speech in defense of Brooks.

Mr. Merrick is a democratic member of Congress from Maryland and is the second member of the Poland committee.

Readables.

Steamer Charles S. Hardee was sunk on the Savannah river, Feb. 25, and six men were drowned.

The Newburyport Herald says it is probable that "H. G." seen by the reporters at the Charles street school house in that city, Saturday night, was not "Horace Greeley" as at first supposed, but "Holland Gin."

Charles A. Smith, 17 years old, committed suicide in Boston on Wednesday, by strangling himself.

Alexander H. Stephens has been elected to Congress from Georgia, without opposition.

McEnery, one of the governors of Louisiana, has called out the militia to support his government.

The Boston and Maine railroad extension to Portland is completed.

Hon. Simon Brown, editor of the New England Farmer, died at his residence in Concord, Mass., on Wednesday, of typhoid fever. He was seventy years old.

—A generous Chicagoian, who will sometime wish he was a camel with a needle run through his eye, gave two barrels of swill and a bottomless coal scuttle to the poor of that city last week.

—Eggs cost sixty cents per dozen at Yonkers, N. Y., and very poor eggs at that, most of them having "survived their usefulness," to express it politely.

For all throat diseases and especially Coughs, Colds, &c., there is no known remedy equal to Dr. Wistar's Pulmonine, and a few doses will satisfy the most skeptical of its efficacy. For sale at the Union Store.

WHY SOME HOTELS ARE UNPOPULAR.—What is the most common complaint with guests against first class hotels? Nine out of ten times out of ten they give you the following reasons in substance. About as follows: "I registered my name, and they gave me a room at the top of the house, and charged me as much as if I had the best room on the lower floor. M. for General Hancock had the best room in the house and didn't pay any more than I did." Now it will be positively refreshing to our readers to know that there is a first-class hotel, at least, on Broadway, New York, that has taken a stand against this unsatisfactory and unjust system, and charges less for the upper floors than the lower, on account the guests to choose for themselves.

The Grand Central Hotel, under the judicious management of H. L. Powers, adopted this (incomparably the best) system at the start, and it is being better appreciated every day. The Grand Central has now taken the lead of all New York hotels, in its attributes as well as other respects. Its prices are $3 00, $2.50 and $4.00 per day. A discount of ten percent is made on all bills, commencing more till midnight, and the use of the finest elevator in the world for $3.00 per day is very comfortable. It reminds one of old times, and fosters a feeling of peace with our neighbor and all the world beside.

BUCHMAN'S PULMONIC CORDIAL is the concentration of sixteen composite parts and can be manufactured only in large quantities. So immediate and powerful is its action that one bottle (selling for 50 cts.) is more potent than any other curative of throat and lung diseases on sale.

A NEW BEAUTIFYING AGENT.—All Dentifrices had their drawbacks, until the salubrious Bark of the Soap Tree was brought from the Chilian valleys, to perfect the fragrant Sozodont, the most delightful article for the teeth, that a brush was ever dipped into.

NEW LIFE FOR THE LANGUID.—Perfect health is vouchsafed to few. Probably nineteen people out of every hundred who call themselves healthy have their "turns" of languor, exhaustion, depression of spirits and bodily pain. At these times a wineglassful of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is as refreshing as "the shadow of a rock in a weary land." It invigorates and rests the system and cheers the mind. The effect of the Bitters in cases of nervous debility, produced either by undue physical exertion, over-study, intense anxiety, or any other cause, is wonderfully restoring and invigorating. In fact, this healthful vegetable restorative possesses medicinal properties which entitle it to the rank of an article of prime necessity, and it should be kept on hand in every dwelling, and promptly taken as a remedy for all the minor ailments as well as for more serious complaints.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

City Council.

In Board of Mayor and Aldermen, Thursday evening, William Bodge was appointed to collect statistics of births, marriages and deaths in the second ward.

The resignation of J. D. Pillow as measurer of wood and surveyor of lumber was accepted.

A communication from the chief engineer of the Fire Department asking that the pipe from the salt water reservoir be extended into the south mill pond, was referred to committee on Fire Department.

The resignation of A. F. Howard as City Solicitor was accepted.

A claim of Michael Brabam for $20 for expenses in the police investigation being brought up, one of the Aldermen walked out of the room, leaving the Board without a quorum. Then a motion was made by a member who insists that Mr. Barsantee is not an officer, that Mr. Barsantee be required to pay Brabam the $20! Just then the minority thought it best to acknowledge that no legal business could be done without a quorum, and the Board adjourned.

Accident.

As an eastward bound freight train was crossing Noble's Island, at about 1 o'clock, Friday morning, two cars (one loaded with iron and the other with cattle) got off the track, but the accident was not discovered until the two cars had been bumped over the timbers of Portsmouth Bridge nearly to the draw, where the coupling gave way and the iron-laden car stopped. The rear end of the cattle car then dropped to the rails, (the wheels under that end having jumped overboard,) and the iron work beneath it tore up and broke the planking of the bridge for several hundred feet,—the bridge being scarred, crossties broken and iron connecting rods bent, through its whole length, by the car wheels. The cattle were of course terribly "jounced," but none of them were killed. The loss by the accident is not large, but the danger of a serious disaster was great. Trains were delayed until about noon on Friday.

Laconics.

Rev. C. M. Dinsmore delivered a temperance lecture at Kittery Point on Friday evening.

The Newcastle (lower) bridge is impassable for teams, a pier having been displaced by the ice.

Rev. Bradford K. Peirce, D. D., of Boston, (editor of the Zion's Herald,) will preach at the Methodist church in this city on Sunday.

Whitmore & Clarke's Minstrels will doubtless have a full house at the Temple this evening,—and will deserve a good audience whether they get one or not. They are favorites in their line, cram the largest possible amount of fun into the hours of their performance, and need no commendatory introduction in this city to secure a generous patronage. See their advertisement in another column.

The evening service in St. John's church, Sunday evening, will commence at quarter past 7 o'clock.

A praise meeting under the auspices of the Temperance Reform Club will be held in the Temple on Sunday evening, Rev. J. W. Adams conducting. The various Sunday Schools of the city are expected to be present, and the public are cordially invited.

The week-day services of the Episcopal church, during Lent, will be held in the chapel on State Street, commencing at the following hours: on Tuesdays and Thursdays, at 5 o'clock, P. M.; on Wednesdays, at half past 7, P. M.; and on Fridays, at 11 o'clock, A. M.

Schooner Piscataqua, of this port, has been sold to parties in Gloucester, Mass., for the fishing business.

The Boston Traveller and the democratic organ of this city had mention of the disappearance of Mr. Henry B. Colson, in their issues of Friday evening. We should have mentioned the matter in Friday morning's paper had not Mr. Colson returned the previous evening.

Clippings.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

MAIN & WINCHESTER'S WAREHOUSE AT SAN FRANCISCO.—The many friends of these gentlemen in this vicinity, will be interested in the following article, from the California Farmer, of January 9th, relative to their establishment in the Golden City:

Passing along Battery Street, there is daily to be seen handsome Saddles, Harnesses, &c., in front of the quiet business house of the firm named above, and yet but few persons could conceive of the vast amount of business carried on there, or of the many wheels that are kept in motion, the hands that are kept at work, and the families supported and the mouths fed by the workmen employed by this firm and who receive liberal encouragement and generous wages. Maind Winchester employ nearly Two Hundred Workmen, earning per week, $16 to $20. The business is one of the largest in our State in this Department.—These are the men who build up a state. To gain a name or worth, a manmust have an aim, a purpose for which he lives; not merely a bubble upon the stream, tossed to and fro by each succeeding wave; not merely the plaything of fate, but a being of determination, who looks to some harbor where he wills his boat shall anchor, and in willing effor conquers circumstances, and is not their slave. So it has been with this firm.

—Portsmouth is well represented in pupils attendant at the Conservatory of Music Boston.

—Two cases of small pox have appeared in NewCastle at the residence of a Mrs. Tredick.

—The concert to be given at the Temple next Wednesday evening by the Jubilee Singers from Fisk University, will be one of rare excellence, as few persons so completely touch the popular heart as they. For an hour or two laughter and applause will be in order, as the singers "Roll, Jordan Roll," "Turn back Pharaoh's Army," "Then we'll sing the new song," and many others of their characteristic melodies. The noble self-denial of the troupe, together with the sweet-yet quaint music which they make, have attracted the attention of thousands of persons all over the States. Having raised more than thirty-eight thousand dollars for their University, they propose to sing on until the amount reaches seventy thousand dollars. Their appearance in this city will certainly draw a large audience.

—A large number of communications are weekly received here relative to the fishing traffic so auspiciously and so largely entered into here, and distant dealers are evidently desirous to make their purchases at this new "port of entry." Already many accounts have been opened, to the mutual advantage of all. Portsmouth is destined to become a leading fishing port, and the coming spring and summer a great addition will be made to the already large fleet of vessels which sail out of this port for the grounds.

—A few days ago James D. Chase, a hotel keeper in Kittery, was arrested and taken to Portland on charge of selling liquor without a United States license. Two detectives visited Mr. Chase's house one evening in January and spent the night there, giving some urgent reason for having whiskey, which they induced the proprietor to procure of the town agency to the amount of half a pint at night and again the following morning. No one ever suspected Mr. Chase of being a dealer of liquors, and his effort to stop the traffic in the town have more than once been effectual in closing such places as did keep it, but now he is invited to pay costs and take out a license in order to avoid the great fine of $1000 and six months' imprisonment.

—Henry Ward Beecher says—"Do not fail to hear the Jubilee singers!"

—The Governor and Council have confirmed Ebenezer F. Brackett, Michael J. Vaughan, Philip S. Mizener, William R. Preston and John E. Salter, of this city, Justices of the Peace for Rockingham County, and Mr. Morris Cotton of North Hampton, a Justice of the Peace throughout the State.

—The Mercantile Library Association, it is said, is to be permanently located in the fine hall on Congress street now occupied as the Republican headquarters, whether they will move next month. On the occasion of the 21st anniversary, which occurred last week, the names of forty-one persons were declared to become members proposed. The interest in this local institution appears to be increasing.

—The citizens of Portsmouth do not believe the population of their city has decreased, as stated by the last census, which was taken by a man by a man who, at the time, acted strangely, and immediately after developed serious affection of the brain. The census shows a little less than 10,000 inhabitants, but it is generally believed that more than that round number can be found at home. Then why not have a new census taken, Messrs. City Fathers?

—A box containing a small terrier passed through this city over the Eastern road Friday of last week, with the following directions attached thereto:

I am now on my way to Bangor;
My passage is paid in advance;
That I shall be fed on the way
There is'nt the ghost of a chance.
I have left a warm corner at home
For a place where the zero is naught
But a sign that relief is at hand,
From cold with which down East is fraught.
Then quickly, expressman, I pray,
Deliver me as I'm addressed,
For the contents of box then will be,
Like my most cordial thanks, well expressed.

—The "M. I. C." (a select club of young ladies) of Portsmouth, who have appeared in public to good advantage on several charitable occasions, this winter, had a sheet and pillow-case party at a suburban residence, on the eve of Washington's Birthday; and although most of the young folks of the party managed to get there through the drifting storm, after hardships doubtless comparable, in their imagination, to those encountered by the Father of his Country at Valley Forge or in crossing the Delaware; yet so thorough was the snow blockade by midnight that they could not be conveyed to their homes till morning; so they literally kept up the festivities of the occasion "till broad daylight," and got home in good season for breakfast. Even the fiddlers, who were to come late, did'nt get there; but the piano supplied the want; and the absence of several young men from Massachusetts, who failed to put in an appearance, left all the more favorable field for the more fortunate beaux. It was the first party of the sort ever held in the city, and was pronounced very pleasant and successful.—Cor. Transcript.

—A case of small pox has appeared in York, Mrs. Frank Paul having taken it by a letter sent from the "Hub" by a young man who had the disease.

—It is seldom that so much and so thick ice has collected in the river off Little Harbor, as during the present winter. It has many times been impossible to reach Pest Island owing to this barrier.

—The ship now building at Neal's ship yard already reveals her proportions and immense capacity. She is to be one of the best modeled and finished vessels ever constructed there.

—The present winter has been remarkable in the frequency of its snow storms and the long season of fine sleighing. Our stable keepers have found it the most profitable winter for many years.

—The annual meeting of the Young People's Union will be held at their rooms on Congress street next Monday evening. After the transaction of the usual business, refreshments will be gratuitously furnished, and a social party formed.

—The Club of gentlemen, all resident musical talent, who lately organized here with special reference to the needs of the coming return of the sons, have already been heard from, their local efforts meeting with much success. Wednesday and Thursday evenings of last week they sang by invitation at the festival of the Baptist society at Kittery, receiving an enthusiastic reception.

—There has been fine sleighing here since the 18th day of December, a succession of seventy-two days. And this we owe to twenty-two snow storms, divided as follows: two in November, the first being on the 22d, nine in December, seven in January, and four in February. And now the last month of winter ends today. It is something to have reached the halting place on our annual journey, and, amid the snows and ice and thaws and chills, to remember that we are really on the verge of spring—that nominal spring in which our rugged New England climate rejoices. The present has been what may justly be called a hard winter, snow-storm upon snow-storm, Pelion upon Ossa, and the mercury, with an almost daily depravity, sinking below zero. It is the last month of winter, and we are duly thankful for it.

—Schr Wingaersheek, of Gloucester, 65 40 tons burthen, built there in 1860, has been sold to Mr. Charles H. Littlefield and others of this city.

—The Temperance Reform Club are arranging for a Sunday evening mass praise meeting at the Temple. It will be held early the coming month.

—The annual ball of the I. O. O. F. occurs this (Friday) evening at Congress Hall. It will be one of the events of the season.

—A lady in Portsmouth, who was cured of a severe and almost hopeless malady by a young physician, evinced her gratitude and appreciation of his services, recently, on the occasion of the doctor's marriage, by presenting him an elegant bronze clock.

—In view of the fact that so many of the beautiful forests around our city have been levelled by the woodman's axe, would it not be well to inaugurate an "Arbor Day" similar to that in Nebraska, where cash premiums are given to the person or persons who shall plant the largest number of trees in their immediate precinct? By this means we might soon regain what has been lost in the way of diminishing woodlands.

—The inhabitants of Portsmouth, almost en masse, are expecting and preparing for the second return home and reception of their absent sons and daughters, on the Fourth of July next, as was done so successfully twenty years ago. Among the many improvements in the staunch old city since that glad day, few will be more noticeable than the transformation of the old, historic Jefferson-Market Building, on the chief square, now going on, and which, from a very unsightly structure, will be converted into an ornament to the city, and continue to furnish convenient and fitting quarters for the city officers. A city hall proper is still among the needs of Portsmouth.—Transcript.

State News.

Amherst raises handsome ladies, but they marry too soon.

The Haserick dry house, at Lake Village, was burned, at twelve o'clock, Wednesday night. Loss $1000.

The drying room of Eaton & Ayer's bobbin factory, at Nashua, was burned on Tuesday; loss $2,000, no insurance.

The Exeter News Letter says the first national clam bank of Hampton has suspended.

The grand old forests, so long the pride and boast of Stratham, are fast disappearing. Parties interested in the construction of the Portsmouth and Dover Railroad have contracted for large quantities of hard timber to be used for bridge building purposes. Messrs. Smith & Folsom have also purchased five acres of the most valuable woodland situated upon long hill, known as the Davis lot. They do not belong to that class of men who sing "Woodman, spare that tree."

George Mansfield of Keene, a man sixty years old, hung himself on Tuesday.

—A veterinary surgeon who lives at Wilmington tried to "founder" his mother-in-law by dancing a polka with her until she got warmed up, and then giving her all the iced lemonade she could drink.

Morning Chronicle.

—A recent medical writer says, "sleep wherever you can; in the cars—anywhere when you get a chance; the great want of the age is sleep." This is not always safe advice to follow, as one of our citizens knows to his sorrow. He was recently afflicted with a bad cold, and to cure himself of it resorted to the method of bathing his feet in warm water, and drinking a tumbler full of gin and molasses, prescribed by an aged and respected friend of the family. Having got everything in order for carrying out the prescription, he sat down by the stove, his pedal extremities immersed in warm water, a tumbler of smoking gin and molasses by his side. In this condition a sense of enjoyment stole over him as he sipped the exhilarating liquid, and he fell asleep. His wife had gone to bed, and on awakening about three o'clock in the morning, wondered why she was alone. Going down stairs, she was horrified to find her liege lord asleep in his chair, the fire out, his feet still immersed in the water, over which a cake of ice was forming, and an empty tumbler on the chair beside him. His cold isn't a bit better.—Lawrence American.

—A young married gentleman in Boston who has no children, gave, the other evening, a birthday party to his cat, and Thomas B. was greeted by an assemblage of ladies and gentlemen of a very merry order. Tom was adorned with ribbons and furbelows, and his portion of the feast consisted of a game supper and plenty of catnip. The rest of the assemblage sat down to a collation of which the centre piece was a cake covered with sugar cats. Each guest had also a little baked cat—made of gingerbread. Tom seemed himself early in the evening as he had an engagement with some other felines, and just before the party broke up, he came round with a set of jolly fellows and serenaded the company.

—Whether you work for fame, for love, for money, or for anything else, work with your hands, and heart, and brain; say, "I will," and some day you will conquer. Never let any man have to say, "I have dragged you up." Too many friends sometimes hurt a man more than none at all.

—Newburg looks askance at a family consisting of a man and wife, both with a fearful oblliquity of vision, with three virgin daughters who also have one virgin eye. They are locally alluded to as the cross squinetic.

—Humboldt, in his "Cosmos," states that the Chinese had magnetic carriages with which to guide themselves across the great plains of Tartary, 1,000 years before our era, on the principle of the compass.

—"Pretty bad under foot to day," said one citizen to another. "Yes, but it promises to be fine over head by-and-by," responded the other. "Perhaps," said the first, "but everybody is not going that way."

—A family of five persons living at Charleston, Mo., died recently from eating diseased pork.

—Signs cannot be sent by mail without paying letter postage, three cents on every letter.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

Pulmocine Cordial

For the terrible diseases engendered by the long-trying climate of New England.

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all hundred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony! As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children groping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultimate thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, it is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills" simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up as from Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women: and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

ALDEN'S IMPERISHABLE EVAPORATED

FRUITS & VEGETABLES.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when put in water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

DIRECTIONS:—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been Super-matured or ripened though the Alden Pneumatic Process, and prepared perfectly clean without exposure to flies or dirt.

These are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you cannot tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANT is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it quickens the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists and others are requested to examine and test the remedy and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases, but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedy is no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the encomiums they have received from an appreciating public. The curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest insoles, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. H. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 705 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running on needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

IRON in the BLOOD.
DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS
PERUVIAN SYRUP
Makes the Weak Strong.
The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantities of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron, in the blood, and carries it throughout the system, thus invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The nutritious and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, purifying morbid secretions, and leaving nothing to disease to feed upon.
This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhea, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.
Thousands have been charged by the use of this remedy, from week, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

BY SUSAN COOLIDGE.

Could my heart hold another one?
I can not tell.
Sometimes it seems an ample dome,
Sometimes a cell.

Sometimes a temple filled with saints
Serene and fair,
Where souls are pure from mortal taints
As lilies are.

Sometimes a narrow shrine, in which
One precious face
Smiles ever from its guarded niche
With deathless grace.

Sometimes a nest, where weary things,
And weak and shy,
Are brooded under mother wings
Till they can fly.

And then a palace, with wide rooms
Adorned and dressed,
Where eager slaves pour sweet perfumes
For each new guest.

Whichever it be, I know always
Who that shall dwell,
Whose latch it is not mine to raise,
Bolts evermore,

With breath of balm upon its wing,
A soft, still air,
Which makes each closely-folded thing
Look always fair.

My darlings, do you feel me near,
As every day
Into the shadowy place and dear
I take my way?

Always you stand in radiant guise,
Always I see
A noiseless welcome in the eyes
You turn on me;

And, whether I came soon or late,
Whate'er befall,
Always within the guarded gate
I find you all.

THE BEECHER-TILTON SCANDAL.—A Brooklyn correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial says:

Mr. Theodore Tilton has permitted one or two of his more intimate friends to see and read the manuscript volume which he has written, for private preservation, about the so called "Beecher-Tilton scandal," concerning which he slanderous Mrs. Woodhull tried to raise a social and religious uproar four months ago.

It is an elaborate and detailed history of this extraordinary scandal, involving many curious incidents, implicating persons who have not publicly figured in it, covering some ten years of time, with dates, names and circumstances, and elucidating some things which are not likely to be revealed till the Day of Judgment.

There are reasons, satisfactory to Mr. Tilton and others, why this manuscript should not be published; and there were reasons why it should be written and retained in his hands.

Under the circumstances, it would be manifestly improper for anybody else to make a public display of the facts is contains, or to say anything about it which the author himself, or Mr. Beecher on his own account, has not seen fit to say.

But there is one thing which the public ought surely to know at once, and which, it seems to me, would go far to counteract the effect prejudicial to Mr. Beecher which has been produced by the slander of Mrs. Woodhull.

This thing is, that there is nothing in Mr. Tilton's narrative to justify or give any ground for believing the accusations against Mr. Beecher in reference to the lady with whom his name has been scandalously associated. On the contrary, Tilton's narrative exculpates Beecher from the charges of criminality in this matter, which were brought against him by Mrs. Woodhull, and which she fortifies by evidence that disappears in the presence of actual facts. One sees, in reading it, how Mrs. Woodhull distorted what she had heard, drew upon the imagination for what she suspected, and worked up a slander, at once false and cruel, against innocent parties. One can also see why it has been considered better not to tickle the midriffs of gossip-mongers by retailing domestic matters, the publication of which, while overthrowing the Woodhull slanders, would give renewed occasions of mischief to backbiters and stirrers-up of falsehood.

We should judge from the foregoing that Beecher is guilty, but that Mrs. Tilton is not his victim.

Poor Patterson

Did not appear on the floor of the Senate, Friday, but secreted himself during the afternoon in a small apartment in the basement of the Senate wing, commonly devoted to the superintendent of the heating apparatus. To this room some of his intimate Senatorial friends were invited and were implored by the recusant Senator not to fix this terrible and lasting disgrace upon him. He also sent for Oakes Ames and Horace F. Clark, both of whom visited him, and at his earnest request Mr. Ames went upon the floor of the Senate, inquired of several Senators how they intended to vote, and asked them to let Mr. Patterson off if they could. Mr. Ames willingly undertook this service for the unfortunate Senator and he thinks that there is no danger that Patterson will be expelled. There is much sympathy for him personally and for Mrs. Patterson who was in the Senate gallery when the resolution of expulsion was so unexpectedly read.

State News.

An Advent minister from Canada preached in Colebrook one Sunday recently, and his hearers gave him a few pounds of pork to carry home to his family. Some one informed a custom house officer who seized pork and team.

Almost 200,000 bushels of potatoes have been used in the starch mills within ten miles of Colebrook, this season, for which the farmers must have received about $200,000. The crop was not over two thirds.

One of Barron's lumbermen with a team of four horses whose united weight is 5764 pounds, lately drew a load of logs which scaled 3610 feet, from the stump to the mill near the Twin Mountain House.

A Kensington couple who were divorced at the October term of court in Portsmouth, came to the conclusion that they twain had better become one flesh again, and were accordingly remarried on the twentieth of February.

A dwelling house at Dover landing, belonging to Dr. Hill, was burned on Saturday afternoon.

Obed Gray of Gilford, a married man, aged about forty-five years, committed suicide by shooting himself in a field near his residence, Friday morning.

The store of Messrs. Thurston & Co., at Lyme was burned, Thursday night, with all its contents. Insurance about $3000. The town records and papers were destroyed.

Readables.

A new sensation is promised. Mrs. Woodhull declares her purpose to follow Henry Ward Beecher on his western tour, and speak the evening following his lecture, at each point. That looks as though she was "after" Beecher.

The democrats have been hammering away at Credit Mobilier for the last six months, and would be perfectly happy if they could point to a few Dents in it now.

In Macon, Ga., recently a young man visited his sweetheart, and in coming away collided with a baby carriage on the piazza, and after wrestling with it in an agonizing manner for a few moments, clasped it in his arms and rolled down the steps. The unusual noise excited the suspicion of a well-developed bull dog, and he careered at once to the scene, dragging a fifty pound block. The girl's father—who was sitting in the window with his night-cap on, an idle spectator of the scene—remarked the next day that the manner in which the young man kept himself just out of the dog's reach in the rush for the front gate was really artistic.

An unknown steamer has been wrecked below Liverpool. All on board perished.

A mule in Memphis is supposed to have a propensity for practical jokes. Being attached to a street car, he became perfectly immoveable. All the men in the car got out and were pushing it with all their might, when Mr. Mule suddenly dashed off at full speed, leaving them all sprawling in the mud. They will not be so ready next time to help a distressed driver.

Bergue Boyse has been wrecked on the coast of England. Fifteen of the crew were drowned.

William Stocker, one of the unfortunate victims of the memorable Revere disaster, died last Wednesday, it is supposed from the effects of injuries received at the accident, when his spine was injured and he was compelled for a long time to inhale steam from the boiler of an engine.

The Wilson bill reported by Credit Mobilier committee No. 2, was incorporated in the legislative appropriation bill by the House, by a very large vote, showing that in spite of its late action the House has no special tenderness towards either the Credit Mobilier or Union Pacific corporations.

SOME TALL WRITING.—Geo. Alfred Townsend, writing of the benefits to be conferred by the Chesapeake & Ohio road, the new route to the seaboard, indulges the following ideas as only Geo. Alfred Townsend can: The new road will have an immediate trade Westward in the important article of oysters. No American of the interior can appreciate the institutions under which he lives without seeing the fresh oyster of the sea-coast now and then. From Baltimore a mighty oyster express departs, laden with the barreled fruit of the Chesapeake. This train leaves a sort of orchard-like flavor about it, so that the fish-hawks soar overhead and follow it like little wanton boys whom haunt bakery-windows to smell the pastry. The wild ducks seeking the pastures of Pamlico and Chesapeake pass over this train, and grow confused, and wheel backward, as if wondering whether the Chesapeake has not lost itself. But when the Chesapeake & Ohio oyster-express, filled up betwixt the jaws of Cherrystone and Lynnhaven, with ballast thrown in of York River and Elizabeth River, takes up its march for the mountains, there will be more joy in the West over one oyster which migrated than over ninety-and-nine which went not astray.

The trade in fruit and fish should be considerable by this road from the time of early Cape Fear shad and Norfolk peas to the apothesis of the great Heath peach, which ripens in the tidewater ports like a remnant from Adam's garden.

JOVIALITIES.—The Oberlin Globe, commenting on the remark of a professor at Oberlin, Ohio, who contends that all amusements for the sake of amusement, including Sunday-school picnics and excursions, are wrong, says: We are somewhat at a loss for what purposes amusement can be taken except for the sake of amusement. However, we have no doubt the learned professor knows what he is talking about. He doubtless means that amusements that are indulged in for the sake of pain, or for the sake of the misery they may produce, or for the sake of showing contempt for amusement, or amusements that are taken for the sake of proving how little amusement amusements afford, are the only amusements that afford commendable amusement. We are very glad he includes Sunday-school picnics and excursions, because, if he had not, we should not have been apt to set them down among amusements. Now that all amusements and Sunday-school picnics and excursions are under the disapproval of this professor in Oberlin, Ohio, we presume that the world will keep strictly to business henceforward, in order that it may not lose his respect and esteem. It will be hard on theaters, concerts, base ball and muggins, but they must give way in the cause of human progress.

UNCERTAINTY.—The discussion of Oakes Ames and the uncertain manner of his distribution of the Credit Mobilier stock, reminds us of the reply of an unfortunate young man, who, having been out late at night, attempted to get over a picket fence in front of his father's house, and in the endeavor, rent his trousers. On being interrogated at the door, he replied: "Just 'easy to come in that way's'any, if t'want for tearin' clothes." "Torn your clothes, have you?" sternly demanded his parent. "Yes, b-not-much a hole, ain't bigger'n dollar'n half, or two dollars."

Dawes wheedled, cajoled, and tricked the committee of which he is chairman into taking emery ore out of the free list and subjecting it to a duty of $6 a ton. The revenue gained by it a paltry $15,000 or $20,000. The consumers lost by it ten times that sum. And the profits accrued to a single man in Massachusetts who had discovered a bed of emery ore. Of this man Dawes was the sole attorney and agent. He does not say he was the paid attorney, and, as far as the public result is concerned, it does not in the least matter whether he was or not. He was equally false to his public duty whether it was avarice or friendship that actuated him.—New York World.

THE REASON WHY.—According to the Vermont Chronicle, the venerable President Humphreys on one occasion, being asked by an aged woman as to the meaning of those two D's at the end of some ministers' names, replied that they were put there to make those folks equal to the other ones who did not have them.

—Willie, a six-year-old, lecturing Charlie, a four dotu: "You best be careful, Cuartie Wilson; if you tell so many fibs you'll get your name put down first, you know. Yes, don't you laugh. Up in the sky there's an angel wot keeps a book, and writes down the name of everybody in the world wot tells stories. You had better look out. He's got a hundred names already."

DOWN—OR UP?—Bishop Simpson informs the world of his belief that "it has come to the simple proposition: society must go down or women must vote." And are we then to understand that if women do vote, society will "go up?" If so, how—and if not, why not?—Cin. Chron.

A NEW BEAUTIFYING AGENT.—All Domestics had their drawbacks, until the salubrious Birth of the Soap Tree was brought from the Chilian valleys, to perfect the fragrant Sozodont, the most delightful article for the teeth, that a brush was ever dipped into.

NEW LIFE FOR THE LANGUID.—Perfect health is unknown to few. Probably nine-tenths of every hundred who call themselves healthy have their "turns" of languor, exhaustion, depression of spirits and bodily pain. A dose times a wineglassful of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is as refreshing as the shadow of a rock in a weary land. It invigorates and rests the system and cheers the mind. The effect of the Bitters in cases of nervous debility, produced either by undue physical exertion, overstudy, intense anxiety, or any other cause, is wonderfully restring and invigorating. In fact this healthful vegetable restorative possesses medicinal properties which entitle it to the rank of an article of prime necessity, and it should be kept on hand in every dwelling, and promptly taken as a remedy for all the minor ailments as well as for more serious complaints.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The City Election.

As will be seen by the advertisement elsewhere, the Republicans of this city are to meet Wednesday evening in caucus for the choice of a candidate for Mayor, at the State street ward room, ample opportunity for a full expression of the wish of the party being given by opening the polls from four o'clock to eight, P. M., the voting to be conducted by check-list. This system of nominating was inaugurated in November, 1871, and resulted most fortunately for the party. Hon. Horton D. Walker receiving a large majority over opposing candidates and a triumphant endorsement at the polls. Hon. Thomas E. O Marvin was his leading opponent and was afterwards selected for a third term as Alderman from the second ward by his enthusiastic friends, being chosen Mayor by the City Councils in joint convention after the death of his lamented predecessor, there being no opposition.

During the year past, considerable opposition has been developed to the re-election of Mayor Marvin by certain elements, which would doubtless have been the case with any gentleman who might have filled the position. A pressure has been brought to bear upon Frank W. Miller, Esq., by over-zealous friends, who have urged him to work for his own nomination. To these solicitations, Mr. Miller, whom his fellow citizens will ere long call to the mayoralty, has uniformly replied, "The position is neither to be sought or shunned, I shall not seek it;"—a reply which has only made the pressure for his nomination more vigorous. We do not see that the Republican party is to gain anything by refusing Mayor Marvin a second term, if he can be re-elected.

If he cannot be chosen, which by no means is self evident, of course party expediency would demand his withdrawal. In such case, our first and last choice for the mayoralty would be our old and esteemed associate and life-long friend, Mr. Miller, knowing that he would honor the office and that his executive ability would find ample means of being brought into use at the coming "Return of the Sons." Mr. Miller having contributed largely to the success of the Reunion twenty years ago, and being a native of the city, it would seem a great deal like placing the right man in the right place and paying him a deserved compliment for his enterprise, sagacity and pluck in establishing Portsmouth's first daily paper and in developing the Lincoln Hill region until it has become a place of beauty,—to choose him to the highest office in the city's gift.

We have heard Hon. William H. Y. Hackett mentioned as a gentleman who would command the earnest support of all classes of Republicans, could he be induced to accept the office. We also hear rumors of a citizens' ticket with Mayor Marvin at the head, or that the liberals and democrats, in case Mr. J. C. Butler declines a renomination, may unite on Ex-Collector Joseph B. Upham as their candidate for Mayor. We give these reports as we hear them and wish to remind our citizens that this year we need vigor and judgment in the city government. There will be a radical change in the aldermanic representatives. All the present aldermen but Mr. Isaiah Wilson, having served two years, will retire, and that board really is responsible for the expenditures of the year.

In the first ward, Messrs. Henry M. Clark, George Tompson and John A. Lamprey are named for aldermanic honors; in the second ward, Messrs. Lewis G. Davis, Chas. H. Hayes, James M. Carr, William H. Sise, William R. Preston, J. Albert Walker and Chas. H. Joy have earnest advocates; and in the third ward, it is said that Mr. Thos. H. Odlon and Councilman Andrew P. Wendell are likely to obtain the democratic nomination. From the above list, the tax-payers may certainly select a Board of Aldermen fully as useful as ornamental and whose members will have the best interests of the city at heart.

A Net Business.

When a business man realizes twenty per cent. on his investments in business where his time is all employed, he considers himself successful. Others, more fortunate, think fifty per cent. profit a handsome matter. Oakes Ames only netted one hundred per cent. in building the Union Pacific Railroad, and he paid one hundred cents on the dollar—yet was censured because he put some of his dividends "where they would do the most good," after the road was built and he had been paid for it.

A. C. Fisher is a man of different mould. He believes in the principle of "who keeps has," and thinks dividends, to do the most good, must be retained in one's possession. Every thing that came to Fisher's net was net profit indeed. He agreed with Mr. Mark J. Hall, an operator in Woods photograph rooms, to sell furniture polish and perfumery in the neighboring towns, and with some seventy bottles of polish and three hundred bottles of perfumery, betook himself to Manchester about the time of the great torch-light procession previous to the Presidential election, and a few days thereafter electrified Mr. Hall by an order for more stock. Stock went up clean to the amount of $74, and Mr. Hall soon found it was "up" in more senses than one. Fisher was to have a commission of one half his sales, but preferred the whole. He had a four-dollar job printed at the CHRONICLE office, descriptive of "Fisher's Eureka Scotch Imperial Polish," and it still remains uncalled for and unpaid for.

Being so successful in perfumery and polish, and finding his supplies cut short, he, like a veritable wall street speculator, abandoned one "corner" for another and speedily developed a new business, showing consummate tact and natural genius which may yet fit him for a seat in Congress, or as a Louisiana governor. He had in his possession a chromo, "Harvest Time," taken from Mr. Hall's room, and with this is as a sample premium he went about seeking subscribers for the Chicago Fireside Friend. He also secured the chromos "Wide Awake" and "Fast Asleep," and offered them as premiums for the Christian Union. Unlike the subscribers whom that gentlemanly agent for the Christian Union, Mr. J. B. Frost, secured, Fisher's victims realized that though the self styled agent seemed wide awake enough, the mailing clerk of the chromo department of the Christian Union seemed fast enough asleep, for to this day their chromos and papers are invisible to the naked eye. His operations in this line in the mills here and elsewhere netted him handsomely.

Such talent was not to be hid under a bushel, and he embarked in a similar enterprise to the last, until grief came to him and a stay of proceedings relieved the good people whom he would have swindled of his persuasive presence. Fisher's most recently known fraudulent dealings brought a letter to City Marshal Johnson from J. B. Ford & Co., of Boston, publishers, complaining that he had secured $80. in Hollis by representing himself as agent for some of their publications. He returned to Portsmouth and officer Wallace, after watching his house for some time, secured him, Friday night, and on Saturday one of the firm of J. B. Ford & Co., arrived here to identify him.

Our Kittery neighbors have been victimized to some extend by Fisher, who has been peddling what he represented to be a preventive of small-pox, the constituent elements of which were ginger and sawdust, which might well be expected to prevent any person partaking of it, having the small-pox or anything else, unless corrosive sublimate were added.

On Saturday afternoon the speculator was brought before Judge Page, and plead not guilty to a charge of obtaining money on false pretences. He was anxious to have the case continued, promising to give Mr. Ford a full list of all the persons he has swindled by his pretended agency for the Christian Union, with the money received; and to give him a chance to raise the necessary funds—if he can find any one to trust him—Judge Page decided that he might go free until 11 o'clock A. M., Monday, on condition that he gave bonds in $1000 to appear at that time. He will probably have a good audience then. Persons who have been victimized by Fisher should help show him up as a fraud.

The Jubilee Singers

Will give their concert in aid of Fisk University on Wednesday evening. This University is a development of the Fisk School in Nashville, Tennessee, which was established at the close of the war, for education of the emancipated slaves. It took its name from Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, who was at that time in charge of the Freedmen's Bureau in the South. At one time there were over one thousand scholars connected with it, and at no time has the number of students been less than four hundred. Its design is to furnish the colored people of the South such opportunities for education as their white neighbors possess, but from which the freedmen are debarred. The American Missionary Association is doing what it can to bring this about; and certainly the young people known as the Jubilee Singers, now devoting themselves to the work of raising funds for this school by singing the old songs of plantations, should receive the generous support and encouragement of all who have the interests of the country and the welfare of the colored people at heart. Patrons of this concert will not only have a chance to compare the genuine "Plantation melodies" with the burnt-cork article, but will also be lending their aid to one of the noblest objects in the land—a movement to elevate and improve a race.

Plan of Portsmouth.

Messrs. Editors:—Is not this the proper time to bring forward the project of lithographing Mr. Hoyt's fine plan of Portsmouth? This affair was taken up two or three years ago, and Hon. Frank Jones headed a subscription paper with a liberal number of copies, but it fell into improper hands and was lost. It would seem that every one would be glad to possess a copy of this fine plan with the names of the owners of property marked thereon. This moment appears to be the best time for carrying this project into execution, as it is supposed that those persons who are expected to be here on the 4th of July would be glad to carry away with them such a memorial of the old town. If the city should be well canvassed for names, the expense would not exceed $3 and it, cannot but be hoped by every one that it will succeed. VICTOR.

[Note:—We think our correspondent's suggestion timely. Mr. Hoyt's plan of the city is well worthy of preservation in the homes of all who have ever resided here. Everybody's business is nobody's, and we suggest that our correspondent start out in the good work by hiring some one to canvass for subscribers.]

Large Cattle.

Mr. Ephraim Packer, of Greenland, last week slaughtered a pair of three-years-old steers, said to be the best ever killed in the State. They were bred and reared by Mr. Nathaniel Wiggin of Greenland, and finished off during the last hundred days by Mr. Thomas Wiggin of this city. Their weight was as follows: Near ox—live weight 1950 lbs.; dressed weight—hide, 120 lbs; tallow, 100 lbs; meat 1020 lbs; total, 1240 lbs. Off ox—live weight, 1920 lbs; dressed weight—hide, 10 lbs; tallow, 105; meat 1000 lbs; total 1205 lbs.

P. & D. R. R.

The filling of the Cocheco river, that a new outlet might be made for it, at Dover, was commenced on Friday, but the tide was too swift and swept the earth away as fast as it was dumped. On Saturday, after the mills shut down, the attempt was renewed and the Irishmen took the opportunity of striking for higher pay, which was finally given them, $1 75 per day. Work was again renewed and was continued through Saturday night and Sunday.

Laconics.

We regret to learn of the severe and continued illness of Dr. Norton.

Whitmore & Clarke's minstrels gave one of the best shows, Saturday evening, of the season, notwithstanding their modesty in not boasting. They gave more than the money's worth, and we think the audience would have been well satisfied with a shorter programme. Hank White is the embodiment of fun, Clarke has a fine voice and is a good manager, Charlie Austin is unexcelled, and the singing is fine. When Whitmore and Clarke return, there'll be a crowd at the Temple.

Postmaster Peirce is recovering from a serious illness.

Mr. Charles Burroughs, proprietor of the Portsmouth Laundry and a member of the Marine Band, was sentenced to ten days confinement in the "brig" on board the receiving ship Sabine, Saturday, for alleged disrespect to an officer, while on duty. The offence, we are informed, consisted in Mr. Burroughs not touching his hat to the officer when passing him, and 'tis said the reason for the salute being omitted was that on previous occasions the salutation had not been acknowledged by the officer.

The annual meeting of the Young People's Union occurs at their rooms on Congress street, this evening. All who are friendly to the praiseworthy cause are invited to be present, and those who can furnish refreshments are requested to send them in to-day. A general merry-making will close the evening's exercises.

The Newburyport ghost did not make his appearance on Saturday, the closing day of the school. Parties from this city desiring to pass a night in the schoolhouse have been refused by the school committee.

NOS. 3 & 6 DANIEL STREET.

Morning Chronicle.

No Change Returned.—Parson Allen, of D., was quite a wag, as well as a peculiarly interesting preacher. He was often called upon to perform the ceremony, and his peculiarities on such occasions often furnished a supply of merriment long after the parties had retired from the parsonage.

On one occasion, after the marriage knot had been tied, the bridegroom, supposing that the parson was entitled by law to a certain fee, and would therefore return the change, handed the minister a ten dollar bill, which was carefully folded and placed in his pocket. The old parson having noticed the X in the corner of the old State bank note, kept up his lively conversation, commenting upon the ups and downs of life, till the groom became somewhat nervous over the delay in relation to his change, and he ventured to say:—

"Parson Allen, that was a ten dollar bill I gave you."

"Yes, so I perceive; you are very generous. It is not often that I receive so large a fee. A comfortable thing it is to have a bank note in one's pocket." And then he gave some amusing illustrations of selfishness, and another ten minutes of precious time was consumed.

Again the groom ventured to remind the parson that he had not returned the change he expected, and he hesitatingly suggested:—

"Perhaps you did not think that the bill I handed you for your services was a ten, did you, Par-on Allen?"

"Oh, yes, I noticed that it was; and I assure you that I have not been so agreeably surprised for a long time. I always think on such occasions that the husband has an appreciative regard for his worthy partner, and I presume that you regard your wife, that nice lo, worth at least ten dollars, and I doubt if you would have the knot untied for twice that amount, would you, Mr. N.?"

"Not I," said the nonplussed groom. "But is there not a regular fee which the minister is allowed to take for marrying folks?"

"Not that I am aware of," said the parson. "We always leave the fee to be fixed upon by the parties who get married."

—Mentioning that wood fires are cheaper than a doctor's visits, Charles Dudley Warner apologetically adds: Not that I have anything against doctors; I only wish after they have been to see us in a way that seems so friendly, they had nothing against us.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the serious growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred PULMONARY DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of the FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus affected. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, NOTTLE ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is endorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves SLEEPLESSNESS. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

ALDEN'S IMPERISHABLE EVAPORATED!

FRUITS & VEGETABLES.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when put in water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

DIRECTIONS:—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been Super-matured or ripened though the Alden Pneumatic Process, and prepared perfectly clean without exposure to flies or dirt.

These are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you cannot tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will completely kill pelsons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, Itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Bunion Remedy, no sore no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciating public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. H. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER

CULTIVATION OF FACIAL EXPRESSION. The human face indicates the moral training of the owner, to the same extent that the human form denotes the extent of his physical exercises. This is proved by the appearance of man wherever found. The moral discrepancies between the varieties of the human race are as great as those of the physical. Those engaged in physical labor alone, have a stolid, meaningless expression, while those parts of the body most exercised are fully developed. Those engaged in mental labor, have a bright, intellectual countenance. The most savage people are always found to be the ugliest. Instead of their prominent features being developed by mental exercise, they are deformed by violent, unsubdued passions. Those who are endowed with great sensibility have beautiful faces which are full of pleasing expressions, but very strong emotions of any kind are unfavorable to regularity of feature. The refining effects of high culture, aided by religious feelings, are certain to subdue the evil passions, and enable the unfortunate and sorrowing to persevere through all troubles. All persons can beautify their faces if they will exercise a reasonable control over their passions and cultivate their moral nature. If they permit their mind to concentrate its efforts upon but one course of action or line of thought, they will necessarily develop more prominently one feature while the others will gradually become less distinct, and thus, as it were, deform the whole face. It is the duty, as well as the interest, of every one to seek for a variety of mental recreation and pleasure, being careful to abstain from those of an immoral nature. A portion of time should be devoted each day to mental exercise and recreation. —N. Y. Home Circle.

EMPHASIS.—Some years ago there was a student at the Theological Seminary at Andover who had an excellent opinion of his own talents. On one occasion he asked the professor who taught elocution at the time, "What do I especially need to learn in this department?" "You ought first to learn to read," said the professor. "Oh! I can read now," replied the student. The professor handed the young man a Testament, and pointing to the twenty-fifth verse of the twenty-fourth chapter of Luke's Gospel, he asked him to read that. The student read: "Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken." "Ah," said the professor, they were fools for believing the prophets were they?" Of course that was not right, and so the young man tried again. "O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken." "The prophets, then, are sometimes liars?" asked the professor. "No, 'O fools and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken.'" "According to this reading," the professor suggested, "the prophets were notorious liars." This was not a satisfactory conclusion, and so another trial was made. "O, fools, and slow of heart to believe all the prophets have spoken." "I see now," said the professor; "the prophets wrote the truth but they spoke lies." This last criticism discouraged the student, and he acknowledged he did not know how to read. The difficulty lies in the fact that the words "slow of heart to believe" apply to the whole of the latter part of the sentence, and emphasis on any particular word entirely destroys the meaning.—Newburyport Herald.

NO GRUB GRINDERS FOR HIM.—A gentleman of ample proportions and rough exterior, who evidently came from the rural districts, yesterday called upon a noted dentist for the purpose of having his ample jaws measured and fitted with a set of artificial teeth. He explained that his others were lost by his shaking and shivering during the recent cold snap, and evidently entertained firm conviction in regard to the model on which the new set should be constructed. He finally inquired the probable price of the set, and was informed that a full and fine set would cost at least $150. "One hundred and fifty dollars," repeated the surprised stranger; "darn me if I don't hire a boy to pound my grub for me 'fore I pay it. Why you don't know, boss, that that's the price of a couple of fine cattle. You and I can't deal. Good mornin'."—St. Louis Democrat.

Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 1.

For a few days the city has been filling up and overflowing from the hotels into the boarding houses. By the end of the week it will be just full and by inauguration day packed to the suffocating limit, to witness the imposing display. It will all be over before this is printed, and Congress and its hangers on will be mostly on their way home, leaving the city to dulness for the next nine months, without the usual rush of office-seekers, seeking for changes, which has heretofore attended a new administration, or a neglected one. With that exodus goes your humble servant. If it should be his fortune to winter here again and have a spare hour, your readers may hear from him again.

The last cold wave of winter has come, with a piercing north wind which sends the air at zero through the loose casements with cutting effect. The poor half-sheltered and no sheltered animals, all through this country suffer beyond conception. No where outside of New England is such comfort among animals or men, in cold weather as there. The cold wave now passing away, followed a few days of April weather, which brought out the buds on the trees and the green grass on the sheltered lawns. A heavy snow followed the cold and by the end of the week will be gone, to be succeeded by New England April weather.

Having noticed the falling off of imports at New York the first week in February, I saw here to notice the very large increase for the last two weeks, which gives promise of reduction of the debt for this month. Whether this increase is the result of a healthy condition of trade is a matter of considerable doubt. There will not be any doubt about increasing the debt next year if the appropriations keep pace with the last few days. Butler got his amendment increasing the pay of President, Cabinet, Members of Congress and Judges on an appropriation bill. This putting $2500 a year additional upon the pay of a Congressman because of cutting off the franking privilege putting a hundred dollars of expense to him on that account, is an outrage upon an overtaxed people, which ought to and probably will be killed in the Senate. The appropriation bills are getting loaded down beyond precedent, in other ways, and this beginning will make it necessary for the next Congress to add a couple of millions more to the salaries of those here holding minor offices, more deserving of increase than those for whom the addition is now made. The shamefulness of the movement is that it goes back for the past two years of Congressmen, who put $5000 extra into their own pockets. The vote had in its favor pretty much all the members who were defeated of a re-election.

It is pretty evident no expulsion will take place on account of Credit Mobilier transactions. As I have said before it makes no difference what Congress does, the case has gone to the people and their verdict will, in the end, be just and beyond appeal. Public men, in the long run, are dealt with justly and get all the favor and position they deserve, and quite often more. The case is rare where a man is put down by the efforts or combinations of others. If he falls it will be because he has contributed to that end himself more freely than all his opponents. Senator Patterson's case is the most recent and melancholy illustration. The action of the Senate was as painful to those who had associated with him, as to his friends in New Hampshire.

Pomeroy committed hari kari, when he admitted he gave York $7000, not to buy his vote, but to take to one Page to help start a bank at Independence. Still with Page's and Pomeroy's testimony directly in conflict with York's, Pomeroy will not probably be found guilty by the Senate. He will be found guilty by the country who read the testimony, not only of bribery but perjury. It is strange how men throw away character and march on to destruction, impelled by some increased force, which makes shipwreck of judgment.

It is useless to attempt any description or outline of the debate on Credit Mobilier. As an indication of the feeling creeping over the people, on railroad monopolies, the tremendous cheers which went up from the crowded floor and galleries of the House when Joe Hawley of Connecticut compared the concentrated power of railroad corporations buying legislatures by wholesale, and sending Representatives and Senators to control the legislation of the country in Congress as the concentrated power of slavery once controlled, it cannot be mistaken. They were repeated when he declared that unless they were resisted, and their agents punished when they attempted by bribery to control the legislation of the country, we had reached that point when our liberties were again endangered.

The excitement and the attendance at the Capitol has been greater than at any time since the impeachment of Johnson. Butler made altogether the most powerful speech of the occasion, but it was the speech of the lawyer for his client, and devoted to the technical point of want of jurisdiction, claiming the House could not act upon any thing done prior to the present Congress and to the contamination to result from four days more association with Brooks and Ames. On this latter point were displayed all the wit, power and pungency of which Butler is a perfect master. Butler stated a very significant fact in his opening, which was, that in the first session of Congress following a Presidential election, no political question had arisen, nor any measure of legislation upon which members had divided politically.

It appeared when Ames and Brooks had been censured, from the preliminary votes on Kelley's case, that censure would be extended to him and others, but consultation during the week of the House, made it pretty certain that to go into all the cases implicated would take so much time as to make a called session necessary to finish up the business upon the appropriation bills. This with other measures changed the feeling and the resolution to condemn was laid on the table and further proceedings in that direction brought to an end.

EXE.

The Newburyport Ghost.

The spectral phenomenon which it is assumed is giving its exhibitions day and night in the Charles Street School House in Newburyport, gives to that city an unenviable notoriety and keenly touches the pride of many of its citizens, who in strong expressions manifest their derision at the condition of being obliged in so demonstrative a manner to receive visitors from the land from which it is said "no traveller returns."

After reading the high toned statements which have been given to the public through the channels of the press, we meditated the event of interviewing said spectre, and visited that city with that intent. Our first call was at the Herald office to solicit their assistance to our purpose. We soon ascertained that our cause had no sympathy with them. They informed us that the statements were so contradictory that nothing definite could be gleaned, that the whole matter was a delusion of the imagination in the mind of the teacher. We were referred to the correspondent of the Journal as one who could assist us, upon whom we called and were advised by him to see the school committee. His statement in regard to the matter, was "that it was evident that the facts which have been made public, have not only taken place but are as yet unaccounted for, notwithstanding what is said to the contrary; that if it is a humbug, that those engaged in it, are 'darned smart.'" We adjourned our meeting there and went to the school house, an unpretending and not ever creditable building either in its size or accommodations for the purpose it is used; we would not suppose that the committee on public buildings would point to it with pride as being the property of the city. It was guarded by a policeman who could not give us an entrance. We looked into the window and glancing at the little desks and the little chairs, our mind went back to those happy days of our young spring life when we first learned that b-a-t spelled bat—which we often got on our head; that b-a-d spelled bad—and b-o-y was often added to make us realize our miserable condition, and we did not wonder that the youthful "ghost" returned to rehearse some of the gambols with his playmates with the dust pans, brooms, &c., thrown in. Our next call was on Dr. Spalding, pastor of one of the churches and one of the school committee, with whom we spent a pleasant hour. We would not accuse Dr. Spalding of bigotry in his profession, neither could we consistently expect that his decision in this matter would conflict with the views of the Evangelical church which he represents, and which, he, as a paid laborer is bound to sustain. His course in the investigation was to divest or isolate it from anything supernatural. His theory of the ventilator rising and lowering, was, that it was caused by action of hot air and the ventilator in the roof which was at an angle assisted it; also that the violent pulling of the cord which was attached to the ventilator, was by the same; that the falling of the brooms, &c., was owing to the position of the nails which were bent downward, and the opening of the door would involve a suction of air, or a slight jar, which would easily displace them; that the spectre which Miss Perkins states she saw in the entry, was the boy who was with her at the time, and when she fainted on the stair leading to the attic that the boy slipped by her, which accounts for the disappearance of the "ghost;" that the unusual noises which were sometimes heard in the school room, can be produced by a sight knock against the outside of the building. He thinks the origin of the whole matter was in the fact that some time past the boys were in the habit of playing the ghost by putting a white cloth over their heads and wearing their jackets inside out, in order to frighten the girls who attended the school in the building next to this, and that the frequent exclamation of the boys, "there's a ghost," worked upon the mind of the teacher, who being a spiritualist, looked upon trivial occurrences with an exaggerated imagination which resulted in the present sensational reports. In referring to the statement of the boy who witnessed the several phenomena, he thinks that some saw them through the mind of the teacher, while others could be hired to repeat her frequent remarks. He gives Miss Perkins a character for truthfulness and estimates her capabilities as a teacher very highly. In reply to the desire to visit the school and investigate the matter he thought that as the committee had passed a vote disallowing any one to go into the building that at present it would not meet with any favor.

In the few minutes' talk which we had with Mr. Plumer, the Postmaster, whom we found to be a wide awake and practical man, we next learned that the report which was published by the committee was written by Rev. Drs. Johnson and Spaulding without any investigations by them as a body, and that he refused to sign it until a strict and careful enquiry should be made by the board. He also states that Mr. Spaulding, on one of his visits to the school, was frightened and left it. Reporters from New York and Baltimore and from the West have visited the school house. Under the present excitement it is uncertain what course the committee will pursue. Mr. Plumer wishes to have the school room open for the benefit of the public, but in all probability it will be turned over to the committee on public buildings, who will assume the responsibility of his ghostship.

A WOULD-BE IMITATOR OF MRS. FAIR.—An affair occurred at San Francisco, Sunday night, which almost resulted in a tragedy. Charles McDermot, a prominent capitalist, was recently married to the daughter of Mr. Charles Main, a leading merchant. About nine o'clock, McDermot and wife, accompanied by Mr. Main, were walking on Market street, when a woman named JennieGammon approached them from behind, and, stepping up close to McDermot, drew a revolver and fired at him. The bullet missed its mark, and, before a second shot could be fired, the woman was arrested. She refused to divulge her motive for the attempt upon McDermot's life, and, in answer to any inquiries regarding the matter, replies: "Ask Charley."

State News.

Mrs. Austin, who lived on the farm of Col. William Colby, in Hopkinton, was found dead, Thursday morning, by her little son, ten years old, who was the only person living with her. Mrs. Austin was a middle-aged person, and was in good health up to the time of her death.

In Rumney, a little dog was repeatedly baffled in the attempt to catch a woodchuck as it ran in a long drain, making its exit at the other end as the dog followed through. He finally brought a neighboring dog, stationed him at one end of the drain, then drove the woodchuck through, and he was caught.

In Dover, Michael Scollay, a laborer employed in the construction of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad, died suddenly while at dinner on Thursday last. He was eating meat, exhibited signs of choking, went into another room, sat down and expired instantly.

Manchester trumps anything hitherto recorded in the way of mean men. The fellow begged $5 to bury his wife with, and then gathered others of his ilk and got beastly drunk. The friends finally requested the authorities to jail him, while the wife was interred at county expense.

HOW TO BOIL CORNED BEEF.—The rule has a Hibernian sound; don't boil it, for corned beef should never be boiled. It should only simmer, being placed on a part of the range or stove where this process may go on uninterruptedly from four to six hours, according to the size of the piece. If it is to be served cold, let the meat remain in the liquor until cold. Tough beef can be made tender by letting it remain in the liquor until the next day, and then bringing it to the boiling point just before serving.—Boston Jour. of Chem.

Running short of "talk," while calling on his sweetness, a brilliant idea struck a Kansas youth. "One thing is certain," said he; "if I don't go over the Plains this spring, I'll marry and raise a crop."

Truth.

Messrs. Editors:—Will you please inform your correspondent and the people why editors are so reluctant to publish facts? I wrote an article for publication which I submitted to yourself and other journalists, which were solid truths and admitted to be so by all, but was refused a place in the columns of our city papers for the only reason that they were too true—although my remarks were not personal and only relative to some of the corruptions of certain corporations which was so apparent that any discerning man, woman and child with half an eye and common understanding will see.

Editors as a general thing can fire full broad sides from heavy guns, double-shotted, on a long range, but when the fire is within pistol shot their powder somehow or another won't burn.

Truth will bear its weight in the heavenly bodies, in the air, sky, sea, and on the land—except among the lords of creation, so called. It has been tested at our nation's capital among Senators and Congressman and everyone knows the result; even our own Senator from this Granite State has been weighed in balance and found wanting, and even some of our divines who make their business to preach and teach truth, love and charity have also been weighed and found wanting in those three most essential elements. They have eyes to see but will not see; ears have they, but will not hear, and understanding also but will not understand what the spirit says to the gospel of truth. By and by they will see the handwriting on the wall, which will make their knees buckle and bend like the mast of a ship in a gale of wind.

Please answer my question Messrs. Editors, and if you wish any more from my pen, I am at your service. But I wish you distinctly to understand, my dear sirs, that I make no more pretensions than the generality of poor mortals. I know well the temptations of the world, having had my full share of them; but it is about time we all tacked ship and steer on the opposite course, and no longer take realities for delusions. If we see the sun, say 'tis the sun, and if a ghost is seen, then say 'tis a ghost.

J.

[REMARKS.—Our correspondent has asked a plain question and shall have a direct answer. We endeavor to publish a newspaper, and not a paper to reflect our own or others opinions on religion and general topics. The greatest annoyance to editors, besides being bored when busy, is to be obliged to read the effusions of correspondents, rewrite them or correct and punctuate them. We have a constitutional dislike to refuse to oblige our friends, and in consequence insert fifty per cent. of the communications sent us, simply to oblige our correspondents, even when our judgment would lead us to decline them. Were we to print all that is sent us, there would be no room for anything else. There must be a limit to these things, and any reasonable person must see at once that although a delicate matter we must refuse in many cases.

Our correspondent "J." has sent us several communications; some have not been published and others have been, only to oblige him. In such cases, we have only found it an opening wedge for other and more lengthy epistles, which we have no patience to read or space to publish. In cases where we have been solicited to give room and have finally done so, to be rid of urgent appeals, we have frequently regretted it. The anxious correspondent became a censor; his article must go in at the first opportunity; he must read the proof; he has forgotten something he intended to write, and it must be amended; this should be set in italics, in defiance of the rules of the office; that should be remodelled; and worse than all, the inquisitorial tormentor must begin at the commencement of his article and read it to the afflicted editor, who may have been interrupted in the midst of an editorial, or in the perusal of an article in some exchange which he feels himself in duty bound to acquaint himself with.

Our correspondent "J." evidently does not realize our position, or has not until now. We have briefly to say that we desire no correspondence except that which contains news. We are free to confess that our nerves are in a more quiet state when we are rid of beseeching authors of communications, who think their articles are more valuable to readers or hearers than do the unhappy readers or hearers who feel obliged to read or listen to them.—Eds. Chron.

The Eastern Railroad Company has voted to build a new station in Gloucester.

FIRE AT EXETER.—A bright light was seen in this city about two o'clock, Sunday morning, which proved to be a fire in Exeter. It originated from a defective chimney in the frame building of John G. Cutler, on Water street. The lower part of the building was occupied for a liquor saloon. The loss is $4000, and there was $2000 insurance. An adjoining building, owned by Mr. Cutler, was also burned. Cutler's loss, $1500; insurance, $1300. Miss L. E. Gilman lost $400 worth of millinery goods; well insured. The house and store occupied by Mrs. George Harris was also destroyed; loss $3000; insurance, $1800. An adjoining building owned by Joshua Getchell, was burned; loss $5000; insurance, $2500. William L. Spring, grocer, lost $3000; insurance, $2300. A double tenement owned by Charles Conner and George Carter was destroyed; loss $6000; insured for $4000. Thomas Conner, grocer, loses about $5000; $2000 more than the insurance. A building owned by the heirs of Thomas Lovering, was the last one burned. It rents for $425 and was partially insured. The losses of A. Churchill, clothier, are covered by insurance. William N. Hobbs, photographer, lost $800 in stock; fully insured. The total losses will reach $25,000 to $30,000. The fire was the most extensive since 1860. The buildings destroyed were located in the most desirable portion of Exeter's principal business street.

Malicious Mischief.

Fishing schooner Cella was set adrift from her berth at Rollins' Wharf, one night last week, and had she not brought up against the end of Pier Wharf would have drifted against Portsmouth Bridge, as the wind was blowing fresh from the southwest and a strong flood tide running at the time. The crew were asleep when the schooner's lines were cast off, and being fatigued with a hard day's work did not awake until the vessel bumped the wharf, which she did hard enough to break several planks and give her owners a bill of $25 to pay. Had she gone against the bridge the damage would have been much greater, and it is not improbable that life would have been lost.

Accident.

The 5.30 train from this city, Monday evening, when near the Plains, struck an unknown middle-aged man who was walking upon the track. The lifeless body, badly mangled, was taken to Newburyport.

Laconics.

Rev. Alfred Day, recently pastor of the Universalist Society in Kittery, has received and accepted a call from the Universalist society in Oldtown, Me.

We omitted the name of J. C. Carr, Esq., in our list of gentlemen named in connection with the office of aldermen in the second ward. Mr. Carr served one term in that position several years ago, and would make a most energetic official.

The young men interested in the independent military company are requested to meet at the State street ward room this evening at eight o'clock.

The temperance praise meeting, at the Temple, Sunday evening, was a great success. Mr. H. L. Harlow led an orchestra of sixteen pieces and the Sunday Schools were largely represented in the chorus. The effect was marred by too much talk between the hymns by the speaker of the evening, who did not seem to realize that the audience relished music best.

The prohibitionists are to meet at the hall of the Sons of Temperance, this evening, to counsel together as to their duty at the election next Tuesday.

The examination of Fisher, on Monday, ended in the case being nol pros'd, there being a great pressure for his delivery to a Nashua officer, who has forty claims against him. Kittery sent several applicants for his possession, but the Nashua officer carried him off in triumph.

Sailmaker Thos. S. Gay, U. S. N., of this city, is awarded $24,000 for his services as one of the crew of the ram which destroyed the rebel ram Albemarle during the rebellion.

A NEW BEAUTIFYING AGENT.—All Dentifrices had their drawbacks, until the salubrious Bark of the Soap Tree was brought from the Chilian valleys, to perfect the fragrant Sozodont, the most delightful article for the teeth, that a brush was ever dipped into.

NEW LIFE FOR THE LANGUID.—Perfect health is vouchsafed to few. Probably ninety people out of every hundred who call themselves healthy have their "turns" of languor, exhaustion, depression of spirits and bodily pain. At these times a wineglassful of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is an refreshing as "the shadow of a rock in a weary land." It invigorates and rests the system and cheers the mind. The effect of the Bitters in cases of nervous debility, produced either by undue physical exertion, over-study, intense anxiety, or any other cause, is wonderfully reviving and invigorating. In fact, this healthful vegetable restorative possesses medicinal properties which entitle it to the rank of an article of prime necessity, and it should be kept on hand in every dwelling, and promptly taken as a remedy for all the minor ailments as well as for more serious complaints.

EMPLOYMENT!

The National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, chartered by Congress, is the leading stock, life insurance company of this country and has the largest cash capital of any pure insurance company of like kind in the world. It is thus enabled to reduce its premiums largely. Indeed, had it charged the premiums Mutual rates during the last four and a half years, it would have received from its patrons $1,250,000 more than was paid it. By the mutual system the policy holders insure the company. By the stock system, the company insures the policy holders. The National has so many millions of assets to every one of liabilities, and on Jan. 1, 1873, had a surplus of $1,157,969.55. It wants an agent in every locality where it is not now represented, and will give liberal and continuous commissions to efficient and reliable men who will give personal attention to its business. Address branch office, Philadelphia, where the business of the company is transacted.

THE FIRST OF THE KANSAS CORRUPTIONISTS.—Old Jim Lane stood at the head of the regime of the Kansas corruptionists as long as he lived, being ably and piously seconded and supported by Pomeroy. The only difference between Pomeroy and Lane is, that Pomeroy is sleek and sly and covers up his tracks, while Lane was bluff and audacious and killed those who got on his trails, which he always left stark plain. Lane sleeps under the shadow of the State university of Kansas, amid the memories that he made famous and that made him great. He was a great man. It made no odds how well you knew the intrinsic debauchery of his life or the curvedness of his character, you could not stand in his rugged presence without a feeling of awe and a respect born of admiration for the very qualities in him which in other men are despised and loathed. Edwin Forrest was not his superior in dramatic intensity and impetuosity. He commanded men as a lion or a tiger might awe lesser beasts. He could walk into a crowd that welcomed him with the clinking of a hundred revolver locks, and in five minutes every man in the crowd would have spilled the blood right out of his own heart in fighting for Jim Lane. He could stand mute before a hissing and groaning mob and in two minutes you could have heard the fall of love at its crystal. Dew to coquet! Wake up! CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the office of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. Those painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, SLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

DIRECTIONS:—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been Super-matured or ripened though the Alden Pneumatic Process, and prepared perfectly clean without exposure to flies or dirt.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lobeline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinge, the Bunions, the gleeding, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the

The Chronicle.

REMARKS OF HON. S. S. COX.—Mr. Chairman, I think there is a good deal of undeserved reproach cast on the noble Department of Agriculture. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. Farnsworth] undertook to say that the present Commissioner of Agriculture kept a cuisine to cook the seeds sent to him from all parts of the world. [Laughter.] Other members say he hoards and lives to our Patent Office free of expense. I recollect when the Commissioner of Agriculture used to make butter for the Presidential mansion. Those were serious and happy days. [Laughter.] The gentlest cow of Pennsylvania furnished the milk, and there was no constitutional question raised on the cow. [Laughter.] I remember well that a former Commissioner raised strawberries for the Presidential mansion. It is a part of the business of that bureau. [Laughter.] There is no question of its constitutionality. [Laughter.]

I seems we are now to have in the Agricultural bureau a microscopist! In fact it is a part of our new bureaucratic system. Bring in the microscope, that we may see the insectivorous animals which are preying upon and annoying this useful bureau.

I am amazed that the House does not appreciate these reports on Agriculture. The Commissioner on the very first page of his report tells us that the "segregated character of the rural population has been such as to forbid that concentration of ideas and consultation of views which are common to all other professions and occupations!" This is a species of "unabridged dictionary" language which fills the philological and analytical mind with wonder. But look to the end! The last page of the report advises us that we may save $1,000,000,000 by dispensing with fencing! Let us be advised and do better. Dispense with barns, stables, add houses; and then we will be careful and happy. I admire economy—based on a concentration of rural idea!

Again, I turn to the Commissioner's report of November, 1871. I read from page 69. It is the report of the entomologist and curator! God help us to a faithful lexicon. We have just made a bureau of the microscope. My friend from Indiana, [Mr. Holman,] opposes it; and I never oppose him. What is this bureau? It is, in fact, the bureau of bugs! I deny that entomology as a science does not include all bugs, humbugs not excluded. [Laughter.] The Commissioner says that bugs are not insignificant insects, as they are generally and erroneously called. But, sir, they are bugs.

Now, I always supposed entomology did refer to bugs. [Laughter.] The Commissioner gives the various modes of finding these bugs out. He tells you of the œdipoda atrox, which I hope my friend from Ohio, [Mr. Garfield,] who is now going away from my seat, after instructing me in Latin, will be able to explain to the House. [Laughter.] There are various other bugs referred to. We have the caloptenus femur rubrum, and the caloptenus spretus, and the œdipoda pellucida, and the anabrus simplex, and the udeopsylla robusta, the doplophora mucronata, and the platella imbibenella. [Great laughter.] These are for the common mind. [Laughter.] Education forms it. Now, these reports have been published at a great expense, and this information is of course intended for the common people. I hope gentlemen will be able to explain to the House what all these things are. [Laughter.]

Let there be annotations go out with these reports, Mr. Chairman. I would not be so particular in this remarkable nomenclature had we not been advised to-day by the honorable gentleman (Mr. Garfield) that it was the duty of the Federal Government, by its function of educator, to inform the common mind. He thought we should, by Federal authority and money, diffuse knowledge among men. I therefore boldly ask where does he get power to interpret to plain and honest people the caloptenus spretus of Uhler? [Laughter.] We shall determine, by Federal tests, the length of wing of the coloptenus femur-rubrum? [Laughter.] I may admit, for sake of argument, that the learned and fresh men from the South may tell us why the anabrus simplex is an orthopterous insect, but why do you invoke power to aid in this microscopic work?

These are recondite thoughts and illustrations. We have in this agricultural book reference made to various other recondite things. I hope this bureau will not be discouraged in its work. We have here on one page—as you see—what seems a hydraulic ram; and then on another, in magnificent wood and type, the picture and description of the merino ram "Dictator," (See page 187.) These are put in the most extraordinary relation. [Laughter.] It is like mixing politics with farming. [Laughter.]

Look all through this book. Look at the pictures of the fungoid series. Here we have the fungoid spores, found within a blighted lilac leaf; and the mycelium and other fungoid forms found on the liber of a peach tree having the "yellows." [Laughter.] Now, it is very evident when we send these out we ought to send out at the same time an interpretation of them for the benefit of the common people. [Laughter.] What have the people done that they should be crucified by such a public report?

And while we are meditating about the new microscope bureau, I would like to take one more glance at the boys. Where, oh! where can I find the proportions of the "Chester White sow," called Mary. [Great laughter.] Only one year old! Bring on your microscopic bureau. Observe the length of that inquisitive snout and the component curl of that tail! [Laughter.] See the lengthing lonesomeness of those lacteal glands! [Laughter.] But her name is Mary! Is there a man who ever loved a Mary? [Laughter.] Let him construe our beloved Constitution. Perhaps there is some one here attached to the Constitution and to education who will reproach me for not mentioning the elaphelen vil-ann, or the stenocrocopsaptor of Beck. [Laughter.] Will the Scotch member from Kentucky please explain the mentious terminology which bears his name? [Laughter.]

But, Mr. Chairman, I have only risen for the purpose of having the House understand the astonishing effect of these agricultural reports, not only upon the people in the country, but upon the people in the city. I acknowledge that the effect is different according to locality. I now represent a city, though by some misapprehension in the last campaign the people of New York State outside of our grand metropolis voted for me to represent them. I fell short in the country. [Laughter.] To be sure, I carried that city by some twenty-five thousand! Though I may not, owing to misapprehension, be with you next Congress. [Laughter.] I must refer to the effect of these reports on the city of Philadelphia, that acted so badly in the late election. I refer to it for the purpose of calling the attention of my friend from Philadelphia [Mr. Kelley] to the direadful consequences he imposes upon his constituents in sending these reports into the heart of Philadelphia. Read very slowly, Mr. Clerk, the extract I send up from the Sunday Dispatch of Philadelphia, showing the direful effect of these terrible reports.

The Clerk read as follows:

"We owe our thanks to Judge Kelley for the latest Patent Office report. We already have sixteen hundred of these interesting volumes in our little library, but they have been read and reread so many times that we know every page of them by heart. This new volume came opportunely and gratefully on Christmas morning, as it that night we gathered our little family around the fire and read it through to them. The affecting tale entitled 'Improvement in Monkey Wrenches' seemed to touch every heart [Laughter.] and when we came to the climax of the little story about 'Reversible Pie Boards' there was not a dry eye between the front door and the stable. [Laughter.] During the reading of the pitcous narrative entitled 'Gum Washers for carriage Axles' the whole family gave expression to boisterous emotion, and the hired girl was so much excited that she lost her presence of mind and went around to her master's inadvertently with six pounds of sugar and a better-kettle full of flour, and came home at midnight intoxicated. [Laughter.] We can never sufficiently thank Judge Kelley for the innocent enjoyment thus furnished us. The memory of that happy evening will linger in our minds very much longer than the hired girl ever lingers when she lights on a lot of substance which she thinks will suit the constitution of her aged parent." [Great laughter.]

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 5, 1873.

Mr. Hibbard as a Partisan.

Many of the republicans of this district believe the statement of the democrats, that Mr. Hibbard, their candidate for Congress, is no partisan. Have our republican friends forgotten how earnestly two years ago, Mr. Hibbard urged the removal of Senator Smith from the Senate, when he alone saved the republican party? Mr. Hibbard aided in originating this scheme, and spent hours every day in the Senate, engineering it, until driven from it by the stirring denunciations of Hon. Joshua G. Hall, the member from the fifth district.

Ellery A. Hibbard devised the scheme to change the wards in Manchester, fixing the wards so that the democrats would have a majority in several wards, instead of a large majority in a single one, and to carry it through also originated the still viler scheme of preventing Senator Holbrook from voting on the proposition, alleging that because he was from Manchester, he had no right to do so. If this scheme had succeeded, the bill would have passed, and one of the most outrageous wrongs been perpetrated on Manchester and the party, that partisan measures could instigate. The fact is that Ellery A. Hibbard is one of the most violent and unscrupulous partisans in the whole party, and is leaving no means untried to secure his election and defeat Mr. Small.

The old scriptural allusion to "being harmless as doves, but wise as serpents" only applies to him so far as the last character is described. A sharp criticism of his conduct for two years past will prove the truth of the assertion. Let every republican in the district make it.

President Grant

And Vice President Wilson were sworn into office at noon, on the 4th. The ceremonies and parade were the most extensive ever seen on such occasions. The weather was fine, Washington was filled with strangers and presented a gay appearance.

The President's Address.

Fellow Citizens:—Under Providence, I have been called a second time to act as Executive over this great nation. It has been my endeavor in the past to maintain all the laws, and, so far as laid in my power, to act for the best interests of the whole people. My best efforts will be given in the same direction in the future, aided, I trust, by my four years' experience in the office.

When my first term of the office of Chief Executive began, the country had not recovered from the effects of a great internal revolution, and three of the former States of the Union had not been restored to their federal relations. It seemed to me wise that no new questions should be raised so long as that condition of affairs existed. Therefore, the past four years, so far as I could control events, have been consumed in the effort to restore harmony, public credit, commerce and all the arts of peace and progress. It is my firm conviction that the civilized world is tending toward republicanism, or government by the people through their chosen representatives, and that our own great Republic is designed to be the guiding star to all others. Under our Republic we support an army less than that of any European power of any grounding, and a navy less than that of either of at least five of them. There could be no extension of territory on this continent which would call for an increase of this force, but rather might such extension enable us to diminish it.

The theory of government changes with the general progress. Now that the telegraph is made available for communicating thought, together with the rapid transit by steam, all parts of a continent are made contiguous for all purposes of government and communication between the extreme limits of the country is made easier than it was throughout the old thirteen States at the beginning of our national existence. The effects of the late civil strife have been to free the slave and make him a citizen, yet he is not possessed of the civil right which citizenship should carry with it.

This is wrong and should be corrected. To this correction I stand committed so far as executive influence can avail. Social equality is not a subject to be legislated upon, nor shall I ask that anything be done to advance the social status of the colored man except to give him a fair chance to develope what there is good in him. Give him access to schools, and when he travels let him feel assured that his conduct will regulate the treatment and fare he will receive.

The States lately at war with the General Government are now happily rehabilitated and no executive control is exercised in any one of them that would not be exercised in any other State under like circumstances. In the first year of the past Administration the proposition came up for the admission of Santo Domingo as a Territory in the Union. It was not a question of my seeking but was a proposition from the people of Santo Domingo and which I entertained. I believe now, as I did then, that it was for the best interests of this country, for the people of Santo Domingo and all concerned that the proposition should be received favorably. It was, however, rejected constitutionally and therefore the subject was never brought up again by me.

In future, while I hold my present office, the subject of the acquisition of territory must have the support of the people before I will recommend any proposition looking to such acquisition. I say here, however, that I do not share in the apprehension held by many as to the danger of the Government becoming weakened and destroyed by reason of their extension of territory. Commerce, education and rapid transit of thought and matter by telegraph and steam have changed all this. Rather do I believe that our Great Maker is preparing the world in His own good time to become one nation, speaking one language, and when armies and navies will be no longer required. My efforts in the future will be directed to the restoration of good feeling between the different sections of our common country, to the restoration of our currency to a fixed value, as compared with the world's standard of values—gold—and, if possible, to par with it; to the construction of cheap transit throughout the land, and that the products of all sections may find a market and have a living remuneration to the producer; to the maintenance of friendly relations with all our neighbors and with distant nations; to the re-establishment of our commerce and a share in the carrying trade upon the ocean; to the encouragement of such manufacturing industries as can be economically pursued in this country, to the end that the exports of home products and industries may pay our imports, the only sure method of returning to and permanently maintaining a specie basis; to the elevation of labor, and by a humane course to bring the aborigines of the country under the benign influences of education and civilization.

It is this or extermination. Wars of extermination engaged by a people pursuing commercial and all the industrial pursuits are expensive even against the weakest people, and are demoralizing and wicked. Our superiority of strength and advantage of civilization should make us lenient toward the Indian. The wrong already inflicted upon him should be taken into account, and balance placed to his credit. The moral view of the question should be considered, and the question asked, "Cannot the Indian be made a useful and productive member of society by proper teaching and treatment?" If the effort is made in good faith we will stand better before the civilized nations of the earth, and in our own consciences, for having made it. All these things are not to be accomplished by one individual, but they will receive my support and such a recommendation to Congress as will, in my judgment, best serve to carry them into effect. I beg your support and encouragement. It has been, and is my earnest desire to correct abuses that have grown up in the civil service of the country. To secure this reformation, rules regulating the method of appointment and promotion were established and have been tried. My efforts for such reformation shall be continued to the best of my judgment; the spirit of the rules will be maintained.

I acknowledge before this assemblage, representing as it does every section of our country, the obligation I am under to my countrymen for the great honor they have conferred on me by returning me to the highest office within their gift, and the further obligation resting on me to render them the best service within my power. This I promise, looking forward with the greatest anxiety to the day when I shall be released from the responsibilities that at times are almost overwhelming, and from which I have scarcely had a respite since the eventful firing upon Sumter in April, 1861, to the present day. My services were then tendered and accepted under the first call for troops growing out of that event.

I did not ask for the place or position and was entirely without influence or the acquaintance of persons of influence, but was resolved to perform my part in a struggle threatening the very existence of the nation. I performed a conscious duty without a revengeful feeling toward any section or any individual.

Notwithstanding this throughout the war, and from my candidacy for my present office, 1868, to the close of the last Presidential campaign, I have been the subject of abuse and slander, scarcely ever equaled in political history, which to-day I feel that I can afford to disregard in view of your verdict which I can gratefully accept as my vindication.

Congress.

In the Senate, Monday, the committee appointed to investigate the charges of bribery in the recent senatorial election in Kansas preferred against Senator Pomeroy by A. M. York and B. F. Simpson reported that the charge was not sustained by the evidence before them.

Mr. Hitchcock presented the credentials of John J. Ingalls, Senator-elect from Kansas, to succeed Pomeroy.

Mr. Cragin presented the credentials of Bainbridge Wadleigh, Senator-elect from New Hampshire.

A committee from the House appeared and notified the Senate that articles of impeachment would be presented.

A conference committee reported they could not agree on the Geneva award bill, and recommended that the money be invested in five per cent. registered bonds.

The legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill was passed. The committee increased the Congressional pay to $7500; the President's to $50,000; Vice-President's, Speaker's and Cabinet, and judges, $10,000 each—the Chief Justice $10,500; assistant secretaries $6,000; chief clerks of bureaus and divisions $3,000; secretary of the Senate and clerk, $3,000 each; doorkeepers, $3,000.

Mr. Patterson endeavored to have his case considered, but the Senate had no time to take it up. Senators assured him that it should be considered at the special session, and he seemed satisfied.

State News.

Samuel Barker of Hampton died on Thursday at the advanced age of ninety-three years.

Gov. Straw and Hon. A. F. Pike have telegraphed to Washington urging the President to veto the salary bill.

Mrs. Sarah C. Goodrich of North Lyndeborough died recently from the effects of a fall, in the ninety-fifth year of her age.

Failures to the amount of nearly $300,000 have occurred at Alton Bay, this winter.

About fourteen years ago, in a scuffle in the Dover high school building, one of the pupils was pushed against a clothes hook in the entry, the hook penetrating his neck and breaking off there, making him a cripple for life. Two years ago, when the parties had grown to young manhood, the cripple being unable to labor, and the one who pushed him being in a paying business, two or three humane persons took up the matter, brought it to trial, and got a verdict of $3000 in favor of the injured party, and there was a refusal to pay. The defendant tried almost every subterfuge, and even tried to appear before magistrates and take a poor debtor's oath. That failed. The court referred the case last week, to referees, who decided that the amount must be paid or the delinquent go to jail. It was paid.

Keene has a gallant man in the person of one of its prominent and wealthy citizens, who on the night of the recent great snow storm, arrived in the care at 2 o'clock, and finding no hack, went a half a mile through snow-drifts to his residence, harnessed up his team and conveyed two or three ladies to their homes.

Leonard Stevens, of Manchester, was last week bound over in the sum of $400, for adultery. He had deserted a wife and a child of five years, and for some months had been living upon the earnings of a woman who has worked in the mill. She was taken sick recently with typhoid fever, and he deserted her and sought another woman upon whose earnings he could live.

Charles H. White carried the mailbags over his shoulder from Deerfield to Candia, ten miles, on the 26th ult., because of snow-drifts.

Mrs. A. G. Folsom, of Laconia, slipped and fell on the street, breaking her right arm.

An unoccupied house and barn belonging to the estate of Nathaniel Batchelder in the southern part of Pittsfield, was burned on Thursday afternoon. The fire was, without doubt, incendiary. Loss, $800.

The dam across the river at Dover was carried away, Sunday afternoon; a second attempt to stop the current with sandbags failed, and the Cocheco Mills shut their gates to facilitate a third trial.

THE FIRST CUP.—The first tea drank in Maine was made on Cutts' Island, Kittery, about 150 years ago. A daughter of Major Cutts was returning from school in Massachusetts with a daughter of Gov. Vaughan. A severe storm detained her at Portsmouth several days; and at the Governor's table, she was first offered tea. The young lady followed Madame Vaughan's example and adding sugar and cream, carried it to her lips. She afterwards purchased a pound of tea for a guinea, sent to Boston for cups and saucers, and thus she introduced the first tea and tea-set in to Maine.—Biddeford Times.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Laconics.

The republican caucus for the nomination of a candidate for Mayor will open at the State street ward-room this afternoon at four o'clock and not close before eight. It is said that Mayor Marvin or Alderman Mendum will be likely to receive the democratic nomination.

A subscriber asks why no flag was raised at the navy yard on inauguration day.

A naval court martial, of which Captain Earl English is president, convened at Portsmouth navy yard on Monday, for the trial of James Doyle, an ordinary seaman of United States ship Sabine, upon charges preferred by the Secretary of the Navy, of disobedience of orders of superior officer and desertion.

The pocket book advertised as lost, Monday, was found by Mr. Thomas H. Sheridan, who returned it to the owner and refused the proffered reward.

The names of Hon. William Simes and Wingate N. Ilsley, Esq., have been suggested for Mayor.

The people of Rye at the coming election are to vote upon the proposition to purchase the Methodist meeting-house for the purpose of using it as a town hall. The society have not held meetings there for several years, and nearly a year ago appointed a committee to consider the propriety of selling it.

Mayor Marvin is the youngest Mayor Portsmouth ever had.

The prohibitionists have repudiated one of their chief advocates by refusing to nominate A. F. Craig, Esq., of this city, as their candidate for senator in this district. Mr. Craig is the liberal republican nominee, and the prohibitionists have nominated Mr. Nathan H. Harvey of Newmarket.

The name of the man who was killed by the 5:30 train from this city, Monday evening, was William Toole. He has been working at North Hampton, to which place his remains were carried.

Mr. J. Henry Morrill, Assistant Engineer of the Fire Department, fell through Portsmouth Bridge into the river on the occasion of the partial burning of the bridge, some time ago, and has been in failing health ever since, and for some months past unable to work. On the evening of the 3d, Sagamore S. F. Engine Co., No. 2, of which he was formerly a member, voted to present him with a purse of $50 as a token of their friendly interest in his welfare.

The Jubilee Singers give their concert in aid of Fisk University, at the Temple this evening. They have been most favorably received wherever they have appeared; their singing is very pleasing, and their concerts are given in aid of a praiseworthy object—the better education of the colored people of the South. Go to the Temple this evening.

One of the fishing vessels from this port last week cleared $125 per share, and the average for the whole fleet was about $60 per share. Fish were plenty and prices high.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS were held in Portland, Saco, Lewiston, Auburn, Bath and Rockland, Me., on Monday. Hon. Geo. P. Wescott, republican, was chosen mayor of Portland by 431 majority, against 51 last year. The republicans elected their ticket in five wards, and the democrats carried two wards. In the sixth ward, a republican stronghold, Mr. Payson Tucker, agent of the Boston & Maine Railroad, was elected a councilman over Mr. Chauncy Barrett, freight agent of the P. S. & P. R. R. Both men are republicans, but Mr. Tucker was on the democratic ticket. The board of aldermen will consist of five republicans and two democrats; council, thirteen republicans, seven democrats.

Hon. N. W. Farwell and Hon. Thomas Littlefield, republicans, were chosen mayors of Lewiston and Auburn by large majorities. Hon. William Rice, republican and citizens' candidate, was elected mayor of Bath by a nearly unanimous vote, receiving 579 votes of the 585 cast. The Saco republicans gave Hon. Edward P. Burnham 294 majority and carried every ward. Rockland chose Hon. J. F. Merrill, democrat, mayor, by a vote of 488 to 433. The republicans carried five of the six wards.

—Springfield has a young widow, gay and fascinating, but just now uncertain of the effect of her charms upon a young gentleman of her acquaintance. She could not remain in suspense, and with strategy worthy of the sex, she procured the insertion of a notice of her death in the papers, hoping by this means to ascertain whether that particular young man cared for her. He did not attend the funeral, and she is in the dark still.

Readables.

The Modoc Indians, so long hostile and defiant, have surrendered themselves to be removed South.

A young lady of Dubuque was taken ill two weeks ago and became suddenly speechless, in which condition she remained at last accounts.

The steamer George S. Wright is suppose to have been lost off Cape Caution a few days ago with all on board—about twenty persons.

The public debt was reduced $5,277-880.77 in March.

Tidings are received of the sinking of the schooner St. Mark of St. Pierre, Miquelon, off Cape North, and the loss of twelve men.

A few days ago a negro woman living near Bellfield, Henderson Co. Ky., locked her three children in her cabin while visiting. During her absence the cabin caught fire and was destroyed. The burned remains of the children were found the next morning near the door sill, showing that they had endeavored to escape from a horrid death.

EXPLANATION BY THE POSTMASTER-GENERAL.—The Postmaster-General denies the telegraphed report that the files of the department show that Mr. Colfax was the attorney or lobbyist of Mr. Nesbitt. He says that finding the Nesbitt contract for stamped envelopes had been extended by his predecessor without advertising for competition, he referred the question of its legality to the Attorney-General, who decided that it was without the sanction of law, and that the department should terminate the same on reasonable notice and issue proposals for a new contract, which was done. Meantime, the important question arose as to a temporary supply until the supply of the new contract should commence, and it was this temporary supply that Mr. Colfax urged that the heirs of Nesbitt, who died in 1869, having the necessary building, machinery and materials, and not having forfeited the contract by any malfeasance, should have an opportunity to work up until a new contract was let, or that they be allowed to present an argument as to the validity of their contract as extended. These views as to a temporary supply seemed so just and reasonable that they were adopted by the department, and the heirs of Mr. Nesbitt employed to furnish the temporary supply, though at a reduced cost of 15 per cent. upon the old prices. The extension had been pronounced illegal by the attorney-general and no argument upon that point would have availed against his decision, no matter from whom it came. The postmaster-general further says that he never supposed for a moment that Mr. Colfax designed or attempted to influence him in his official action in any improper manner whatever, and that similar suggestions as to the interests of constituents are frequently made by members of Congress without comment or intimation of their impropriety.

TOO MUCH OF A GOOD THING.—One respectable female busybody, of the sternest virtue, who gave some annoyance by attempts to settle the Beecher-Tilton scandal, which she firmly believed, on the authority of Mrs. Woodhull's statements, was thrown into conniption fits, under rather dramatic circumstances, and had her opinion of Mrs. Woodhull's reliability somewhat modified, to her own mortification and subsequent silence, when she was suddenly confronted with the news that this same Mrs. Woodhull was also the authority for a terrible tale about the adulterous transactions of this very respectable female busybody herself, at a hotel in Washington last year.

A QUESTION OF TIME.—The recent cough or cold, that without proper treatment may become chronic and last for months, can be radically cured by a few doses of that invaluable pectoral elixir, Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

UPON THE HEALTH OF THE TEETH Depends the purity of the breath. Preserve them unblemished by the use of the famous Sozodont, that perfectly harmless vegetable preparation, and you will never regret it.

AVERT THE DANGER.—The "ethereal mildness" with which poets credit the vernal season is more an illusion of the fancy than a meteorological fact. Early Spring in temperate climates is a tearful time, and the tears are usually too cool for health or comfort. To avert the complaints to which the fogs and winds of the season are apt to give rise, prudent people who believe in the proverb that "prevention is better than cure" fortify their stomachs and brace up their nerves and muscles with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Those who do this are wise, and are rewarded for their wisdom by escaping visitations of chills and fever, rheumatism, biliousness, flatulency, constipation, stomach complaint, &c., so common in damp, impossible weather. To the less prudent, who neglect this precaution, and suffer for it, we would say, that disorders which this potent vegetable tonic prevents it also cures.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment' warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America, or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, RUMORS

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the effects of an invigorating tonic, digestive, and associated with the blood at the stomach. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Wasting and Vitiating the System. The enriched blood then will feed permanent every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, modifying all morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhea, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Night Sweats, Loss of Consciousness, Nervous Fluid, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life into every part of the system, and building up a healthy constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

Get the genuine article, and each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

EMPLOYMENT!

The National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, chartered by Congress, is the only stock, life insurance company in this country, and has the largest cash capital of any new insurance company of like kind in the world. It is thus enabled to reduce its premiums largely. Indeed, had it charged the ordinary Mutual rates during the last four and a half years, it would have received from its policy holders $1,250,000 more than was paid it. By the mutual system, the policy holders insure the company. By the stock system, the company insures the policy holders. The National has nearly two dollars of assets to every one of liabilities, and on Jan. 1, 1873, had a surplus of $1,137,000. It wants an agent in every locality where it is not now represented, and will give liberal and continuous compensation to active men. Address, with stamp, M. YOUNG & CO., 16 Cortlandt St., N. Y.

The drawing will be under the supervision of the Trustees of the Library, assisted by the most reliable citizens of the United States. The sale of tickets has already progressed so far that complete success is assured, and buyers are thereon reasonably sure of a good order at once if they desire to participate in the drawing.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Alleviator absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distracting pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Corn Ointment is healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Alleviator for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind and attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. THRESHER, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
— OF —
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are so we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and receives its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BETTENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

The Chronicle.

The Blue Cat.

Did you ever see a blue cat? No? Well, I never did myself; except a Maltese; but the Goff family have had that pleasure. I happened in this wise: Mr. and Mrs. Goff went to the missionary meeting, and left Eliza to take care of the children, keep house, and practise her music lesson. Then Eliza, who was a very smart girl, established her little brother and sister up in the front chamber, with their playthings, told them to be good and play pretty, and not to leave the room, and if they wanted anything to call her. She would leave all the doors open, so as to hear if they did call; then she went down into the parlor, opened the piano and began to play chromatics with all her might and main.

Then Dick and Dot, the four-year-old twins, sat down on the floor and built houses. They built them till they were tired, and then spelled out, A, B, C, on their picture books, and then and there the six soldiers fight, and sent the dolls to school. After that, they sat on the floor and looked at each other.

"What 'll we do now?" asked Dot.

"Dunno," said Dick, making a dive with both hands into the heap of toys. He brought out the paint-box that Aunt Sue gave him on his birthday, with six cakes of paint and two brushes in it.

"Let's paint pictures!" he said brightly.

There was a bottle of homeopathic medicine on the stand, and Dotty got that to dip the brushes in. First, they adorned picture-books with great blotches of every color, and then they painted the dolls a fearful red. The artist fever grew upon them and they wanted space for their ambition. They looked around; what could be better than mamma's white counterpane?

"Let's put little birds all round it," said Dot.

So they did, birds such as Audubon never classified, and then Dick in his ardor painted what was meant for an Indian, red and yellow, in the very centre of the counterpane.

"O won't mamma be glad when she gets home?" said Dick proudly; and Dot looked with admiring blue eyes.

"Now let's paint our ownselves Indians," suggested Dick. And forthwith they went to work before the mirror. O, if Eliza had only known! But no; she was busy playing "Star of the Evening," and congratulating herself that the children kept so quiet.

They streaked their faces with brown, red, and yellow; they painted grotesque eye images on their hands; the homeopathic tumbler looked like an old melted rainbow.

"What bee-utiful Indians we are!" said Dot to Dick, as they looked at each other.

Just then White Rose came running into the room. White Rose was the cat, and she got her name because she was snow-white all over, from the tips of her ears to the end of her tail.

"Let's paint White Rose!" said little Dick.

Dot laughed with glee, and they ran after White Rose and caught her. She was a beautiful large cat with a great deal of dignity, and despised all pulling to get away after she was once fairly caught. Dot held her fast in her lap, and Dick put on the paint. The red and yellow cakes were all used up, so he took blue. It was a very pretty shade of blue and he laid it on thick with the biggest brush. He had her all done but her face when the front door opened down stairs.

In came Mr. and Mrs. Goff from the missionary meeting. Mrs. Goff looked into the parlor where Eliza was playing "Money Musk," and said:

"Where are the children?"

"Up stairs in the front chamber. They have behaved very well indeed, mamma," said Eliza, and went on with her playing.

Mrs. Goff rejoined her husband in the hall just as something came rushing wildly down stairs.

"Mercy on us, what's that? A blue cat?" screamed Mrs. Goff.

"Very singular. It is a blue cat my dear," said Mr. Goff, deliberately, putting on his spectacles to survey the wonder. The blue cat came up to him and cried piteously, she felt so very, very blue.

Eliza ran to the door, and trembled in her shoes.

"O, those naughty, mischievous children!" was all she said.

That was enough. They all hastened up stairs, and were met in the hall by two Indian papooses. Mrs. Goff screamed, and the little girl papoose began to cry and fled to her father's arms, the tears rolling in orange streaks down her little, hideous face.

Where, O where, were Dotty Goff's pretty pink cheeks and rose-leaf skin gone? But the other little Indian stood his ground bravely, and glared upon the foe

"I'm Potyhontas!" he exclaimed, brandishing a toy sword above his head.

"And O, my nice white counterpane!" cried Mrs. Goff, as her glance took in the whole of the disaster; "my nice white counterpane that was done up last week! Eliza, you good-for-nothing girl why don't you look out for these children?"

"It's all little birds, mamma," sobbed Dotty, quite extinguished.

"Turn on the hot water in the bath-tub," ordered Mr. Goff, "and we will civilize these young savages."

That was easily done, and every one went to work at the twins. They were sure to come out all right at last, and I don't pity them a bit, even if they got whipped. It is White Rose that I pity, now, alas, White Rose no longer. She fled into the kitchen, but the cook hooted at her; she ran out in the yard, but her fast friend, Towser, barked at her, and sprang the length of his chain to seize her.

Frightened and dispirited, she crept back into the house. She had three kittens in a box up garret, so she thought she would go to them, for they would certainly know her, her own three little white kittens. She climbed two flights of stairs, and reached the box. Too kittens starved, and retreated to the farthest corner, growling and spitting as fiercely as they could; for who knew but this dreadful creature had come to eat them all up? Poor sighed, and went down into the kitchen again, her tail drooping, her whole attitude dejected. The cook felt a touch of pity.

"Och, shure, an' I'm sorry for the poor baste!" she said. And, as she thought more about it she made up her mind that pussy, too, should have a bath, a regular warm bath. "For who can tell me but the nasty stuff will plaze her?" thought Biddy, and, sure enough, I am afraid it would have been the fate of poor White Rose if she had tried to clean her poor, pretty fur in the usual way.

So when Dick and Dot were out of the bath-tub, White Rose went in, much against her will, but she had lost all heart to resist; and Biddy rubbed and scrubbed her till the water grew as blue as indigo, and then White Rose came out a drenched, dripping, miserable cat.

She was put in the hottest corner behind the stove, with a nice saucer of warm milk before her, and by-and-by she felt better. In the course of two or three hours the bewildered kittens saw their own beautiful white mother coming back to them, smiling and purring. So that was the end of the blue cat, and I hope there will never be another as long as the world endures.

Warner reports progress, with a $50,000 shoe factory and a $100,000 carriage factory in prospect.

Rev. Dr. Zedekiah S. Barstow of Keene, who recently died at the age of eighty-two, was settled over the First Congregational Church in 1818, and his ministry continued over half a century.

Franklin people have been exceedingly troubled with anchor ice in the Winnipesaukee river this season, nothing like it having been experienced within the memory of the oldest inhabitant.

The house of Mr. Wilson D. Holt of Alstead, narrowly escaped destruction by fire not long since, and an examination proved that a stereoscope had acted as a sun-glass, and done the mischief. Owners of stereoscopes must be on the lookout.

The city council of Nashua appropriated, several months since, the sum of $12,000 to build a soldiers' monument, and appointed a committee to procure plans, select a site, and report back. The citizens can't agree how to expend the money, and the indication is that there will be no monument in Nashua.

A portrait of Governor John H. Steele has arrived in Concord, to be added to the portraits of former Governors in the Council chamber.

Several citizens of Canaan have signed their names to a document pledging themselves to do all in their power to prevent the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors in town.

The finest private establishment of horses and carriages in Concord is said to be that of a shrewd young man who was, a few years ago, a tin peddler, but who has recently made money fast in a patent business.

The value of the manufacturing products of the State is $71,000,000, against $37,000,000 in 1863.

In Lyndeborough on Friday, while some children were at play near the house of Mr. Henry H. Joslyn, one of their number took up a loaded gun, which was by some means discharged. It was loaded with shot and the charge entered the legs of a little girl of Mr. Joslyn's, aged five or six years, but though many of the shot went completely through the flesh, the wounds are not considered dangerous.

Dr. J. Eastman Walker and wife, whose home was at Conway, were among the the passengers of the steamer George S. Wright, recently lost with all on board near Cape Caution on the Pacific coast. They were returning from Sitka to San Francisco.

Jonas B. Aiken, Esq., who is now in Florida for his health, has written home offering a contribution of $500 for the proposed Dustin monument at Fisherville, and a like sum toward defraying the expense of purchasing and restoring the Webster birth place homestead, some two miles from the Orphan's Home.

Charles E. L. Hayward, a young farmer living in the south part of Hancock, is trying poultry as a speciality. He has between 300 and 400 hens, besides turkeys, geese, ducks and pigeons. He is trying "fancy poultry" some, but depends mostly on his eggs for profit. He keeps mostly White Leghorns and light Brahmas.

John Chambean, a Frenchman, was run down by a snow plow on the Nashua and Lowell Railroad, Wednesday, and so badly mangled that he lived but a short time.

Hampton Falls claims to be the banner town in the State as regards temperance, prosperity, freedom from pauperism and crime, and for wealth in proportion to population. Not a drop of liquor, not even cider, is sold there, and the people are teetotalers almost to a man.

Readables.

The frauds on the bank of England amount to $2,000,000.

Hon. William Kemp, republican, is elected Mayor of Troy, N. Y., by 800 majority.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., has chosen Hon. H. B. Eastman, republican, mayor, by 300 majority.

—Gov. Dix of New York has respited Foster, the car-hook murderer, until the 21st. The question of commutation is still open.

The President has pardoned Miles Carroll, Miles McCalloch, Henry Warlick and James A. Sanders of South Carolina, convicted of Ku-Klux crimes, and sentenced to confinement in the Albany penitentiary.

It is estimated that the strike among the laborers on the Boston and Maine extension, some time since, will result in a loss to the contractors of $20,000.

A member of the House of Representatives Saturday, sent a page to various members requesting that they not only write their names in his autograph book, but append a motto or sentiment. When the book was presented to Oakes Ames, he wrote with his signature, "Put what you have where it will do the most good."

Brazil is being ravaged by the yellow fever.

A dwelling-house occupied by four families was burned on Congress street, Portland, on the night of the 4th, and a woman named Clark perished in the flames.

PACIFIC PASSES PASSED.—Mr. Horace F. Clark, president of the Union Pacific railroad, says that over 3,000 free passes have been applied for this year, many of them in the interest of senators and members of Congress, as well as other officials; but the executive committee have decided that no free passes over the road shall either be printed or issued. Now that the government withholds the pay for its freight, the necessity of cutting off the free list is imperative. On a recent through train on the Pacific road there were eighty-one free passes.

PAYS MONEY.—J. Q. Page has brought a suit in the district court at Topeka, Kansas, against Governor Osborn, Lieutenant-Governor Stover, State Treasurer Hayes and Colonel York for the recovery of the $7000 procured by the latter from Senator Pomeroy. The sheriff found the money in the State treasurer's safe and took charge of it. The defendants promptly gave bonds for the money under the statute, and the historic packages were restored to them.

PERSONAL.—A numerously signed petition is being circulated among prominent business men of Saco which asks the Eastern railroad company to grant Oliver L. Towle a hearing in relation to the accident to his train near the station in this city several weeks since. It will be remembered that an accident happened to the Pullman train, and was caused by the cars being unshackled and on the engine hitting a collision occurred. The company immediately discharged Mr. Towle and refused his application for an investigation. Mr. Towle had been upon the road upwards of thirty years.—Biddeford Times.

Mr. Towle was one of the best conductors on the Eastern road and we hope will be reinstated.

THE NEWBURYPORT GHOST reports himself to another "clairvoyant" as having received his fatal punishment for spitting on the floor seven years ago. She describes the boy as tall and slim, pale, blue-eyed and about sixteen years old. He gave the "medium" the names of some of his former school mates. He says he comes to warn the children of his fate, and when they understand this he will leave forever provided no injury be done the teacher. Boston News.

THE U. S. SENATE held a short session on returning to its chamber after the inauguration of the President. Five of the Senators elect—Messrs. Ferry of Connecticut, Gordon of Georgia, Jones of Nevada, Wadleigh of New Hampshire and Spencer of Alabama,—were not sworn in, and Mr. Kellogg's seat still remains vacant. Mr. Caldwell's case will come up at an early day, and Mr. Clayton's will undoubtedly lead to a prolonged debate. The Senate will also probably take some action on the Louisiana matter, so far as may be necessary to determine whether Pinchback or McMillan, if either, is legally elected, and may also decide at this session the Alabama contest between Spencer and Sykes. The Senators newly sworn were Messrs. Allison of Iowa, Rogy of Missouri, Cameron of Pennsylvania, Conkling of New York, Conover of Florida, Dennis of Maryland, Dorsey of Arkansas, Howe of Michigan, Ingalls of Kansas, McCreery of Kentucky, Mitchell of Oregon, Morrill of Vermont, Morton of Indiana, Oglesby of Illinois, Patterson of South Carolina, Sargent of California, Sherman of Ohio and Merrimon of North Carolina.

THE CLOSING SCENES of Congress were dull and uninteresting. The appropriation bills were all passed. Among the important bills which failed for lack of time, having passed one or both houses, are the agricultural college bill, the Utah, Louisiana election and Geneva award bills. The first of these has been referred to a committee of conference which will never be appointed. The second was left on the Speaker's table, where it was placed a day or two ago. The Louisiana bill was defeated by the Senate, and a temperary substitute has been passed for the Geneva bill. Besides these a great mass of bills, probably five thousand in all, are left stranded at various stages of legislation by the ending of Congress. The House adopted an important modification of its rules, which will probably facilitate the business of next Congress, by providing that hereafter the regular standing committees shall consist of eleven members each.

—An Eastern journal, never known to exaggerate, asserts that a rural visitor to Augusta, Me., who read the sign, "Look out for the locomotive," at a railroad crossing for the first time, climbed to the top of the pole, and gazing up the track, anxiously wanted to know where it was.

—Few people realize how many acres are unoccupied in the Great West. There are eleven Territories, two or three of which are twice or three times as large as all of New England, and it is a small Territory that is not at least ten times as large as Massachusetts. Colorado is thirteen times as large as Massachusetts, while Dakota and Arizona are half as large again as Colorado. The eleven Territories contain over one billion and a quarter acres, exceeding by nearly two hundred thousand square miles the aggregate territory of all the present admitted States of the Union. The Territory of Alaska contains 390,000,000 acres.

—The president of the board of aldermen of Mobile rules that he is entitled to two votes, one as member, and the casting vote as president.

—A circus elephant, wintering at Louisville, is on the watch for a man who tossed him an apple full of catarrh snuff.

KELLEY'S C. M. STOCK.—Bishop Poland and Oakes Ames sat down in the House recently and had a friendly chat about Kelley's business transactions, said the Bishop, in his solemn manner:

"Mr. Ames, I have in my possession ten shares of Credit Mobilier stock, and I wish you would advise me what to do with them."

Ames, tossing the right over the left leg, and wagging his elephantine, head replied:—"Why do you consult me? Go to Mr. Kelley. He demanded the property, and on his verbal order I delivered it to you. Go to him for advice. They do not belong to me."

"But," urged the Bishop, "he disclaims the ownership, and while I am responsible I do not care to hold the stock in my possession any longer."

"That doesn't concern me," replied Ames. "You shouldn't have taken them if they are such bad things to have about."

"Oh, no, Mr. Ames. The Sergeant at Arms has them in his safe, subject to my order, and as the committee has been discharged from the further consideration of the Credit Mobilier I want the rightful owner to have what belongs to him."

"Turn them over to Kelley. They belong to him," drawled out Oakes, and there the subject dropped. The Bishop says he may be investigated if he continues to hold the stock. The Sergeant at Arms has no desire for an investigating committee finding Credit Mobilier stock in his possession. The stock, with accrued interest, is worth $5,000, which Ordway declares shall swell the conscience fund if not claimed by Kelley.

AMES' AIMS.—Warrington says: I have seen Mr. Ames a good deal, at table and in the street, enough, I think, to appreciate the general quality of the man, and taking these letters, which constitute the strong point against him, in connection with the style of men here in Massachusetts he is accused of trying to bribe, men of small pecuniary means, never known to be engaged in shystering speculations, careful, cautious men, satisfied with small gains, never suspected of corruption, never mixed with large operations of any sort, never falling into that fatal habit of mind which leads men to lie awake at night for fear somebody shall happen along in their sleep and corrupt them by thrusting a railroad pass into their vest pocket—talking Ames on one side and Dawes and Boutwell and Wilson on the other, I cannot imagine that there was any design to corrupt on the one side, or any susceptibility of corruption on the other. And I am willing to think as well of Kelley and Garfield as of our own men. And will not a fair and decent view of this question take into account the condition of public sentiment as to the propriety of sending members of Congress to look after business enterprises of their own or their constituents, before it pursues with this prodigious view-halloo men who are just like three-quarters of the voters who nominate and elect them? I should like to know what real difference there is between Oakes Ames going to Congress by the general consent of his district, partly or wholly to look after the Pacific railroad, and thirty Pennsylvanians going there to look after coal and pig-iron?

RUDDOCK'S ARISTOCRAT.—The Litchfield Sentinel has something to say about Mr. Ingersoll's "aristocracy." It says: "The ticket is a good one. It is headed by a man of integrity and ability. The only charge yet brought against him is that he is an aristocrat. Ruddock, of the New London Star, makes this charge. His idea of an aristocrat is "a man who changes his shirt every week and washes his face every day, whether it is dirty or not." Ruddock was made a government director on the Pacific railroad (to pay him for not having the office of United States assessor, which he wanted), and he went through to Salt Lake City and back again and never changed his shirt at all. It is easy enough to understand the contempt he feels for a man who fools away his money on washerwomen. Ruddock might make a fairish sort of judge of vegetables at a cattle show, but his opinion about the kind of timber suitable to make governors of isn't worth a cent—he is so prejudiced on the subject of clean linen. Candee, of the Bridgeport Standard, is another of the same sort. Neither he nor Ruddock can abide a man who washes himself."

Subscription Swindling.

Mr. H. A. Ford, of the Boston firm of G. B. Ford & Co., publishers, is entitled to the thanks of the press for the manner in which he followed up A. C. Fisher, the pretended agent of the Christian Union. It has been very popular with petty swindlers for some years past, to pretend to be authorized to collect subscriptions for some leading newspaper or magazine and then to walk off with the funds so obtained, leaving the subscribers who are generally of the working class and can ill afford to lose even small sums,) without either money or periodicals. But we do not remember that any of those subscription-list swindlers have ever been punished or forced to give up their stealings; a warning in the publication most interested, to its patrons, that the pretended agent "is not authorized to receive subscriptions for us," has sent him to fresh fields and pastures new, to get up a fresh swindle, and that has been the end of it. Had publishers generally done as has Mr. Ford in this instance, this style of swindling would not be so fashionable as it now is. Finding that Fisher's frauds in this city were committed prior to Nov. 6, (up to which date he was an agent for J. B. Ford & Co.,) Mr. Ford promptly telegraphed to Nashua for evidence of Fisher's doings there and for an officer to take him in custody, and accompanied the officer and prisoner to that city, to press the complaint. Fisher's conviction will give a salutary check to this annoying style of petty swindling.

Pimping.

A fellow about twenty-five years of age, five feet seven inches in height, well dressed and of good address, called at the house of a citizen on State Street, Tuesday, and asked if a lady whose name he gave lived there. Receiving a negative answer he went away, but returned as soon as the gentleman went out, and endeavored to induce a young girl, of fourteen, an inmate of the house, to accompany him to Boston, or at least to make an appointment to meet him, at the depot or elsewhere. The girl took no stock in his promises of good situations and high wages in Boston dry goods stores, and the contemptible cur failed to entrap a victim that time. We have regarded the storie of women endeavoring to entice away young girls, which have been so common of late in the newspapers of this State and Maine, as in most instances having their foundations rather on the necessity for "locals" than on facts; but our informant in this case is one of our oldest merchants.

Cayenne Cruelty.

Judge Page had a singular case before him, Wednesday. Joseph Hett and William Clark, who drive a milk team, were charged with throwing cayenne pepper in the eyes of a little fellow named Elmer S. Staples, on Saturday last. The boy was given permission to ride on the team by these men, who blinded him with pepper while he was trying to get on. Young Staples suffered intensely and was led home. Fears of loss of eyesight happily proved unfounded, but his eyes are very weak. Judge Page fined Hett $17.18 and Clark $6. City Marshal Johnson says these men have been charged with throwing pepper into the eyes of boys, previously, and will prosecute any further acts of the kind to the full extent of the law.

A Wager.

Two firemen of Great Falls have made a bet on the result of the coming election, the loser to haul a hose carriage from an Engine House in Somersworth to Portsmouth,—the task to be performed between the hours of sunrise and sunset, on some day after the official count of the gubernatorial vote is announced. The names of the firemen are J. C. Pitman (who bets on Straw) and W. H. Holbrook (who names Weston) both of Engine Co. No. 1 of Great Falls.

Laconics.

Those who enjoy seeing a game of billiards will have an excellent opportunity at the Rockingham House billiard hall, this evening, at half-past eight o'clock. Mr. Joseph Dion, the world famous player, will be assisted by James Bennett of Canada and the best players of Portsmouth.

The Republicans of the third ward will hold a caucus at the Water Street ward room this evening at half-past seven o'clock, to nominate candidates for State, city and ward offices.

A woman living on Jefferson street, with the Walker family, has the small-pox—imported from Boston.

The Mayoralty Caucus

Opened quietly, Wednesday afternoon, with William H. Rollins, Esq., as chairman, and Messrs. John Pender, Lewis G. Davis and Charles W. Bailey as secretaries. The polls were closed at eight o'clock and the ballot was declared as follows:

Whole No. votes	538
Nec. for a choice	270
Frank W. Miller had	274
Thos. E. O. Marvin	259
Scattering	5

and FRANK W. MILLER was declared the nominee for Mayor.

On motion, the vote was made unanimous without a dissenting voice, amid great enthusiasm. Messrs. G. W. Marston, William F. Noyes, John Dame, Robert O. Dennett and Eben F. Brackett were appointed a committee to wait on Mr. Miller and notify him of his nomination. The committee found him at the Temple and escorted him to the ward-room, where he was received with rousing cheers. Being introduced by the Chairman, Mr. Miller responded feelingly in one of the best impromptu speeches we ever heard, substantially as follows:—

Friends, fellow citizens, Republicans; I thank you for this compliment, this honor. Henry Clay said it was honor sufficient to repay a lifetime of service, to be nominated for President by the great Whig party; I trust I duly appreciate the honor conferred on me, in receiving this nomination for Mayor by the Republicans of my native city. But, gentlemen, I recollect with mortification and regret, that gentlemen more worthy and Republicans as true as myself, have before been thus honored, and their unsought nominations not followed up with victory at the polls by the fault of those claiming to belong to our party

Gentlemen, it is an honor indeed to be nominated for an office once filled by Greenleaf, and Jenness, and Toppan, and Laighton, and Walker, and others, good men and true, and capable and faithful public servants, now gone, or who are still with us; it is an honor even to be nominated after Stevens and Thacher, though the same be not supported as it should be. But, gentlemen, I never have asked any man to vote for me for this nomination; but I do ask every Republican now to vote for the election of all our candidates, both city and State.

Gentlemen, my wife says I can't afford to be Mayor. Somebody told her—I did not—that I was to be nominated; and she says I can't afford it. Whether she meant that I cannot afford to take the time from my other business, or that I cannot afford to lose what popularity I may have, I don't know. But it occurs to me that perhaps we habitually expect and demand too much from our public servants. Else why is it that we are so often disappointed? Time and again we elect popular men to office, and ere their terms expire they are out of all our good graces. I hope it will not be so in my case, should I be elected. Please do not expect too much of me.

I have had the honor to serve you in various positions before; I will do all that in me lies, for the public service now, should I be elected. And let every republican use all effort to get out every vote for our candidates,—city, senatorial, county, congressional, and State. They all need it—all deserve it. Again thanking you for your unsolicited honor, I bid you good evening.

After three cheers for Mr. Miller, the chairman declared the meeting adjourned to meet at the polls next Tuesday.

The Newcastle town election on the 4th resulted in the success of the republican ticket, there being no opposition.

A QUESTION OF TIME.—The recent cough or cold, that without proper treatment may become chronic and last for months, can be radically cured by a few doses of that invaluable pectoral elixir, Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

UPON THE HEALTH OF THE TEETH Depends the purity of the breath. Preserve them unblemished by the use of the famous Sozodont, that perfectly harmless vegetable preparation, and you will never regret it.

AVERT THE DANGER.—The "ethereal mildness" with which poets credit the vernal season is more an illusion of the fancy than a meteorological fact. Early Spring in temperate climates is a tearful time, and the tears are usually too cold for health or comfort. To avert the complaints to which the fogs and winds of the season are apt to give rise, prudent people who believe in the proverb that "prevention is better than cure" fortify their stomachs and brace up their nerves and muscles with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Those who do this are wise, and are rewarded for their wisdom by escaping visitations of chills and fever, rheumatism, biliousness, flatulency, constipation, stomach complaint, &c., so common in damp, inhospitable weather. To the less prudent, who neglect this precaution, and suffer for it, we would say, that disorders which this potent vegetable tonic prevents it also cures.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

☞ The improvements in Hanover street, Boston, render the American House one of the most desirable, as it has long been one of the best stopping places in Boston, either for business men or pleasure seekers.

For all throat diseases and especially Coughs, Colds, &c., there is no known remedy equal to Buchman's Pulmocine, and a few doses will satisfy the most skeptical of its efficacy. For sale at the Union Store.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-tring climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment' warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedies. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a wood and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

My Neighbor.

"Love thou thy neighbor," we are told
"Even as thyself." That creed I hold;
But love her more, a thousand fold!

My lovely neighbor; oft we meet,
In lane lane or crowded street;
I know the music of her feet.

She little thinks how, on a day
She must have missed her usual way,
And walked into my heart for aye.

Or how the rustle of her dress
Thrills through me like a soft caress,
With troublings of deliciousness.

Wet woman, with her smiling mien,
And soul celestially serene.
She passes me, unanswered queen!

Yet feel most innocently good,
Where shyly peeps the sweet red blood;
Her form a nest of wonhoodhood!

Like Raleigh—for her dainty tread
When ways are miry—I could spread
My cloak, but there's my heart instead.

Ah, neighbor, you will never know
Why 'tis my step is quickened so;
Nor what the prayer I murmur low.

I see you 'mid your flowers at morn,
Fresh as the freshest newly born;
I marvel can you have a thorn!

How, there never to lose one's heart
Against it, and, the more it pouts,
Sting like a bird that pals hath blest.

You know not, dear, how dear you be;
All dancer for the money;
Nothing and yet a world to me!

A SERIOUS SAINT.—A New York letter writer says the latest attempt of Woolfall and Chubb to blackmail a minister was with the Rev. Dr. Bellows. They sent him a printed proof slip of what they were going to publish about him in case he did not come down with the cash. He was set down in the stereotyped fashion as a wolf in sheep's clothing, as a pious profligate, as a secretly sinner, etc. Everybody is aware that Dr. Bellows is not that sort of a man, and intuitively is capable of an exalted degree of indignation. Running his eye over the clear type graphy, his face flushed with righteous wrath. He informed the messenger of his opinion of those vile women, adding, if they published any such thing in regard to him, that he would make them smart for it. He then advised the caviler to leave the house instanter, on pain of being kicked out of doors, and the caviler left. Dr. Bellows has repented ever since that he showed as much sensibility.

EMPLOYMENT!

The National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, chartered by Congress, is the leading stock life insurance company of this country, and has the largest cash capital of any pure insurance company of the kind in the world. It is thus enabled to reduce its premiums largely. Indeed, had it chosen to do so, its Mutual rates during the last four and a half years, it would have received from its patrons $1,250,000 more than were its rates. By the mutual system, the policy holders insure the company. By the stock system, the company insures the policy holders. The National has over two dollars of assets to every one of liabilities, and on Jan. 1, 1873, had a surplus of $1,157,305.22. It wants an agent in every locality where it is not now represented, and will give liberal and continuous commissions to efficient and reliable men who will give permanent attention to the business of a branch office, Philadelphia, where the business of the company is transacted.

ALDEN'S IMPERISHABLE EVAPORATED!

FRUITS & VEGETABLES.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when put in water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

DIRECTIONS:—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been Super-matured or ripened though the Alden Pneumatic Process, and prepared perfectly clean without exposure to flies or dirt.

Those are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you cannot tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulins, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. The compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so uniformly successful or obtained such a world celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distracting pain from ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, and knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

The Chronicle.

FASHIONABLE BENEVOLENCE.—An army officer on recruiting service in St. Louis, with his office on the lower floor of a large building chiefly rented in "tenements," was visited lately by a sturdy and rather despondent looking young man, poorly dressed, who, without waste of words, offered himself as a soldier, and after the usual brief formalities was duly enlisted. Having thus committed himself beyond recall, and finding the officer in good humor at the acquisition, the recruit assumed a manner to invite familiar questioning, and then revealed the cause of his resort to military drudgery.

A recently arrived English emigrant, occupying with his young wife a dreary room in the upper part of the very building in which the recruiting office was situated, he had wearied soul and body in vain efforts to obtain employment in the city. Finally, in his despair of any other means of averting actual starvation, he resolved to sacrifice himself for the purpose of at least securing a soldier's pay whereowith his wife might keep a roof over her head; and now that he must be sent to Washington, he begged that the officer would betrend him to the extent of seeing that the poor woman whom he must leave behind did not suffer for the necessaries of life before he should be able to send her the means of rejoining him. To this unusual request his kind-hearted superior gave a conditional affirmative, and the immigrant went off with other recruits to the central depot at the national capital in better spirits therefor.

Upon subsequent reflection, however, the amiable recruiting official, who is a bachelor, felt himself in an awkward position as regarded his novel charge, and in his perplexity went for help and counsel to the worthy pastor of a certain fashionable church. To his great relief this reverend gentleman at once assured him that he had in his congregation a number of devoutly benevolent ladies who could never do enough for the deserving poor, and that he would lose no time in notifying them of their foreign sister's needs, that their visit to her might be immediate. Accordingly, on the second or third day after the interview, a handsome carriage stopped at the door of the recruiting office, and two richly dressed angels of goodness alighting therefrom were joyfully guided by the military guardian to the poor but very neat room of the soldier's wife.

The latter was found intelligent, patient, and resigned to her temporary separation from her husband, but without a cent of money and utterly destitute of food. Her manner seemed to charm the fair visitors; they sympathized with her in every womanly way, and, on their departure, bade her depend upon them for early allevation of her unmerited distress. She herself was not more pleased and encouraged at this than was the recruiting officer, who, having already caused her meals to be sent up to her at his own expense for several days, was the more willing to act as her good providence even more liberally, now that she was in the way of receiving permanent benefaction from her own sex.

Two days thereafter the same military Samaritan sat in his office, wondering, perhaps, just when such benefaction was to begin, when there entered to him a colored lad in semi-livery, with a small parcel "from the ladies to the poor woman." Not pausing to criticize the superficial proportions of this offering until he had himself placed it in the hands of the thankful beneficiary, he did allow his natural curiosity to detain him at the room door until the immigrant's wife had tremulously removed the spotless napkin enveloping the gift of charity, and revealed—two biscuit sandwiches!

As the St. Louis Times remarks, it is the unfortunate custom of the best of military men to express their wrath in terms not commendable for publication, and on the occasion in question the uniformed representative of the United States did not allow female presence to deter him from using language scarcely eligible for print. As, however, on the following day, he took the responsibility of escorting the object of fashionable charity to the cars, and himself supplied her with the means to reach her husband in Washington, it is possible that the record of his strange oaths in heaven's chancery may almost shine like cardinal virtues in comparison with some of the doubtful riches laid up there by the wealthy dispensers of charitable free lunch.

BARNUM.

B. T. Barnum has been aptly called a "Philosophic Salamander." Since the destruction of the third Museum, last December, he has written a second Appendix to his Autobiography, a volume of 880 pages, from the proof-sheets of which we make the following extracts. They give us an inkling of what Barnum accomplished last year, while the indomitable pluck and perseverance of the great showman are exhibited in remarkable programme which laid down for the coming Summer. As we are informed his exhibition will visit these parts within a few months, these extracts are invested with a peculiar interest to our readers:

APPENDIX II.

WRITTEN UP TO FEBRUARY, 1873.

THE GREAT SHOW CAMPAIGN OF 1872.—THAT OF 1873.—FAR TO SURPASS IT.

On the 10th of April, 1872, my great travelling Museum, Menagerie and Hippodrome moved westward. We travelled mostly in rail. I carried 400 horses, and nearly a thousand men, women and children, besides by far the largest number of rare wild beasts that ever travelled in one concern. Added to this was the Museum Collection, and it is no wonder that I was obliged to use ninety-five cars and five locomotives. In order to exhibit only in large towns, it was frequently necessary to travel one hundred miles in a single night, arriving in season to give three exhibitions and the usual street pageant, at 8 o'clock A. M. By means of cheap excursion trains, thousands of strangers attended daily from along the lines of the various railroads, for a distance of fifty, seventy-five, and even a hundred miles. Other thousands came in wagons, on horseback, and by every means of conveyance that could be pressed into the service, until by 10 o'clock—the hour for the first exhibition—the streets, sidewalks and stores were filled with strangers. The great "show day" thus always proved profitable to those doing business in towns where we exhibited.

Some idea of the excitement throughout the country may be formed from the fact that, upon arriving at daylight, we usually found wagon loads of rural strangers—men, women, and children—who had come in during the night and "pitched camp." The public and the press universally acknowledged that I showed all I advertised, and much more. No traveling exhibition ever before gave such universal satisfaction.

The gross receipts for 174 days (29 weeks) were princely enormous; and as I kept my expenses exceeded $6,000 per day, I found an aggregate profit at the end of the season that was as surprising as it was gratifying. I will say that the gross receipts of my world-renowned musical tour with Jenny Lind, in 1850-1, although before unparalleled, were scarcely half so much as the amount taken at my test doors in the summer of 1872. Of course, no other traveling exhibition in the world ever resorted or expanded one quarter of such enormous sums in a single touring season; indeed, it required my forty years' reputation as a liberal exhibitor of attractive worthy of public support, backing the moral and religious element, to warrant such an unprecedented expenditure. But my example is infectious. Hall the menageries of the country now vaunt of their "Hippodromes," "Aquaria and "Museums," and absolutely attempt to draw comparisons with my establishment, one tent of which would swallow up half a dozen of these petty institutes. An ordinary wagon would hold all the curiosities contained in these pretended "Museums," and the public are too wary to be taken in by such "vain boasting."

Early in November last I opened a new and beautiful Museum in New York, combined with my great Show. This entire establishment was burned to the ground December 24, while I was in New Orleans, exhibiting a great Menagerie of rare wild animals.

Returning to New York I learned that my loss on building and property amounted to the neighborhood of $300,000. To meet this I held insurance policies to the amount of $80,000.

It is amusing to witness the difference in men's dispositions. I arrived in New York from New Orleans the night before New Year's. Just a week after the fire. I found my manager, Mr. Coup, and my son-in-law, Mr. Hurd, in rather low spirits. I laughed at them and called them my dreamers, but nagged them not to go into mourning.

"It's astonishing how you can laugh when you know our museum building and all of our rare animals are burned up, and we cannot get more in time for the spring show," drawled the lugubrious Coup, in an injured tone.

"If the fire had waited ten days, till the holidays were over, we should have been $50,000 better off," chimed in the chop-fallen Hurd.

"If the skies had fallen we should have caught larks," I replied; "but as the skies did not fall, let us be content with what is still left us."

"As for you, Coup," I continued, "you talk about what we cannot do now, have I not told you often enough that the word can't is not in my dictionary?"

"But, you can't help the fire, can you," retorted Coup.

"I shall not try, but I can restore all it has destroyed, and much more," I replied; "and I will do it within three months at farthest."

"That is easier said than done," responded Coup with a sigh.

"Surely, father, you don't think we can get a new show upon the road before July, do you?" asked Mr. Hurd.

"I repeat that I see nothing to prevent our exhibiting the largest and best show on this earth, three months from to-day," I replied. "I am personally known to the directors of every Zoological Garden in Europe, and they have no doubt, in view of my great loss, they will sell me any of their animals that they would not otherwise dispose of. I have telegraphed them; and now all that is required are energy, pluck, courage, and a liberal outlay of money. All our golden chariots and cages, our horses, harness, canvas tents and wagons are saved, besides which we have thirty new cages nearly finished. Telegraphs, Atlantic cables, and our agents abroad, can supply us all the curiosities and animals we want, before the last of March next, if we will supply them with money enough. Besides, you will remember that the wild animals which we sent to New Orleans for exhibition during the Christmas Holidays, are duplicates of nearly all that were destroyed by fire. These I have ordered North to join my "Innumerable Caravan," and I tell you we will have the world under contribution before you are a fortnight older; and I will put off the road in April next the most stupendous show the world ever saw."

But my advisers thought I was almost too sanguine. Coup even proposed to be still a year, and start our show again in 1874. But I replied that my "years" were too few and too precious to be wasted in that way; and although I would never put a show upon the road that did not exceed in magnitude and worth that which we had lost, I felt every confidence in accomplishing this before April, if we would all work hard."

Strange enough, before we parted on that evening of December 24th, I received a cable message from my twenty agent, Robert Fellingham of London, saying he had purchased for me a pair of giraffes or camel-leopards, a young Gorilla, Rhinoceros, a Horned Horse, two Polar Bears, Elands, Yaks, Nilgiros, Ostriches and a wilderness of lions, tigers and other animals. He added: "All the Governmental Zoological Gardens here and on the continent sympathize with you, and are ready to dispose of any animals you wish. The menageries of Paris and Geneva are at work on automatons and other attractions for your traveling museum."

"Don't that electricity beat the world?" exclaimed Mr. Coup with great delight.

"Just put a little more of it into your blood," said I, "and we will beat the world."

The spirits of my associates were thoroughly revived, and at this present writing, on the 20th day of February, I have already received more rare wild animals and other curiosities than I had before at one time, with promise of many more within a month, and Messrs. Hurd and Coup are in high feather."

"Mr. Barnum," said Coup, yesterday, "this new show of ours is the miracle of the age."

"Well, my dear fellow," I replied, "the public like 'miracles;' keep performing them, and you are sure of success. You can never do so much for the public, but they will do more for you in return. Give them the best show possible, at whatever cost; keep a tree from objectionable features, and never fear; your efforts will surely be appreciated, and you will receive a generous support. Remember 'Excelsior' is our motto." Coup was satisfied.

Editors throughout the United States and Europe have written of my last conflagration, and of those which preceded it, and calling me "Phœnix P. Barnum," have attributed to me a degree of perseverance I fear beyond my deserts. If the fiery ordeal has had any effect, it has been to increase the desire to identify my name with a class of entertainments at once moral, numerous and instructive. Colossal as was the Great Traveling World's Fair of 1872, that of 1873, will very far surpass it.

FRIDAY, MARCH 7, 1873.

TOO MUCH DIE.—The dramatic critic of the Boston Globe has been "doing" the "Scouts of the Prairie," at the Boston Theatre, in which" there's a trapper named Cale Durg, played by Mr. Boutelle, the gifted author himself, who has but little to do but to get captured by Indians and released by Buffalo Bill and Texas Jack, until he is at length shot. In consideration of the fact that he is given to delivering moral lectures of an almost interminable length, his death at the second act proved one of the few really agreeable incidents of the piece. A discourse upon the evils of drinking lasted so long and proved so dry that there was quite a little exodus at his conclusion, in quest of liquid refreshments. The lecture was rather calculated to drive an unhappy drunkard into drivelling idiocy than to reform him. He took quite much time in dying as he did in lecturing, and the audience were so exasperated by frequent false alarms that, when at length he gave his final gasp, the pent up feelings of the entire audience broke forth in a demoniacal yell of raptures and uncontrollable jubilation. For our own part, we did not feel he could be depended upon to remain dead, until the curtain had finally fallen upon him. A terrible fear haunted us that he would appear in a subsequent act to deliver more lectures, either in his own proper person, or as a pious, avenging ghost.

Hon. William F. Cody is a fine-looking fellow and quite eclipsed the striking effort of the late Edwin Forrest in "Damon and Pythias" where he was accustomed to swing his faithful slave about like a walking cane. Mr. J. B. Omohundro, or, in other words, "Texas Jack," has but little to do but lasso a couple of Indians and wear a hunter's suit with an easy and becoming grace. The Indians crawled about on all fours and smelt the stage, and listened for nothing in particular, after the immemorial custom of stage Indians. They were all killed at the end of each act only to reappear safe and sound in the next.

There are two heroines in the play, one of whom is named Hazel Eye, and the other Dove Eye. As they both speak English with a marvellous foreign accent, the scenes wherein they appear together are remarkable from a polyglot point of view. The Italian Inez of Mdlle. Morlacchi greatly worked upon the sympathies of her audience, and they watched the progress of Dove Eye with breathless interest, their delight culminating when she danced a mazurka, in moccasins, and occasionally displayed, in its course, a finely-starched and handsomely ruffled white petticoat. As Italian Indian maiden walking on her toes in the wilderness with nicely laundried underclothing is a sight alone worth the price of admission, giving, as it does, so vivid a realization of Aboriginal life in the savage wilds of the West. We wonder if Mr Lothian was indulging in a quiet bit of satire upon the scalping drama when he played an overture that introduced the melody of 'Old Uncle Ned,' who, it will be remembered, had no hair on the top of his head in the place where the hair ought to grow. So painful an exhibition as that of Monday night we trust we may be spared from seeing on the stage of the Boston Theatre."

The McEnery militia men attacked the New Orleans police force, on the night of the 5th, and were driven from Jackson square by 200 policemen, who fired into them and killed one man. Several were wounded. The U. S. troops were called out and took possession of the scene of tumult.

U. S. Senator Wadleigh of this State was sworn in on Thursday.

A QUESTION OF TIME.—The recent cough or cold, that without proper treatment may become chronic and last for months, can be radically cured by a few doses of that invaluable pectoral elixir, Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Crittenden's, 7 & 9 Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

UPON THE HEALTH OF THE TEETH Depends the purity of the breath. Preserve them unblemished by the use of the famous Sozodont, that perfectly harmless vegetable preparation, and you will never regret it.

AVERT THE DANGER.—The "otherwhile sickness" to which people are in the cold season is more an illusion of the fancy than a meteorological fact. Early Spring in temperate climates is a fearful time, and the treats are usually too cool for health or comfort. To avert the complaints to which the fogs and winds of the season are apt to give rise, prudent people who believe in the proverb that "prevention is better than cure" fortify their stomachs and brace up their nerves and muscles with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Those who do this are wise, and are rewarded for their wisdom by escaping visitations of chills and fever, rheumatism, biliousness, flatulency, constipation, stomach complaint, &c., so common in this damp, unsettled weather. To the less prudent, who neglect this precaution, and suffer for it, we would say, that disorders which this potent vegetable tonic prevents it also cures.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

A Double Murder.

Two Women Butchered at Smutty-nose Island for Sixteen Dollars—A Shocking Sight—A Night of Horror—A third Woman Passes a Winter Night on the Island in her Night-clothes and Barefooted—The Murderer Known but Not Caught—Robbery the Object—A Night Trip by a Coroner's Jury—Judge Lynch Denies a Victim—Intense Excitement.

Much excitement was occasioned in this city on Thursday, by a report that two women had been murdered at the Shoals, Wednesday night, in cold blood,—a rumor which proved to be but too well founded. The facts are as follows:

Louis Wagner, a Prussian, on Wednesday evening ate supper in this city. At about 9 o'clock he was seen at Tucker's wharf with an axe in his hand, and was not seen afterward until about 7 o'clock next morning, when he returned in time to breakfast at Matthew Johnson's. He was much agitated and his hands trembled violently; and he remarked that he knew something was going to happen to him, he felt bad and could not eat. After breakfast he went to a barber's shop and had his whiskers taken off, and then left for Boston on the cars.

We visited the Shoals, Thursday evening, leaving the navy yard in U. S. relief steamer Mayflower, at 6.30, with Coroner Junkins and jurors Calvin L. Hayes, Dr. Daniel W. Jones, James O. Trefethen, George C. Ireland, Albert A. Hayes, Stephen F. Shaw and Deputy Sheriff Richard D. Philbrick of Kittery.

Mr. John C. Hontvet, who was with the party, says that the only residents of Smutty-nose Island were his family, consisting of himself, his brother Matthew, Ivan Christenson and wife, Anethe, and Miss Karen Christenson. All the men were in Portsmouth, Wednesday night, and Louis Wagner had promised John C. Hontvet to help him bait trawls, but stole a boat belonging to David Barke and rowed to the Shoals. At quarter to seven Thursday morning, Hontvet started to set his trawls and was signalled from Appledore island by some women. He sent two men ashore, who returned and reported there was trouble at his house. Three men had gone over from Appledore to Smutty-nose, and knowing there had been murder committed, decided not to go in the house. Hontvet then went to Smutty-nose without seeing his wife, who was at Appledore, and with five other men entered the house and found the two murdered women lying in different apartments. Hontvet then went to Appledore island and saw his wife. She had frozen her feet and was soaking them in water.

Mr. Hontvet stopped at the Shoals only long enough to learn the facts, and then came back to this city and informed the police. The police of other cities were at once telegraphed to, and City Marshal Johnson left for Boston on the train following that on which Wagner went. The murderer is a six-footer and powerfully built. The murders were committed for money, but the murderer secured only $16, to obtain which he rowed twenty-four miles and killed two unoffending women. The victims were both natives of Norway, and their countrymen at the Shoals are terribly excited; should Wagner fall into their hands while they are in their present temper, he could hardly escape being torn in pieces.

Mrs. Hontvet in her flight was accompanied by a little dog belonging to the family, and retained sufficient cool presence of mind to keep the little creature hidden beneath her clothing all the time the murderer was searching for her, that she might not be betrayed by his barking at the light. Her feet were badly frozen, and the terrible experiences of the night had made her almost distracted before her position was discovered.

Mr. Hontvet had $145 in a trunk, $10 of it being in a pocket book. The $10 was taken by Wagner, also $5 from a pocket book belonging to another man and some scrip from another, which shows that robbery was the incentive.

We found the bodies of the murdered women as they were first discovered. The bed clothes were strewn about the floor of the kitchen, and the furniture, also. A chair was broken, the remains of a meal were on the table, and a blood-stained axe with the handle broken, and a hatchet were lying outside of the door. In the centre of the room, at the west end of the house, was the body of Mrs. Anethe Christenson, face up, the head being fearfully mangled. A shawl was wound tightly around her neck, probably by the murderer, that he might drag her into the house more readily. One hand was clenched. The rocks outside the house are stained with blood. The house has two tenements separated by a partition, with no door between. To get from one tenement to the other it is necessary to go out of doors.

In the east part of the house there is a workshop and a bed room. In the bed room, lying on the face, with the head badly cut and the hair covering the wounds nearly from view, was the body of Miss Karen Christenson, clothed only with a chemise, the lower extremities being exposed. The feet were straightened out as if she had been in great agony. A white handkerchief was tied tightly around the neck, the knot being at the back of the head, probably to strangle her after she had hidden under the bed. Outside was a pool of blood and marks of a struggle in the snow, and there were finger marks of blood on the doorway.

Karen had five wounds on the back of the head, one breaking her skull; two on the left temple, two on the forehead over the right eye, one to left of the right eye. Her tongue was protruding. The wounds were not sufficient to cause death, which must have ensued from strangulation.

The murderer landed beyond the house. Had he not done so Mrs. Hontvet could have got away and left him on the island, where the fishermen would have made mince-meat of him in the morning. He doubtless feared that he might lose his boat, and gave up hunting for her and rowed off without her knowing it. As the tide receded, she was enabled to cross to a point of land nearer to Appledore island, but dared not shout for help, fearing Wagner might hear and discover her. The torture of that night of terror cannot be imagined. As day dawned she waved a signal. At about seven o'clock it was seen by some of the Norwegians on the neck of Appledore and Mr. Ingerbredsen and another man went to her rescue. As may be imagined, she was chilled to the bone. Her feet were frozen and although she was tenderly cared for her sufferings were intense.

The elder of the two murdered women, Karen, it is said had refused Louis Wagner, who desired to marry her. She was handsome, 33 years old, and a general favorite. Ivan Christenson, husband of Anethe is nearly crazed by the murder of his wife. His friends have kept him away from her mutilated body. Believers in capital punishment regret that though murderers in Maine are sentenced to be hung, the governors of that State never issue a requisition to hang the condemned. Wagner has thirteen unhung murderers ahead of him in the march to the gallows.

Louis Wagner came to Portsmouth eighteen or twenty months ago from Boston. He was a seafaring man, has been fishing for Mr. Hontvet, and boarded with the murdered women five months last year. He was ugly when in liquor but was on good terms with Hontvet's family. In his early days he was sent to Prussia for difficulty in French waters, for trial.

Mrs. Mary Hontvet testified before the jury that she was in bed. "Anethe slept with me. Sister Karen slept on the lounge in the kitchen. In the night Karen cried out, "John scared me," thinking the man in the room was John Hontvet. I heard some one pounding her. The door of the bed room was fastened by some one on the kitchen side with a stick. I shouted, the stick came out of the door and I opened it, reached out and got Karen by the arm, and was struck with a chair. I pulled Karen into the bed room with Anethe and me. Told Anethe to jump out of the window, and she did so. Told her to run, but she was so frightened that she could only get to the corner of the house. I was holding the door of the bed room and the person in the kitchen was trying to force his way in. When he could not get in he went out around the house, and I heard Anethe shout "Louis, Louis." He went back to the door and got the axe and I saw him through the bed room window strike her three times. I could not see the face but could see the figure of the man, and I knew him to be Louis Wagner. I jumped through the window, taking my skirt, and ran down by the hen house. I tried to get Karen to come too, but she said she was too tired. I ran to the dock but could find no dory there. I then went out on the island and hid behind the rocks. We went to bed about 10 P. M. and when I hid behind the rocks, the moon was just setting. I stayed here until after sunrise, fearing that Louis Wagner was still on the island. I went down to the north side and swung my skirts as a signal for help. I came up on the Point and shouted and Mr. Ioglebretsen heard me and came over from Appledore and took me to his house, where I arrived at 8 o'clock A. M. We were all good friends. Wagner never made any advances to me or the others that I know of. The only time I saw Wagner was when I was looking through the window when he struck Anethe. I saw her lying on the ground when I jumped out of the window; when I was running away I heard Karen shouting, the voice sounding out of doors. I did not hear Wagner speak at all. There was no light in the house." Mrs. Hontvet's toes and the bottom of her feet were badly frozen and blistered. Dr. Jones thinks with proper care, amputation will not be necessary.

The members of the press are greatly indebted to Commodore Howell and Executive officer English of the navy yard, Comdr. Gardner and his brother officers of the U. S. relief steamer Mayflower, and to pilot Baker, for courtesies tendered to representatives of the CHRONICLE, New York Herald, Boston Herald, Journal, News, Traveller and Transcript. The Mayflower was placed at their disposal, arriving at the Shoals at eight P. M. and returning Friday morning at 3:30. Some of the party had a narrow escape from being capsized on landing in one of the fishermen's boats, but escaped with a boat half full of water.

It being reported that Wagner had been captured, large crowds gathered at the depot at seven o'clock, and again at ten, among them a crowd of fishermen armed with clubs, who were greatly disappointed at not finding Wagner on the train, as they hoped to lynch him. We regret to announce that no news has been received up to five o'clock this morning of the capture of the murderer.

Another Mayor's Nest.

A call was issued Thursday morning, signed by C. H. Mendum, A. R. Hatch, Frank Jones, and other citizens, "without respect to party," (it is pretty evident they have not much respect for the Republican party,) calling a Citizens' Convention, to nominate a candidate for Mayor, who can reduce taxes, wring out all the rings, and modify, mortify and purify things generally. Hon. D. Marcy was chosen chairman, and C. H. Mendum, Esq., Secretary. The attendance was large, mainly Greeleycrats. A ballot gave T. E. O. Marvin 453, Frank W. Miller 5, scattering about 10. Mr. Marvin appeared, and addressed, redressed, and we were about to say undressed the audience, in his usual style of raliocination, not to say vaccination; that is, when our reporter left, he was giving an account of the life and exploits of our distinguished and exceedingly non-partisan citizen from Barrington, and was proceeding to give the history of all the signers in turn.

This nomination will effectually remove from Mr. Marvin whatever of pity or sympathy he might have received on account of his defeat in the Republican caucus; for no true Republican would desire to vote for a man who would under any circumstances accept a nomination against his own party—a party too, in the present instance, from which he has received many honors, and on which he has conferred none. We shall have more to say on this subject; but will only add now, that this ridiculous move but renders Mr. Miller's election all the more certain, for he will undoubtedly receive more Democratic votes than Mr. Marvin will Republican votes.

Caucusing.

The republicans of the first and second wards meet at their respective ward rooms, this evening, at half past seven o'clock, to nominate candidates for representatives to the legislature, aldermen and other city and ward officers. There seems to be but little rivalry for representatives, the chief interest centering in the aldermanic nominations, as the aldermen are directly responsible for city expenditures.

The republicans of the third ward held their caucus Thursday evening, and nominated the following candidates:

For Representatives to General Court, William H. Rollins, Oliver H. Locke.

For Aldermen, William W. Henderson, Oliver Ayers.

For Common Councilmen, Lafayette V. Newell, Job Woodsum, John S. McDonald.

For Assessors, John E. Ham, John Nutter.

For Overseer of Poor, Langdon M. Parkins.

For Moderator, William H. Rollins.

For Selectmen, Michael J. Vaughan, Frank P. Jenkins, William B. Randall.

For Ward Clerk, John O. Ayers.

For School Committee, John Sullivan Rand, Charles W. Gardner.

Laconics.

The appropriation for a survey in Portsmouth harbor failed to pass Congress.

Business at the Navy Yard promises to be brisk for a year or two. Senator Cragin has secured the building of two of the new sloops there and work will commence as soon as the plans arrive.

There is nothing like the arbitrament of chance. That form of it known as trils-by-jootie is, perhaps, as good as any.

The Pythian club of this city are to give a representation of the drama, "Damon & Pythias," at Dover, this evening.

Mr. George Vandenhoff has decided to give up his residence in Portsmouth and will dispose of his estate here. He has recovered from his recently reported illness.

The Republican Headquarters will be open each evening until after Election. All who desire the success of the Republican candidates, are invited. tf

The Portsmouth & Dover Railroad dam across the Cocheco river at Dover now resists the weight of water pressing against it, and the river is running in its new channel.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cured for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment' warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all this afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Little Bertie.

Written, composed and sung by FRANK L. HOWARD, Portsmouth, N. H.

Little Bertie she has left us,
And I not so lonely now,
Softly did her hand caress me,
When the fever burned my brow;
Put the angels they have taken her
From this earthly world of pain—
In heaven I hope to meet my darling,
Never more to part again.

CHORUS.

The spring has come, the birds are warbling
Forth their sweetest melody;
But still I weep, I'm sad and lonely—
I've no Bertie now with me.

Now I miss those fond caresses,
When she'd greet me at the door—
Now I miss her childish laughter,
For I hear it now no more.
Her chair, her bed, her gentle footfall,
Her bright eyes no more I see—
"Do not weep, but like me, darling,"
Were her last words she said to me.

CHORUS.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS.

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, a Vitalizer, Tonic, and Alterative, combining the advantages of a perfect assimilant, at easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of healthy blood. It increases the quantity of healthy blood, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills" simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched vital element, Iron, permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or aggravated by debility or low system. Being free from alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this wonderful remedy, quickly, effectually and safely, from a strong, healthy, and happy man and woman; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

EMPLOYMENT!

The National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, chartered by Congress, is the leading stock, life insurance company of this country, and has the largest cash capital of any stock life insurance company of like kind in the world. It is thus enabled to reduce its premiums largely. Indeed, had it charged the Mutual Mutual rates during the last four and a half years, it would have received from its patrons $1,250,000 more than was paid it. By the old mutual system, the policy holders insure the company. By the stock system, the company insures the policy holders. The National has nearly two dollars of assets to every one of liabilities, and on Jan. 1, 1873, had a surplus of $1,157,909.25. It wants an agent in every locality where it is not now represented, and will give liberal and long-tried commissions to efficient and reliable men who will give personal attention to its business. Address Frank Phillips, Cincinnati, Ohio, where the business of the company is transacted.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tinctures of Lapulina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS. Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, but knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAWYER, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 785 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary.

400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER

IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantage over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

The Chronicle.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 69.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

I have a fragment, perhaps one-fourth of what was a small newspaper, published in the winter of 1775. It was preserved among the writings of Gov. Weare of Hampton Falls and on the margin is the name of Richard Weare. This was in all probability Gov. Weare's son. He had one by that name, and two years later he was mortally wounded in the battle of Ticonderoga, while as captain, he was leading his company forward.

The title of the paper is not on this scrap, but it appears that it was "The Spy," and likely it was published in Worcester, Mass. The publisher states in this number that "just four years have passed since the paper was commenced, and that two hundred and twelve numbers have been issued." Once a week for four years would have made but two hundred and three, and how four more were got in, is not plain. The publisher adds to the note this, "the times are hard, the printer's purse is empty, a word to the wise, &c." It seems then, that in those times some were unjust enough to neglect paying the worthy printer. Let none do so now.

The most part of the paper, besides advertisements is devoted to the Revolutionary struggle then in its early stages. It contains the doings of the Provincial lawyers of Massachusetts Bay, held in Cambridge. John Hancock was president. An address was issued to the people, condemning in severe terms the tyranny of the mother country and urging them to stand for their rights. Another paper by the same Congress, dated Feb. 15, urges military discipline and the giving encouragement to those who can manufacture fire-arms and bayonets.

There is an account of the vote of a town meeting in Pembroke of that province, in which Josiah Keen, Esq., Andrew Lindsey and Thomas Josselyn were censured for opposing the resolutions submitted by the Provincial Congress for the acceptance of the citizens. It is stated that Josslyen had called in town meeting the members of Congress, a pack of rascally fellows. The vote stated that these men had merited the contempt and resentment of their fellow citizens, "Voted that the Town Clerk send a copy of this to Mr. Thomas, printer in Boston, that their names may be published to the world."

Close unto this are the deaths, Mrs. Susanna Gray, aged 31, wife of Mr. Samuel Gray, shopkeeper, Mrs. Elizabeth Griffith, wife of Mr. Griffith, a seafaring man," &c. From New York there was the news of the arrival of the ship James, Capt. Watson, from Glasgow with coal and dry goods. The captain was requested to leave without landing his cargo. Some of the minions of the British ministry encouraged him, but he was obliged to leave. He dropped down four miles, anchored and after a few days came up again. He was taken, led through some of the streets, roughly handled and as soon as convenient, he set sail. This opposition was in consequence of the ship not complying with some regulations of the Continental Congress.

The advertisements are numerous. Some of them of a character not common now. One is a lottery, called "Harvard College Lottery," to be drawn, June 1, 1775. Joshua Blanchard, north side Faneuil Hall, Boston, advertises "a few hogsheads of Jamaica rum, West India and New England rum by the hogshead, barrel, or less, choice old spirits, brandy, Fayal, Teneriffe, Lisbon, Sherry, Malucca, Claret and Port wines, cheap for cash." "A quantity of choice, clear and dry boards to be sold by the thousand or hundred by Moses Earys near Mr. Hill's Distill House." Lee & Jones near the Swing Bridge advertise "fish hooks, velvet corks, alpany pease, cream colored wax, &c." "A young man of good character would like to serve as a schoolmaster, to teach reading, writing and arithmetic. For particulars enquire of the printer." Adam Kerr gives notice that he opened a vender's room on the north side of Town Dock.

There is a notice that a lodge of Masons will hold its meetings in future at

"The Bench of Grapes Tavern, Col. Ingalls."

A hat and fur store had been broken into and the following curious advertisement was inserted in hopes that the thief and property might be "taken up." "Middleborough, Feb. 3, 1775. Stolen from the shop of the subscriber 2d inst., four beaver hats, not looped; two castors, one looped, the other not; one old fur, new dressed; one Regimental hat, trimmed with yellow lace; four red fox skins, one grey, ditto; a number of muskrat skins; and a better case Turkey worked with the subscriber's name in the work. Whoever will take up the thief or thieves and the above articles and return them to the subscriber, shall have four dollars reward and all necessary charges paid by the subscriber, Ebenezer Stanett, Jr." On the whole the paper appears to have been a very spirited one.

The Daily Chronicle,

Portsmouth, N. H.

SATURDAY, MARCH 8, 1873.

A fire in Woburn, Tuesday, destroyed six buildings in the centre of the town, including the Methodist Church. The loss is estimated at $50,000. Reports are also received of a conflagration at Hollsburg, Pa., which laid half the town in ruins and caused the loss of $100,000.

—Having perhaps found other efforts to secure attention unavailing, a number of Trojan spinsters have adopted the ingenious plan of veiling themselves closely, and causing their male acquaintances to take them out sleigh-riding by lot from a central rendezvous.

—Ladies never kiss each other in China except when they are true friends. If that was the law among ourselves, kisses between gushing women would be rarer occurrences.

—Curtis never goes to Harper's establishment, but writes his editorial wherever he may roam. He carries the "Easy Chair" in his hat with the greatest of ease.

—A fire company at Easton, Penn., got upon the roof of a man's house to play on the flames, three yards off, and next day the old codger sued them for trespass.

—There is no tin trade in this country. Think of that when you throw an empty can away or pitch an empty sardine box over into your neighbor's back yard.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS!

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an element, so easily digested, and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It Increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Disease of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

JOURNALISTIC ENTERPRISE.—The first anniversary of the birthday of the Boston Daily Globe, March 4th, was observed by its proprietors in the issue of a quadruple sheet, forming sixteen super-royal quarto pages or just double the size of the regular issue presenting one hundred and twelve printed columns in one issue—a novelty certainly, and almost a wonder, in journalism. The varied matter contained therein was of great and general interest. Both the Daily and Weekly Globe are very valuable papers and have sprung into a leading position in a single year—a feat heretofore unheard of.

Business Notices.

A QUESTION OF TIME.—The recent cough or cold, that without proper treatment may become chronic and last for months, can be radically cured by a few doses of that invaluable pectoral elixir, Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Crittenton's, 7 4th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in 1 minute.

UPON THE HEALTH OF THE TEETH Depends the purity of the breath. Preserve them unblemished by the use of the famous Sozodont, that perfectly harmless vegetable preparation, and you will never regret it.

AVERT THE DANGER.—The "ethereal mildness" with which poets credit the vernal season is more an illusion of the fancy than a meteorological fact. Early Spring is frequently attended by a fearful time, and the tears are usually too cool for health or comfort. To avert the complaints to which the fogs and winds of the season are apt to give rise, prudent people who believe in the proverb that "prevention is better than cure" fortify their stomachs and bowels up their nervous centres with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Those who do this are wise, and are rewarded for their wisdom by escaping visitations of chills and fever, rheumatism, biliousness, flatulency, constipation, stomach complaint, &c., so common in damp, idiosyncratic weather. To the less prudent, who neglect this precaution, and suffer for it, we would say, that disorders which this potent vegetable tonic prevents it also cures.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind colic, and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

The improvements in Hanover street, Boston, render the American House one of the most desirable, as it has long been one of the best stopping places in Boston, either for business men or pleasure seekers.

For all throat diseases and especially Coughs, Colds, &c., there is no known remedy equal to Buchman's Pulmocine, and a few doses will satisfy the most skeptical of its efficacy. For sale at the Union Store.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is the concentration of sixteen composite parts and can be manufactured only in large quantities. So immediate and powerful is its action that one bottle (selling for 50 cts.) is more potent than any other cunative of throat and lung diseases on sale.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. LOCAL AFFAIRS.

Louis Wagner,

The murderer, was captured in Boston, Thursday evening. City Marshal Johnson of this city is fairly entitled to additional laurels. He procured four photographs of Wagner and took them with him to Boston. Conferring with Chief of Police Savage, that sagacious detective determined to establish a cordon of officers about the city and the photographs were shown to the entire force. City Marshal Johnson had information that Wagner sometimes stopped on North street, and a detective ascertained that he had been there. About nine o'clock, he returned, was arrested and carried to a station house, where City Marshal Johnson and Mr. Charles Benson of this city identified him. He pretended not to know them and said he had been in Boston five days. On Friday morning he was taken to the Eastern depot by a detachment of police, followed by a hooting mob, City Marshal Johnson taking charge of him at the depot. At every station along the route crowds were gathered and a general desire to lynch him was shown. At Lynn, the City Marshal of that city joined the party and at Newburyport, where a dense crowd had assembled and there were fierce cries for vengeance, City Marshal Fitts got aboard. The prisoner was surly and answered the shouts of the crowd with obscene and defiant language, inviting them to the place which he is evidently booked for. At the depot in this city, a dense crowd of thousands of both sexes were assembled; and an indignant assemblage it was, (encouraged to believe that Wagner would be brought there by the presence of a detachment of forty-eight marines,) when the train was stopped at the Kearsarge mills and the prisoner and officer got out and went across to Islington street. Then there was a hurrying through streets and by-ways to cut him off and a rush was made at Pearl street to get him away from the officers, who drew revolvers, and the crowd fell back with yells of "hang him," "go for him," "tear him to pieces." Though many words were wasted on the unfortunate wretch, none seemed sufficiently exasperated to encounter the fierce onslaught that might have been expected from the brandished pistolcers! Down through Congress street, the crowd surged, teams joining in the march and every step blockaded, the prisoner looking anxiously on all sides. The station reached, two marines helped keep the crowd back and in a half minute Wagner was jugged and the crowd felt relieved that they had no murder on their hands.

Wagner is a native of Ueckermuende, a small town of Pomerania in northern Prussia. He came to this country seven years ago. We should not select him in a crowd as one who would commit murder, as his expression is one of kindness. He is represented, however, to have treated in a surly manner some who approached him, declaring that he didn't know why he was arrested and would like to see the person who said he stole Burke's boat. He slept soundly after being arrested in Boston and fell asleep on his way to Portsmouth. He looks squarely at every one who takes a glance at him and evidently has made up his mind to play a game of bluff. On being spoken to, however, by Mr. Charles Johnson, he made no reply and turning, burst into tears. A more wretched condition than he is in can hardly be imagined. Proof of his guilt is so conclusive that there seems no room for a doubt, yet how he could be induced to commit such a crime is beyond conception. The clothes he had on when found had spots of blood on them, and he had disposed of them.

All the afternoon of Friday, men, women and children passed into the station to see the prisoner, who at times hid himself from view, but seemed glad to see the ladies, saying to one that he never was happier in his life.

Mrs. Hontvet was brought to this city in a wherry, Friday, and is stopping at Matthew Johnson's on Water street. She was too unwell to appear with the prisoner before the County Solicitor. Her husband and Ivan Christenson, husband of one of the murdered women, interviewed the murderer. Dr. Whittier was sent for to attend Mrs. Hontvet.

The correspondents who sent dispatches to the Boston papers from this city, Thursday evening, dealt more largely in fiction than fact. The only reliable information reached here at 3.30, Friday morning, too late to be telegraphed to the Boston papers, and was forwarded by special messenger in the morning train.

The crew of two fishing vessels state that they were lying in the passage between Smutty-nose and Appledore, Wednesday night, and that a man in a dory came along side and asked to buy 800 lbs. of haddock, but was refused. Had any outcry been made at the Hontvet house the crew think they would have heard it and rendered assistance, as a regular watch was set.

We are happy to inform our readers that there is now an opportunity offered to all who have any desire to perfect themselves in Drawing. Mr. Whitefield is a thorough teacher of an art which is no longer looked upon as a mere accomplishment, and which should be understood by all; especially by young men in every walk of life. Mr. W. can be found at the Kearsarge House.

P. & D. R. R.

We learn that an appeal has been taken in the case of Mr. Wentworth, from the award of the board of assessors of the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad, for land damages, and that the question of the competency of railroad stockholders to sit in judgment to assess their own damages will be brought before the court.

—Those Minnesota snow drifts have melted away until some of the hogs in the State have raised their noses above the surface crust. Considering that these drift were said to be about eighteen feet deep, we are forced to conclude that the sun is very powerful in Minnesota, or that the hogs are rather tall.

From the Portsmouth Journal.

THE MAYORALTY.—We give elsewhere the report of the Mayor caucus, which resulted in a clear majority for Mr. Frank W. Miller as the nominee, after a large vote and a full and fair canvass of the matter by all interested.

Although the Journal has not concealed its preference for Mayor Marvin's re-election, still we cordially endorse the nomination of Mr. Miller as one eminently fit to be made, and demanding the support of every true Republican.

We have favored Mr. Marvin in consideration of what a large portion of the party have considered the very fair, fearless and straightforward manner in which he has administered the Government while in office: but as to any claims to election by the people because he is now in office by a vote of the City Council, his friends must readily see that he has none stronger than those of Mayor Fernald, who served part of a term, and that we think without salary, and was not nominated in the next Mayor caucus.

Mr. Miller gave way to Mayor Walker last year, requesting his friends not to use his name, and it was then declared by the friends of Mr. Walker that Mr. Miller should succeed him as their candidate; and though Mr. Marvin was also a candidate at that time, his claim to the succession was no stronger than that of Mr. Miller.

It is claimed by some, that Mr. Marvin was defeated on account of his Police dispute. We have approved his course in that affair, and we think he gained as many votes as he lost by it; at any rate, neither Mr. Miller nor the party generally are in anywise accountable for it. We feel sure, further, that had Mr. Marvin been nominated by the people last year, he would have been re-nominated by acclamation; and we know Mr. Miller would not have allowed his name to have been used against him.

Mr. Miller is a competent and fit man for the position, and has been fairly and squarely nominated. His brief speech at the Caucus does him great credit, and his election ought to be no matter of doubt. His successful life is a guarantee of a successful administration of public affairs; and from an intimate acquaintance with him from boyhood, we know him to be rather conservative in business matters. The word "fail" never has been inscribed on his escutcheon, and will not be now.

Since the above was in type, Mr. Marvin has accepted the nomination for Mayor by the opposition party, in the thin and threadbare guise of "citizens' ticket," which it generally assumes in desperate cases; and thus he steps from the ranks of the republican party. We happen to know that Mr. Miller is the chosen candidate of those who voted for him, that he did not solicit the office or ask for a single vote, and we doubt not the true Republican party will give him all the larger majority on account of the nature of the appointment made by the opposition, and the earnestness with which they have made their own nomination.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE'S UNION.—The second annual meeting of the Young People's Union of this city, held Monday evening at their rooms, drew together a very large number of those interested in the good cause, the congratulations flowing freely at the success which had attended the efforts of the Union in behalf of the rising portions of our community. The meeting was called to order about 8 o'clock. The annual report of the Secretary gave a succinct and interesting review of the work during the past year; the rooms have been filled night after night with the very class for whom they were chiefly designed, the amusement room being rarely otherwise than full, while the reading apartment with its general miscellany has called together generous numbers; the class in book-keeping under the gratuitous instruction of W. H. Hackett, Esq., has been largely attended, a course in single entry having just concluded, and a class in double entry now being ready. The school in penmanship under Mr. J. S Montgomery, is crowded during its tri-weekly sessions, and great advance made. Several adults meet here together regularly for instructions in reading, spelling and arithmetic. The membership roll of the Union has 1 life, 21 honorary and 210 annual members. Since the opening in November, fifty new members joined. The report of the Treasurer showed that the total cash amount received during the year was $1010.79; expenditures $541.21; leaving a balance in the treasury of $470.58. Four entertainments have been given during the year for the benefit of the Union, with receipts as follows: May Fair, $276.47; Wendell Phillips' lecture, $120; M. I. C. $100; tableaux entertainments, $100; membership, etc., $414.32, a pecuniary result which must be entirely satisfactory to the Y. P. U.

We glean from the Librarian's report that the total number of books in the Library is 673; number of books delivered during the year, 849; number of volumes added during the year, 37. The collection of books has thus far been gathered together entirely by contributions, but in order to increase its further usefulness, the Executive Committee have voted to expend the sum of $100 for the purchase of new volumes. We doubt not that donations to this branch of the Union would be gladly received.

Following the reading of the several reports the election of officers took place:

President. Robert E. Rich.
Vice President. John E. Colcord.
Treasurer. Alfred Stavers.
Secretaries. Miss Mary A. Foster, Mrs. Annie B. Wilson, Miss Carrie A. Freeman.
Directors. Rev. James DeNormandie, Joseph R. Thacher, Joseph H. Foster, Charles A. Hazlett, Mrs. Frank W. Miller, Mrs. Joseph P. Morse, Mrs. John E. Colcord.

The socialities of the evening were heartily entered into by those present, the M. I. C. adding delightful music. Refreshments were freely provided.

A review of the work of the second year of the Union, shows that it has taken a firmer foundation and has become one of the permanent institutions of the city. In other places similar associations have formed the nucleus of extensive organizations for Christian work in all its branches,—among the sick, the prisoners, the poor, the strangers, the young. Why should such an extension of the work of this Young Peoples' Union be impossible in Portsmouth?

It is expected that Mr. G. B. Bartlett of Boston, will present for the benefit of the Y. P. U. another tableax entertainment at the Temple, about the first of May, aided by the M. I. C., and other talent.

Clippings.

—Mr. L. T. Sanborn, of Rye, who was injured by the Railroad accident at Seabrook, is just getting out and about again.

—The novelist and dramatic author Ned Buntline, and Buffalo Bill the hunter, both well known as "The Heroes of the Plains," are to appear at the Temple on Monday, the 17th.

—It is probable that our Kittery neighbors will at their annual town meeting, now near at hand, take some action in reference to the devisement of $20,000 by the late Miss Arabella Rice, of this city, for the founding of a public library in that town.

—The partnership of Harding & Doane, in the fishing business in this city, has been dissolved—Mr. Doane assuming the entire control, for which he is amply competent, being one of the most enterprising and capable of our new citizens. Capt. Harding's numerous friends will wish him speedy restoration to complete health.

—Rev. Canon Walsh announced on Sunday last that a stained glass window had been presented to the new Catholic church by Mr. R. Edwin Rider, organist, of this city, which will be placed on the easterly side of the altar. It is to be of elegant design and workmanship. Other members of the society have announced their intention to make similar gifts.

—Mr. Arthur Hodges, the well known test medium, of Boston, will hold public circles at the Republican Headquarters, Congress Street, on Sunday afternoon and evening. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged at the door. It is expected that Mr. Hodges will remain in the city two or three days to give private sittings, notice of which will be given on the Sabbath.

—The City Accounts are just issued from the Journal press, and will be found to give the usual clear exposition of municipal affairs for the past year. The wiping off the mass of old worthless taxes from the Collector's books, where they had been laying dead and uncollectable for years, was a sensible act of the Board of Assessors—for of what use is it for a City to keep deadhead accounts on their books, more than for individuals? The City Book was completed on Wednesday, and immediately issued to the public; and copies may be had at the City Clerk's office. Citizens can judge for themselves whether the various City officers have acted well their parts, and if the public service has suffered any detriment; but it is well always to remember that it is not those who shout "stop thief" the loudest, who are most honest and reliable.

Lacomics.

Frank W. Miller, formerly of the Portsmouth CHRONICLE was nominated as the Republican candidate for Mayor of Portsmouth, Wednesday evening. He ought to be unanimously elected, for he will make an "A 1" Mayor.—Concord Monitor.

The candidate for mayor on the democratic ticket was so anxious to have only a good man nominated, that he not only gave his personal attention to the republican caucus all the time the polls were open, but the next evening magnanimously accepted from the democrats the nomination which the republicans did not force upon him. That's the way with all true reforms in politics—the office seeks the man, not the man the office. All hail, thou coming reform!

Rev. Mr. Leonard, of Rockport, Mass., will preach at the Universalist church to-morrow, morning and afternoon.

At the last meeting of the school committee a numerously signed petition asking the employment of Mr. J. S. Montgomery as teacher of penmanship in the public schools, was considered and referred to the next board.

A dispatch to the Boston Advertiser says the democrats of this city have partaken of enough crow and will not generally support the citizens' ticket.

Frank W. Miller has been nominated by the republicans of Portsmouth for mayor of that city. The Portsmouth people could not do better than to choose Mr. Miller, who is an able and upright man, and one who has earned the respect of his fellow citizens and very many persons outside of Portsmouth or the limits of the State of New Hampshire.—Newburyport Herald.

The Republican Headquarters will be open each evening until after Election. All who desire the success of the Republican candidates, are invited.

It will be remembered that one year ago a charter was obtained for a Shore Line Railroad from Kittery to Biddeford. It is now stated that as soon as the snow is off the ground a corps of civil engineers will make a survey of the route. The subject has already caused considerable excitement in some of the towns through which the road is to pass.

Our evening contemporary, in its report of the republican mayoralty caucus, says "scores of citizens who have heretofore voted the republican ticket" "were guilty indignant and incensed to find a gang of policemen acting as fuglemen for Mr. Miller." It did not say how they felt at seeing some of the present police, and an ex-policeman who in times past has been accused of all the offences on the register of our anti-police neighbor, "acting as fuglemen" for Mr. Marvin. For ourselves, we see no wrong in a police officer's exercising the rights of a citizen, no matter whom he favors.

The first individual recorded in history as a feaster on crow, "could eat boiled crow but didn't hanker after it." The Portsmouth ex-democracy, it seems, have thoroughly digested their crow-hash meal of last November, and want some more of the same sort. It's a hard job to satisfy some people.

There will be no services to-morrow at the North church, Rev. Carlos Martyn being absent.

The Mechanic Fire Society sat down to a bountiful supper at the Rockingham House, on Friday evening—Mr. Craig being the host. Politics were not served at that table—they were taken previous and elsewhere.

Caucuses.

The republicans of the second ward nominated the following ticket, Friday evening:—

Representatives, John H. Broughton, J. Horace Kent, Stephen L. Marston, Samuel S. Whidden.

For Aldermen there were cast	109
Nec. for a choice	55
Lewis G. Davis	610
William H. Sise	62
Chas. H. Hayes	57
J. Albert Walker	50
Scattering	46

and Messrs. Davis, Sise and Hayes were nominated.

Councilmen, John W. Prior, Chas. C. Akerman, Charles E. Simpson, Chas. A. Hazlett.

Assessors, Rufus K. Oxford, J. C. Carr, Alfred Stavers.

Overseer of Poor, John Stokell.

School Committee, A. F. Howard, T. S. Nowell, Rev. W. H. Alden.

Moderator, Henry A. Yeaton.

Selectmen, D. L. Randall, E. H. Leslie, Saml. H. Kingsbury.

Ward Clerk, E. Washington Brown.

The republicans of the first ward selected the following ticket:—

Aldermen, Joseph H. Thacher, Henry M. Clark, Samuel A. Spinney.

Representatives, James W. Emery, George Annable, Christopher C. Jackson, John G. Tibbetts.

Assessors, John A. Lamprey, Joseph H. Berry, Francis I. Wilson.

Overseer of the Poor, Albert A Payne.

Selectmen, Freeman H. Burleigh, Wm. F. Batten, Charles W. Shannon.

Ward Clerk, Henry C. Walker.

School Committee, 3 years—A. C. Hoyt, Charles A. Shannon. Two years—Harry B. Buzzell, Mercer Goodrich.

The democrats of the third ward have nominated Messrs. Henry F. Wendell and Brackett Trefethen for aldermen.

—The Missouri Legislature passed resolutions of respect to the memory of a member whose sudden death was announced. A committee was also appointed to accompany the remains to the home of the deceased, but they were relieved from their duties by the appearance of the lamented member, who moved to reconsider.

CENTAUR LINIMENT.—There is no pain which the Centaur Liniment will not relieve, no swelling it will not subdue, and no lameness which it will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. Where the parts are not gone, its effects are marvelous. It has produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lock-jaw, sprains, swellings, caked-breasts, scalds, burns, salt-rheum, ear-ache, &c., upon the human frame, and of strains, spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. It is a counter-irritant, an all-healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are rendered harmless and the wounded without a scar. It is no humbug. The recipe is published around each bottle. It is selling as no article ever sold, and it sells because it does just what it pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rheumatism, pain or swelling deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic rheumatism, gout, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or sweeney horses and mules, or for screw-worm in sheep. Stock-owners—this liniment is worth your attention. No family should be without Centaur Liniment J. B. Rose & Co., New York.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the throat, Diphtheria, and all kindred DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately anointed with Cough or painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the tiny sufferers among their children hours of pain and agony. As one ounce has saved nine, so does the possessor of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives behold each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear, and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in trifling cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all the afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the painful danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, greatly stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.
USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

CLIMATIC INFLUENCES.—It is a curious question how far the special character of the weather affects the political, social, and religious developments of a time. Philosophers tell us that a race is the product of its climate. Mr. Buckle was prepared to explain the whole course of history by the external influences of different countries. One race was hopelessly superstitious because it lived in a land of earthquakes; another was energetic and prosperous because it had been forced to struggle for highly carbonized food. Mr. Taine, again, who has the French faculty of omniscience, can explain with the utmost clearness how the English temperature is the product of our peculiar climate. Though the connection may not be evident at first sight, it might be proved that, if it were not for our mists, Shakespeare would have been Molière or Corneille. We have a certain suspicion of these ingenious theories, because the very ingenuity seems to show that their authors would have found it equally easy to explain Shakespeare by unclouded skies and burning suns; still, nobody can doubt that the influences in question are of greater importance, however difficult it may be to trace their action satisfactorily. There are particular cases in which the connection between the climate and the character of the inhabitants is too obvious to be overlooked. When for example we are told that Calvinism was eradicated from a given district by a thorough system of drainage, we admit the probability of the explanation. People suffering from fever and ague would naturally be inclined to take a gloomy view of the general prospects of the human race in this world and the next. The relation between the imaginative tendencies of the northern and southern races and the climates in which they have developed is a commonplace with all philosophical critics. The question, however, becomes more complex when we attempt to carry it into detail. So many causes contribute to produce the state of mind which prevails in a nation at any given moment, that it is impossible to isolate the working of any particular influence.

We can say from a priori considerations that it must exist, but we have only the roughest means for estimating its intensity. A famine or a season of gloomy weather, a direct tendency to produce political discontent or satisfaction; but who can calculate the depression produced by a long continuance of cloudy weather? No one for example, can say with any confidence what is the state of people's tempers in England at the present moment. We have no sentimental barometer which will indicate the amount of irritability existing in the national atmosphere. It we had, we should probably find that the fluctuations would correspond with those given by the barometer. A man has been rising day after day to see a raw, bleak morning, to feel that on his way to business he will be assaulted by a penetrating drizzle, and to contemplate that his teeth will be aching, and rheumatic pangs shooting through his bones. He scolds his wife, bullies his servants, rebukes his children, and yet feels no adequate relief to his temper. After a few months of such petty annoyances, their accumulated influence will be probably sufficient to make him anxious for a freer vent of his ill-humors. Mr. Gladstone then makes a speech which does not precisely express his views, or the preacher under whom he sits diverges from what he considers to be orthodoxy; it is not natural that he should at once join a society for the abolition of everything, or rush into a dissenting chapel, when, if the weather had been fine, he would simply have smiled and refused to make a fuss about trifles? Whenever science has made sufficient progress to enable us to foretell the weather and to predict its influence upon the weather and to predict its influence upon the sanitary state of the nation, it will also enable us to make many political prophecies. The statesman will consult the barometer in order to know what is the most favorable weather for introducing a daring proposal, and at what times he should be particularly careful of avoiding any pretext for scandal. A conservative reaction may be set up by a succession of rainy seasons, and be started by weather which makes a public meeting in the parks tolerably attractive.—Saturday Review.

EMPLOYMENT!

The National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, chartered by Congress, is the leading stock, life insurance company of this country and has the largest cash capital of any insurance company of like kind in the world. It is thus enabled to reduce its premiums largely. Indeed, had it charged the ordinary Mutual premiums, it has been demonstrated that it would have received from its patrons $1,250,000 more than was paid it. By the mutual system, the policy holders insure themselves; by the stock system, the company insures the policy holders. The National has nearly two dollars of assets for every one of liabilities, and on Jan. 1, 1873, had a surplus of $1,137,369.35. It wants an agent in every locality where it is not now represented, and will give liberal and remunerative commissions to efficient and reliable men who will give personal attention to its business. Address National Life Insurance Co., where the business of the company is transacted.

ALDEN'S IMPERISHABLE EVAPORATED!
FRUITS & VEGETABLES.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when put in water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

DIRECTIONS:—To every pound of Fruit add four quarts cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 20 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used with fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, soak over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk, to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Cranberries, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

In the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been Super-matured or ripened though the Alden Pneumatic Process, and prepared perfectly clean without exposure to flies or dirt.

These are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you cannot tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lobelina, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequaled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.

COUGHS, and Much has been said and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.

CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the crossing, Wrenching from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are an relief or patent compounds but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Corn Plaster is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the worst Instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequaled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.

PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.

For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Sore others and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodist and Healing Institute, No. 785 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern;
Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of those are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantage over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

The Chronicle.

—In the Tyrolean mountains it is the custom of the women and children to come out when it is bed-time and sing their national songs until their husbands and brothers answer them from the hill, or on their return home. On the shores of the Adriatic such a custom prevails. There the wives of fishermen come down about sunset and sing a melody. After singing the first stanza they listen awhile for the answering strain from off the waves, and listen till the well known voices come borne on the tide, telling that the loved ones are almost home.

—The Missouri Legislature passed resolutions of respect to the memory of a member whose sudden death was announced. A committee was also appointed to accompany the remains to the home of the deceased, but they were relieved from their duties by the appearance of the lamented member who moved to reconsider.

—The president of the board of aldermen of Mobile rules that he is entitled to two votes, one as member, and the casting vote as president.

—The girl who shot the schoolmaster in Iowa, because he would not marry her, has been found insane —Frost has split the fruit trees in some parts of Illinois.

SATURDAY, MARCH 10, 1873.

THE U. S. SENATE reelected Rev. J. P. Newman chaplain, Friday.

Senator Spencer of Alabama was sworn in.

POMEROY.—The investigating committee reported to the Kansas legislature on Friday. A majority report signed by four members of the committee finds Pomeroy guilty of bribery and attempting to corrupt members of the legislature. The minority report, signed by three members of the committee, finds the charges of bribery against Mr. Pomeroy not proved. The majority report was adopted by the House and the majority report by the Senate.

State News.

Stephen Stevens, a man 65 years of age, while adjusting a plank on the dery dam in Laconia, last Sunday, was thrown into the water above the dam, and after a fearful swim he succeeded in getting to the shore unaided and abandoning the undertaking.

John Blaisdell, of Dalton, has a lamb that weighed 12 pounds, when about one day old.

For ten days past workmen have been busy in cutting a new channel for the Cocheco river at Dover, and finding the old one. The new channel was one hundred and fifty feet wide and about fifteen feet deep, and all the water carrying all the extensive mills in Dover through it. For several days passengers on the Boston and Maine railroad have amused themselves by throwing stones on the river bank. Fearful of a freshet, a large gang of workmen have been employed every night to fill up the old channel. It has been tolerably cold and the men have suffered severely, working all day, but they have earned cheerfully, and the people are grateful at the success of this enterprise, which, at best, was but an experiment.

The horse of Henry Perro, in Goffstown, was recently injured, while he was absent from home, by his little son Hattie, a month old, carelessly throwing it into the hay. Loss $500.

A record of snow falls—March 1st, in Laconia, amounts to 115 inches.

F. H. Mason, a young man in Tamworth, was seriously injured on the 24 inst., by a fall from a pile of boards striking upon a pointed stick which entered between the ribs and into the body several inches.

The Manchester Mirror looks ninety-nine and nine-tenths per cent. better in its new dress.

Readables.

A Springfield paper says: "We know a chap in Rhode Island who advertises 'Shoes made Hear.' Some people have a low set of aequaintances."

The Modocs reject the proffered terms of peace, and it is feared that fighting will be resumed and continued to the bitter end.

An Iowa father lately flogged his twenty one-year old daughter so that she carried the stripes a week, and a neighbors told him he mustn't do so any more.

One of the very youngest inhabitants of Lockport, Penn., sports twelve toes, ten fingers and three thumbs. Rather too much temptation to become a pickpocket.

It is a good plan to keep your different kinds of pieces, tape, thread, etc., in separate bags, and there is no time lost in looking for them, says an exchange. You might as well lose your time in looking for the tape and things, as in keeping a directory of the way round among the bags.

Many sugar planters of Louisiana are to devote their lands to raising rice.

A dog lately fell eighty feet in a mine shaft, and nearly killed a Chinaman without hurting him all much.

Congressman James Brooks is out with an address to his constituents, defending himself against the Poland Credit Mobilier committee's report. He finds evidence of a special enmity to himself in the composition of the committee, several members of which he mentions in not flattering terms, calling General Banks, for example, a chevalier d'industrie. He presents nothing new in the way of evidence on his side of the case.

A Peoria editor is engaged on a historical work entitled, "The progress of building the Peoria bridge swing; on the rise and fall of the Illinois river."

A STRANGE INJUNCTION.—A Rockingham county man has been enjoined from cutting a tree on his own land. This land, it appears, was coveted for school purposes, and the law was so managed in the last legislature as to make the manner of its acquisition easy. The owner was notified that the County Commissioners would meet on a certain day to have a hearing on the taking of the land. Probably believing that this would be a certain result, the owner resolved that he would cut a certain tree on the lot. Parties interested believed that said tree would be an ornament to the school ground, and hence they applied to the Supreme Judicial court for an injunction to prevent the man from cutting down his own tree—and they got it.

DEATHS.

Business Notices.

A QUESTION OF TIME.—The cough is so cold, that without proper treatment may become chronic and last for months, if not be rendered incurable. Dr. Wistar's Balsam of that invaluable pectoral relief, Robt's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Certainly, 7 & 9 Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

Pilule Pectorae a Dropsevera in 1 minute.

UPON THE HEALTH OF THE TEETH Depends the purity of the breath. Preserve them in health by the use of the fine Dentifrice, Sozodont that perfectly harmless vegetable preparation, and you will never regret it.

AVERT THE DANGER.—The "school of medicine" with which people credit the venerable name is more an illusion of the fancy than a chronological fact. Kitty Spring in Tom Moore's song is a fearful time, and the cures are usually too cold for health or comfort. To avert the complaints to which the first and last of the seasons are apt to give rise, prudent people who believe in the proverb that "prevention is better than cure" fortify their stomachs and bowels against the ravages and sudden chills Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Those who do this are wise, and are rewarded for their wisdom by escaping the miseries of fever and ague, rheumatism, biliousness, dull nervous complaints, constipation, kidney complaints, &c., &c., common in damp, bilious places where there is no Bitters. To the less prudent, who neglect this precaution, and suffer for it, we would say, the Bitters which this patent medicine has been proved to be a cure.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to allay the fever, relieve the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither morphine, nor poison or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

☞ The improvements in Hanover street, Boston, render the American House one of the most desirable, as it has long been one of the best stopping places in Boston, either for business men or pleasure seekers.

For all Chest diseases and especially Coughs, Colds, &c., there is no known remedy equal to Buchanan's Pulmonine, and a few doses will satisfy the most skeptical of its efficacy. For sale at the Union Store.

BUCHANAN'S PULMONIC COMPOUND is the concentration of sixteen composite parts and can be manufactured only in large quantities. Its immediate and powerful in its action that one bottle (selling for 50 cts.) is more potent than any other cure for throat and lung diseases on sale.

That "Reform" Dodge.

The so-called "citizens" movement is so evidently but a trick aiming at the defeat of the republican candidate for mayor, and the weakening of the county, congressional and State tickets, that it may seem unnecessary for us to point out the ears of the democratic animal as they stick out through the very thin lion's skin with which the wire-pullers have attempted to conceal them. But as it is possible—not probable, we acknowledge—that some few confiding individuals may be so deceived by their specious cry of "reform" as to believe the movement a non-partisan one, we will say a few words on the subject.

The call for the "citizens'" convention invited the attendance of all persons "desiring a reform in the City Government, a reduction in the Taxes, and a wise and economical administration of all affairs of the city;" and the organ of the non-partizans, (formerly a democratic sheet and later the organ of the boiled-crow association,) in commenting on the call, spoke eloquently of "the importance of rescuing the city government from the hands of the cliques who have managed affairs so long." All that sounds first-rate; but what does it all mean? What "cliques" and "rings" are to be broken down by the election of a "citizens'" candidate, who, while he was a republican, was denounced as the tool of the "rings" and the very chief of sinners, by the recognized organ of his present party?

What "circular work" has been done since Mr. Marvin has been in the city government, that he opposed? We venture to say that not a single act of the Board of Aldermen, during the last two years, which has been denounced by the democrats and their organ as being "corrupt" and the work of "rings" has been opposed by Mr. Marvin, either as alderman, or mayor; in fact, until Alderman Hatch made him mayor—and of thereby by an agreement that if Alderman Marvin did not get the position Mr. Miller would—he was more constantly and fiercely assailed than any other member of the Board, by his present editorial advocate.

If there has been "extravagance" in city affairs, the men who are now clamoring loudest about it are most to blame for it. If the firemen's muster was an "extravagance," Alderman Marvin worked well for it; if the much-overrated "repairs" on the city building are an outrage and a swindle on the tax payers, Mayor Marvin is fully as responsible for it as any one man, for he could have prevented it had he wished; if the purchase of the big fire-extinguishers was a "ring" job, the first signer of the citizens' call seconded the resolution to buy them, and Mayor Marvin approved the whole thing. We do not mention these instances either to condemn or approve them, just now, but only to say that if there has been anything wrong, the "reform" candidate is more to be blamed for it than any other one man.

Mr. Marvin had influence enough to get elected chairman of the Board of Aldermen, and to secure every alderman's vote for mayor; and it is somewhat ludicrous that the voters should be told that the city government has been managed by corrupt rings, and at the same time asked to elect the ardent advocate of everything done by such rings as the only means of getting rid of them.

Fatal Accident.

About 9 o'clock, Sunday morning, Henry White, son of Samuel White, living at 94 Water street, was killed by the accidental discharge of a gun. Mr. White told Henry at the breakfast table that he would not have a loaded gun in the house and that he must draw the charge, the gun being double shotted, at the first opportunity. Henry and a younger brother, Herbert, went up stairs shortly afterwards, and taking the gun down from the rack, while one was reaching down to lift the trigger and take off the cap, the trigger slipped, the gun was discharged and the charges, buckshot, entered Henry's heart. He died in five minutes. His younger brother went into convulsions and his father crazed, rushing out of doors declaring that he would drown himself. He was carried back by force. The brothers were fond of quoting, always going together and being greatly attached to each other.

A Card.

We desire to express our sincere thanks to the citizens of Portsmouth and friends generally, who have proffered aid and sympathy in the time of our bereavement; to Commodore Howell, of the Navy Yard, and the officers of U. LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Tragedy.

Mrs. Hontvet confronts the Fiend and charges him with the Crime-His Account of His Pretended Whereabouts-Caught in a Lie-A Complete Chain of Circumstantial Evidence-Wagner Taken to Saco-Mobbed in the Streets-A Narrow Escape From Judge Lynch-Verdict of the Kittery Coroner's Jury-Funeral of the Victims.

Many hundreds people of both sexes were admitted to see Wagner, on Saturday, as also on the previous day. Sheriff Warren and the prosecuting attorney of York county, Geo. C. Yeaton, Esq., arrived in the morning to request the surrender of the prisoner to the State of Maine. Desiring to view the scene of the murder, Commodore Howell passed steamer Mayflower at their disposal and they left for Saco about noon, returning in the evening with the bodies of the murdered women.

At noon, Mrs. Hontvet was carried to the police station, where she confronted Louis Wagner, who showed no signs of flinching and kept his eyes fixed on her countenance as the conversation took place. Saying she was well, with the exception of her feet, which were so lame that it was necessary to carry her, she turned to him, and the following conversation ensued:

"Well, Louis; what do you think of this? You killed my two sisters.

"Mary; I did not do it."

"Yes; it was you, I did not see your face, but I know you by your form. I saw you strike Anethe with the axe, three times."

"No, Mary; I did not do it. You are mistaken. I have not been on the island for a long time. You never saw me with a beard on it."

"Louis; didn't we take you in and feed you while you had no money and might have starved? Did we deserve to be treated so by you?"

"No, Mary; not by me, or anyone else."

Mrs. Hontvet interrupted her statement and Wagner, being about to reply, Marshal Johnson ordered him not to say anything until she should conclude her story. She then continued her trial, Wagner showing a desire frequently to answer her as she paused in the narrative. She proceeded to answer questions from County Solicitor Frink, saying that her first warning on the night of the murder was hearing Karen, who slept on the lounge in the kitchen, scream "John; you frightened me," thinking it was Mrs. Hontvet's husband, (who was present while she gave his testimony and showed visible signs of agitation.) Mrs. Hontvet said she next heard him beating Karen, who cried out "John, John; you kill me!" Mrs H. says she left Anethe in bed, sprang to the door, struck a stick out of the latch and it opened. She saw a tall man standing up and Karen on the floor. She pulled her in and the man struck her, but Mrs. H. succeeded in closing the door and told Karen to hold the latch. She then told Anethe to get out of bed, raise the window and get out. Anethe did so and Mrs. H. threw on a quilt and skirt for her. Karen called to her, saying her strength was failing and she could not hold the door, and Mrs. H. returned to hold it, the man kicking and trying to get in. Karen kneeled down with her hands on the bed. The man left the door and Mrs. H. went to the window. Anethe had been unable to go further than the corner of the house, being so frightened that she could not stir. Mrs. H. saw the man go by the corner of the house, and heard Anethe cry "Louis, Louis, Louis." The man, finding he was recognized, went around the corner of the house and returned with an axe and struck her three times with it. When he left her Mrs H. told Karen to get out of the window, but she said she was too weak. Mrs. H got out, picked up the skirt and ran to the hen house, followed by a dog. She first thought to take up a board and conceal herself in the cellar, but then thought Louis would hunt for her and the dog would bark and reveal her hiding place. She then left the hen house and shut the dog in, and looking towards the house saw a light there and afterwards heard Karen scream twice. The remainder of her statement was similar to that which has appeared in these columns. The prisoner manifested no sign of confusion while she was speaking, and asking if he might talk, he gave what purported to be a true account of his whereabouts that night.

He said he had a drink early in the evening and then worked baiting trawls for an unknown fisherman, who paid him in advance. About eleven became to town and went into an oyster saloon on Congress street where the stalls were on the left hand side, drank two glasses of ale and paid ten cents for it. Then everything was black. He went by the custom house, down through Court street, and fell on the ice near the pump, remaining there until nearly three o'clock, when he found his feet were frozen, got up and went to Matthew Johnson's, by way of Liberty street, and entered the house by the rear door, which was unlocked. He passed into a room, which was dark, and saw through an open doorway in the next room, two or three persons baiting trawls. He did not speak and they did not see him. He leaned over on a lounge and stayed until daylight, when he went out and walked about the wharves, returning to the house for breakfast about seven. As Wagner gave his version of his whereabouts that night, a look of incredulity stole over Mrs Hontvet's face and a smile of disrust was followed by a shake of the head and the exclamation, "Louis; you killed my two sisters." He again denied it, and then Mrs. Mary Ramsey, daughter of Matthew Johnson, began questioning him. She declared that her mother told her that she fastened the rear door before she went to bed that night. Wagner said, "It was not fastened." Mrs. Ramsey replied, "It was fastened, and when you came to breakfast you appeared so strangely to mother and I talked about it all the afternoon. You did me, when you came in that you expected some one after you." This the prisoner denied, but Mrs. Ramsey reiterated the statement with great positiveness, saying, "Another thing; George Lowd slept on that lounge you say you occupied, half the night." Wagner was then taken back to his cell, Mrs. Ramsey remarking as he left the room, "What a liar!"

The bodies of Karen and Anethe were brought to this city and taken to the warerooms of Woodbury Gerrish & Co. on Daniel street, Saturday afternoon, where Drs. Whitehouse, Parsons and Rogers and Surgeon Boeh, U. S. N., made a medical examination in detail corresponding with that of Dr. Jones of Kittery at the Coroner's inquest.

It is reported that Wagner purchased a drink worth a hard luck of a man in this city, telling him he was going to the Swamp on the night of the murder. It is also said that a man came across Newcastle bridge, on Thursday morning, before seven o'clock, and persons helped him across the stringers. He did not thank them or speak to them, and appeared to be in deep thought. On Friday, the boat which was stolen from David Burke, Wednesday night, was picked up at Jaffrey's Point, Newcastle.

Hundreds of fishermen came up to this city from all parts of the coast, Saturday afternoon, and hearing that Wagner was to be taken to Maine in a special train after the Pullman train should pass, a few determined men concocted a plan to lynch him. They were to stay on Water street until ten o'clock, then pass along the unfrequented streets to Deer and Vaughan streets, and meet the prisoner on his way to the depot. In the meanwhile, it was decided to take Wagner to Saco by the Pullman train, and the officers endeavored to keep it secret. One of the knowing ones, however, doubtless thinking that York county would be saved several thousands of dollars' expense and the murderer punished if he did not reach Maine, told a few people, the result being the assembling of a thousand people near the North church just before ten o'clock. The posse of police, preceded by the Mayor, with the prisoner between City Marshal Johnson and Assistant Marshal Entwistle, flanked by Sheriff Warren and Deputies Philbrick, Durgin and Ricker, of York county, Maine, were surprised by the sudden appearance of an enraged mob, who headed them off and delayed their passage. Forcing their way through and covering the prisoner on all sides, they passed up Congress street, amid cries of "kill the —— —— ——;" "hang him;" "tear him up;" "pull him to pieces;" "give us a rope." Showers of bricks and rocks came from all directions, and just after passing Congress block, Wagner, who was wearing City Marshal Johnson's hat, was struck in the head, the brick cutting through the hat and inflicting a wound from which the blood flowed freely. Wagner's knees trembled, he shook like an aspen leaf, and the officers found it necessary to drag him along, telling him to keep up if he would save his life. On Vaughan street, a brick whizzed by Marshal Johnson's head, and just kicked his nose. Officer Entwistle received blows on the legs and finally was struck on the ear by a brick, being partially stunned by the blow. At the depot, one of the mob was knocked down by the City Marshal. Wagner was placed in the freight office until the train arrived, and the crowd blocked the way to the cars. Two thousand people had assembled and such a yelling crowd never was seen or heard in Portsmouth. The astonished passengers on the train looked out of the windows wonderingly. Wagner having been put into the smoking car, some one threw a brick over the heads of the crowd, and it crashed through a window of the car, but did not hit the murderer. One fisherman drew a revolver and followed Wagner closely, but could find no opportunity to shoot him without endangering the lives of the officers. Others in the mob had pistols, but none were used.

County Attorney Yeaton returned Sunday morning. He says Wagner is in Saco jail. When he arrived, there was no difficulty, as no notice of his coming was given. Mr. Yeaton has secured some damaging testimony, which has not yet been published. The handkerchief which was found tied around the neck of Karen Christenson has been identified as one given to Wagner by a lady friend in this city a few days ago.

The Coroner's jury of Kittery rendered a verdict on Saturday to the effect that Anethe and Karen Christenson came to their death by an axe wielded by Louis Wagner.

Some of the fishermen visited the station house, Friday evening, and were saluted by Wagner with, "What the — are you in here at this time o'night for? You'd better be abed."

The Boston Globe says that Wagner once boarded at 295 North street at a place kept by Edward F. Brown, who had relinquished his boarding-house as such, but consented to accommodate Wagner as an old acquaintance, he representing that he did not want to apply at his old lodgings, as he left there in trouble on a previous occasion. The family were shocked, later in the evening, on learning of his arrest for the terrible crime, of which they had not heard before. While in the house, they noticed that he was more than usually uncommunicative, speaking only when spoken to, and then in monosyllables only. His statements as to where he had been, and whence he came, were very unsatisfactory, but nothing was thought of his manner, for the reason that he had at times exhibited a similar disposition.

Wagner had threatened the lives of two Norwegian women (at the murdered ones) at times previous to the recent murder, and on one occasion went so far as to grasp one of them by the shoulder very roughly, but she met his threats with defiance and by her fearless attitude cowed him.

The Boston Herald of Saturday says: Down at the North End none who say they have known him for the past week or two can tell his history. A young seaman named Henry Ludwig boarded, when on shore, with Edward F. Brown, the proprietor of the Hamburg House, No. 295 North street. He was out eighteen years old and was in the midst of having his effects and bank book in the care of Mrs. Brown; but on his last voyage Wagner prevailed upon him to take his trunk and bank book with him. Wagner was mate of the vessel, and when he returned he reported that Ludwig fell from aloft during the voyage, breaking his neck on the rail and falling into the sea. Wagner presented the book at the bank, but could not collect the money, and it was turned over to the resident consul of the Netherlands, whose Ludwig belonged.

Mr. Jud. Randall, who is well acquainted with Wagner, called to see him while at the police station, Saturday, and refused to shake hands, saying that he wouldn't shake hands with such a scoundrel. Wagner whimpered and said, "I feel as if I did it." City Marshal Johnson and Attorney Yeaton go to Boston to-day to obtain testimony.

The funeral rites over the bodies of Wagner's victims, were observed, after a fashion, at St. John's Church, Sunday afternoon. The bodies were nicely prepared, and lay in two handsome caskets at the house of Mr. Johnson on Water Street, where they were visited by many citizens up to three o'clock, when they were taken to the church. Here no opportunity was afforded to view them, it was said by request of the family, though there was nothing repulsive or objectionable in their appearance—their faces, though bruised and disfigured, looking calm and peaceful.

It was understood the funeral was to be at three o'clock, and visitors other than Episcopalians were surprised that the bodies were not there, and that Rev. Dr. Bingham, the rector, should begin the regular lessons for the day. These done, the bodies were brought in from the two hearses, which had been accompanied through the streets by a large crowd, who now filled the house. The two caskets were placed side by side in the chancel, with lids closed, and the only evidences of woman's sisterly adornment visible, were the floral wreaths fashioned impromptu by a lady of another society, when she found none were provided by others. We did not desire, and should not have enjoyed, any sensational display on this occasion; but we should like to have seen more christian sympathy extended to these poor victims of man's brutality, and the friends. If the ladies of that Society knew the funeral was to be held there, it seems to us they did not exhibit the attention and kindliness usual to them. The service was a short, and rather curt one—the rector reading only the regular burial service, and omitting, we believe, the prayer for the family. Even this beautiful service, though clearly rendered, we never enjoyed as little—everything seemed so cold and unsympathetic. The music was not worthy of the church, for they sadly need a new organ, and the choir is a new one and appeared under unfavorable circumstances. The whole rites occupied but a very few minutes, the rector darted into his room, and the audience looked blankly into each others' faces to see if all was over. Not a word of improvement of the occasion—none of condolence or assurance special to this sad event. The audience evidently turned away dissatisfied, disappointed.

The coffins were inscribed simply with the names and ages of the deceased, and time of death. They were placed in a receiving tomb in Auburn Cemetery. All the arrangements of the undertakers, and of the very gentlemanly sexton, Mr. Robert King, (who we were glad to see resume his old place,) were entirely satisfactory. The inscriptions on the coffins were "Karen Anne Christenson, died March 6, 1873, aged 29 years." "Anethe Mathea Christenson, died March 6, 1873, aged 25 years."

HUMORS OF ELECTION.

Ward One Democracy in Council-They are Surprised Bloody Corner Victorious Novel Entertainment-Signor Blitz Outdone-An Unsophisticated Countryman is Nonplussed and retires with Eyes Wide Open.

Democratic caucus advertised for Saturday evening, was to be held at the headquarters on Congress street. Among the few democratic voters, a suburban democrat attended. It soon became apparent to the countryman that he might have blundered in the wrong place, but he was politely assured that he was in a pure, undiluted democratic convention. Incredulous countryman asks if it might not be a spontaneous outpouring of a liberal republican meeting, such as he had heard tell of on the street, and implores them not to take advantage of his ignorance. His health being impaired and his digestion weakened from a recent slight indulgence in boiled crow, he was afraid of the dish in a raw state. A venerable leader, reassured him that there was nothing to be feared and asked him to stay and see; and he stayed and saw a sea-saw. They organized, he could not see how, but was told "it's all right." Mr. Sladen guards the door. Next appears ex-Sheriff Rowe in a new role; offers to go entain them with some tricks with cards, which he has been instructed in by Mr. Sladen. Countryman objects to seeing the new game; wants a democratic caucus. Juggler wants to perform. It is put to a vote; chair decides it is a vote for the performance. Shuffling of cards; card held up; countryman is asked to look at the card; looks hard; thinks he sees the ace of spades. Juggler holds it up to the audience; asks a vote. Voted it is not the ace of spades. Countryman is nonplussed; cannot trust his senses. He thinks he saw the ace of spades. Ex-sheriff Rowe appears in a new character, as a delegate from bloody corner. Don't want anything but a pure undefiled democracy; that renowned spot is and always was purely democratic. Wants a simon pure democratic ticket; wants a vote. Voted; bloody corner ticket nominated. Man in entry sings, "Rule Britannia." Juggler tries further exploits; succeeds beyond expectation to bridge a number of bloody chasms; ask Cheever, bloody corner, democrats and liberal republicans to shake hands across; it is a vote. Shake.

Countryman thinks he sees how it is done. Wants to please them by falling in with what he supposes to be their views. Offers resolution:

That inasmuch as the republican party has failed to nominate Mr. Isaiah Wilson, this convention do hereby nominate him as Alderman for Ward One.

Put to vote. Voted "No." Countryman astounded; don't know what to think of it. Thought he saw how Mr. Juggler did it; wants to do it too. Juggler asks for more instructions from the man in the entry. Juggler tries patiently to teach countryman. Countryman can't see it; thinks he is too old to learn. Juggler offers countryman some salve for his stomach; declined; afraid to accept it. Adjourned. Suburban democrat leaves, puzzled, to think it over.

Political Notes By S. O. R.

Which does not indicate Sore Head, nor Sorry, but Straight Out Republican—To all such other Republicans, Greeting:

First, that all the bickering in our City Government for the past two years, has been designedly occasioned and promoted by the bunker Alderman from Ward Three, who was elected for that especial purpose, and who found a Republican Alderman and finally Mayor weak enough to be gulled by him. In fact, he virtually gulled the whole Board, by inducing them to elect for Mayor a man whom the people never wanted nor endorsed, and whom the Councils themselves did not accept, until his case was worked up by said managing Alderman.

Second, That the election of an Alderman to mayor, by the Board, and his acceptance of the same, instead of being reason or recommendation for his re-election, or rather for his election, by either the own (then) party or the people, (however well he might have performed the duties of the position,) should rightly act as a bar and estopped from such second act of nomination; inasmuch as, consequent upon said Alderman's resignation, the seat and deserting the trust he had taken oath to fill and fulfill for the year, he and the Board laid upon the public the necessity for another election,—to the risk of his party, it might be—or left a vacancy in the Board, from which public service, and especially his party, (if anybody knows which that is, in this case,) might substitute him—provided, always, that said seat would not be never filled when vacant, than when incumbered by such member.

Third. That as the election of an Alderman to the Mayoralty, by the Board, was evidently the desire of said managing bunker Aldermen, and might work to the disadvantage of the republican party and the public, by making said vacancy—therefore the said action is not to be commended, on the part of the managing member of the Board, either for its sagacity or its tendency.

Fourth, that as it was expressly agreed by Mr. Walker's friends, when Mr. Miller withdrew in his favor.—that Mr. Miller would be his successor; therefore it was rather a breach of faith toward this gentleman, our present mayor-elect, as far as Mr. Walker's friends were concerned, to attempt to nominate any other man—more especially, one who they all he could to defeat Mr. Walker's nomination, in the face of the evident wish of three-quarters of his (then) party.

Fifth, That the Police "Investigation" has been magnified into a "together too much prominence, seeing that neither of the republican papers considered it of sufficient importance to print any of the evidence, and the public have cared very little about it, doubtless deeming the Aldermen capable of managing their own business. The cry of police corruption raised in this case, should be without force or effect. Green indeed must be the Republican who takes any stock in a cry of corruption raised by the said managing bunker Aldermen, and swallowed by his gulled alderman and mayor followers. It should open anyth pollican's eyes—the fact that the bunker organ alone thought the evidence worth publishing, and that ex-Mayor Frank Jones deemed it worth his distinguished while (we will not say wile) to sit there a whole evening to help stuffed the accidental Mayor's eyes to stand up against his own party. The truth is, that the whole question was, not whether there had been any corruption, but whether the Mayor, (as the tool of the M. H. A.) should take the Aldermen's business out of the hands of the Board. As to corruption, any man—especially any Republican, who would not as soon leave this consideration to Aldermen Annable, Wilson, Giddings and Waldron, as to Aldermen Hatch and Wendell, with Alderman Meadum and Mayor Marvin dragooned to follow the, must have a queer idea of things. And that the Police, as nearly all the other departments of the City Government, oppose the Mayor, instead of being a recommendation for him, would naturally seem to be rather a point against him, a boat with Republicans—unless, indeed, it concludes a Republican a corruptionist, to be chosen to a police or other office.

Sixth. That while so-called Citizens' nomination would seem to have little attraction for any man who believes in his own party, and one never suggested here except by the bunkers when they know they are beaten, and then only to gull the flats—it is altogether too late for any republican to take part in such mongrel nominations; and it is passing strange that any man calling himself a republican should be led into such a scheme, on any plea, however specious.

Seventh. That it was well-known before the republican caucus, that Mr. Marvin would be nominated by the bunkers, should he fail endorsement by his own (then) party; and, very naturally, this did not help his prospects any among true republicans. The result proved that not only the Mayor, but Alderman Meadum and a very few other honest republicans, fell into the trap set for them by the managing bunker alderman referred to, (and altogether too much deferred to by certain quasi republicans.)

Eighth. That by the course of events, the city will gain, and not lose, a republican mayor—one who sought not the office, but whom the live republicans invited and will elect to it. If there were any truth in the twaddle about a "ring" in the City Government, and corruption and extravagance—as there is not—Mayor Marvin is the creature of said ring, and both he and Alderman Meadum have taken active part in the three great expenses of the time—the Firemen's Manse, the Mortgage of the City for a Railroad, and the alderman at least favored the outlay on the City Building, and the Mayor, on any other citizen probably could have stopped it by injunction if he would. At all events Mr. Miller had no authority by law or any other dodge of the Board, and is in no wise responsible for them, be they good or bad. He has never made a public business or political move that did not "pay," both for himself and the public; and while every straight-out republican will of course vote for the regular nominee, the bottom of any there be, (and they are generally rather an uncomfortable and unhappy sort of creatures, whether in matters of church or State,) should remember that it is not for or against Mr. Miller principally that they may vote, but the nominee of the republican party. And if a republican party government be the better for the Nation, why not for the City and State?

The jury in the high court of public opinion have the case.

STRAIGHT OUT REPUBLICAN.

Laconics.

A son of Mr. Lafayette Caswell broke his leg, Saturday evening, while jumping from a freight car at the depot.

The Republican Headquarters on Congress Street will be open this and to-morrow evening. All Republicans are invited. A full attendance of those of Ward One, is requested for this (Monday) evening at seven o'clock.

Skiff & Gardner's minstrels, with six and men, give another entertainment at the Temple, this evening. Their recent performance here was a sufficient recommendation for to-night. They appear in a new programme.

Work on the "Marion" at the navy yard will be resumed immediately. Three hundred men will be employed in addition to those already taken on.

No check lists were used at the "citizen's" caucus, nor any other check on anybody who wanted to vote; and we are told that many boys went through as often as they pleased.

On Saturday, Judge Page fined David Welsh and Wm. Quinn each $20 and costs, for assault and battery on Joseph Perkins. Welsh was also held in $500 bonds for his appearance at a higher court in April, for attempting to rescue a prisoner from the police.

Straightout and straightforward democrats don't like a candidate who attends and breaks faith with one caucus, and then joins in theirs.

Hon Frank W. Miller, may his tribe increase, has been nominated as the Republican candidate for mayor of Portsmouth.—Boston Globe.

Constructor Hanscom, of the Navy Department, has completed the plans and specifications upon which the eight new war ships authorized by the last act of Congress are to be built, and advertisements for proposals will be shortly issued. The vessels to be built by the government will probably be given to the Philadelphia, Brooklyn, Boston and Portsmouth (N. H.) yards, and those to be constructed in private yards will be given to parties in Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del.

Our friends who can furnish us any returns of votes or lists of officers elected, to-morrow, will confer a favor by doing so at the earliest possible moment. Send or bring them as complete as practicable.

"Time is money," and that is what is needed in early elections. If there be any analogy about this sentence—let every Republican see to it that he allows none to his neighbor; and all can contribute to Republican success in either manner indicated.

Morning Chronicle.

WHISKY DRIPS. — "You see, Mr. Davis, twenty cows, a distillery, and a farm of a hundred acres, give me and my four boys a heap o' work to do; but we do it all ourselves; no hired folks about anywhere. It don't pay; they eat up things too much. So for three or four years past we've done pretty well, and only for our stupid Joe leaving that handle in the pump, they'd never have found us out."

"Pump!—handle!" interjected Davis.

"Yes. I'll tell you how it was. The whiskey we made and put in barrels we paid tax on. That we put down the well myself."

"Put down the well!" interrupted Davis again.

"I forgot to say," continued McKelvey, "we have a well that has been dry three years anyway. So I got a tub little small or so inconvenience than the well, and made tight at both ends, and slipped it down, connecting with it the old wooden pump that still stood there. When we took whiskey out we had to gear her up, but unshipped her lively soon as we were through. Sam looking at that forlorn old post without an arm, nobody suspected it was a head-board for the grave o' whiskey."

"Somebody did, it seems," said Davis, getting interested.

"The others suspected something, and at off evenings they ransacked my barns and sheds and cellars, and lay out in the fields to explore the stuff as it was taken away. They frequently found my tax-paid goods, but always followed them again in a few hours. How did I get the whiskey away? Why, in the same way they had to do it. You see, I ran two milk-wagons, and sometimes only one cow in five was filled with milk, and that for me in case a stranger came, with pitcher in hand, to be ready to purchase. Such transactions, though seldom, occurred. The cow we filled from the pump."

"And was caught at it?" said Davis.

"No; not exactly. The filling was all through, and wagon going, when Jim, one of the young fellows, popped in on me before his break o'day—the informer hadn't come yet—and turned things over generally. They got through at last, and seemed satisfied all was right. Their hands were pretty dirty; so I said, leading the way toward the house, 'Gentlemen, come in and wash your hands.' One other started after me, the other made for the old pump, and when I turned to look, I saw just like sinking out o'sight. Joe, who used the pump last, had forgot to unship the handle, and the revenue man's hand was on it. I yelled to him 'That pump don't suck!' It wasn't no use. It did suck, and Joe got a pretty good stream, which he commenced throwing over his hands. He sniffed some, and, putting both hands under his nose, gave a long whistle. Then I knew it was all up with me."

"You'll go to prison," remarked Davis.

"Not if the State Congressional Delegation o' the State can save me," said the distiller.

"Your property will be confiscated."

"Only so much as lies loose on the farm and in the wild-house, and that don't take a hundredth part of my four years' gains," replied M. Kelvey.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in asserting that I believe that gentleman employs a more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their application in form to secure for them an early allowance than any other attorney at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. B. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY patentabilities for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of practical and ability as this I do not remember to have met with before. I shall be happy to recommend all to whom I may be called upon to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupulins, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Alleviator absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUCHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer but knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the severest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Alleviator for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. B. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAFFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.
CORNS, other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Chiropodica and Healing Institute, No. 705 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary.

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern; the Daily Manufacture
—OF—
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running of needles or feed or price—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
SINGER
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model, does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantage over all other combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

The Chronicle.

JOHN IN A TROPICAL CLIME.—This is New Orleans, and it is a glorious place too. It isn't so pious as it might be, but still it's a good place to live in. They have good hotels in New Orleans, and they give nice boiled knives and forks, and nice boiled plates to—boiled clean; and they give you broiled bananas. If you've never tasted broiled bananas you don't know what it is to luxuriate upon the fruits of a tropical clime. I had a tropical climb yesterday. I climbed to the top of the St. Charles Hotel.

Sundays in New Orleans are not like Sundays in Boston.

New Orleans was named after Duc d' Orleans, Regent of France. The Duc was a wild Duc, and he's a dead duck now. New Orleans was abandoned as soon as founded in 1717, and it was not settled again until 1722. In 1763, with all Louisiana west of the Mississippi river, it was transferred to Spain by treaty. The 3,190 citizens of New Orleans didn't cross der that treaty much of a treat, but the city so flourished under the new government that they got over their anger, and in 1785 the population had increased to 4,980, which was a big thing for those days. In 1801, Spain having fallen into the power of France, New Orleans was retroceded to that nation; and in 1803 it was sold to the United States. The population was then about 8,000; in 1804 it was made a port of entry, and it was incorporated in 1805; early in 1812 the first steamboat from the Ohio river made its appearance; it went by steam, and it a good many other things too. On January 8, 1815, there was quite a disturbance in New Orleans. Some English people with red clothes on their backs attempted to steal the whole town all at once. If they had succeeded it would have been a success; but there was a citizen named Jackson who objected, and he objected so strongly that the English people got injured, and some of 'em got so badly hurt that they never ate anything after that day. A man named Packingham was one of 'em. This Packingham was in no way related to the powerful family of packing hams of Cincinnati, Ohio. This Jackson was the same Jackson who afterward became President of the United States, and was known as Old Hickory.

The Mississippi river opposite New Orleans is about half a mile wide and from one hundred to one hundred and sixty feet deep, and it continues of this depth until near the Gulf, where there are a number of bars, having thirteen to sixteen feet of water. I never saw with so much water as that on it.

All kinds of language are spoken in New Orleans, and there are thousand of banks here, all named after one man. I think the name is an abbreviation of Pharaoh, but I wouldn't sweat to it. They pronounce it there Faro, and the banks are called faro banks.

There is never snow enough here to whitewash the back of a red ant, yet sledges are not unknown to the people, for they play and are fond of it; and although the weather never gets cold, still poker is more used here than North, and with this poker they use chips too. When a New Orleans man says "I've got two pairs I'll straddle your blind" he doesn't mean he's got two pears, good to chew, or that he is going to swing on your window shutter. High low game isn't good to eat on toast; ante doesn't mean a New Orleans man's mother's sister; and they cut cards without scissors or knife—in fact, they are a queer people.

There is a place up the river called Bayou Sara pronounced Buy you Sarah. There ain't so many buy you Sarahs here as there were before the war.

Creoles live in New Orleans. A creole is a person born in or near the tropics, of any color. The term creole-negro is used in some parts of the English West India islands to distinguish those negroes born there from the African; and that's why lots of people in the United States think that a creole is a negro. It isn't so; and some of the wealthiest and best blood of Louisiana are creoles.

Approaching New Orleans anywhere within one hundred thousand miles are signs stuck up. They are all alike, and these signs are stuck on to everything, trees, alligators, telegraph poles, lame cows, catfish, mince pies, lamp posts, clams, butter crackers. One minute you are reading a cue tacked to the hind quarter of a mule, and the next on a church door. Hoist your dinner plate and you'll find one; press your couch, and pinned to the ruffle of your pillow case you'll find another. Half the young ones born in New Orleans learn to speak the words on that sign before they can lisp, and that sign reads:

Buy your Shirts of Moody.

Moody must be an enterprising fellow.

The genus culex grow to perfection here. In fact the Northern mosquito compares to the New Orleans mosquito in size about as a cranberry compares to a muskmellon. The genus culex of this section all have their family cost of arms engraved on their backs.

A man here wears a boot that covers two acres. They are both planted to corn.

Northern people think the Southerners are all bones. It isn't so. I knew one who wasn't very thin. He died near Lexington, the county town of Henderson county, Tennessee. His name was Miles Dardus. He was the only man in that town who rode in a buggy. He was too heavy to ride horseback. We boys weighed him in this way: We marked the springs of his buggy when he was in it, then we watched our chance when he was absent and piled stones into the buggy until the weight brought the springs down to the mark. We then weighed the stones, and they weighed about seven hundred pounds, and he hadn't done growing either, for after his death Rev. John Brooks of Lexington in a letter to the press stated that his weight was one thousand pounds. I state this as a positive fact, and there are plenty of people in Henderson county, Tennessee, who can corroborate the statement. He had a head about as big as the State of Rhode Island, and a heart bigger, and when he slapped you on the back you always felt sure you'd been slapped. I write the above so that you can see how large a man can grow if he only tries.

Southern chad are beginning to get ripe. The meat on a Southern chad is sweet, but there isn't enough of it to hurt you. I never was one yet but felt as though I had wasted therenough to learn the German language and had swallowed a small measure of pins.

St. Patrick's day in 1930 will come on Friday. Get your good clothes ready.

State News.

The town of Hollis is out of debt and has $12,000 in its treasury.

L. A. Fuller's box and stave manufactory at Marlboro depot, caught fire, Thursday morning, and was burned. Nearly all the machinery was saved. Loss about $3000; no insurance.

They are trying to raise a party of ten in Dover to attend the Vienna Exposition.

The dwelling-house of Rev. George W. Thomson of Stratham was damaged by fire, on Friday afternoon, to the amount of about $200, which is covered by insurance.

At the recent session of the S. J. Court, at Dover, James A. Drew was sentenced to seven years in the State prison, for burning the Glidden barn in New Durham.

Resolution.

Hon. Schuyler Colfax had a public reception on returning to his home at South Bend, Indiana, Saturday. He improved the occasion to make a speech in self vindication, at the close of which a resolution was adopted expressing the unimpaired confidence of his fellow citizens.

Regular passenger trains will begin running over the Boston and Maine extension a week from next Monday.

It is stated that during the last two snow storms the locomotives on the Maine Central were damaged to such an extent that it is estimated that $35,000 will be required in repairs to place them as good as before.

A man named Obrey jumped from a train on the Boston and Maine road near Old Orchard beach, on Saturday, and fell under the wheels, which ran over one leg and one hand. The leg was amputated and it is thought he cannot recover.

LIES AND TEMPS.—The Concord correspondent of the Boston Advertiser says:—

The liberal republicans do not display much activity. Although it is gravely hinted that they will throw between two and three thousand votes, my impression is that their vote will be less than one thousand, and that it is the fact that a large proportion of their followers have acted either with the democrats, labor reformers, or prohibitionists, for the past two or three years, and hence will not do the republican party any more harm this year than heretofore. The intemperate temperance men are quite actively at work, and for political perversity and moral obliquity continue peculiar. Pretending to be laboring for the advancement of a good cause, they are industriously exerting themselves to give the government of the State into the hands of men who are pronounced opponents of temperance, and who, if they had the power, would in the twinkling of an eye sweep from the statute book every vestige of temperance legislation, and make rum everywhere as free as water. But the moral and Christian people of the State are disposed to carefully examine this thing, and the result is that the vote for the prohibition candidate will fall short of one thousand.

GILT-EDGED BUTTER.—The expression "gilt-edged butter," is frequently used in print, and is frequently heard in conversation; yet we judge, for various reasons, that many of those who dance in its use do not understand its full import. The term is applied to a certain quality of butter which is sold in some of the large cities to certain wealthy consumers, whose sense of taste is so delicate that they dislike to eat poor butter, and are willing, for the sake of gratifying the taste, to pay an extraordinarily high price for a uniformly good article fresh from the producer. The epithet, "gilt," as used in the market reports, does not convey the moral or the descriptive word applied in describing this butter. The butter must be strictly choice "every time;" must be the very best that can be made with our present appliances, and of the highest skill known at the present time, in order to bring the high price sometimes now named in connection with butter denominated gilt-edged. It will be readily seen that the number of butter makers who can produce an article of butter of this close grade, even in the week of New Egland, may be numbered by a very few units. This is the reason why such butter commands such an extraordinary premium at times. The consumers are many who want such butter—who want not the vast proved if they can get it—but the producers are few. The highest-priced butter sold in America made by Charles S. Sargent of Brookline, Mass., now Professor of Horticulture in Harvard University. Prof. Sargent's butter is sold at certain Boston dealers the year round at the uniform price of $1.15 per pound, and delivered by the dealers to certain customers in advance on that extraordinary price. E. Wesley of Ogden Farm, Newport, N. H., has heretofore sold his in the same market at 75 cents per pound, and has recently advanced the price to 90 cents. Outside of New England there are certain skillful makers who asking one dollar per pound from dealers in New York and Philadelphia. In this State the highest uniform price received at the present time is 50 cents per pound. This is realized by several parties supplying customers in Massachusetts and in New York. Other parties are receiving 40 and 50 cents the year through from customers in our own State.

Now, then, it would be very desirable to know these high prices, and naturally enough the questions arise, "How are they obtained?" "What establishes such prices?" and "Why cannot we as Maine obtain more for our gilt-edged butter?" The same reply will suffice for an answer to all the questions; and we hesitate not to say that the price is established wholly and alone by quality. Such premium prices are paid for no other than the very best butter there is made in the country. If for any reason the gilt-edged quality of that butter should for a season, even lower, the maker loses his market and his price. We are aware there are many butter makers who cannot believe the price is ruled by quality. "If it is," say they, "why cannot we obtain such prices for our butter?" The reason is very obvious—you do not make that class of butter. There are very few butter makers in Maine, or in any other State, who ever make any but or which would class truly gilt-edged; and still less—we should feel quite safe in saying, none in Maine—who make it the year through. This is not intended as a disparagement to our butter-makers. We have those who make good butter. But we are writing now of a grade of butter that rates better than "good,"—butter that can only be made when all the conditions are complied with—not only in June or September, but the year through. If you are making such butter, and will let its quality be known, you can obtain the high price referred to, as well as any other butter-maker. Doubtless there are butter-makers, selling their product at the common market price, who believe they are making butter of the best possible quality. As long as they believe this, the probabilities are against their ever making a better.

The fact is, very few know what even "strictly fine" butter is. They would readily detect the difference between gilt-edged butter and good butter, on comparison, but the chances for comparison are seldom available.

At a meeting of the New York Dairymen's Association, some years since, the late J. B. Lyman read a paper on butter-making, and remarked, in the course of it that he had brought a specimen of the celebrated brand of butter known as the Philadelphia "Prince" for exhibition. It was passed around among the hundreds of dairymen present, and all expressed themselves highly pleased with the sample. Not one detected that it was not first-class butter. After it got back to the table, he took another specimen and told them that this was Darlington's dollar butter—the other was only fifty cent butter. All readily perceived a very great difference. This goes to prove that the great mass of dairymen themselves are not schooled up to the standard of strictly first-class butter.

Very few of our merchants and dealers ever handle a pound of butter that would bear comparison with the gilt-edged article commanding the fancy prices. We have some good butter-makers in Maine—we have a very few whose product is gilt-edged, but it never goes into the hands of the trade. Very few of the lovers of good butter ever had an opportunity to feast their eyes on an article so delicate that which is sent out of the State referred to above, for fifty cents per pound.—Maine Paper.

—Galveston has an adroit sneak thief who is known as "the Mexican nigger."

WHISKEY DRIPS.—"Mr. Davis, I presume," said a middle-sized young man, of saffron-hue, one day as that person sat in his law office.

"That is my name. What is yours?"

"Charles Hart, officer of the Internal Revenue Department. I have just been through your distillery," replied the young man.

"What's the matter?" asked Davis.

"Oh, everything wrong," and the young man elaborated on his enumeration of the wrongs and their penalties, kindly intimating that there was his one smart man in the service who could detect these things, and his name connected with an R; coupling with a further intimation that he was not an insupportable hartner in the way of Mr. Davis' success.

"Suppose I say there's nothing wrong?"

"Then I must take you into Court, and show them to" said Mr. Hart.

"Where do you leave them?" asked Mr. Davis.

"Much depends upon what I discover."

"See me to-night at the Maxwell House—I will get a room, and we can talk this over," said Davis.

"I will be there at eight, sharp time, as I have other appointments," replied Mr. Hart and vanished.

Davis entered the Maxwell House at eight precisely, and found Hart in waiting. The young gentleman accompanied him to the hotel clerk, and intently watch every look and movement.

"I want a room for an hour," said Davis.

"Yes sir,—54, 48 and 14 are vacant; 48 just vacated, fire in it. Take that, Mr. Davis!" said the busy hotel clerk.

"No; I don't want a fire," replied Davis.

"John, show the gentleman to No. 14." And the gentlemen were shown in, and left there.

It was a medium-sized room, and had a communicating bath room. A bed, three chairs, a lounge, wash-stand, table, and bureau completed the bedroom furniture. Davis locked the door on the inside. Hart looked into the bath room, under the bed, gave a searching glance around the room, and sat down at the table.

"Two matters you spoke of to-day" are only technical violations of law," said Davis, "why should you give me trouble?"

"The penalties are so severe for such infractions of laws as for fraud. If you have trouble it will be of your own selection," replied Hart.

"How so?"

"It is worth three thousand dollars to me to take you into Court. What is it worth to you to keep out?" asked the now embolden-ed Hart.

"Nothing, if I am right," responded Davis.

"But you are not right."

"I think I am."

"Look here," said Hart, throwing off all restraint; "this music is cheap. What I want is cash. What you want is protection. I can give you the latter, you can give me the former. I'll let up and take care of you for a thousand dollars a month, payment in advance."

"I won't pay any such sum," said Davis, indignantly.

"Think again, old man, before making up your mind." Then in a modifying tone Hart added: "I'll take five hundred and not a stiver less!"

"And if I don't pay, what then?" asked Davis.

"I'll seize your distillery tomorrow morning," added Hart, with emphasis.

Davis approached the table, and reluctantly drew from his pocket a roll of greenbacks, and counted out five hundred dollars, which Mr. Hart took, and was about passing into his pocket when the lounge was suddenly overturned, and a person of rather small proportions named Leabank, holding the office of deputy U. S. Marshal, presented himself and arrested Mr. Hart with the price of his infamy in his hands. Of course this denouement had been prearranged by Davis, assisted by the hotel clerk and Leabank.

Hart was held for trial, tried and, unfortunately for the country, escaped punishment by a disagreement of the jury. This man had only been in the service eighteen days when thus brought to grief.

The March number of "Old and New" contains its usual variety of entertainment and lively thought. It has in the introduction an exposition of useful views on city government; next is "The Man-ufactory," a story by F. B. Perkins, showing how ministers congressmen, lecturers, and the like, are being manufactured out of wood, gutta-percha, and metal. Mr. Martineau's "God in History" pursues his powerful and suggestive train of reasoning. Mr. Hale's story of "Ups and Downs" is concluded; his two chief couples coming off with abundance of marriage and of the necessary money. There is a short but clear account of "The New York Positivists;" a very curious paper on the stories, proverbs, and other oral literature, of the "Jamaica Creoles," by W. C. Bates; a keen and cutting review of a recent publication of Bishop Coxe of Western New York, likely to please some Episcopalians, and to displease some; a pleasant sketch of travel in the French provinces, by Alice A. Bartlett; some thoughtful views on theism and atheism, by Rev. Orville Dewey; an imaginative little poem by T. G. A., called "The Words of the Sea;" and a strange narrative of mediæval fanaticism, called "The Jew of Magdeburg," by Mr. H. A. Milne. There are useful articles on the "Prison Mission," and on "The Use of Sunday;" and a full number of the "Musical Review," a feature introduced this year, and which is found very useful to music-buyers.

AVERT THE DANGER.—The "cerberal mildew" with which people credit the recent season is more an infliction of the fancy than a meteorological fact. Early Spring in temperate climates is a doubtful time, and the cases are usually too cool for health or comfort. To avert the compliments to which the fogs and winds of the season are apt to give rise, prudent people who believe in the proverb that "prevention is better than cure" fortify their stomachs and brace up their nerves and muscles with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Those who do this are wise, and are rewarded for their wisdom by escaping visitations of chills and fever, rheumatism, biliousness, dizziness, constipation, stomach complaint, &c., so common in damp, unhealthy weather. To the less prudent, who neglect this precaution, and suffer for it, we would say, that disorders which this potent vegetable tonic prevents it also cures.

HORSE-CLIPPING INDICTABLE.—Judge Balcomb, of the Supreme Judicial Court of New York, has decreed that horse-clipping is an indictable offence, declaring that persons in doubt of his opinion as to the great cruelty of the process should dress themselves in linen clothing and straw hats and go out riding in cold winter days. There has been considerable controversy among horsemen concerning horse-clipping; those who contend that it is cruel to deprive the animal of the covering given him by nature being met by those who insist that the animal's show a better feeling after they are clipped, and that after driving they can be more easily and thoroughly cared for.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

If I Did

Want to be Mayor so very much, I would not have persisted in running for the nomination against Hon. Horton D. Walker, when my fellow republicans were nearly unanimous for the selection of a candidate who could unite the party and save the city.

If I wanted to be Mayor, I wouldn't have neglected my political friends and warmed political enemies in my bosom, that, serpent-like, they might revive and sting my old friends.

If I wanted to be Mayor, I would not have approved every "job" which passed the Board of Aldermen, and endorsed the waste of money to the extent of $12,000 on the city building —with the "horns" thrown in.

If I wanted to be Mayor, I would not have accepted the compliment of three terms as alderman at the hands of the republican party, and after being selected as the one candidate on my second term to be run down by bolting republicans, who now desire to do the same thing for the regular republican nominees, have accepted a nomination at the hands of these mischief makers to be used as a "tool."

If I wanted to be Mayor, I wouldn't show so much distrust of my friends as to hang around the polls at the nominating caucus and watch the progress of the voting; neither would I inspect the tickets of a vote distributor to see whether he was distributing votes for me — while my principal opponent remained away.

If I wanted to be Mayor, I would not be a candidate for the position in a republican caucus, with one of my supporters as chairman and another to count the votes, and then, after a fair vote has been had and another gentleman nominated, after four hours' balloting, refuse to second that nomination, and in twenty-four hours afterwards accept a nomination for the same office from my former political enemies.

If I wanted to be Mayor, and had been honored and trusted by the republican party, I would not at the first opportunity seek its downfall and betray its trust.

If I wanted to be Mayor, I would be honest in politics, forget self for the good of the whole, and not allow myself to be placed in an equivocal position, or in any position which defeat would make me regret.

As You Were.

Laconics.

To an outsider, it looks as though all the Democrats and a very few of the Republicans have been sold out. And how do our quondam Republican friends enjoy it, that the "Citizens'" committee have not put a single square Republican on their mongrel tickets? Their candidate for Mayor was recently accounted a Republican, and so were two of their Aldermanic candidates in Ward Two, until their recent action in the fusion (or confusion) caucus; but in Ward Three, nary a Rep. gets on, tho' there are one or two Greeleyerats for minor places. In Ward One, for Aldermen, two Greeleyites and one Dem., if they can find one to stand.

Mr. John W. Bickford is the republican nominee for representative from Newcastle.

Messrs. Wm. S. and Wm. E. Hadley of this city, have purchased the well known Mansion House at Augusta, Me. and will take possession immediately.

A democrat asks why the hand-organ does not dare publish the nominations of its mongrel party in wards two and three, made Saturday night. Are you ashamed?

Boatswain Gaffrey, U. S. N., took up a collection on the Navy Yard for the family of Mr. Samuel S. White, whose son was accidentally shot on Sunday, and raised $68.

Who will the men who still call themselves democrats vote for to-day for mayor? The men who heretofore have claimed a sort of divine right to lead the democrats, having sold them out by neglecting to make a nomination, the rank and file of the party must either vote for a regular republican nominee or for a quondam republican who has deserted his party for the sake of a nomination,—or else vote each on his own book. Will they swallow the crow any better, now they are released from party obligations, than they did in November under the party whip?

On Monday, Assistant Marshal Entwistle found a shirt which had been torn in strips, and which is spotted with blood around the neck and wrists, tucked away under a seat of the privy at Mr. Matthew Johnson's house on Water street. Mrs. Ramsey, Mr. Hontvet's daughter, has identified the shirt as one she gave to Wagner on the Wednesday before the murders. She recognized the shirt by a button-hole in the bosom, which she had mended for him.

Mr. F. W. Miller, who has received the republican nomination for Mayor of Portsmouth, N. H., is an estimable journalist of that city and State, former proprietor of the Portsmouth CHRONICLE, and a thorough going hard worker in whatever he undertakes to do. Should his nomination be confirmed at the polls, which will be likely to prove the case, as the republicans are in the ascendency in Portsmouth, Mr. Miller's administration of city affairs will undoubtedly prove of the same successful nature as have his business and journalistic ventures.—Boston Transcript.

The Newburyport ghost is attracting considerable attention just at this time, and to meet the demand for the facts in the case, Loring, the Boston publisher, who has no fear of "goblins damn'd," or "spirits from the vasty deep" has issued a pamphlet of 21 pages, illustrated, which gives a description of the haunted schoolhouse, and the performances within its walls, the milk in the cocoanut of which the school committee didn't account for. It can be found at the several bookstores in this city for 20 cents.

The hand organ of the crows says Mr. Frank W. Miller has been fogling with the prohibitory law men—a most foolish statement and a deliberate lie, for he never fogges with anybody; neither has he promised to stop the sale of liquor, or made any other promises; nor accepted or been tendered any other party nomination but that of the republicans. In fact he does not know any other party, since the copperheads died of and with Greeley. The Lyre will next charge that he made a speech at some temperance meeting, and asked if the audience had been vaccinated!

Rev. Mrs. Roberts of Dover has accepted the call of the Universalists at Kittery, and will enter upon her labors a week from Sunday. The society are to be congratulated on, and are much pleased with, her acceptance. She is a most pleasing speaker, of liberal ideas and a well-stored mind; and her ministrations can hardly fail of success.

The republicans held an enthusiastic meeting at headquarters, Monday evening. Mr. Miller, candidate for Mayor, made a public statement that he had not accepted nomination for Mayor by the temperance party. The meeting unanimously passed a motion inviting all republicans or democrats who vote to-day for Mr. Miller for Mayor, to assemble this evening at the republican headquarters.

Frank W. Miller had 374 majority in this city, last March, for County Commissioner—62 more than any other candidate. He will follow suit, to-day.

Biddeford Redeemed.

The following despatch was received from Biddeford, Monday evening:

Babylon has fallen. We have routed the "ring" and elected our Mayor by 175 majority—for the first time in fifteen years; and carried six wards. Shout the glad tiding.

J. E. Butler.

Vote on Salaries.—We have already stated that to secure the increase of salary to the President, his Cabinet, and the judges, many members had to vote the increase of their own pay who would not have voted for the proposition if it had stood alone. The vote in the House stood 102 to 95. Of the yeas 52 are republicans, and 50 democrats and liberals. Thus it will be seen that a majority of the negative votes were republican. Of the 102 yeas, 55 are members no longer.—Washington Chronicle.

ALDEN'S IMPERISHABLE EVAPORATED!

FRUITS & VEGETABLES.

Having lost nothing but water, they return, when put in water, to their original condition, both in quantity and flavor.

Directions:—To every pound of Fruit add 2 quarts of cold water, come to a boil slowly and stew 10 to 30 minutes, add half the usual amount of Sugar used in fresh fruit.

To every pound Sweet Corn add full one quart of cold water, cook over night, then bring it to a boil, when it will be ready for the table; add Salt and Milk to the taste.

We are now in receipt from the factories of quantities of Apples, Peaches, Pears, Cherries, Huckleberries, Blackberries, Crabapples, Sweet Potatoes, Pumpkins, Green Peas, Lima Beans, and Sweet Corn.

To the opinion of the most Eminent Physicians and Chemists these fruit products are far more wholesome than "Canned" or "Dried" fruit—they having been vapor matured or ripened through the Aldes Pneumatic Process, and prevented certainly from without exposure to flies or dirt.

These are the cheapest and best fruits in the Market, and you cannot tell them from fresh fruit when cooked.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the serious growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Cough, Croup, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the choice of Preventive. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment' warning when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of diseases. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that tearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all those afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL, ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

Morning Chronicle.

MEN AND WOMEN.—The Pall Mall Gazette is exercised over the question whether "men are more interesting to men than women are, and whether women find more in women to interest them than they do in men." The Gazette comes to the unwelcome conclusion that the pretended fondness of the two sexes for one another is the great fundamental hypocrisy of the race. It would be unfair to dwell too much on the circumstance that they make one another uncomfortable in a way that men never make men and women, taking that fact by itself. This might be a mere result of their being different. But a review of the whole case tends to establish a general incompatibility between the two. Things will have to alter very much if men and women are ever to get along well together. The pretence that they are dying of sheer liking for one another is not only not proved, it is disproved. Not merely in that kind of mortality wholly absent from the returns, but after all these centuries the two sexes greatly keep aloof from one another. Wherever you can get a glimpse of their true tendencies, it comes out clearly enough that men and women are chemically contrary under calipashes. All kinds of social contrivances have been tried, the real purpose of which, no matter how it may be disguised, is to separate the sexes, and so secure for each the pleasure of being only in known society. There is no sacrifice men will not make to get this luxury. They will support the cosiest clubs, they will smoke, they will pretend any sort of recreation from cards down to billiards, sooner than not be apart from women a portion of their time. The like thing holds of the ladies in their own way. The liability of the men to stay at home allows their wives to a sensible mutual clubs in their own drawing-rooms, and they do so. For one club the men have women, have hundreds—just as many as there are houses.

The truth is, the tastes of the sexes radically differ. At home feminine liking prevail, and there is no to man who is not more or less aware that the minor arrangements and the wonderful, and, to him, superfluous finger-ing ornamentation of his house, are not for him, nor for his sex, but for the other. Just as little can it be doubted that men and women dress each for their own sex; that it is the admiration of their own kind, not of the opposite one, they lay themselves out for! Men and women are in a perpetual condition of surprise, and scoff at each other's styles, both always self-complacent, and altogether consuming criticism of their own.

Conversation equally betrays this natural opposition. If the sexes had real respect for one another, would they indulge in those nauseous compliments? Neither does it to them of their own kind whom they honestly like. The artificial style of talk which is the traditionary custom of the sexes is plainly that of creatures who do not understand each other and have mutual suspicions. Being strange they betake themselves to compliments.

A qualification in reference to the family relation has to be made. To a man his mother is not a woman—she is a divinity; the like partly holds in a girl's case for father; and brothers and sister are not of any sex. But get outside this non-sexual circle and the antipathy quickly comes into play. Boys nearly hate girls, and the feeling is returned; old men care nothing for women of any age, except as nurses; old women creep together. It is only during the central portion of life that the sexes can be said to be civil to one another. In fact if nature had not forced men and women to leave each other during that portion willy-nilly, and give them that incredible and perplexing tribe of children, it is doubtful whether they would have any mutual liking. Love is all that exists between them.

It is astonishing, considering what a complex, intricate, long association the bringing up a family ties a couple up, that they do not become more really intimate than do even in the best cases. Doubt may well be felt that there are few husbands and wives who, in spite of all the trials they have shared, have got at the bottom of their hearts a sense of grievance one against the other.

It is all very sad, but it cannot be helped. The sexes are a partial failure, and somehow has arisen an enormous exaggeration of their liking for one another. Looked at calmly, the interest which each has for the other is wofully lacking in versatility; it is alike monotonous and small—mere love, in fact.

EMPLOYMENT!
The National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, chartered by Congress, is the leading stock, life insurance company of this country and has the largest cash capital of any joint insurance company of like kind in the world. It is thus enabled to reduce its premiums largely. Indeed, had it charged the usual Mutual rates during the last four and a half years, it would have received from its patrons $1,250,000 more than was paid it. The saving to the policy holders has insured the company. By the stock system, the company insures the policy holders. The National has nearly two millions of assets to every one of liabilities, and on Jan. 1, 1873, had a surplus of $1,157,905.35. It wants an agent in every locality where it is not now represented, and will give liberal and continuous commissions to efficient and reliable men who will give personal attention to its business. Address branch office, Philadelphia, where the business of the company is transacted.
E. A. ROLLINS, Pres't; JAY COOKE, Chairman Finance Com.; J. M. BUTLER, Secretary.

BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, Itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, Much has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain usually twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies use no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. R. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAWYER, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

The Chronicle.

MILK-SICKNESS.—The disease known as milk-sickness has been the subject of countless newspaper jokes, but it is no joking matter to those who live in the neighborhoods where it makes its appearance. It used to be the bete noir of immigrants coming West to grow up with the country, and while travelers were assured that it was a dreadful malady, it was difficult to ascertain where it prevailed. It was always in the next town or county, but never in the locality where the information was sought.

Dr. Daniel Drake, of Cincinnati, the father of Judge Drake, of Missouri, spent some time in trying to ascertain the cause of the malady, and gives the result of his investigations in his great work on "The Diseases of the Mississippi Valley." Dr. Drake failed to solve the problem, and to this day the cause of the disease is unknown. Sucking calves, imbibing the poisoned milk, are suddenly seized with convulsions, and drop dead.

Persons eating cheese or butter, or drinking milk, are violently attacked, and either die in great pain, or drag out a miserable existence with enfeebled constitutions. Of cows of the same herd, grazing in the same pasture, and, as far as can be ascertained, partaking of the same food, some communicate the disease and others do not. What is strange, the cow whose milk transmits the poison is never a victim. She receives it into her system—or possibly it is secreted there—it passes into the udder, and reaches and destroys its victims through her milk and its products.

No botanist or chemist has been able to detect in the plants, soil or water of the grazing lands of the affected districts anything likely to produce the marked symptoms of the disease, and no post-mortem examination has revealed the presence of appreciable poison in the subject. The disease has made its appearance at various times in certain localities in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

The Indiana Legislature passed a resolution instructing the committee on Rights and Privileges "to examine the causes of the disease commonly known as milk-sickness, and the possibility of eradicating the same, and in such examination to call A. J. Richardson, of Madison County, and report a bill providing for the payment by the State of a suitable reward to any person who shall or may have discovered the cause of the disease."

A RUNNER'S REVENGE.—The Hartford Courant tells how a runner got his revenge on a town which wouldn't buy his wares:

There is no end to the drummers in town now, but they complain that business is exceedingly dull. One from Boston the other day, having vainly endeavored to sell anything the whole morning, went back to his hotel, donned an old suit of clothes, unpacked from his baggage a hand organ, took his stand in front of a store he had unsuccessfully visited, and played popular pieces for hours. He took very naturally to the business and being a handsome young fellow was encouraged by numerous offerings from appreciated ladies. Having taken seventy-five cents, he returned to his hotel and resumed good clothes, remarking to a comrade, "Business is very dull, but I've got to make a living somehow." He did the same thing in Springfield, and we shall probably hear of him in a similar role in New Haven, Providence and other cities.

A FAMOUS POACHER.—The Scotch papers tell the exploits of a brilliant poacher named Tanneragee, whom all the gamekeepers in Ayrshire can't get hold of. A short time ago they tracked him, late at night, to a house by the wayside in which he was asleep. As they rushed in at the door he jumped out of the window, with nothing on but his night shirt, and took to the fields. In the gray of the morning he discovered a pair of old breeches swinging from a pole as a scarecrow, and putting on these he found he had made a good beginning in the way of clothes. Near by on the highway was a poor cobbler's shop, to which he went and borrowed a shoemaker's old apron. With this on he made for a farm house, and offered to mend old shoes. Three or four pairs were brought out, which he said he would cobble in the yard; but when he got there he put on the best pair and fled. He now met a man on the road, whom he insultingly accosted and offered to fight. The man's dander was roused, and he threw off his coat to pitch in; whereupon Tanneragee sprang at the coat, leaped over the fence, got into the coat as quick as lightning, and escaped from the man who expected to fight him. We have not learned by latest accounts how he got a hat; but it is certain that he somehow got a gun, for he is reported as again poaching in all the preserves of Ayrshire. Tanneragee sleeps with one eye open.

CONCORD, midnight.

One hundred and thirty towns give Straw 24,971, Weston 21,857, Blackmer 908, Mason 466. Relative gains and losses show a republican net loss of 988. The republicans concede all three congressmen to the democrats. There is probably no choice for Governor. Both parties claim the legislature.

Representatives Elected.

Hampton Falls, Charles T. Brown, republican.

Newcastle, John W. Bickford, republican.

Hampton, David O. Leavitt, repub.

Greenland, ——— Tilton, democrat.

North Hampton, Jonathan Rollins, democrat.

Newington, James P. Fabyan, dem.

Seabrook, none.

Gosport, no election.

Rye, Albert M. Walker, democrat.

Portsmouth, James W. Emery, Christopher C. Jackson, George Amazis, John G. Tibbetts, J. Horace Kent, John H. Broughton, Stephen L. Marston, S. Street Whidden, republicans.—Albert R. Hatch, Daniel Marcy, dems.

Town Officers.

NEW CASTLE.—Selectmen, William A. Mahon, Albert H. White, Charles E. Warehouse, Town Clerk, Wm. A. Moloon. All Reps.

HAMPTON FALLS.—Moderator, Warren Brown; Town Clerk, C. Green; Selectmen, Henry H. Knight, John N. Sanborn, James D. Janvrin; Collector, John C. Sanborn. All Reps.

NORTH HAMPTON.—Moderator, Eben L. Dalton; Town Clerk, Jonathan Rollins; Selectmen, John S. Hobbs, Chas. A. Watson, John Moulton; Supt. Sch. Cass, Rev. T. V. Haines.

NEWINGTON. Town Clerk, Jackson M. Hoyt, dem; Selectmen, Joshua B. Pickering, John I. Trefethen, dems.; Henry Bean, rep.; Supt. School Committee, Samuel Hoyt, rep.; Moderator, James Hoyt, rep.

RYE.—Moderator, G. H. Jenness, Town Clerk, Langdon B. Parsons; Selectmen, Nathaniel Marden, Otis D. Harden (rep) John S. Remick; Supt. School Committee, G. H. Jenness. All dems, but Otis D. Marden.

SEABROOK.—Moderator, Joshua Gove. Adjourned to Thursday.

Greenland barely saved its Democratic majority by 3 votes, but the party had made arrangements for a big dinner and they had it. We hope they enjoyed it. Democratic majority last year 30.

Seabrook was all split up by the temperance question, as was expected and designed—the prohibition candidate for governor receiving 29 votes. After balloting three times in vain for town clerk, the meeting was adjourned to Thursday. The Republicans lose heavily there.

In Newington, there were about 100 ballots for Representative, and the election was not effected until four o'clock.

In Rye, the republicans gain 24 over last year's Governor vote, and Senator Brown's net gain over last year is 73.—The vote of 108 in Rye is the largest ever thrown by the Republicans. Last spring they had 96, but Fall 102 for Grant. The republicans have elected one selectman, and a republican was collector of taxes. The town voted to purchase the Methodist church for a Town Hall, and to raise a tax of $7000 for the State, County and town expenditures. Mr. G. H. Jenness received his seventh consecutive election as moderator, and sixth consecutive election as Superintending School Com.

Charles W. Cole was chosen moderator, 45 to 2, at Newcastle.

TOWN ELECTIONS—HAMPTON FALLS.—Governor Blackmer 1, Mason 1. Weston 53, Straw 102. R. R. Commissioner; Kendall 1, Heard 1, Colony 53, Hodsdon 102. Member of Congress; Hibbard 55, Small 102. Councillor; Taylor 1, Heard 1, Eastman 53, Dow 102. Senator; Hall 27, Brown 110. Treasurer; Jenness 1, Upham 1, Wilder 53, Dow 102. Register; Pressey 1, Sanborn 54, Weston 102. Commissioner; Sanborn 1, Bean 1, Rowe 53, Durgin 102.

Death of Judge Bellows.

Chief Justice Henry A. Bellows, of the S. J. Court, was found dead in his bed in Concord, on Tuesday morning. He was 70 years old.

Readables.

The Senate has reconsidered its decision in regard to ex-Senator Patterson, and will not take up his case this session.

Alfred A. Berlingame, arrested for drunkenness, in Fall River, committed suicide in his cell by shooting himself through the head. He was twenty-six years old and unmarried.

Kittery.

The pupils of the high school, assisted by a few friends, gave exhibitions on Thursday and Friday evenings of last week, and had a crowded house each evening. The object was to raise funds for the purchase of an organ for the school-room, and resulted successfully, is a pecuniary point of view and as to the quality of the entertainment offered. The school has for some time been in possession of a small organ fund, which has been increased by subscriptions during the past year, and with the amount realized from the exhibitions will suffice to purchase a very good instrument for the school-room.

The exercises on Thursday evening consisted of readings, recitations and declamations, followed by "Once on a time," a drama in which all the parts were well sustained. A most amusing farce closed the evening's entertainment. On Friday evening "Once on a time," was repeated, by special request, and was followed by another drama, "Down by the sea." Songs were given by Misses Hayes, Lewis, Stone and Junkins; and Messrs. Getchell, Hayes and Skinner, assisted by Mrs. Staples, furnished instrumental music. The exhibitions gave universal satisfaction, and reflect credit upon the managers and performers.

The school has been for the past year under the care of Mr. M. R. Dustin, a Dartmouth graduate, assisted by Mrs. Dustin, Miss Adams and Miss Wentworth—all able and successful instructors. The examination and closing exercises for the present term will take place on Friday.

MR. COLFAX—President Grant has authorized the publication of the following letter:—

Executive Mansion, Washington, March 4, 1873.

My dear Mr. Colfax:—Allow me to say that I sympathize with you in the recent congressional investigations; that I have watched them closely, and I am as satisfied now as I have ever been of your integrity, patriotism and freedom from all the charges imputed as if I knew of my own knowledge of your innocence. Our official relations have been so pleasant that I would like to keep up the personal relations through life.

Affectionately yours,

A QUESTION OF TIME.—The recent cough or cold, that without proper treatment may become chronic and last for months, can be radically cured by a few doses of that valuable pectoral elixir, Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Crittenton's, 7 6th Avenue. Sold by all Druggists.

UPON THE HEALTH OF THE TEETH Depends the purity of the breath. Preserve them unblemished by the use of the famous Sozodont, that perfectly harmless vegetable preparation, and you will never regret it.

HEALTH is often impaired by the excessive use of tea or coffee. The delicious fragrance and strengthening qualities of a nice cup of Broma or Cocoa, are known to the student, the invalid, and to the hard worker, the world over. To secure such is its greatest purity, or any of the finest preparations of Chocolate, our readers have only to ask their grocer for goods bearing the stamp of Walter Baker & Co., Boston. This old house has the highest reputation for its goods, and dates so far back as 1851.

AVERT THE DANGER.—The "ethereal mildness" with which poets credit the vernal season is more an illusion of the fancy than a meteorological fact. Early Spring in temperate climates is a fearful time, and the days are usually too cool for health or comfort. To avert the complaints to which the fogs and winds of the season are apt to give rise, prudent people who believe in the proverb that "prevention is better than cure" fortify their stomachs and brace up their nerves and muscles with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Those who do this are wise, and are rewarded for their wisdom by escaping visitations of chills and fever, rheumatism, biliousness, dyspepsia, constipation, stomach complaint, &c., so common in damp, inhospitable weather. To the less prudent, who neglect this precaution, and suffer for it, we would say, that disorders which this potent vegetable tonic prevents it also cures.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

☞ The improvements in Hanover street, Boston, render the American House one of the most desirable, as it has long been one of the best stopping places in Boston, either for business men or pleasure seekers.

For all throat diseases and especially Coughs, Colds, &c., there is no known remedy equal to Buchman's Pulmocine, and a few doses will satisfy the most skeptical of its efficacy. For sale at the Union Store.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is the concentration of sixteen composite parts and can be manufactured only in large quantities. So immediate and powerful is its action that one bottle (selling for 50 cts.) is more potent than any other curative of throat and lung diseases on sale.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultimate thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S

PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Election

In this city passed off as quietly as usual. Voting began early, and both parties had their teams out in force to convey their supporters to the polls, the brewery teams being the most conspicuous. The weather was pleasant during the early part of the day, but about 3 o'clock snow began to fall, soon changing to rain, and the rest of the day was unpleasant enough. The rain probably reduced the aggregate vote a little, but not enough to alter any result.

Tickets were numerous and varied enough to suit all tastes. There was the "regular republican ticket," with Straw for governor, with Small for congressman and Miller for mayor; the "citizens' liberal republican ticket," with Samuel K. Mason for governor, Hibbard for congressman, and Marvin for mayor; the "citizens' republican ticket," with Straw for governor, Small for congressman and Marvin for mayor; the "prohibition ticket," with Blackmar for governor, Comings for congressman and Miller for mayor; and a so-called "democratic ticket," with Weston for governor, Hibbard for congressman and Marvin for mayor. The way in which some men's names were displayed on opposition tickets must have made it as hard work for them to tell what party they belonged to as it had been for others.

The republican ticket in ward three was a unique affair, printed on cardboard made expressly for the purpose, white on one side and plaid on the other. It was about five inches long and one inch in width, the lines running the longest way of the slip, and the letter-press (nonpareil solid) filling the entire surface of the card. The style of the ticket came from California, and was adopted to enable the republicans to tell how their vote stood in that ward during the day, not being able to obtain that information from the ward officers. One noted democratic wire-puller of that ward, after frantically rushing around to the bookstores until he was satisfied that it was impossible to duplicate the card-board on which the tickets were printed and therefore impossible to counterfeit them, and seeing that there was not a particle of room left for interlining, in the bitterness of his disappointment and the purity of his heart lifted up his voice and cried aloud in denunciation of the scheme by which the tricks of the honest democratic managers were foiled. He earnestly discussed (without any "dis") the whole business,—but the republicans didn't seem to feel very badly about it.

Aldermen Mendum,— who has twice been honored with an election by the republicans and whose name stood first on the list of those signing the call for the caucus which nominated the "citizens'" candidate for mayor,—stood manfully at the door of the ward two wardroom all the early part of the day, distributing the "citizens'" ticket bearing his name as candidate for alderman. Even this touching devotion to the public weal did not suffice to overcome republican partizanship and secure his re-election.

Things were mixed. Lifelong democrats, enraged at the manner in which their party leaders had tricked them, voted the straight republican ticket, vowing that the boiled crow was so distasteful that they wouldn't try the raw article. Democratic "workers" toiled for the success of the republican ticket in whole or in part, and "stickers" were in great demand; and the many different tickets in the field, with the "scratching," gave the ward officers a weary job to assort and count the votes. Brewery vans drew voters to the polls to vote for "the late temperance speaker," and at least one prohibitionist was a candidate for representative on the beer ticket in ward one.

In ward one the democrats, under the able leadership of Hon. Frank Jones and Mr Wm. Sladen, backed by the Eastern Railroad and the Kearsarge Mills influence, made a hard fight, and the polls finally closed with a majority of only ten for the nominee of the republican mayoralty caucus, over the man who, after being fairly defeated in his struggle for the republican nomination, sought that of the opposition.

In ward three the polls did not close till after 11 o'clock at night. The polls in the other two wards had closed on a declared majority of only eighty-eight against Marvin, and that majority the democratic fuglers of Sebastopol had to overcome to elect their candidate. Hour after hour passed, and such remarks as "O, they'll manage all the votes they want, even if they have to rake the Point of Graves once more for voters to do it," were heard from the disgusted republicans, who firmly believed that the fusionists were determined to accomplish by fraud what had not been managed by voting. Mr. Marvin exerted himself to the utmost to get up the requisite number of voters, and when the polls were closed in ward three its managers imagined that they (and the free use of money) had elected Marvin by one majority. But after the declaration of the vote had been made in ward two, an error was discovered (several hours before the ward three vote was declared) by which ten votes for Miller had been given to Marvin; thus giving Mr. Miller the election by nineteen plurality, there being nine votes for T. E. O. Marvin.

Laconics.

Dr. Strong, of sulphur baths fame, has returned to this city and is now ready to attend to all comers, at his place of business in the building corner of State and Pleasant Streets.

A meeting of the sons of Portsmouth, resident in Washington, who number from twenty-five to thirty, was held Monday evening. Hon. Thomas L. Pullock was chosen chairman, and Frank W. Hackett, secretary. Steps were taken to insure a full attendance at the reunion on the coming fourth of July, and also to cooperate with the Portsmouth residents at Baltimore and Annapolis for the same object.

The verdict of the inquest in the case of William Toole, who was killed on the Eastern railroad, last week, between Greenland and Portsmouth, exonerates the road from all blame. It was proved that he was a man of grossly intemperate habits, and that on the very day of the calamity he had drank so freely that his friends advised him not to walk home. He was seen before the engine struck him but it was too late to stop the train.

As will be seen by the advertisement elsewhere, a unique entertainment will be given on Friday evening, by Prof. Sweet and family. The Eastern Argus says the subject, "Reform," a most appropriate subject in these days, "was very ably treated. The lecturer commenced back to the creation and spoke of the great reforms which have taken place, but as he came nearer to the present age his talk turned more specially to the temperance reform movement now going on. He considered that this is the power which is to redeem men from the thraldom of intemperance. The after sketch of "Life Shadows, or the Danger of being a good Singer," by Prof. Sweet and his wife and son, was a most affecting scene, and fairly drew tears from some of his audience. The lecture was pronounced by many of his hearers as being one of the finest delivered this season."

RAILROAD CHANGES.—"Kent" writes the Traveller that it is rumored here, in business circles, that an important railway connection is to be made in this city immediately, the particulars of which, as far as your correspondent can learn, are, that arrangements have already been consummated between the Eastern Railroad Company and the Portsmouth & Concord road which will unite the termini in this city. The tracks of the Concord road will be relaid so that all their passenger trains will run into the Eastern depot without crossing the Eastern Railroad as they now do, and make direct connection with the East and West. Passengers will be ticketed from Concord, Manchester and other Northern stations to all places East of here, making a direct line without change of baggage. The trains will be run over the Concord road so as to make sure connection with trains over the Eastern road.

This change is a most desirable one and meets with great favor. The old Concord passenger depot will be remodelled and enlarged for a freight station for both roads. The present eastward passenger depot is also to be remodelled so as to afford better accommodations for passengers and railway telegraph purposes, the space now occupied by the freight department, when relieved, giving them ample space for their depot extensions.

This will undoubtedly disappoint parties who own property near the Eastern depot and have held it at high prices, expecting that the increase in the business of the road would compel a purchase. Uniting the property of the two roads in this city gives both corporations all the facilities they desire.

This project, and others in connection with the Portsmouth & Dover Railroad, which is to be completed the coming season, will necessarily make this a railroad centre, and the management of the Eastern Railway at an early date propose to commence the erection of extensive machine and repair shops here, also shops for building freight cars, on the made land in the pond purchased last year.

IRON in the BLOOD.

DYSPEPSIA, DEBILITY, DROPSY, HUMORS,

PERUVIAN SYRUP

Makes the Weak Strong.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, soothing the nervous sensitiveness, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, imparting strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and bringing up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has the PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

EMPLOYMENT!

The National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, chartered by Congress, is the leading stock life insurance company of this country, and has the largest cash capital of any pure insurance company of like kind in the world. It thus enables to reduce its premiums largely. Indeed, had it charged the ordinary Mutual rates during the last four and a half years, it would have received from its patrons $1,200,000 more than was paid it. By the mutual system, the policy holders insure the company. By the stock system, the company insures the policy holders. The National has nearly two dollars of assets to every one of liabilities, and on Jan. 1, 1873, had a surplus of $1,187,905.35. It is represented in every locality where it is not now represented, and will give liberal and continuous commission to efficient and reliable men who will give personal attention to its business. Address branch office, Philadelphia, where the business of the company is transacted.

$1000 REWARD.
BRIGGS' ALLEVANTOR is composed of Ammonia, Chloroform, Spirits of Camphor, Tincture of Lupuline, Oil of Juniper, and Alcohol. This compound is unequalled in the annals of medicine for the cure of Nervous or Sick Headache, Neuralgia, Trembling or Twitching of the Nerves, and all Nervous Diseases. It will counteract all poisons, banish pimples, cure scaly eruptions, itching, humors, &c.; it equalizes the circulation, invigorates the system, increases the action of the heart, without exciting the brain, cures Heartburn, Palpitation and Fluttering of the Heart, Dyspepsia, &c. Briggs' Allevantor absolutely possesses more curative properties than any other preparation. Physicians, chemists, and others are requested to examine and test the remedy, and $1000 will be paid if found different from representation.
COUGHS, and Much has been said written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of throat and lung diseases; but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a world-wide celebrity, as Briggs' Throat and Lung Healer.
CORNS! The excruciating pain produced by Corns, the unceasing twinging from Bunions, the piercing, distressing pain from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Briggs' Corn and Bunion Remedies are no acid or potash compounds, but are reliable, soothing, and effectual, and just merit the success they have attained from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment; immediate relief is obtained by its application, and it will positively cure the worst cases of Festered Corns, Inflamed and Ulcerated Bunions, the sorest instep, the largest and severest Blisters, the most extensive Callosities on the soles or heels of the feet, unequalled in the cure of Chilblains or Frosted Feet. The Allevantor for ordinary corns and preventing their formation is absolutely unexcelled by anything ever known.
PILES have been a terror to mankind for centuries, and almost every attempt to cure them has been baffled. By unceasing study and experimenting, Dr. Briggs has discovered an absolutely cure for internal, bleeding, external, and itching piles. Briggs' Pile Remedies are mild, safe and sure.
For sale by J. H. THACHER, WM. H. PRESTON, Portsmouth; JAMES O. TREFETHEN, Kittery; E. S. SAYFORD, Kittery Point; H. M. CURTIS, Newcastle, and dealers generally.

CORNS, Bunions, Bad Nails, and other diseases of the feet, Scrofulous and Cancerous Humors, Piles, etc., skillfully treated at the great central Ohiropodical and Healing Institute, No. 765 Broadway, New York. DR. J. BRIGGS, President; DR. ALEXANDER WEBBER, Secretary. ap9

The Singer
SEWING MACHINE
STILL LEADS THE MARKET.
The Success of the Company is far beyond that of any other similar concern, the Daily Manufacture
— OF —
400 OF THE SINGERS
Failing to Supply the Constant Demand.
All other machines call the public attention to some new loop or stitch or tension or finish, some advantage in running or needles or feed or prices—and many of these are as we have said very good points, and the agents selling them use them to divert entirely the would-be purchaser from fairly considering the facts in the case; but the
seems to unite the good qualities of all, and is never found wanting.
THE SINGER
IS THE
OLDEST
SEWING MACHINE
IN THE MARKET,
All others being copied from its first model.
does two-thirds the sewing done in this country and preserves its advantages over all others combined.
It is readily kept clean, and has THE BEST TENSION EVER INVENTED; it is higher speeded and requires but little power to run it; it works equally well upon the finest and heaviest goods; it does all the varieties of work known to the art.

A RAILROAD WAR AND THE RESULTS.—The following correspondence to the Boston Traveller from Augusta, Me., gives a good account of the details of the recent R. R. fight in the Maine Legislature—and the result thereof:—

In some respects you have been informed of the progress of the bitter fight which was concluded in the recent Maine Legislature upon the subject of a new railroad across the State. To outsiders, it has appeared as if the Boston & Maine Railroad, finding in its attempt to make a connection with the Maine Central Railroad by the extortion of the latter corporation, made application for an extension of its own route to Bath, thence via the Knox & Lincoln Railroad to Rockland, with the ultimate intention of building up the shore of the Penobscot River until, in course of time, there would be two distinct lines across the State. One of these lines, thought people generally, was to be managed by the Boston & Maine Railroad Company, on the Massachusetts end,—and the other (now existing) by the Eastern and Maine Central Railroads. Such appeared to be the state of affairs when there was a formal application for the building of a new road from Bath to Portland. The Boston & Maine people favored it, because they deemed that they could easily obtain control of the corporators and secure the road for their eastern connection. The Maine Central Railroad Company opposed it because they wished to discourage all opposition to their road. The Eastern Railroad Co., apparently, were identical in interest with the Maine Central Railroad Co. This condition of affairs continued throughout the session of the legislature. All parties were represented by strong lobbyists, except the Eastern Railroad Co., that corporation being considered merely as a looker-on. Finally the charter was granted. The friends of the Boston & Maine were jubilant and, for days, it was presumed that they had achieved victory. They pushed work on their extension from South Berwick to Portland and made every preparation for the reception of contracts for building the new road. But their hopes were suddenly and rudely dashed to the ground. A meeting of the corporators of the new road was held at Bath, in a private room, where the veil was lifted to the wondering eyes of those who had lost the day. It was the Eastern R. R. Co. which was to control this new enterprise, to the astonishment of those not in the secret, and it was that corporation, and not the Maine Central R. R., which laid at the bottom of the fight and pulled the strings which moved the men who occupied the house at Augusta. Nor was this movement alone a surprise to the directors of the Boston & Maine The Maine Central people found themselves outwitted also, and fumed and fretted about the State in a terrible passion. How this state of affairs was brought about, and why, it is my purpose to describe.

To begin with, then, the fact may be recalled that the Eastern and Boston & Maine railroad companies, having termini in common and being powerful rivals, have for years been antagonistic to each other. They competed for through traffic, the which, of itself, was inadequate to furnish business for both roads, and hence their warfare was suicidal. The Boston & Maine R. R., however, has a stronger and more lucrative local trade than its rival and as a natural consequence its property became more valuable and its shares sold for more money in the market. The Revere accident with its costly results also tended to depreciate the value of Eastern securities, until they got way down. Remembering these facts, the efforts of the two roads to consolidate will be better understood. Neither could work well apart. Consolidation, however, with all due respect to the parties concerned therein, was more easily talked of than accomplished. The difficulty laid in reaching an agreement on the respective values of the stock. Affixing a price to their own shares, the Boston & Maine R. R. Co. declined to allow what their neighbors considered a fair margin for the stock with which they were to exchange, and there was a hitch. Frequent consultations only resulted in confirmation of the belief that the two roads could not be united, and they therefore began at once to war with each other. Each road stretched out branches to tap the business of the other and divert it from its natural channels. The Eastern people obtained control of the P. S. & P. R. R., thereby compelling their antagonists to build an expensive extension of their tracks from South Berwick Junction into Portland, and then made an arrangement with the Maine Central Railroad which resulted in through trains from Boston to Bangor, entirely outside and independent of the B. & M. R. R. Very naturally the friends of the B. & M. resorted to measures of self-protection.

They had a line of road from Boston to Portland, and needed extension eastward, to accomplish which they induced sundry gentlemen to petition the legislature of this State for a road from Portland to Bath, to connect with the Knox & Lincoln R. R. at the latter place, and, ultimately, to connect with a new road to be built from Rockland to Bangor. This would form a new route in opposition to that now controlled by the Eastern and Maine Central companies, and the friends of the Boston & Maine R. R. presumed that they would have to fight both those companies in the legislature. They came here for that purpose, but were surprised to learn that the friends of the Eastern road exhibited a very quiet demeanor and did not take an active part in the fight. Lobbying progressed for a while. It was evident that the Maine Central people were inclined to die hard, and it was presumed that the Eastern Railroad men were siding them to the extent of their power. For weeks, the parlors of the Augusta House and the corridors of the legislative halls were crowded with friends and foes until finally the bill was passed. It creates Messrs. Charles Levi Woodbury, Charles E. Fuller, T. H. Hubbard, and forty odd others, a corporation, with a capital stock of not less than fifteen and not more than twenty thousand shares at a par value of $100 each, with power to issue bonds, &c., and instructions to complete the road on or before Jan. 1st, 1881. The bill was looked upon as a victory for the Boston & Maine, but when a meeting of the corporators was held it was found to be quite the other way. The Eastern Railroad people, it was found, although they had seemingly done nothing, had really effected a great deal. By judicious management, they had secured a controlling influence in the new road, cutting both the Boston & Maine Central Roads and standing alone in the victory. Such a disgusted set of men as the losers in the fight has seldom been seen in this State. The officers of the Maine Central Railroad promised that the Eastern men were working with them, and so did the officers of the Boston & Maine, when really it was the old game of each one for himself. The action of the Eastern Railroad is said to have been prompted by a desire to rid itself of the rule of the Maine Central Railroad Company, which insists upon demanding full local fares for all through passengers over its road, as stated in the Traveller some time ago.

The Maine Central people are infuriated, of course, as they are expected to be, and the friends of the Boston & Maine R. R. were driven into a corner, where they still remain. The result has also embittered the warfare between all the roads, so that Boston & Maine freight is refused carriage over the Maine Central unless it goes into Portland by way of the P. S. & P. R. R. In this state of affairs the stock of this company (the B. & M.) has dropped way down in the market and will probably stay there until that road adopts some new plan for the securing of an eastern connection. Recapitulating, the Eastern Railroad Company, backed by eminent capitalists of New York and Boston, will build and control an entirely new rail route from Boston to Bangor. The Boston & Maine Railroad has been made what is at present only a local enterprise, and the Maine Central Railroad will soon lose its absolute control over the rail accommodations of the State. Appended is the Board of Directors of the new road:

President—Charles Levi Woodbury, of Boston.

Treasurer—Charles E. Fuller, of Boston.

Clerk—A. G. Page, of Bath.

Some of the readers of the Traveller may remember an article which appeared in these columns about three years ago, in which it was stated that, before a decade of years, there would be a continuous line of rail across the continent, effected either by consolidation or contract, and that European passengers, leaving a steamer at Halifax, could be conveyed without change of cars to the dock of the Japan steamer in San Francisco. At that time, the project may have appeared Utopian to the uninitiated, but subsequent events place the matter in a different light.

The building of the Shore Line Railroad across this State forms one link in the chain the connection of the European North American Railroad with the roads east forms another, which completes the line from Halifax to Boston. Between Boston and New York, the result of the struggle now going on for the possession of the Hartford & Erie Railroad will establish Link No. three, and beyond New York, the chain is already in working operation. Thus it will be seen that the article in question, although provocative of some little adverse criticism at the time of publication, was based upon a groundwork of fact. It only remains to be added that the project developed above, and now being carried out, is no new thing. It has formed the subject of consideration among many of the most prominent railroad men in the country; is feasible and certain to be accomplished by the various interests concerned. Not a great while can elapse before the words "Halifax and San Francisco" can be emblazoned on the cars now bearing the not yet familiar inscription "Boston and Bangor," and the story of "Across the Continent" can be told in a new way.

WHEN TO CRY.—At a mission Sunday school not long since, a little boy in the infant class was seen crying bitterly. The teacher, upon inquiry, learned that he had lost his mother, and she, in sympathy remarked to the scholars that no one knew what a loss it was until they had lost a mother, and that Johnny had good cause for crying. At this moment a little urchin jumped up and said, "Oh teacher, you just wait till he gets a step mother, then you'll hear him cry!"

A WONDERFUL STORY.—"An occasional correspondent" of the World, writing from Paris, relates a wonderful story of an unparalleled surgical operation, the removal of the brain from a dead man's head and placing it in the skull of a chloroformed condemned soldier. The operator was Professor Muller of Weissnicht, and the operation was performed at Leipsig, Germany. A soldier who had killed his colonel in cold blood, was condemned to die, but given over to the tender mercies of the surgeons and kept in close confinement until an opportunity for vivisection was presented. This came when a beer saloon keeper was brought to the hospital ill with a fatal malady. He died, the soldier was chloroformed, the live man's brain removed and replaced by that of the dead man. The patient kept in a sound sleep for two weeks, but gradually came to life. At the end of the third week speech returned, but it was hesitating and stammering as a child learning to talk. The soldier had forgotten his military training and prated of beer mugs and wine butts. The soldier had been gloomy and taciturn, but as metamorphosed he was the jolly, garrulous saloon keeper. Evidently a case of change of identity. Whatever tax the story makes on credulity no charge is made for believing it.

MORE SLEEP.—George M. Beard, M. D., writes of "Overtaxing the Brain," in the Independent. He says:—

"The motto of the overtaxed brain-worker should ever be—more sleep, more sleep, and as much as possible of the folding of the hands to sleep. By day or by night, after meals or before, early or late, in the horse car or on the ferry boat, we should welcome each desire to doze as an angel from heaven. The habit of early rising, which, under the old dispensation, before the era of the telegraph, steam power, the press and other agencies that rob us of our nerve force, was a virtue—we, in this year, 1873, should, with all our might, avoid. Early to bed and late to rise makes the modern brain-toiler healthy and wise."

—An icicle, three feet long, fell from the eaves of a four-story house in Troy, recently and knocked a man's teeth out.

Readables.

On Monday five adult persons in Great Falls lay dead and awaiting burial, and five stores in the business parts of the town, consequent upon death's work, closed and wearing crape—an exhibit of mortality rarely realized in so short a lapse of time in a place of that size. Three of the deceased were men and two women.

An Albany steam fire engine, returning from a false alarm of fire, was precipitated down an embankment, forty feet, making three revolutions in the descent. Driver, horses and engine went down together, and, strange to relate, both the driver and horses escaped uninjured, but the engine is a complete wreck.

Hon. George S. Boutwell was elected U. S. Senator by the Massachusetts legislature on Wednesday, receiving 152 votes. Dawes had 115, and there were eight scattering.

A SMALL POX CURE.—A correspondent furnishes us with a slip from an old number of the Courier containing a remedy for the virulent small pox, scarlatina, and measles, which we gladly republish, thinking it may be interesting to many now that the first named disease is generally prevalent throughout the country. It is as follows: A merchant and shipowner of this city has had the following receipt sent him from England, where it was furnished him by Mr. L. Larkin, member of the Royal College of Surgeons, and who vouches for it as "a medicine that will effect a revolution in the healing art, as regards the prevention and cure of small-pox, and also of measles and scarlatina however malignant the type, in a manner more efficient and extraordinary than could ever have been hitherto anticipated even by the most ardent philanthropist." On the first appearance of fever or irritation ushering in an attack, whether occurring in families or large communities, the subjoined mode of treatment should at once be entered on: Take one grain each of powdered fox-glove or digitalis (valuable in the ratio of its greenness—the dark should be rejected) and one of sulphate of zinc (this article is commonly known as white vitriol.) These should be rubbed thoroughly in a mortar or other convenient vessel, with four or five drops of water; this done, a noggin (or about four ounces) more, with some syrup or sugar, should be added. Of this mixture a table spoonful should be given an adult, and two teaspoonfuls to a child, every second hour, until symptoms of disease vanish. Thus conducted, convalescence, as if by magic, will result. The rapidity of an event so auspicious will equally delight and astonish.

It may, however, be necessary further to note, that should the bowels become obstructed in progress of the disease, an evil by no means common, than a drachm of the compound powder of jalap (formed of two parts cream of tartar with one of jalap) and one grain of the herb, treated as above, formed into a pastil with syrup or sugar, should be given to an adult, and half the quantity to a child. This simple medicine shuts out every other form or article whatever, as totally unnecessary, if not pernicious. The methodus medendi of these medicines capable of effecting results so gigantic remain now only to be given, and appears to be as follows: The herb, by its anti-febrile properties, lays hold at once of the fever, the prolific source of woe, which it immediately strangles, while the zinc acts the part of a tonic, instantly restoring the equilibrium. Mr. Larkin adds: "No emigrant or government vessel should hereafter be allowed to put to sea without a few pence worth of these protectors; and it is further ardently hoped that, as the dearest interests of our common humanity are so vitally in this discovery, the press of all countries will give publicity to this announcement."—Sunday Courier.

As corroborative of the foregoing we clip the following from an exchange:

Capt. Geo. E. Walcutt, of Frankfort, testifies to the value of the following recipe in small-pox disease:

Sulphate of zinc, 1 grain; digitalis, or fox-glove, 1 grain; sugar, 1-2 teaspoonful. Mix in 4 tablespoonfuls of water, after which add 4 ounces of water. Give one teaspoonful every hour, or soon as disease appears.

Capt. Walcutt, who lives near Frankfort, says himself, wife, son and two employees had the small-pox during its recent ravages. The two employees died. While Capt. Walcutt was in the confluent stage, and his wife and son were sick with the disease, he discovered the above recipe in a newspaper, and had it compounded. Shortly after it was administered, all parties began to improve, and rapidly recovered. Capt. Walcutt has hardly a mark on him. The same medicine was used with good effect upon some of Capt. Walcutt's neighbors.—Lexington (Ky.) Statesman.

UPON THE HEALTH OF THE TEETH Depends the purity of the breath. Preserve them unblemished by the use of the famous Sozodont, that portently harmless vegetable preparation, and you will never regret it.

HEALTH is often impaired by the excessive use of tea or coffee. The delicious fragrance and strengthening qualities of a nice cup of Brums or Cocoa, are known to the student, the invalid, and to the hard worker, the world over. To secure such in its greatest purity, or any of the finest preparations of Chocolate, our readers have only to ask their grocer for goods bearing the stamp of Walter Baker & Co., Boston. This old house has the highest reputation for its goods, and dates so far back as 1851.

AVERY THE DANGER.—The "ethereal mildness" with which poets credit the vernal season is more an illusion of the fancy than a meteorological fact. Early Spring in temperate climates is a tearful time, and the tears are usually too cool for health or comfort. To avert the complaints to which the fogs and winds of the season are apt to give rise, prudent people who believe in the proverb that "prevention is better than cure" fortify their stomachs and brace up their nerves and muscles with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Those who do this are wise, and are rewarded for their wisdom by escaping visitations of chills and fever, rheumatism, biliousness, flatulency, constipation, stomach complaint, &c., so common in damp, inhospitable weather. To the less prudent, who neglect this precaution, and suffer for it, we would say, that disorders which this potent vegetable tonic prevents it also cures.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

☞ Persons suffering with Liver Complaint in any of its various forms will do well to call at Gilbert's Root and Herb Store, and try some of his Liver Lozenges. Many have tried them and are rejoicing to-day.

☞ The improvements in Hanover street, Boston, render the American House one of the most desirable, as it has long been one of the best stopping places in Boston, either for business men or pleasure seekers.

For all throat diseases and especially Coughs, Colds, &c., there is no known remedy equal to Buchman's Pulmocine, and a few doses will satisfy the most skeptical of its efficacy. For sale at the Union Store.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL is the concentration of sixteen composite parts and can be manufactured only in large quantities. So immediate and powerful is its action that one bottle (selling for 50 cts.) is more potent than any other curative of throat and lung diseases on sale.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

The Municipal Muddle.

While the opponents of the republican have grounds of rejoicing at the recent division in the ranks, caused by the desertion of his party by the present Mayor, the completeness of the victory in the upper wards is cause of congratulation among those who have stood firm while the malcontents of the temperance, liberal, and been conglomeration were unitedly endeavoring to wrest the control of the city from republican hands. A more disgraceful trial to obtain by subterfuge what could not be secured in an honest, straightforward party contest, never was attempted in Portsmouth, and the men who lent themselves and their influence for personal aggrandisement or spite, must feel particularly disappointed at its failure. The "citizens'" movement commenced with a flourish of trumpets. "Reform" was the battle cry: and whence was to come the promised reform? The editors of the only paper in the city which favored the "citizens' movement went about circulating false reports among liquor dealers, that Mr. Miller had accepted the temperance nomination—a statement which had no foundation of truth in it, but which showed "reform" was only a cry of subterfuge. The "reform" candidate for Mayor, who opposed no "job" which the present city government has fathered, was earnestly engaged about the ward rooms endeavoring to re-elect himself, a marked contrast to the action of his competitor. After the polls were closed in two wards he was laboring in the third ward, where money was spent lavishly to hire voters to go to the polls and vote for him. That was one phase of "reform" which Mr. Marvin's presence countenanced.

Honest voters were misled by the various tickets in the field and many by following friends in new and untried paths. The deliberate attempt to cheat Mr. Miller out of the election in the lower ward excited the greatest indignation.

The "reformers" who were to be benefited by Mr. Marvin's election seem in many cases to have needed reforming as much as any persons we know of, and if bribery and intimidation are offences against the law, some of them occupying honorable positions in life would be liable to severe punishment.

Messrs. Miller and Marvin, it is said, are anxious to have the vexed question as to which is Mayor speedily and finally settled, and there is no doubt in the minds of republicans that the former has a legal majority.

The statement that an error of twenty votes had been discovered in ward two proves to be incorrect. The full official vote, as returned to the City Clerk, elects Marvin mayor by one vote over Miller. The democrats desire a recount in ward one, and the republicans in ward three,—in which last, several votes thrown for T. E. O. Marvin are said to have been counted for Thomas.

Laconics.

On Wednesday afternoon, a horse attached to a sleigh but without a driver, came out of the stone stable at full speed and after rushing through Congress, Pleasant, State, Penhallow and Daniel streets, went back to the stable without having injured anybody or himself.

The members of the new city government will be sworn on the first day of April.

Mr. William Goodrich has cast his vote for Governor for sixty years in succession in this city.

Mr. E. Washington Brown has entered upon his fourteenth year as clerk of the second ward.

If you feel enervated and your blood fails to circulate freely, go and try one of Dr. Strong's sulphur baths.

The jacket worn by Wagner, on the night of the murders, and which was missing, has been found and is covered with blood-stains; and is considered a better link of evidence even than his bloody shirt.

Postmaster E. G. Peirce, Jr., has been reappointed.

The Election.

There is no election of Governor by the people. Gov. Straw will be re-elected by the legislature, which has 40 republican majority in the House Six of the twelve Senators are republicans, four democrats, and two are in doubt.

Wagner Interviewed.

A reporter of the Biddeford Times had a second interview with Wagner at Saco jail, Thursday, conjecturing that the sudden revelation of the finding of the bloody shirt must, if the prisoner was guilty, bring a tell-tale flush of emotion to his cheek. Wagner was very glad to see him. The following conversation then ensued:—

Reporter.—"You told me the other day, Louis, that you had been short of money before you went to Boston. Where did you get the money with which to purchase your clothes?"

Wagner.—"I meant to say that I had not had much of any. I had been saving what I could earn, and didn't much care how I looked about the wharves."

R.—"What became of the clothes you bought in Boston?"

W.—"The officers took them away from me in Boston. That was all right, I suppose. They thought I had bought them with the money I was said to have taken from Hontvet's and so they didn't belong to me."

R.—"Did Matthew Johnson's daughter Mary ever mend a shirt for you?"

W.—"Oh, yes! About four or five weeks ago she mended for me a black-and-grey checked woolen shirt—a shirt very like this I have got on."

R.—"One of your shirts stained with blood has been found in a vault at Matthew Johnson's, and his daughter swears it is yours; she knows it because she mended it for you on Wednesday, the day before the murder."

W.—"It is not my shirt. I have only three white shirts, and they are all at Johnson's. One of them is up stairs in the room where all the boarders sleep, and the other two are down stairs. I took off my white shirt when I went down to the wharf to bait my trawls, Wednesday night. They say there was blood on my pants, and there was fish blood, but if I had done this thing, how could I get blood on my shirt when I wore two or three things over it? and Mrs. Hontvet says the man had on a Guernsey frock, I never wore any such thing."

R.—"Did a lady friend give you a handkerchief a little while ago?"

W.—"Yes."

R.—"Where is it? The handkerchief found arround the neck of one of the women is said to be this one, and the lady says it is the one she gave you.",

W.—"The one she gave me was in the pocket of the clothes they took from me in Boston. It was a new handkerchief, though a little dirty. They showed me a handkerchief at Portsmouth the handkerchief found at Matthew Hontvets. It was an old one almost worn out and spotted with blood." (Smiling.) 'Do you think a lady would give me an old handkerchief. The lady swears it is the one she gave me."

R.—"Have you ever crossed over New Castle bridge that is being repaired?"

W.—"I don't know that I have. A man who wanted to go partner with me in getting a whale-boat this spring once rowed me down to New Castle, and I had to cross two bridges."

R.—"Do you know Burke, from whom the boat was stolen the night of the murder?"

W.—"Oh, yes! I once went on a fishing trip with him. He was out in the harbor, Wednesday night."

R.—"How long would it take a man to row to the Isle of Shoals?"

.—"I have heard some say two hours, but I don't believe that one could. It takes three-quarters of an hour to row to Portsmouth Light with the tide."

R.—"You have said you don't know the man who hired you to bait trawls Wednesday evening, nor the name of the vessel on which you were at work?"

W.—'No. He asked me to work and paid me, and I worked till half past ten. The vessel did not belong in Portsmouth. A good many Newburyport and Cape Ann vessels fished about there."

R.—"If you could prove your whereabouts up to eleven o'clock it would be greatly in your favor, for the murder must have been committed about one o'clock. The clock at Hontvet's stopped at that time."

W. "I was at Randall's fish store at eight o'clock. There is a little lame man works there who can say that. He said to me 'Louis, come and help me load these fish" He was loading a wagon with dried fish.'

Here the conversation closed, and after bidding the prisoner good day, our reporter withdrew. He thought the matter of tides on Wednesday night would bear looking into. Upon examination he found out that the tides were favorable to the design of the murderer, as he could go out to the Isle of Shoals on the ebb tide, and return on the flood. This makes another bad show for the prisoner, and one that we believe has not yet been thought of.

Wagner still maintains his amazing sang froid, which is certainly wonderful even in a stolid and strong-nerved German. The sympathy of most of the visitors at this jail, has certainly been won by his calmness and his general appearance, which is quite prepossessing.

NED BUNTLINE.—Our readers will notice the advertisement of the Scouts of the Prairie who are to appear on the 15th, next Saturday. They have been playing for some time past at the Boston Theatre, with what success will appear from the following extract from the Globe:

Last evening there was another vast gathering awaiting the opening of the Boston Theatre doors, and before the curtain rose there were hundreds standing up in every part of the house. There is sufficient evidence that, if other engagements had not been made, the famous heroes, Buffalo Bill and Texas Jack, might continue to delight Boston audiences for weeks to come. "The Scout of the Prairie" will be repeated this afternoon and evening, for the last times.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. EVERY FAMILY should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred THROAT DISEASES at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of PREVENTION. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment' warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this FAMILY MEDICINE prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agents. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best PULMONARY CURATIVE he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are WILD CHERRY BARK, SQUILL ROOT, LIQUORICE ROOT, BLOOD ROOT, &c. It is a BLOOD PURIFIER, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic, and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, &c.

USE BUCHMAN'S
PULMOCINE CORDIAL.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified, in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

—The importance of a comma was well shown by a notice recently read in a certain church in Michigan, which ran as follows:

"Dr. —— will deliver a lecture, on Saturday evening of this week. Subject: The Circulation of blood in the Baptist Church." The subsequent effect of this notice was more noticeable than that on the evening of the lecture, since it is well known that the circulation of the blood in the church named is very slow.

Whole Tickets, $10; Halves, $5; and Quarters, $2.50. Eleven whole Tickets for $100. No discount on less than $100 orders.

The object of this Third Grand Concert, like the two heretofore given with such universal approval, is the enlargement and endowment of the Public Library of Kentucky, which, by the special act authorizing the concert for its benefit, is to be forever free to all citizens of every State. The drawing will be under the supervision of the Trustees of the Library, assisted by the most eminent citizens of the United States. The sale of tickets has already progressed so far that complete success is assured, and buyers are therefore notified that they must order at once if they desire to participate in the drawing.

The management of this undertaking has been committed by the trustees to Hon. Thos. E. Bramlette, late Governor of Kentucky, to whom all communications pertaining to the Gift Concert may be addressed.

EMPLOYMENT!

The National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America, chartered by Congress, with a paid up capital, entirely independent of this country, and has the largest cash capital of any pure insurance company of like kind in the world. It has made and is making money largely. Indeed, had it charged the ordinary Mutual rates during the last four and a half years, it would have received from its patrons $1,250,000 more than was paid it. By the mutual system, the policy holders insure the company. By the stock system, the company insures the policy holders. The National has nearly two dollars of assets to every one of liabilities, and on Jan. 1, 1873, had a surplus of $1,157,205.85. It wants an agent in every locality where it is not now represented, and will give liberal and continuous employment to efficient and reliable men who will give personal attention to its business. Address branch office, Philadelphia, where the business of the company is transacted.
